*When the questions are fulfilled,
It comes to pass
Tradition, like society's cookie cutter,
Stamps out the names
Of James, Mary, John in graduated cement . . .*

*Four years breeds security
In names being stepped upon,
Education comes in sharing the journey.*

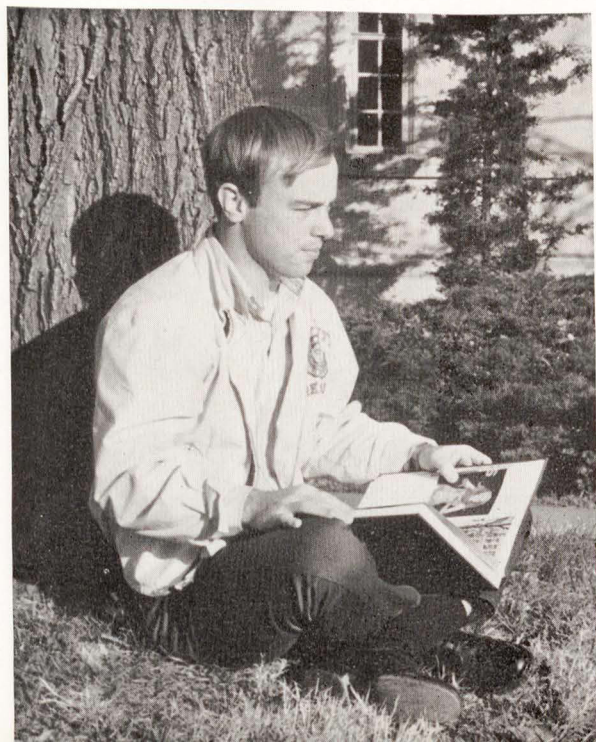

*And though my words
 Be dusted with a fine love,
 Or my lines float
 Like petals in her hair,
 The beauty of words
 Never was a girl.*

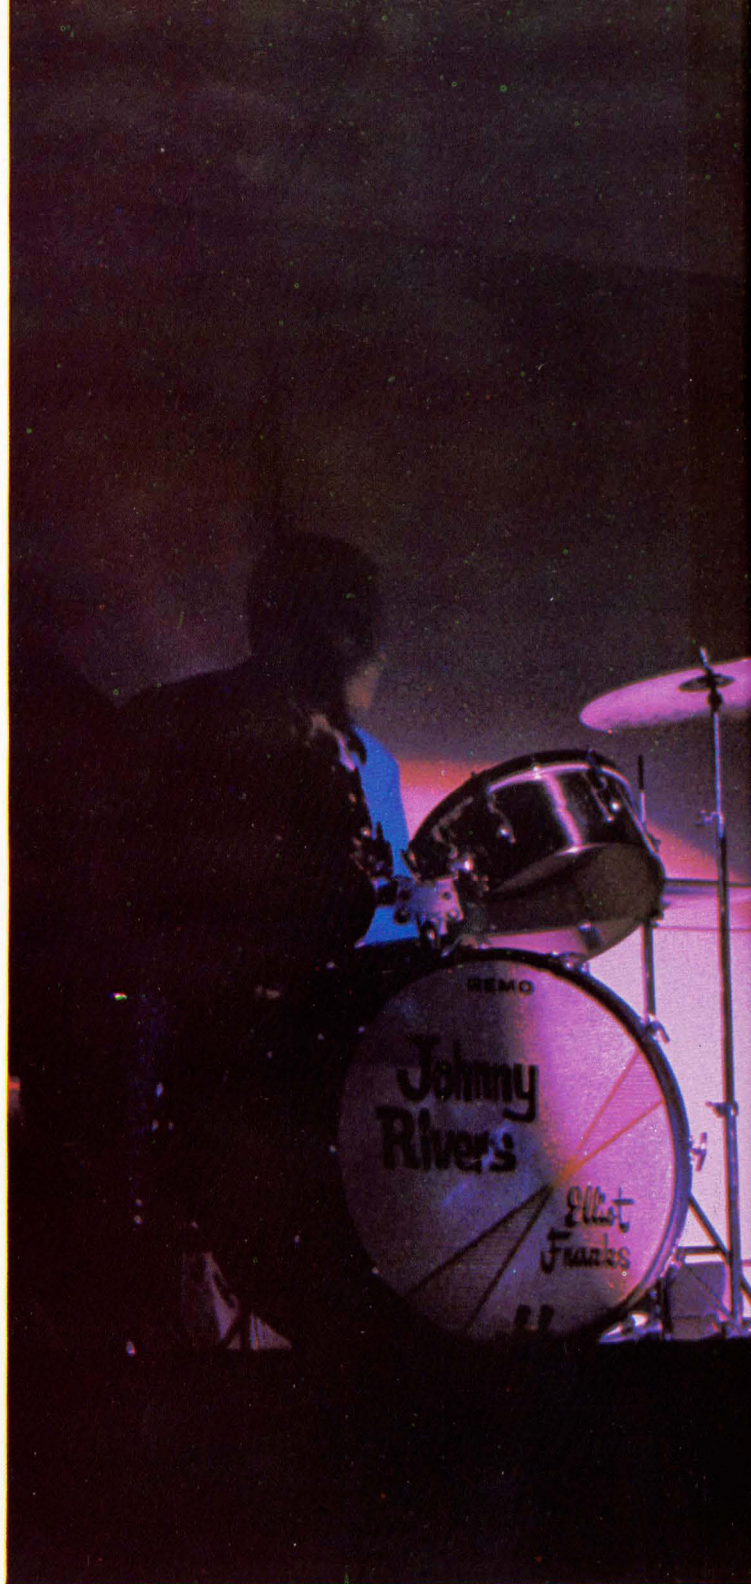

*Wisdom knows few moments of respect,
Especially when days of happy color
Catch players and fans alike in a cycle
That, while lacking grace, cares not . . .*

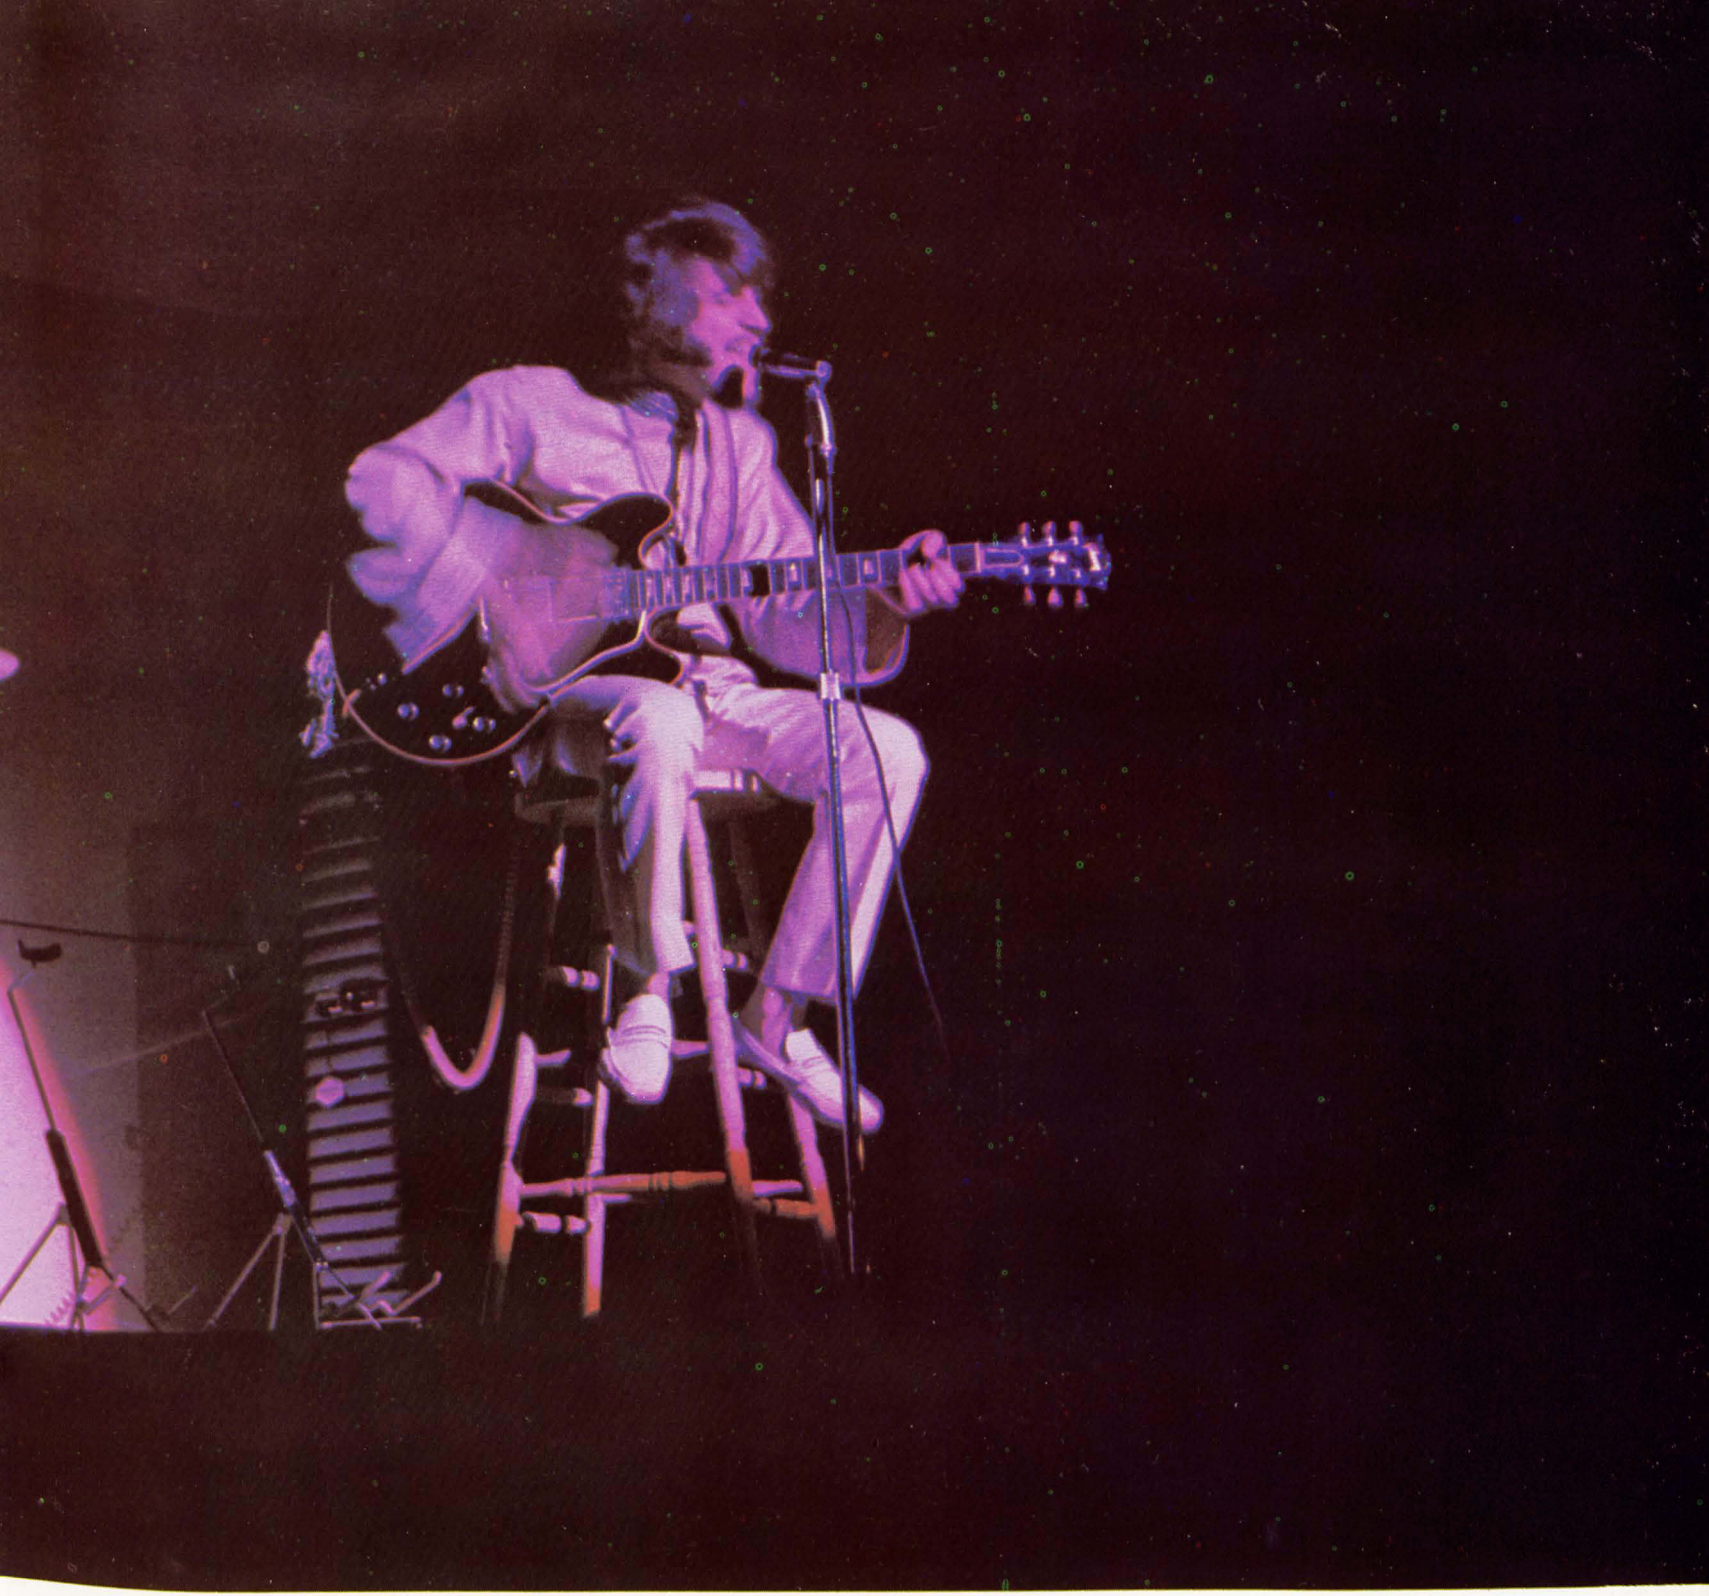

*But enough; my path traces deeper woods
Warm and winding where subdued sunlight
Nestles in spots of crystal haze, where
The soft scent of stillness and the wind
Rustle of sedge whisper midst the wilderness.*

*We exist in a chain of beholders,
Sensing mysteries, seeking understanding,
Learning that the blind often snap the chain;
And that a bad trip is only a state . . .*

*The deserving man has values,
Not a price;
And though praise sweetens any success,
Personal rewards are taken, not given.*

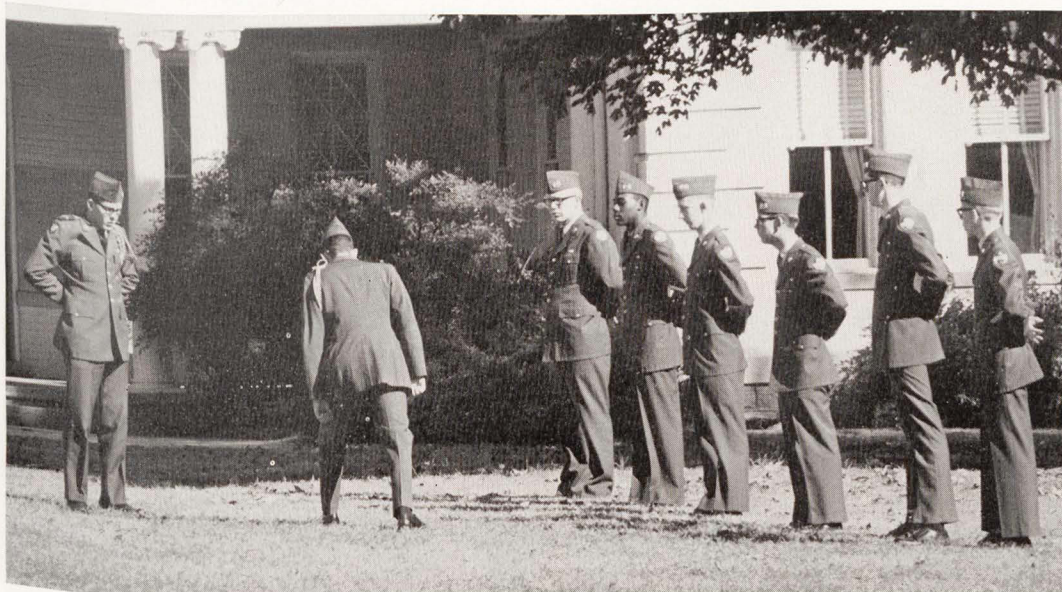

*We know life is more than self,
 For there is a swirl of love
 That enfolds all men . . .
 Faith's season of a Jesus reborn,
 For, Man, we can do better.*

*Don't kick the machine, son,
Someday they're gonna push a button
Without getting any candy back.*

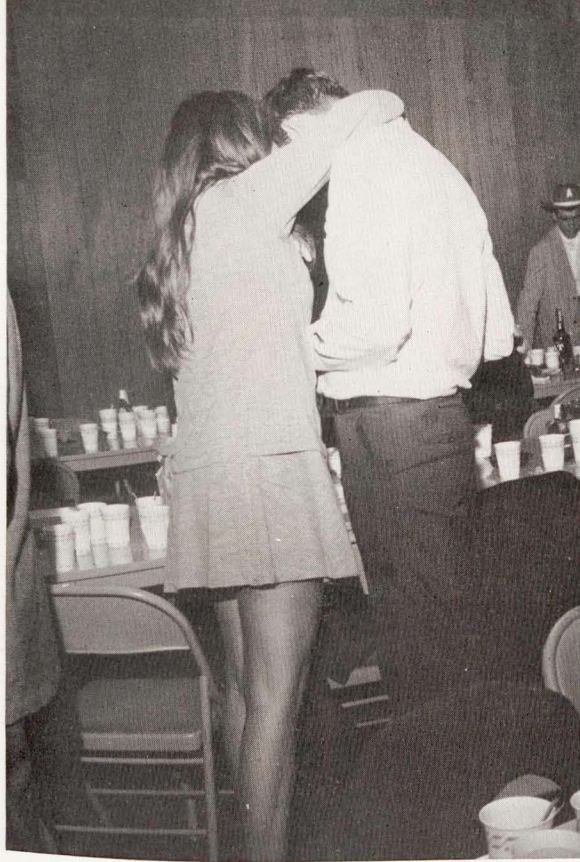

*Everyone wants to belong,
To be a people who likes people,
Except for people who differ . . .
The only initiation is ignorance.*

*We are persons because we learn, and share,
Whether we learn of love, or of laws,
Of the earth, or of Man . . .*

Democracy's messiahs come giving their color

Like the running of oildrops

Through rain standing in the streets.

We like a man who tells it like it is;

Men who tell it like it isn't

Don't live very long.

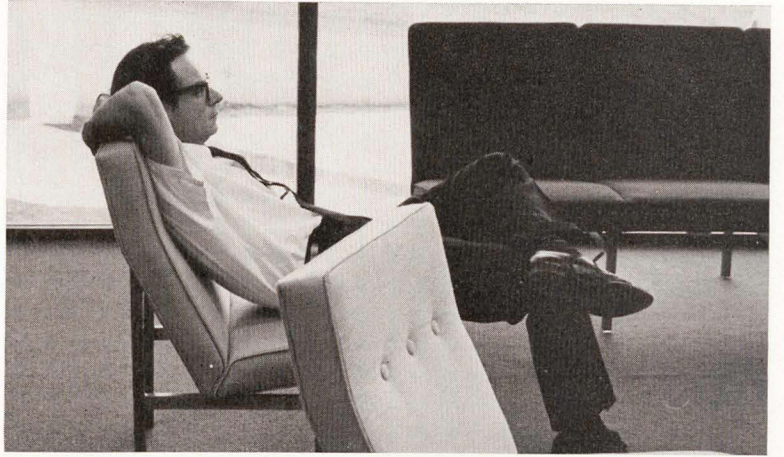

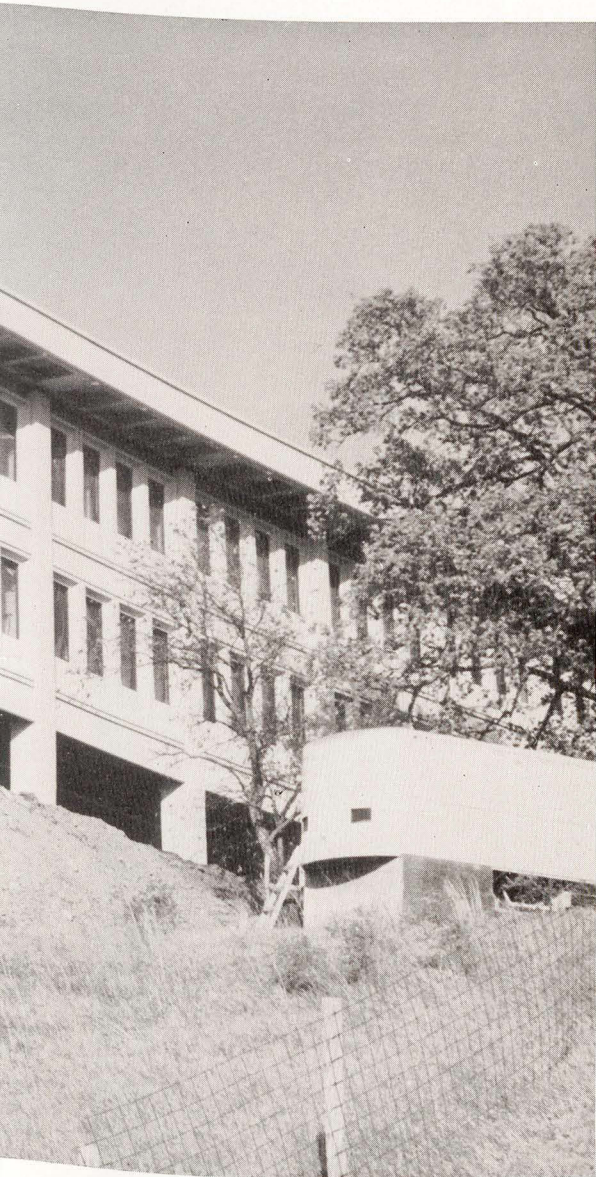

*When there are only men to ask,
 Stones in walls have sufficient answers;
 Questions are like fragments of a fire
 Judged by not what is gained
 But by what has remained;
 And though what we ask is ashes,
 And what we hear all stone,
 Man is still Man,
 Of creations, all alone.*

DWAIN CROMWELL

ADMINISTRATION

Honorable Winthrop Rockefeller
Governor of Arkansas

Seated: Mr. John L. Wilson, Mr. Roy Ritter, Mr. Leon B. Catlett, Dr. Preston L. Hathcock, President David Mullins, Mr. D. P. Rainey, Chairman. Standing: Mr. Fred Pickens, Mr. R. A.

Young, Mr. George R. Shankle, Mr. R. E. L. Wilson III, Mr. Howard M. Horst.

Governor and Board of Trustees

University President David Mullins speaks with Mr. D. P. Rainey, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

GREETINGS TO THE UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS STUDENTS:

The University has always had my whole-hearted support. As Governor, I have made a strong plea for adequate financial assistance for higher education in Arkansas. If these funds are provided, the University of Arkansas will certainly strengthen its position of leadership in quality education in our great State.

Please know that my abiding interest is in the product of the University and the relationship of that product to the better Arkansas we want to build. My program for progress is not aimed at today. My vision is for tomorrow, next year and ten years from now.

Status quo is not for me, and I don't believe it is for you, either. I don't want to be run over by change; I want to have a part in directing it to the good of our State. I challenge you to join me. If we work together, our efforts will have a more significant impact, and we may see an early achievement of our mutual goals.

With all good wishes,

Winthrop Rockefeller
Governor

John W. White
Vice-President for Agriculture

Fred S. Vorsanger
Vice-president for Business

Palmer C. Pilcher
Vice-President for Academic Affairs

Dr. Charles Oxford
Vice-President for Administration

Storm Whaley
Vice-President for Health Services

Officers of Administration

Dr. David W. Mullins, University of Arkansas President.

President David W. Mullins, educated in Arkansas, is a native Arkansan. He majored in mathematics, political science and history as a student of the University of Arkansas.

President Mullins holds an MA from the University of Colorado and an PhD from Columbia University. Prior to his return to the University of Arkansas, President Mullins served eleven years as Executive Vice President of Auburn University. He began his career in higher education in 1941 as an associate professor of school administration at Auburn.

Five vice-presidents assist the President in executing his administrative duties. They are Storm Whaley, Vice-President for Health Services; John W. White, Vice-President for Agriculture; Palmer C. Pilcher, Vice-President for Academic Affairs; Dr. Charles Oxford, Vice-President for Administration; and Fred S. Vorsanger, Vice-President for Business.

The Office of the Registrar

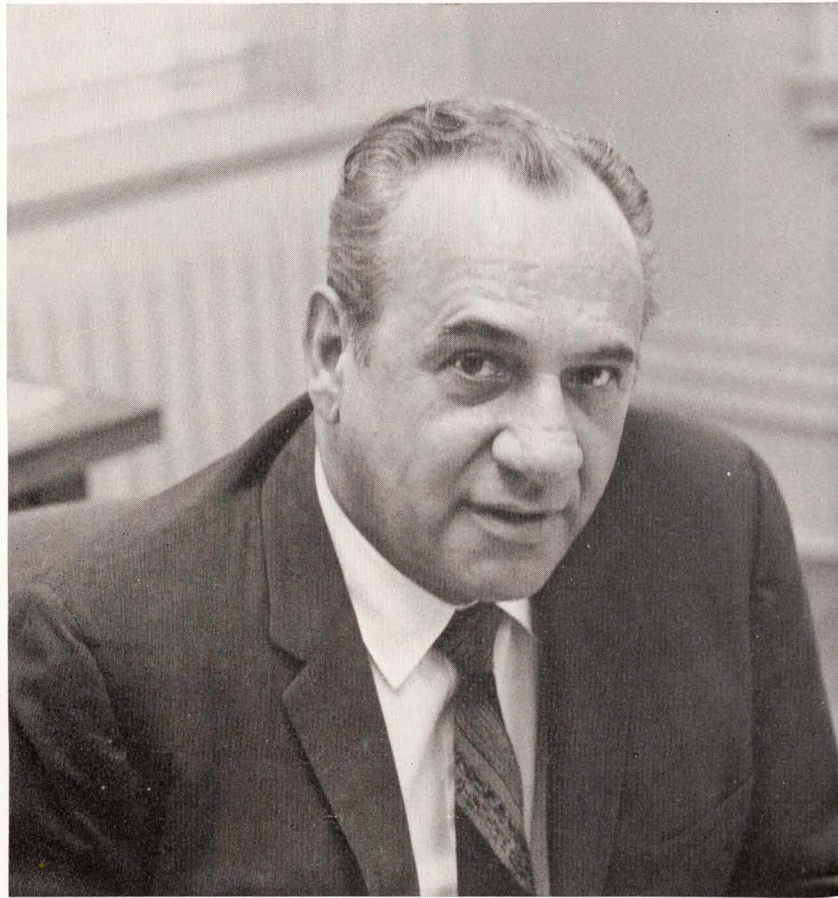

J. B. Kellar
Assistant Registrar

Wallie Ingalls
Assistant Registrar

E. E. Lee
Assistant Registrar

Carter A. Short, Registrar

The Registrar's Office is usually the first contact for the prospective student and has the responsibility of ordering a diploma for the graduating senior. In between, it is a focal point, crossroads and clearing house for academic records and materials.

The high school relations program of the Registrar's Office attempts to build a bridge between the high schools in the state and the University through visitations, materials and conferences. This is followed by orientation and pre-registration for the incoming freshman.

Another vital function of the office is the maintenance of academic records and registration. This is becoming increasingly complex with the constant growth of the University. Plans designed for updating of the present systems are under constant study.

William F. Denman, Dean of Student Affairs.

Juana Burton, Dean of Women.

The Division of Student Affairs

The Division of Student Affairs is an organization which provides a coordinated approach to University services which affect students and curricular extra-curricular coherence. The Arkansas Union, University health, student aid, Central Placement, counseling, food and housing services are all related to the Division of Student Affairs.

During the 1968-69 school year the Division personnel along with many faculty and student officials were involved in re-vamping the behavior code and disciplinary processes, evaluating and revising University policies dealing with student life, studying roles in institutional government, developing an academically-centered orientation program and emphasizing the educational potential of residence halls.

New staff members in the Division include Mr. Robert M. Barnes, Mr. Lawrence G. Brown, Dr. Juana Burton, Dr. Thomas Richardson and Mrs. John Stefferud.

John A. Stefferud, Dean of Men.

Miss Grace Vineyard
Assistant Dean of Women

Thomas E. Richardson
Associate Dean for Residence Programs

Miss Claire Abney
Assistant Dean of Women

Erin L. Schmidt
Assistant Dean of Men

Coordinators of Campus Activities

The Arkansas Union serves as the center of daily campus activity, providing the students with a snack bar, cafeteria, banquet service, meeting rooms, t. v. lounge, and information service. Another function of the Union is to expand the University community's recreational, social, academic and cultural experiences through diversified programming. These Union programs are planned by four student committees working in areas of films, special events, public relations and fine arts. The highlights of this year's events were the Men's Fashion Show, the National Bridal Fair, the Johnny Rivers' Concert and the introduction of the Union Film Series.

The Union also serves as the coordinator for all campus activities. It maintains a campus activities calendar at the information desk for coordination purposes and publishes a monthly edition of this calendar which is distributed throughout the campus.

Dean Glenn W. Hardy
College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Agriculture and Home Economics

The University of Arkansas College of Agriculture and Home Economics trains people for a wide variety of professions from agriculture to business. This fast growing department has increased 40% in the last 3 years. According to Dean Glenn W. Hardy, enrollment has reached the highest peak since 1950.

Dr. C. L. Wilson of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics last year received the Alumni's outstanding faculty member award for research. Research in the College is being done in insect control. Study of diseases in plants and animals goes beyond treatment to basic research.

Horticultural Food Science is a new department that has been added to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. A new event taking place this spring will be the High School Visitation Day for 100 outstanding students in the high school level.

Dean Robbin C. Anderson
College of Arts and Sciences

Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences continues to have enrollment of about one third of the student body. Dean Robbin C. Anderson is head of the College, assisted by Dean Robert Fairchild.

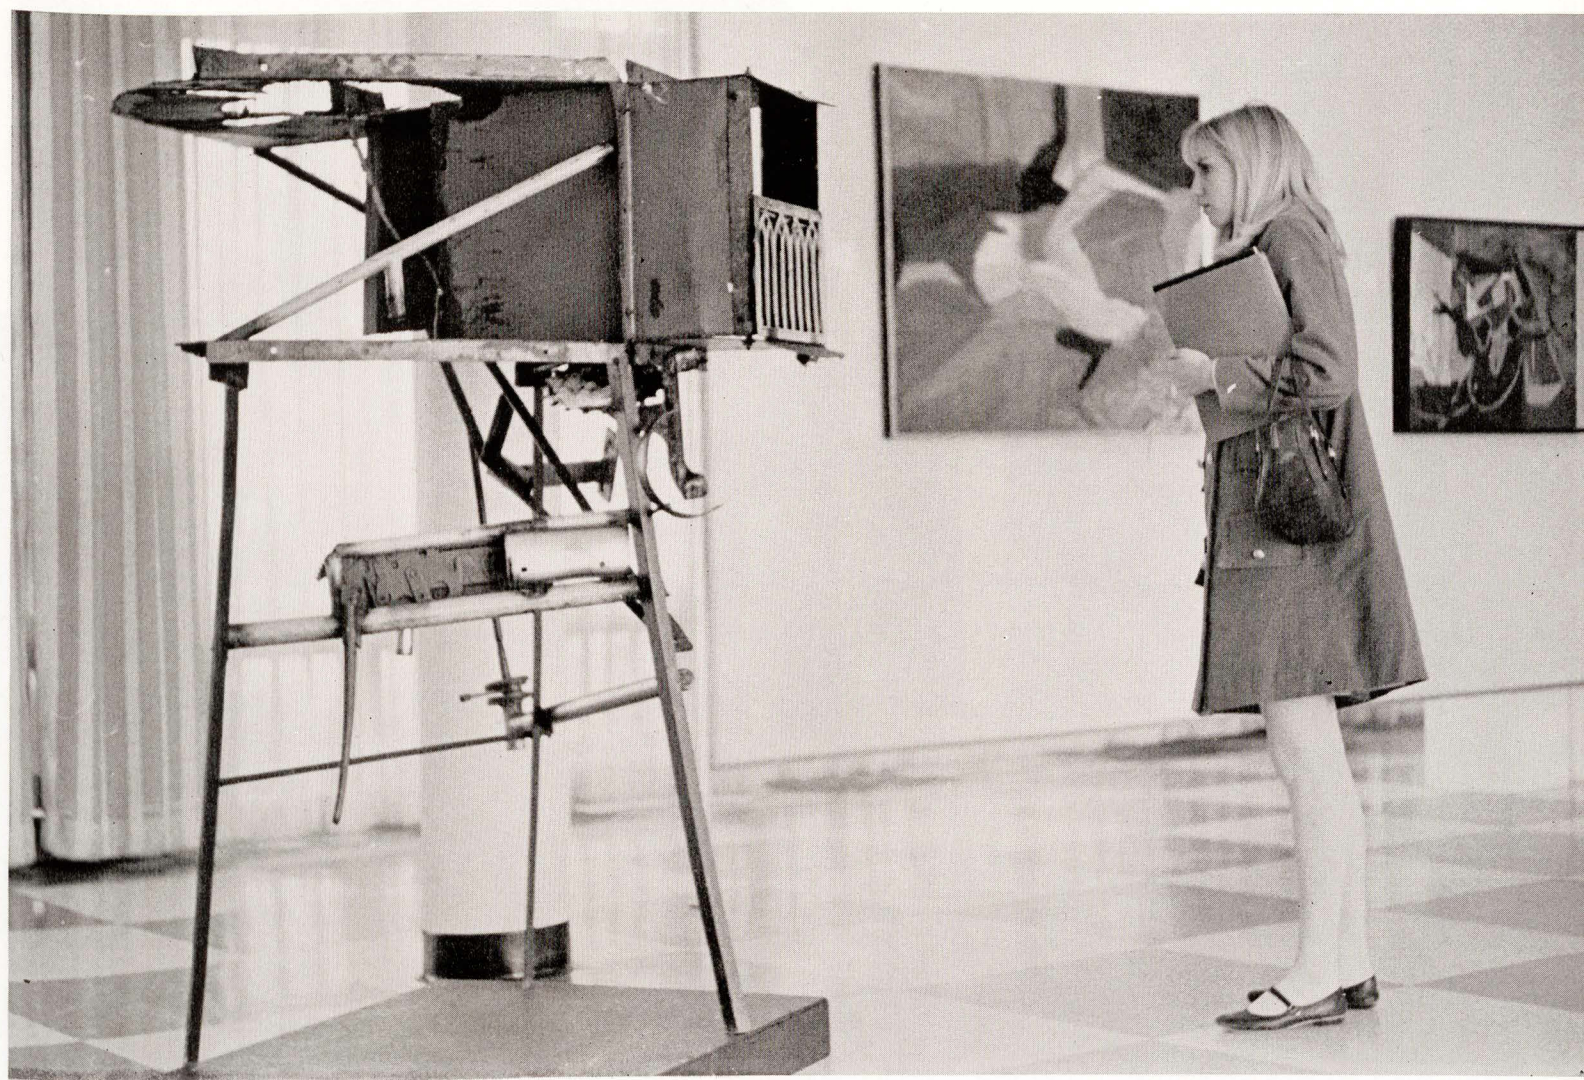

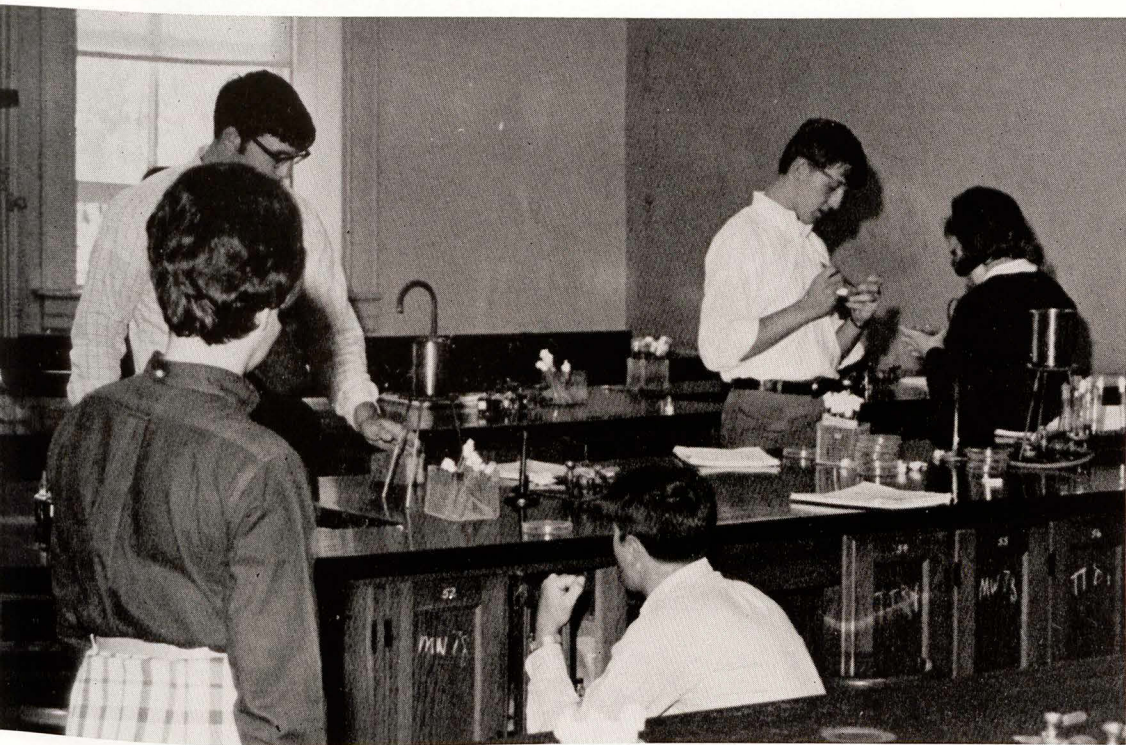

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences is continuing a study of degree requirements with a series of committees established in areas such as natural sciences, fine arts, literature and basic languages with authority to experiment with new developments.

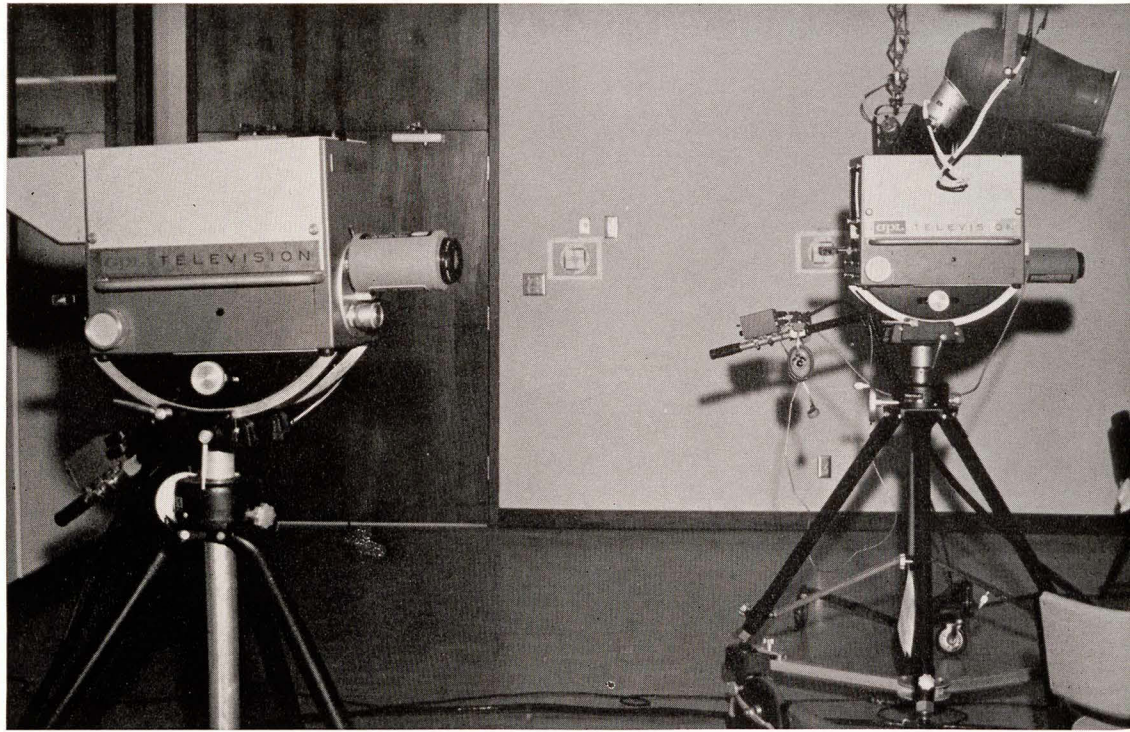

Study is being done by the College to develop a stronger advisory system and make increased use of advanced placement and standing. Study is also being done of credit by examination and the pass-fail system.

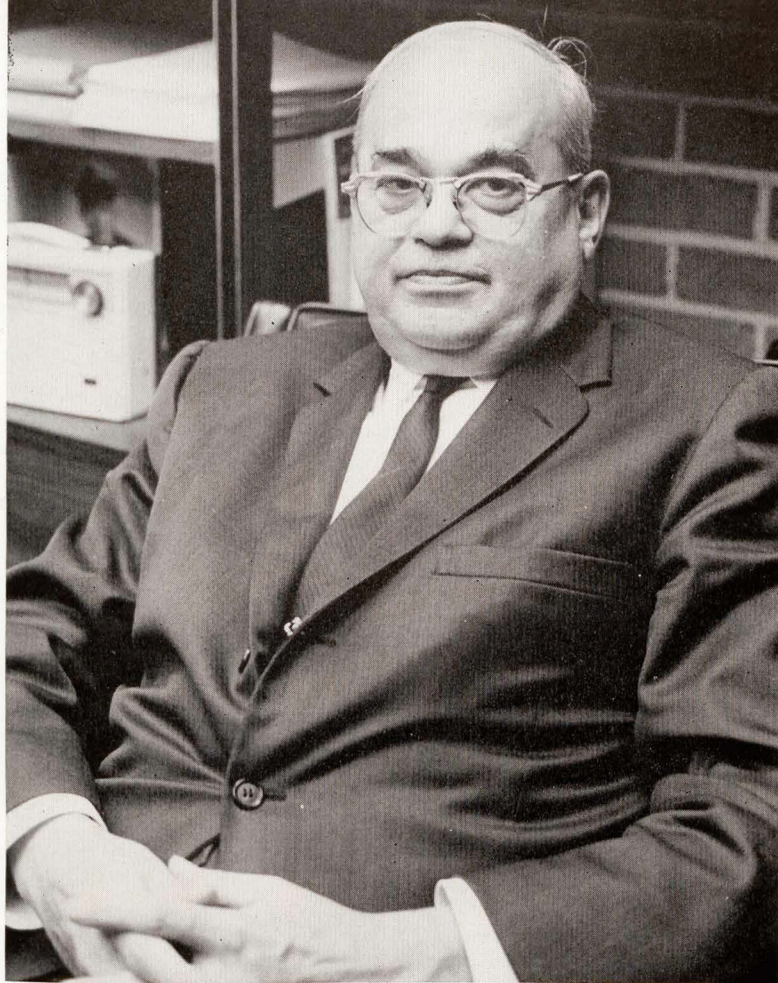

Plans are being completed on the Communications Center which will partially house the English, speech, foreign languages and journalism departments.

Dean H. H. Kronenberg
College of Education

The College of Education

Assistant Dean Robert M. Roelfs

Dean H. H. Kronenberg has headed the College of Education since 1945. Robert M. Roelfs is the assistant dean.

The College increased enrollment 8% this past fall over the previous fall. Dean Kronenberg attributes this growth to better salaries for teachers. Growth has been in the areas of English, social studies, art, journalism, elementary and physical education.

Departments in the College of Education are Educational Administration and Research, Counselor Education, Special Education, Vocational Education, Elementary Education and Secondary Education.

A Research Coordination Unit carries out research in the department of Vocational Education.

This year the College of Education offices are housed in the new Graduate Education building.

Dean George F. Branigan
College of Engineering

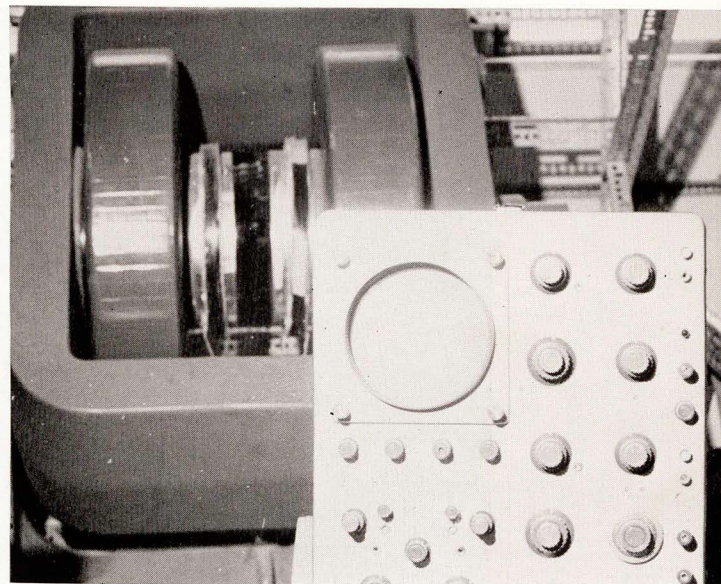

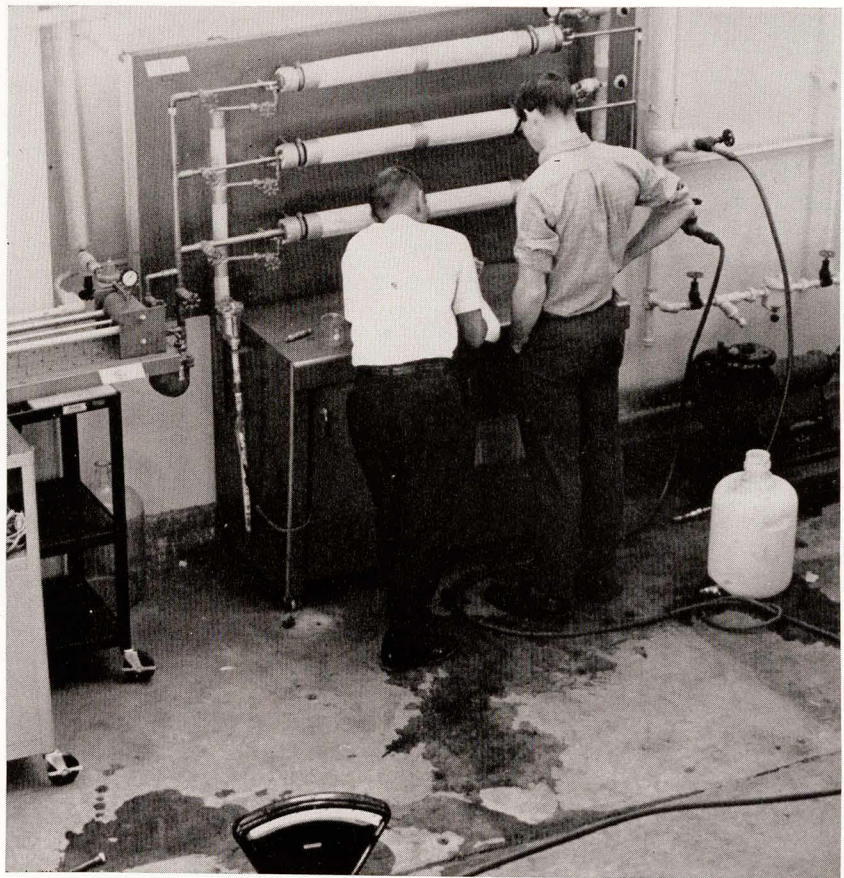

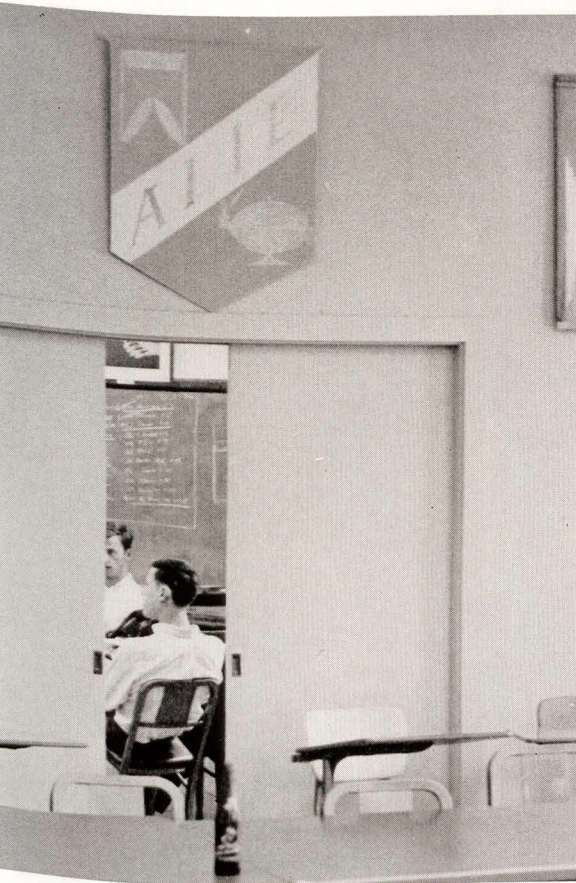

The College of Engineering

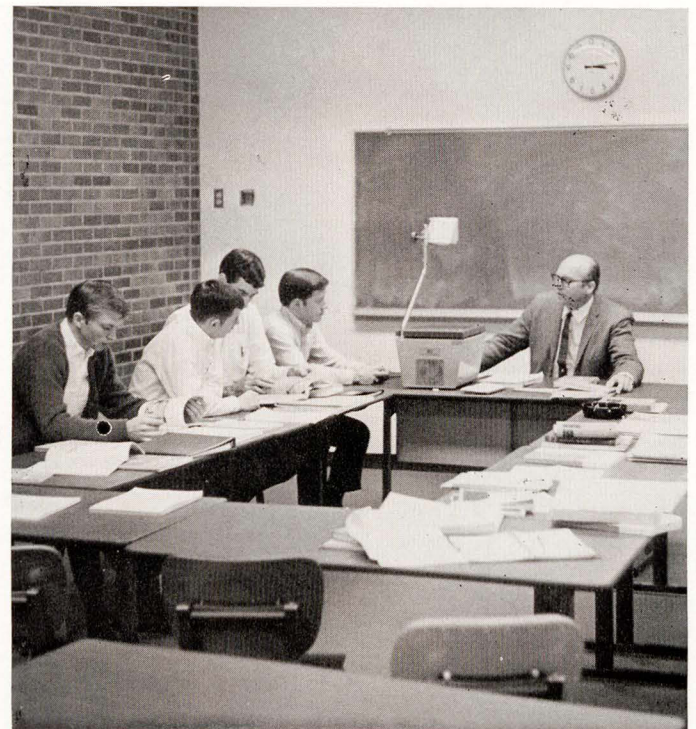

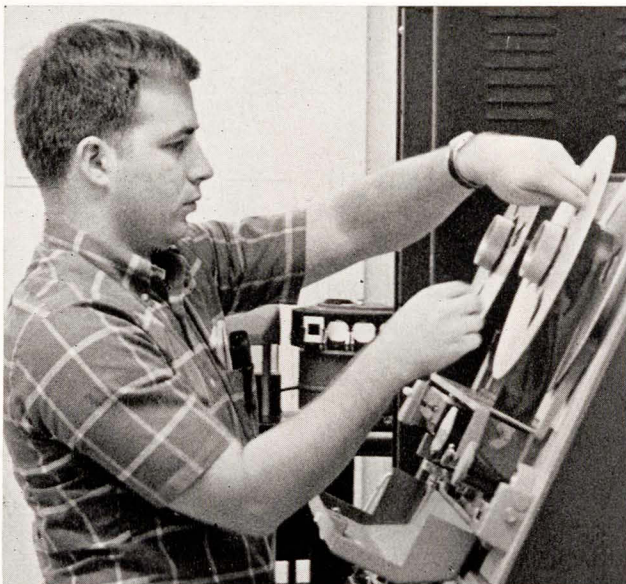

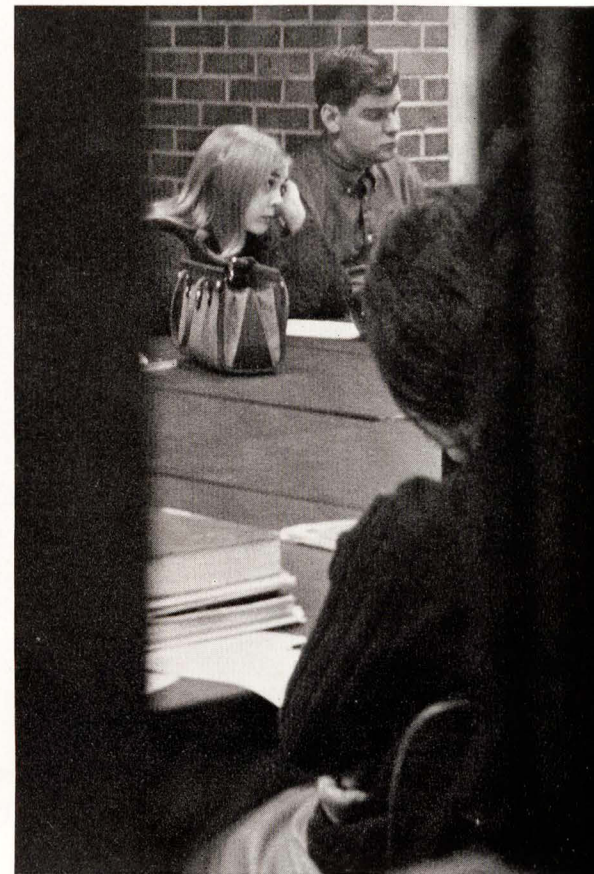

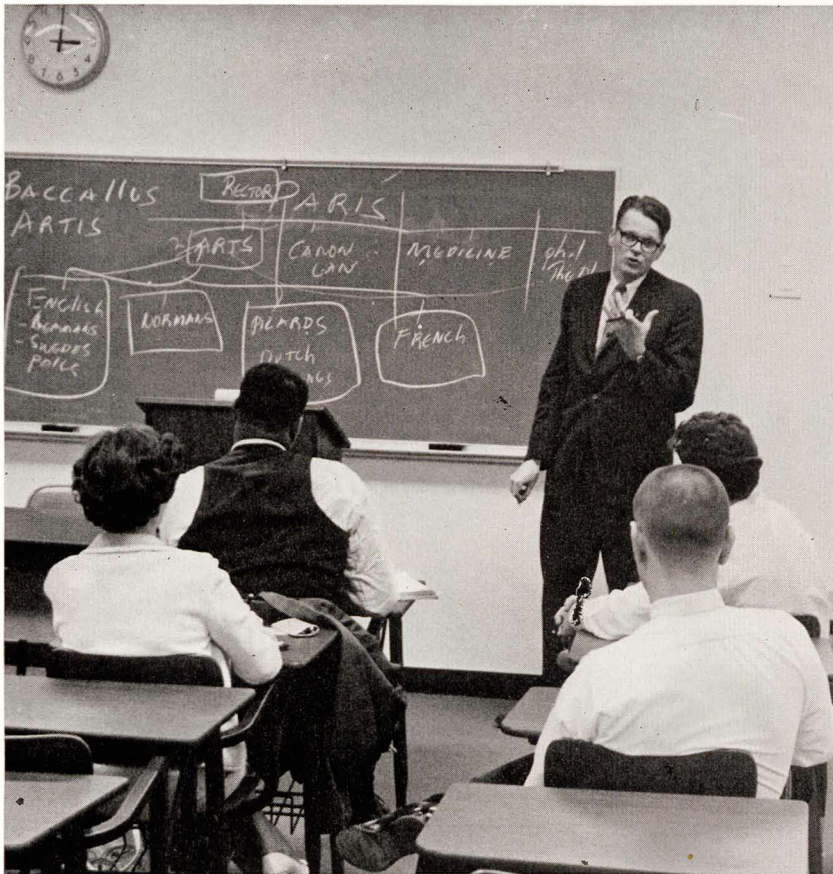

The principal aim of the College of Engineering is to train young men and women in the basic and specialized concepts of engineering. This College, however, recognizes that if its graduates are to gain and hold stature in their profession, they must have scholastic training in fields other than engineering. Under present conditions, the engineering graduate must have a background of sound scientific and economic principles and must be acquainted with industrial practices in his chosen field before he can assume responsibility in the profession.

The College of Engineering offered curriculums accredited by the Engineer's Council for Professional Development leading to a Bachelor of Science degree in seven fields. Degrees were available in Agricultural Engineering, Chemical Engineering, Engineering Science, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering. In cooperation with the University's Graduate School, the College offered a program leading to Master of Science degree and Doctor of Philosophy degree in various departments. A student with a bachelor's degree in one of the fields may qualify for a second degree in another department in one academic year in the College of Engineering.

Dean Virgil W. Adkisson
University's Graduate School

The University's Graduate School

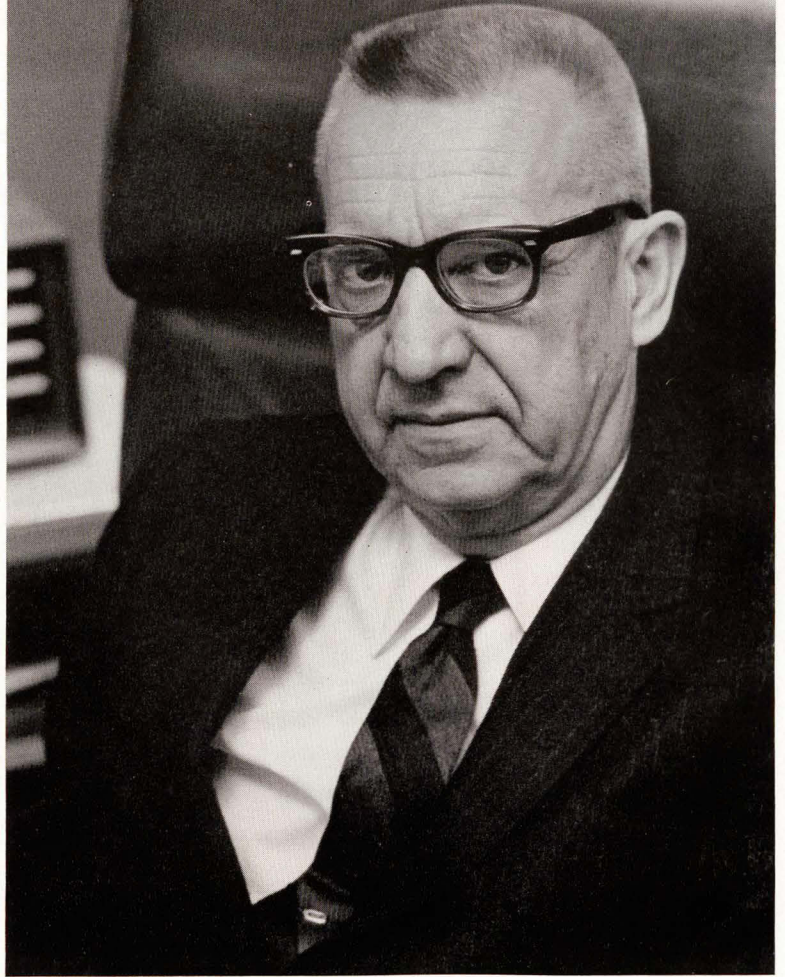

The University of Arkansas Graduate School, established in 1927, awarded 64 doctorates at the January commencement. A Doctorate of Philosophy in mathematics was awarded for the first time in January. The Graduate School has offered doctorates in English and chemistry for 15 years.

Headed by Dean Virgil W. Adkisson, the Graduate School is anticipating expansion of the computer system for research and educational purposes. The Graduate Education Building, used for the first time this year, is one of the finest of its kind, according to Dean Adkisson.

The new Administration Building will house the offices of the Graduate School and the Graduate Coordination of Research.

The University also has a Graduate Center in Little Rock which was founded 21 years ago.

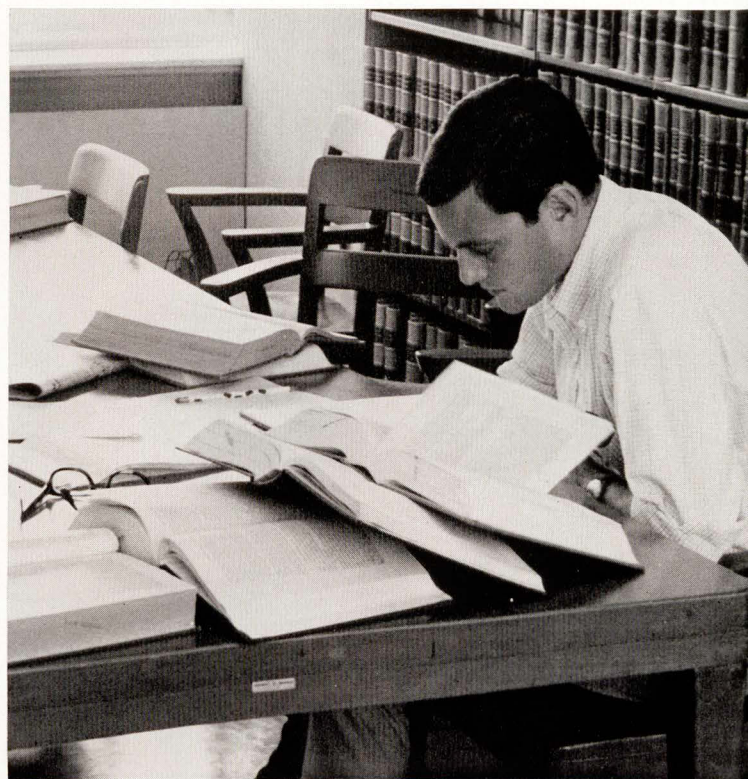

Dean Ralph Barnhart
University's Law School

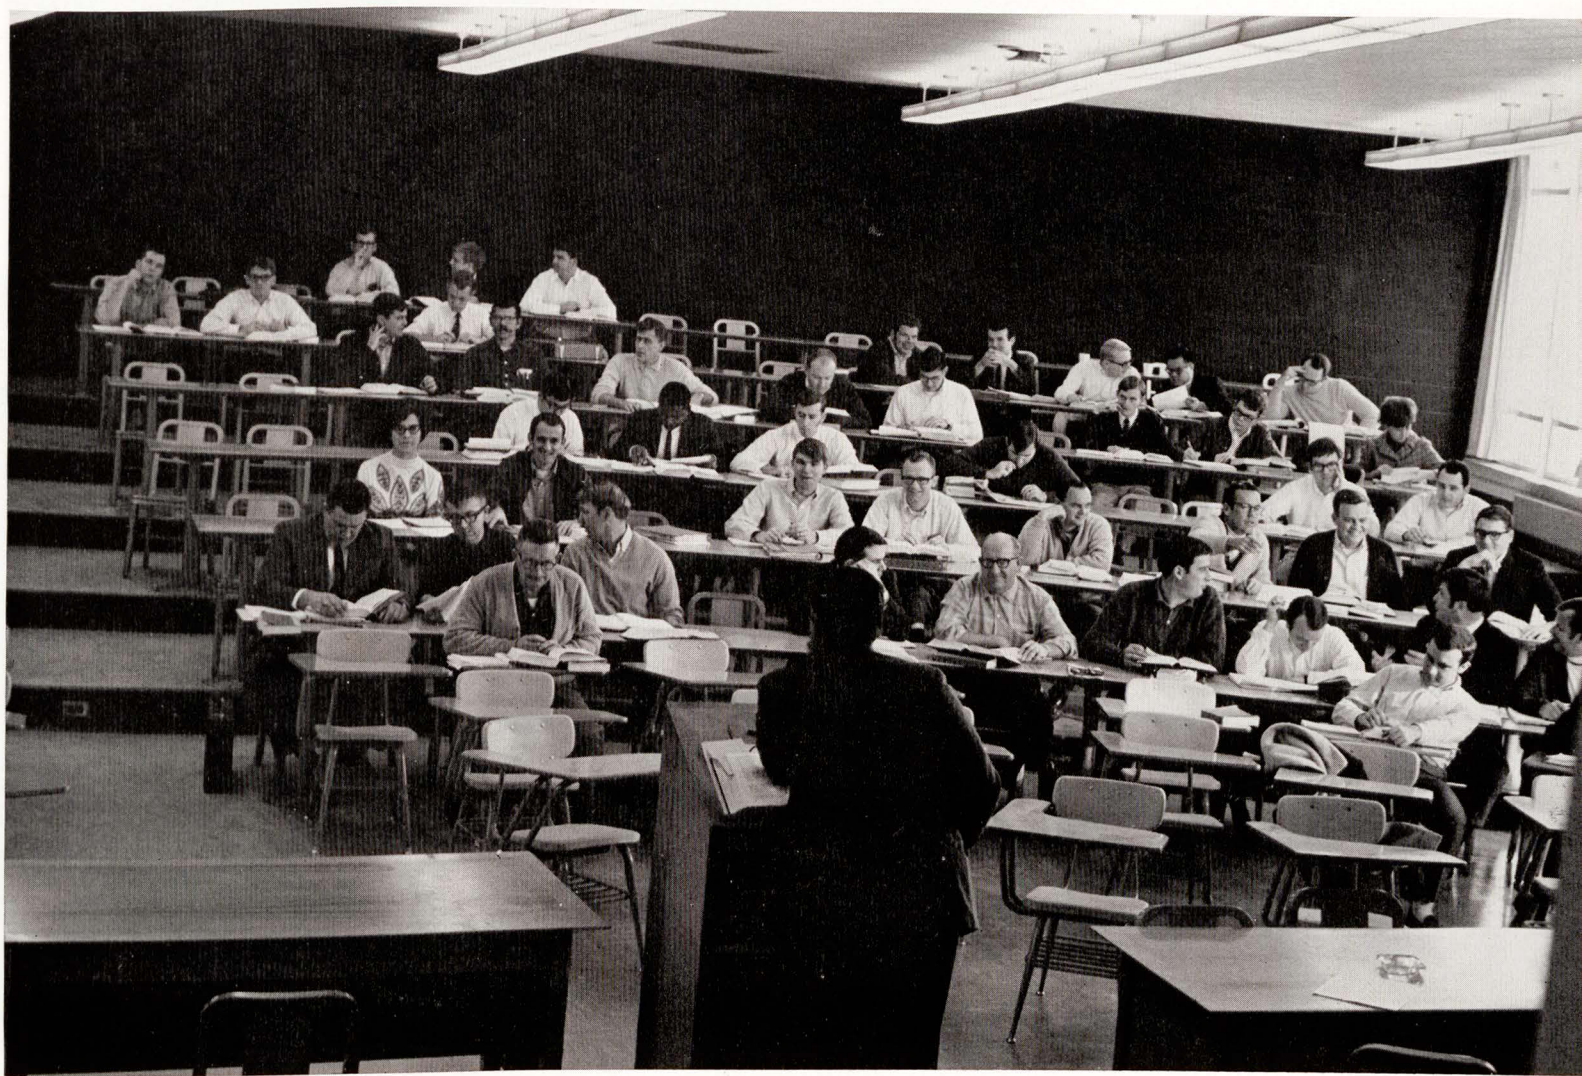

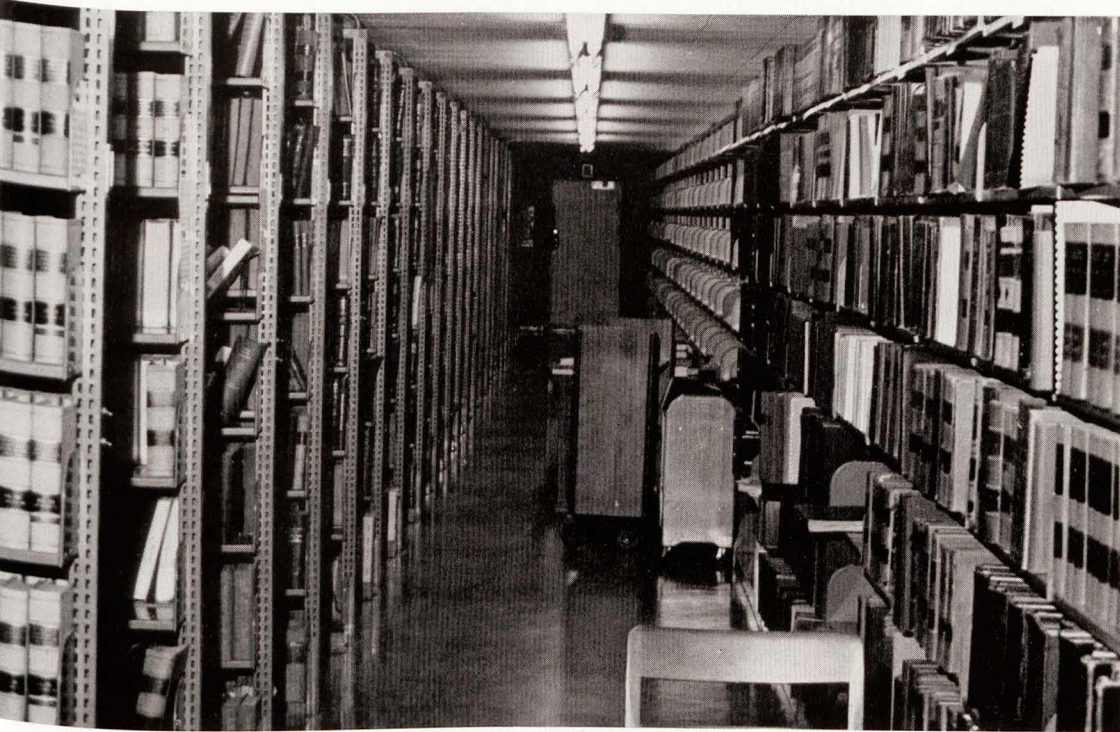

The University's Law School

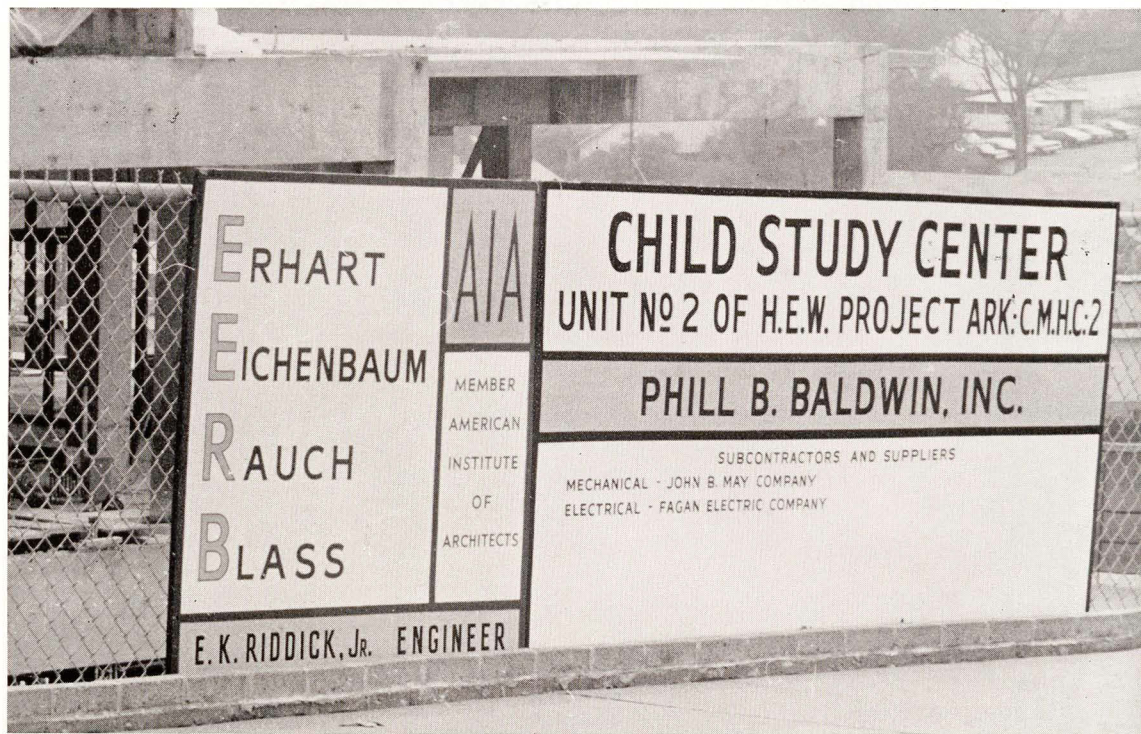

In our modern world society depends more and more upon lawyers as our civilization's laws and regulations multiply. We appreciate more than ever before that the fulfillment of justice requires that everyone have the help of a lawyer when he is in serious trouble, be he rich or poor, young or old, black or white. If the changes in society are to be orderly and just, the help of the lawyer is indispensable.

We must, therefore, educate more lawyers than we have in the past and those we educate must be knowledgeable about the problems of the modern world. The faculty of the School of Law is dedicated to providing our law students with the training that will prepare them to meet these greater responsibilities of the legal profession and to uphold the traditions of services to mankind.

Increased opportunities for law study are provided by the evening division in Little Rock in addition to the full-time division in Fayetteville.

Storm Whaley
Vice President for Health Sciences

Medical Center at Little Rock

Storm Whaley, as Vice President for Health Sciences of the University of Arkansas, is responsible for administration of the University Medical Center in Little Rock.

In addition to awarding 157 professional and baccalaureate degrees, the Medical Center prepared to admit 20 students in a new School of Dental Hygiene and six cytotechnology students in a new educational program in the Department of Pathology of the School of Medicine. Curricula changes were instituted in the Schools of Nursing and Pharmacy.

A third-generation computer was installed at the Medical Center this summer which can monitor the vital signs of patients in intensive care and provide instant hospital management information. Construction was begun on a new Child Study Unit which will not only provide for the psychiatric evaluation and treatment of children but also will contain a school for Arkansas teachers of children with learning problems.

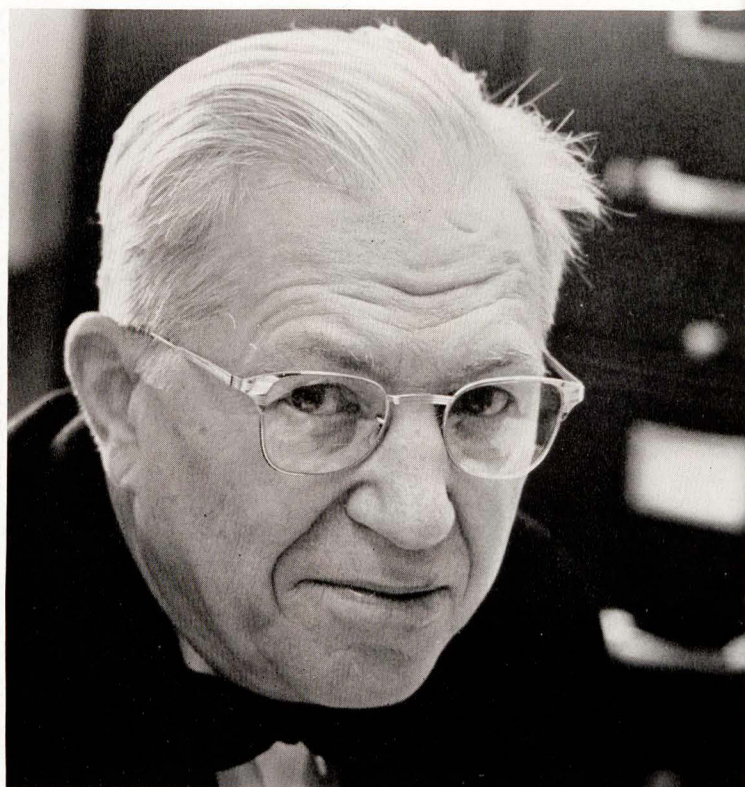

Dean John P. Owen
College of Business Administration

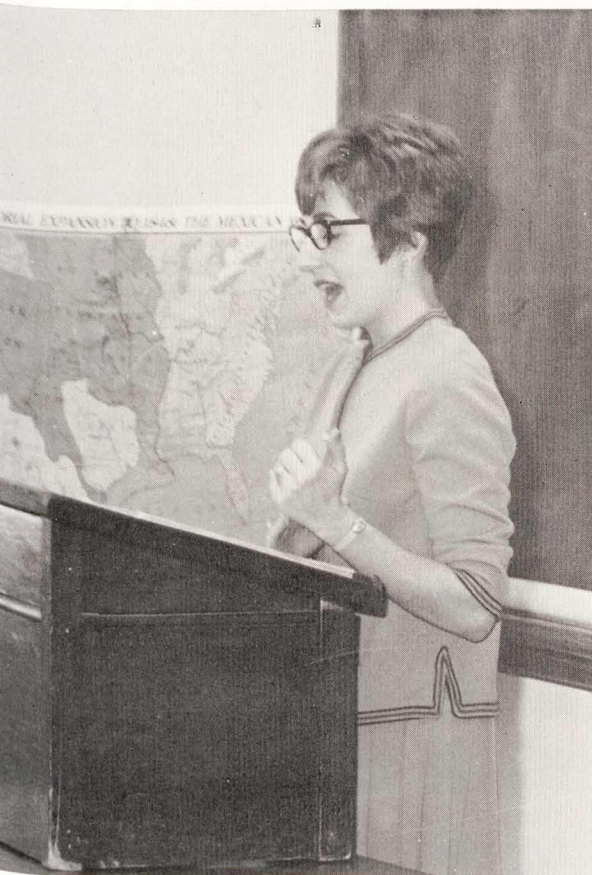

College of Business Administration

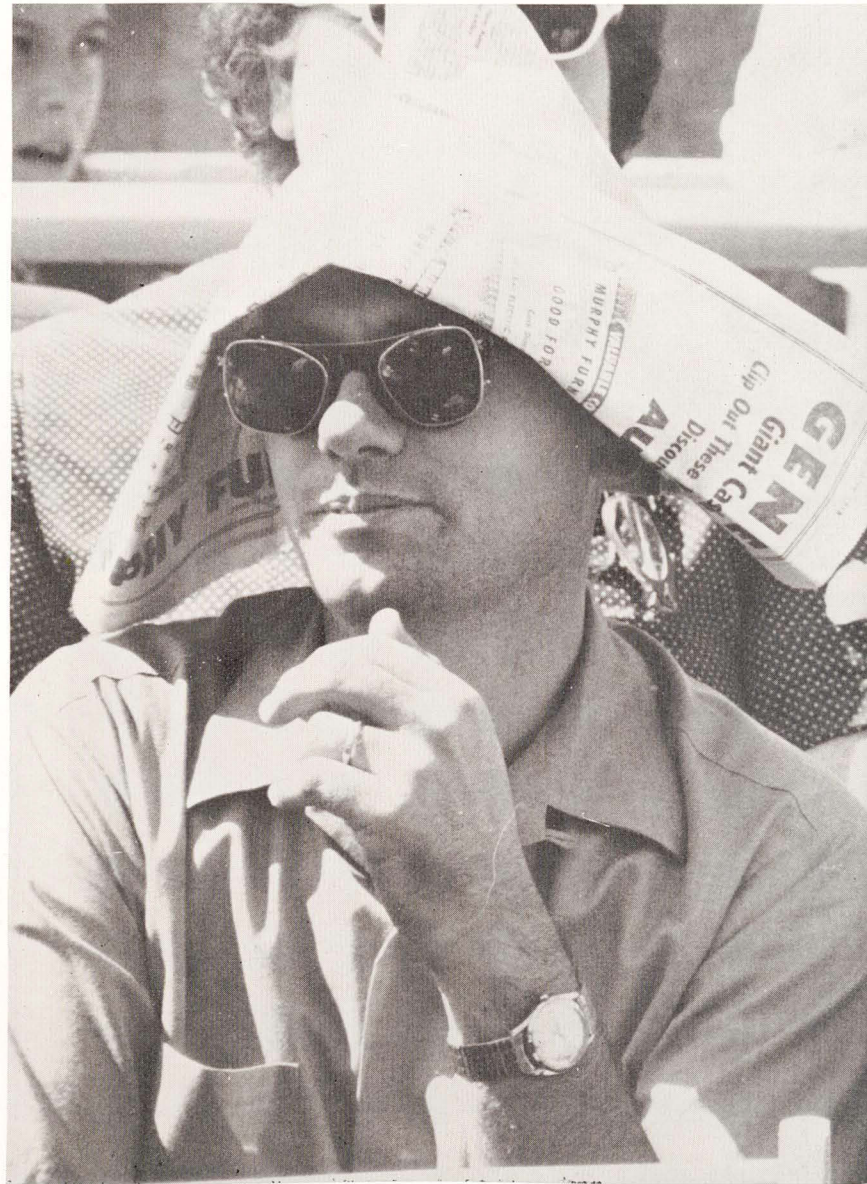

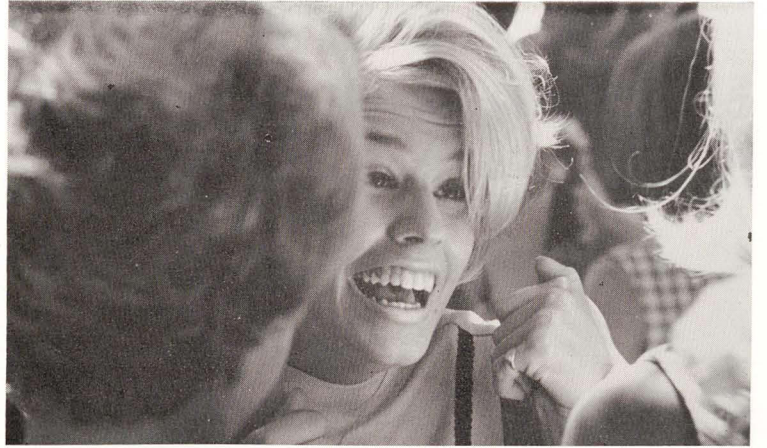

Changes were made this fall in the requirements for three undergraduate degrees of the College of Business Administration. The degrees affected by the new program are the Bachelor of Science degrees in Industrial Management, Business Administration, and Public Administration. In addition to these the requirements for the remaining degrees remain unchanged. These include Master of Business Administration, Doctor of Philosophy in Business Administration, and Doctor of Philosophy in Economics.

A Business Advisory Committee was active during the year playing an active and constructive role in determining and attaining the long-run objectives of the College. This committee consisting primarily of Deans and faculty members has been largely responsible for suggesting important changes made this year. Interested in maintaining the highest standards within the College of Business Administration, the administration this year has placed emphasis on reorganization, and qualitative improvement within the framework of existing programs.

ASG Becomes More Issue-Orientated

After Walter Slaughter was elected to office in the spring of '68, he and a selection committee set up the framework for the 1968-69 year. During the summer, plans were made and speakers scheduled for the continuance of the Symposium program.

However when fall came, a controversy arose over the number of hours he had carried the previous semester and consequently, he resigned, turning the reigns of government over to vice-president George Lease. Lease chose to continue Slaughter's programs, although he did not hesitate to add those of his own or de-emphasize others.

After Slaughter's resignation, it was up to the Student Senate to elect a new vice-president. When the final vote was cast, Randy Marshall emerged as the vice-president.

This year's student government found itself more issue-oriented than those of the past. It passed a resolution that was sent to the legislature favoring a state tax package to provide more revenue for higher education.

In March, the state Senate passed a resolution condemning the appearance of Muhammad Ali at Symposium '69. Three days after the Senate Resolution, the Arkansas House passed a resolution commending the Student Senate for their speaker program.

The newest program this year was the establishment of a Recruitment Bureau. The Bureau began traveling to high schools around the state in February. Word seemed to spread about their programs, resulting in many requests for visits that the Bureau was not able to fill.

Another accomplishment was the setting up of Senate reporting districts. Each Senator was responsible to report to a different district after each meeting. In some cases, this plan was excellent in informing the students and in enabling senators to take comments back to the Senate. However, the plan's success depended upon the attitude of the Senator himself and on the student response. In many instances neither was what it should have been.

In conclusion, many people worked with officers Lease, Marshall, Sarah Watt, and Bill Williams to make the year the type of year it was. Serving as administrative assistants to Lease were David Davies and Jim McKenzie. They all combined their efforts toward making student government a more dynamic instrument of student voice on campus.

Senate Backs Reapportionment

George Lease, ASC President

There were some bright flashes of honest interest and attempts at reform in the 1968-69 Senate. After several years of discussion this year's Senate took the lead in urging students to adopt a reapportionment amendment to the Student Senate Constitution. The amendment provides for one representative for each living group and one representative for every 200 off-campus students who voted in the previous general elections. Living groups with over 200 people will be given two representatives.

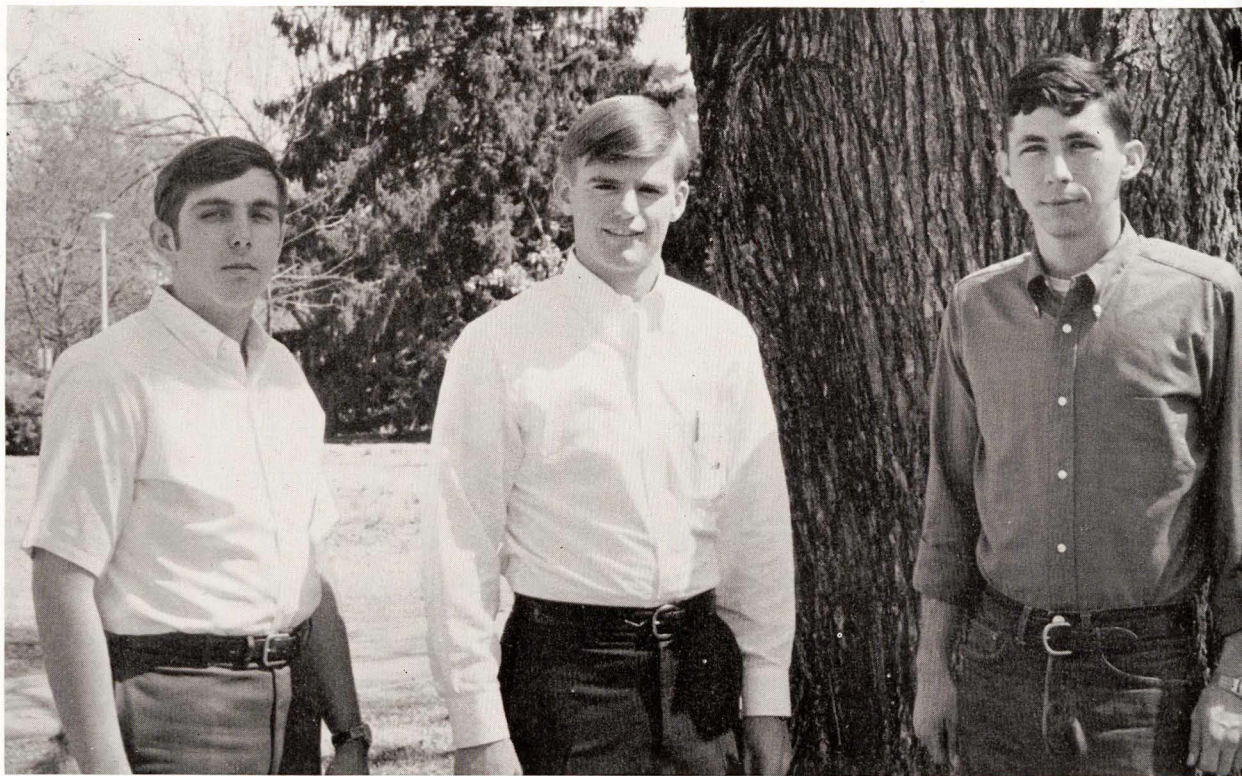

In an attempt to alleviate the carnival atmosphere and bribing of the past, the Senate also adopted a new, considerably more restrictive election code. Gone from the spring elections were the lemonade stands and honky-tonk pianos mounted on trucks.

Finding itself more issue-oriented than in the past, the Senate passed resolutions supporting the Theta's successful attempt to rezone property for a house, praised President Mullins for standing behind the Symposium program while protests concerning Muhammad Ali's appearance were being received and pledged support to the State Legislature for a tax package which would provide more revenue for state-supported institutions.

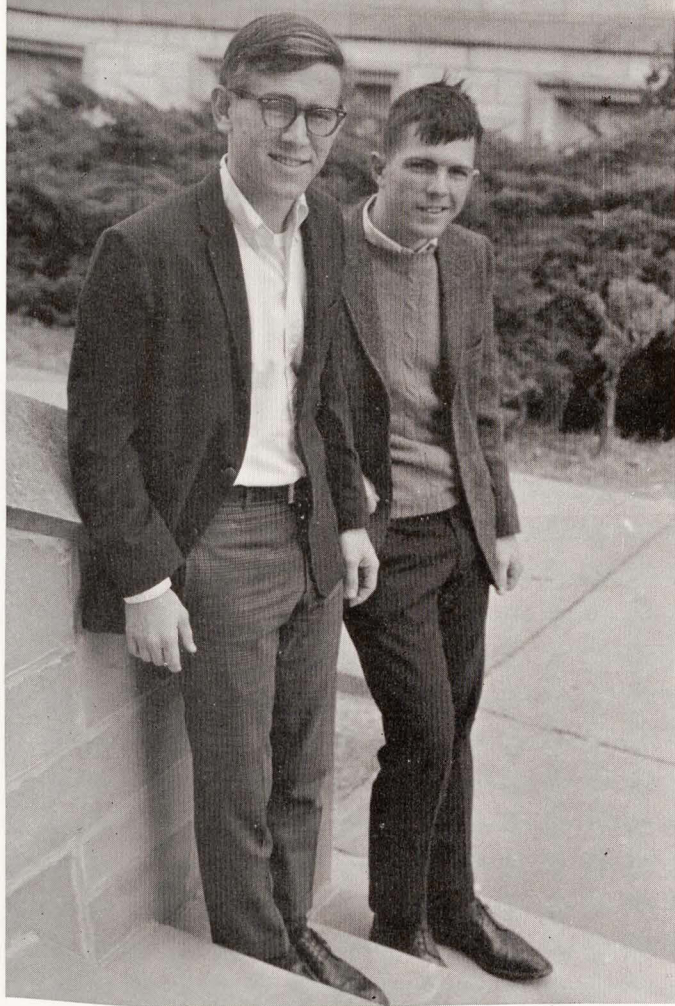

Student Senator Mike Warr voices his opinion.

'She put salt "what" in my pie?!'

THE YEAR

I think I have a dragon in my mouth!

Tri-Delts show off their new symbol for piece.

Rushees set Sig Eps on rail and hoped they would fall off.

New Ski pledge copies traditional house image and makes an ass of himself.

Rush Is Week of Eternal Smile

While the rushees were still home counting their postcards and weighing their chances, sorority and fraternity members converged in Fayetteville for Work Week to try to make their houses look respectable enough to convince the rushees that they could stand to live there.

Sporting their newest clothes and best Ultrabrite smiles, the rushees turned their personalities to the channel that best suited the image of their desired house and dragged out all the charm and cool they usually reserved for the opposite sex in an attempt to succeed at the "I'm so neat you can't live without me" game. The members also played this game, and although the weatherman would say that the temperatures were in the 70's, this was really the "snowiest" season.

The fraternities showed a little more honesty than the sororities by revealing more about their true character when they entertained the rushees with gross skits. The girls thought a guided tour of the house with special emphasis on the trophy case was very entertaining.

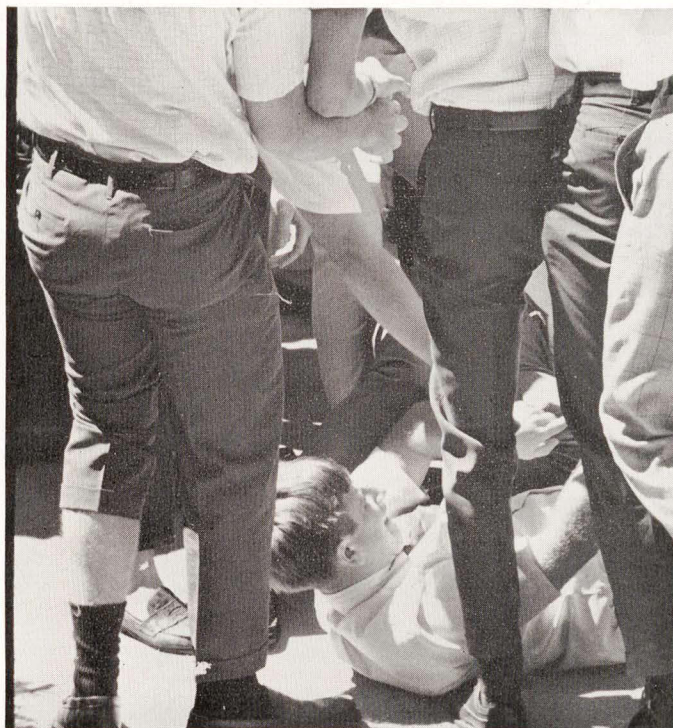

Although the rush books said to keep an open mind, the rushees quickly calculated exactly how high they could climb on the Greek ladder and the members schemed to capture the rushees with the most status. By the end of the week, everyone had decided just whom he couldn't live without.

451 Pledges Get New Greek Home

Bid day was either heaven or hell depending on the individual's fate. There was a lot of excited screaming and a little hysterical crying. The boys flew out of the Student Union to accept their bids, and as usual it was a miracle the fraternities didn't kill more than they pledged.

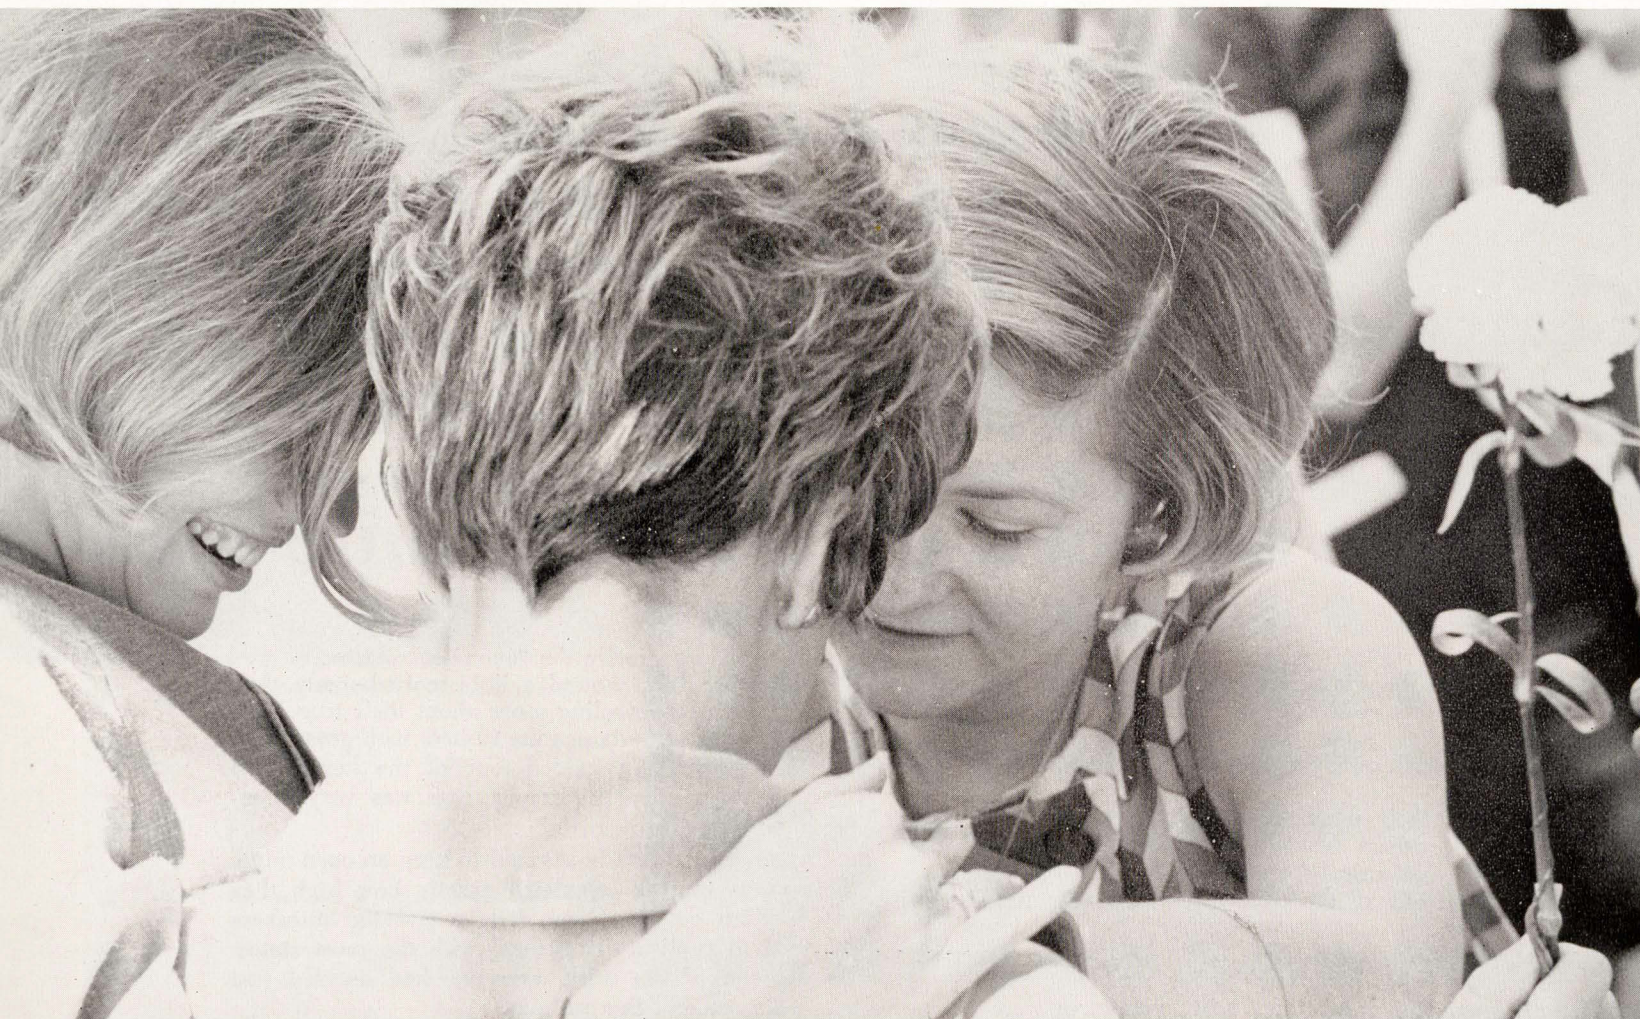

After casting their Greek spells that turned newly pledged frogs into princes and scullery maids into Cinderellas, most houses held dances and drop-ins to formally introduce the pledges to "campus society" and celebrate the new additions to their ranks.

After the last bid was given, the Greeks reached the end of their Odyssey with a score of 451 new converts.

The first fall days offered students a good opportunity to catch up with all the summer scandal.

Registration - A Private Hell

As 11,844 students from 44 states and 33 countries made their pilgrimage to "the hill", a sluggish Fayetteville awoke from her summer slumber to witness the return of the masses. Filled with new resolutions about four-points, loads of sleep, and diligent study, students optimistically faced the new semester. Equipped with his packet, a list of guaranteed "A" courses, and a dream schedule of gracious living, each student summoned all his courage to face the ordeal of registration. Confronted by endless lines, closed classes, haggard faces, and the sadistic voice that eternally repeats "registration is fun" over the public address system, each student knew he was home again.

Campus Sports New Look for '69

As the freshmen struggled to adjust to their new surroundings, upperclassmen found that the campus had a new look as a result of an $8,600,000 expansion program. The completion of the new library added a new dimension to the old problem of where to look for someone who said they were going to "The Library".

Freshmen get wet behind the ears while moving in and will probably stay that way all year.

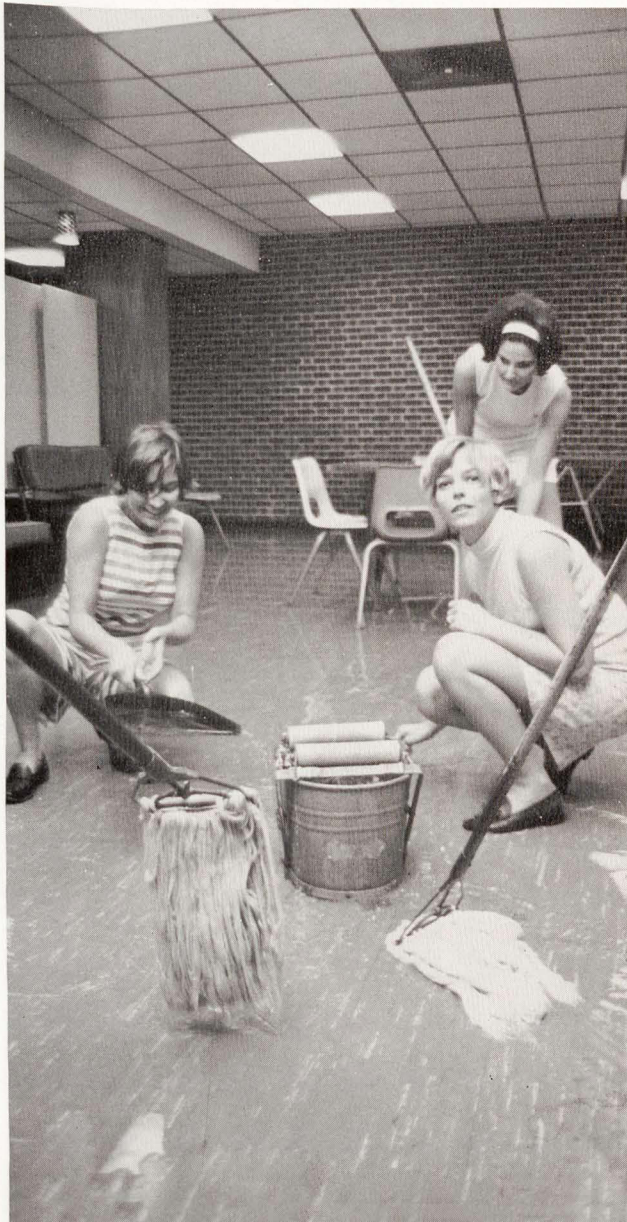

This boy found that eating candy got a little sticky.

Freshman smiles joyfully as she drops her clothes for first time on campus.

I know a way to save you $2.50 and double your pleasure.

Good friends sometimes enjoy sharing a rod.

After the toilets overflowed at Futrall these girls decided to clean up their act.

A lot of people wished that this group had followed the tradition and not showed up.

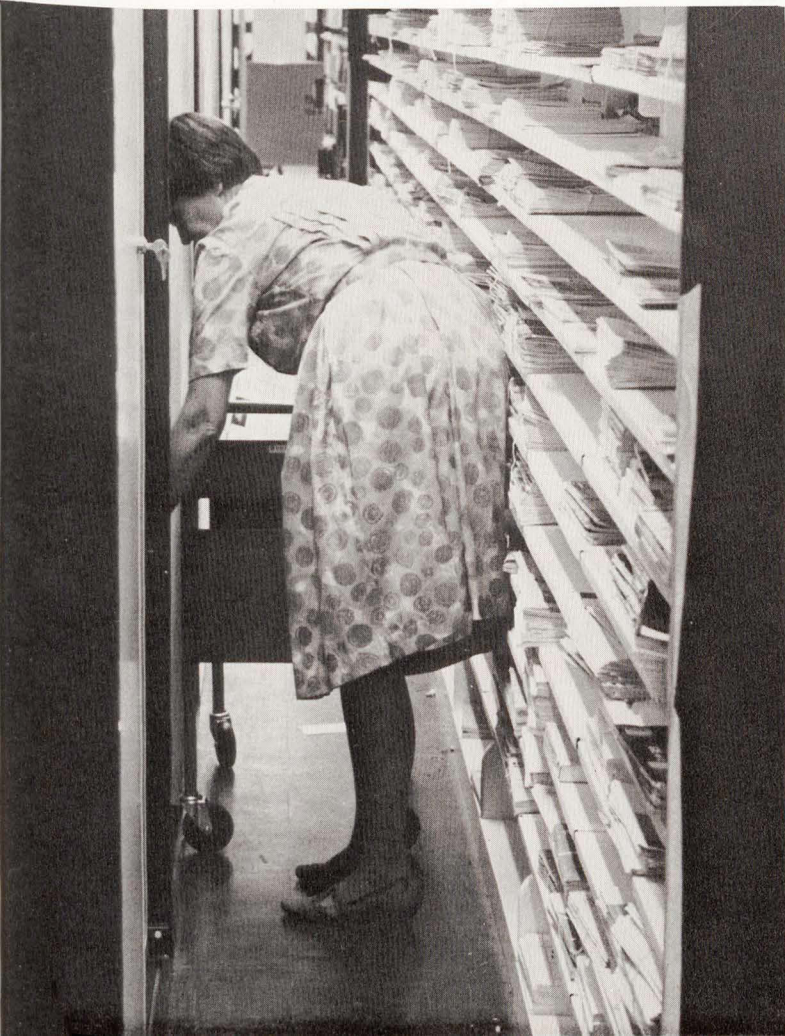

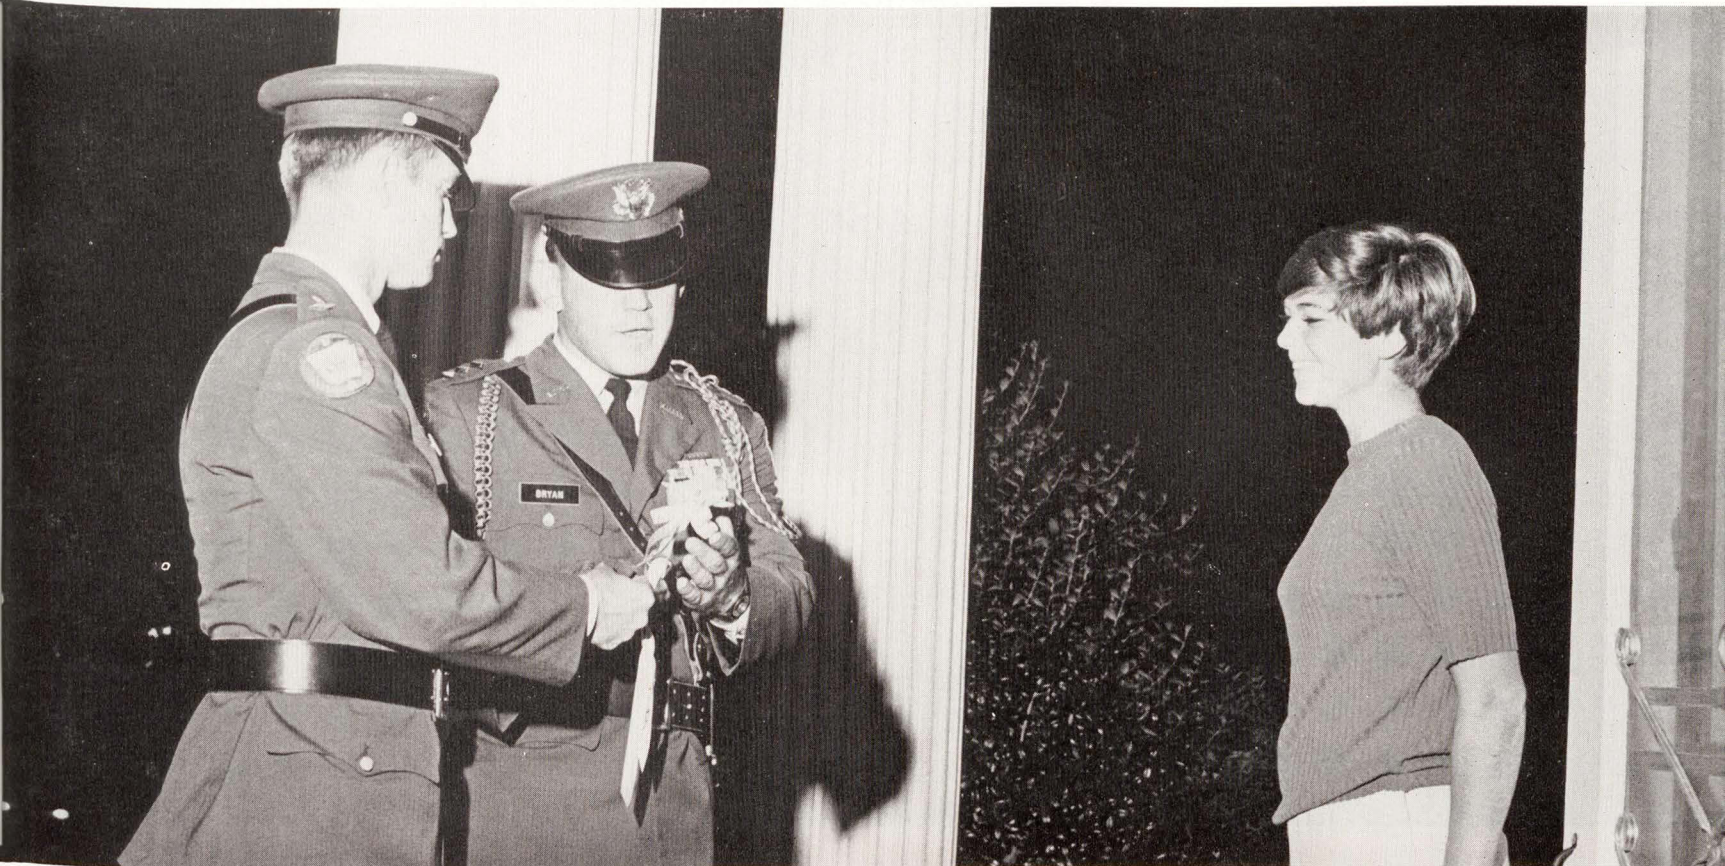

This Theta can fly, but then so can all the girls in that house.

Despite luxurious new surroundings this still isn't the most popular library in Fayetteville.

Johnny Cash Thrills Rednecks

Stick with me, baby, and we'll go places — Vietnam, South Korea . . .

With the beginning of classes some students settled back into the study ritual while for others the only change from summer was that they felt a little guilty as they continued to play. Both Johnny Cash's performance at a Rockefeller Rally and the Harper's Bizarre concert offered students a good excuse to abandon their books.

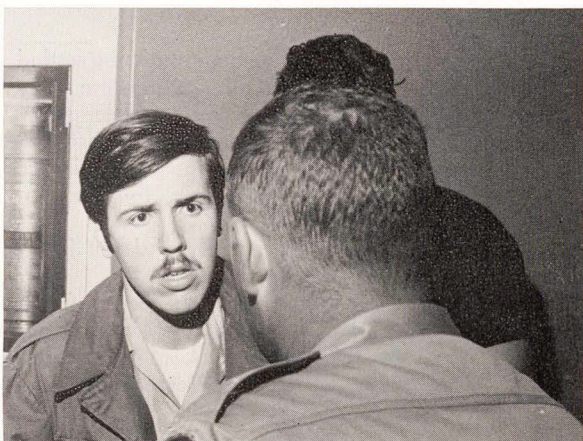

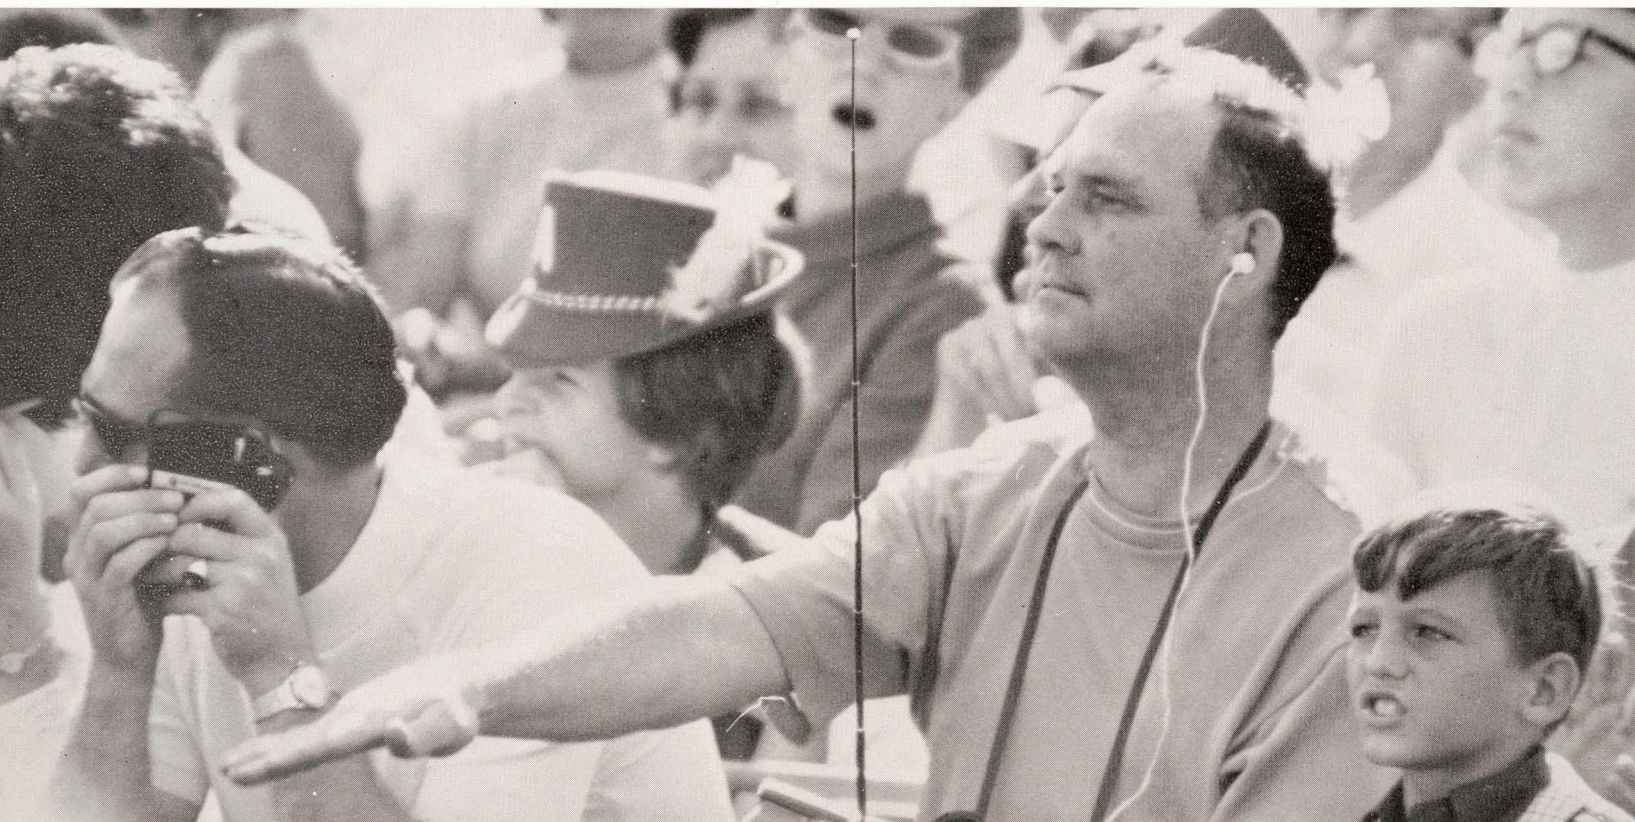

Pat Miller emceed the first pep rally and put in an early bid for political power.

With the addition of a noonday concert of the chimes in the towers of Old Main, students found themselves whistling to tunes such as "Rock of Ages" and wondering whether the hunchback of Notre Dame had transferred.

Some of the old material still won't fit in the new library.

Panhellenic Threatens Walk-Out

Sometimes the Razorbacks needed a faith healer.

You mean the draft won't take me because I'm a harelip?

This is the only time this girl will ever light anybody's fire.

After Slaughter resigned, the students quickly located this new leader who had similar qualifications.

Some of the majorettes liked to advertise on school time.

Panhellenic added suspense to the week of the Tulsa game by threatening to walk-out of the pep rally if any sorority got a detrimental cut during roll call. Emcee Mac McBryde didn't let the girls cramp his style and called their bluff. The sororities reversed tactics and staged a sit-down which was much less tiresome than a walk-out.

At halftime of the Tulsa game, Randy Neil, director of the International Cheerleading Foundation, presented the second annual Collegiate Traditions award to the U. of A. for the Razorback Hog Call. George Lease accepted the trophy and the citation which read in part, "Arkansas and its renown Razorback Hog Call has made victory and athletic glory a tradition that is now famous across 50 states. No team is safe in Razorback country except the Razorbacks themselves." Tulsa saw the truth in this statement as the Hogs trounced the slightly tarnished Golden Hurricanes 56-13 before a capacity crowd in a stadium that echoed with "Whooo Pig Sooiie."

The advertisements said I could swim anyway.

This really isn't my favorite indoor sport,

One problem of open visitation was the sudden increase in dirty laundry.

SSOC Offers Draft Counseling

President Walter Slaughter continued his battle with the administration in an attempt to remain in office despite having failed to meet the academic requirements of the post. Walter was granted a stay of execution of one week to bring up new evidence.

SSOC offered draft counseling in a booth at the Student Union and attracted much heated discussion. During one of the most intense arguments, a bystander slipped a sign saying "Be a Marine Officer" into the booth.

Angel Flight braved the fates and picked the unlucky number of 13 as their tapping quota, but the Army played it safe and tapped only 12 sponsors.

Many students thought that either LSD had finally found its way into the hills or that AWS was sponsoring a love-in, when they first spotted a parade of people covered by psychedelically painted boxes led by a wizard strolling around campus. The freak-out was really a project of the Public School Art Lab class in an attempt to demonstrate form through color.

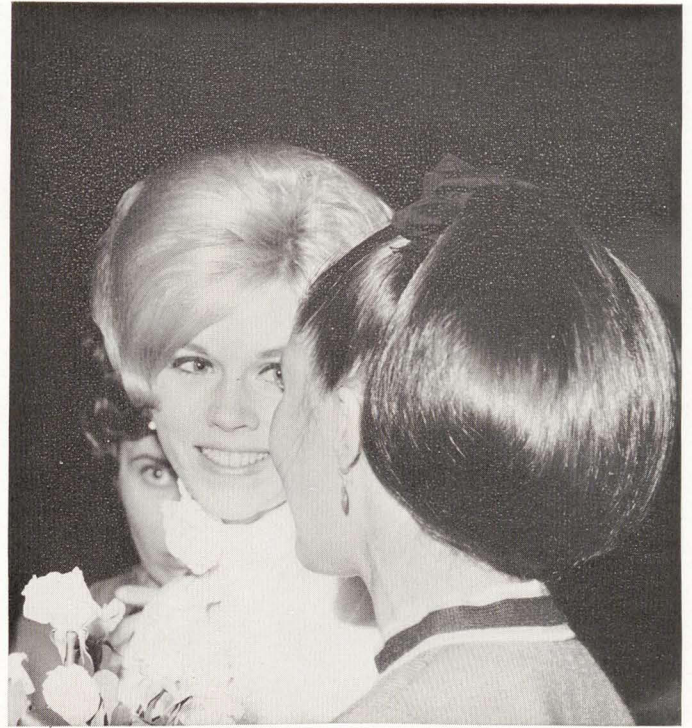

Vagabond poet Edward English, who gave up meat and became a vegetarian at the same time he quit pot and alcohol, visited the University and read his original poetry at the Deep End discussion group. Mr. English had visited approximately one third of the colleges of America.

Hogs Beat Bears To Please Pops

Walter Slaughter found that, unlike the student body, the administration wasn't snowed by his silver tongue and verbal acrobatics. He resigned as president after his petition was denied and George Lease, vice-president, assumed the office.

The six new Razorback Beauties were presented at the Dad's Day pep rally. Due to the addition of a personal interview to the selection process, this year there is a 50-50 chance of recognizing a beauty from her yearbook picture.

The Hogs celebrated Dad's Day by beating Baylor 35-19. Outside the stadium the SSOC demonstrated against racial prejudice in U. S. Athletics and tried not to hear when the band played Dixie.

Win Proclaims "Beat Texas" Week

Gubernatorial candidate Marion Crank held a political rally at the Lambda Chi house and sharply criticized the policies of Rockefeller. Despite Crank's oratory, the majority of students registered a preference for Win in the mock elections. His victory could be attributed to either an increased liberalism on the campus or the greater appeal of the Rockefeller rally which featured more Cash than oratory.

As the cry of "Beat Texas" rang through the hills, 600 piggies went to Austin and cried Wee, Wee, Wee, all the way home. After the steers showed the hogs that "Hook-Em" is a very painful cheer, all the sad piggies took up the chant "wait till next year".

Bali Hai is the only way to fly, but this boy looks like he has already crashed and burned.

"I'm sorry, sir, but spring break was the deadline for purchasing homecoming tickets.

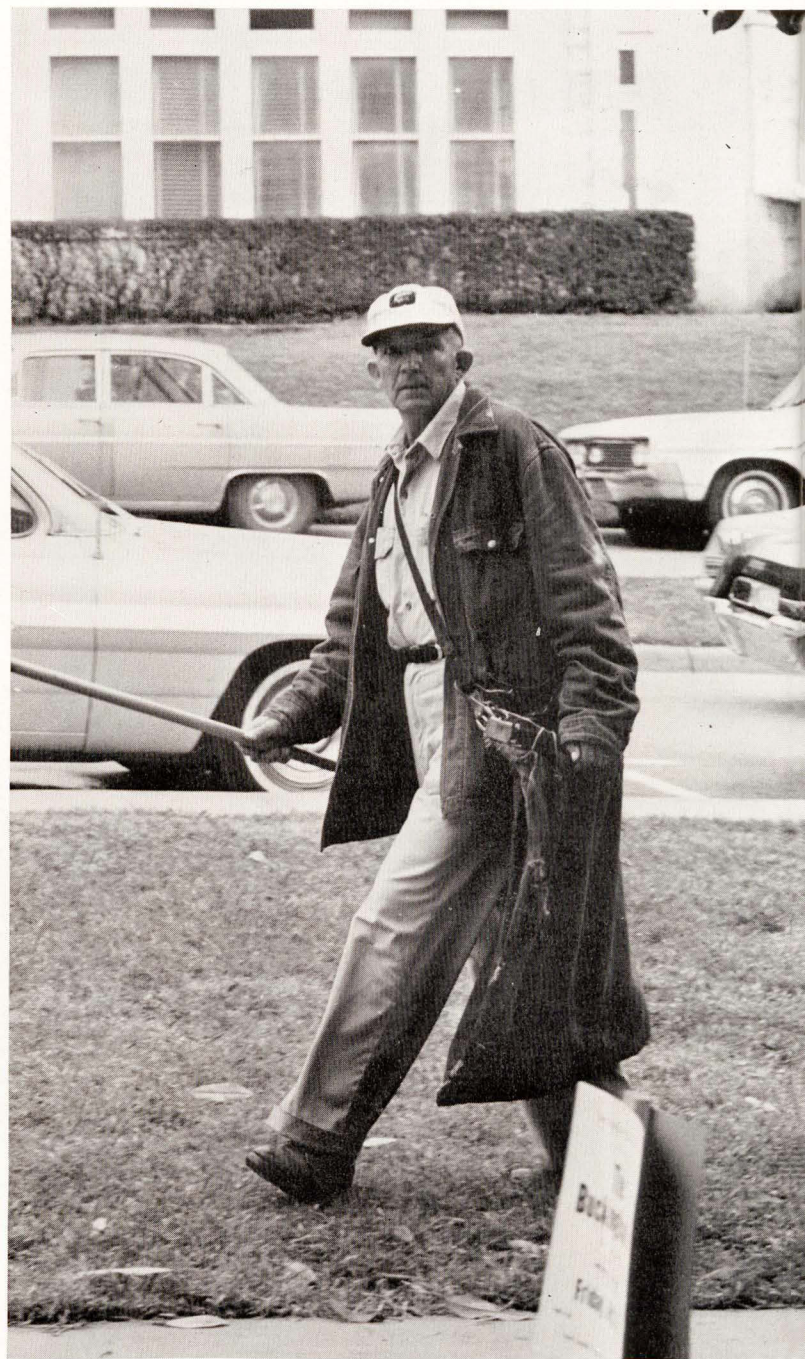

Campus Blood Drive Is Success

George Lease took his first baby steps in his new role as president and didn't even say "mother may I" as he appointed two Independents to the two posts of administrative aids and picked a Greek as secretary after broadmindedly deciding that one didn't have to be an independent to be a capable typist.

Despite the fact that raincoats are no longer required, many girls feel the added coverage is an asset.

Snakes Steal Hay and Outhouse

ABC sponsored their annual gross Aggie poster contest and the TKE's finally won something.

A new event was added to the Sigma Nu's annual celebration of Sadie Hawkin's Day when local police arrested three members for stealing 50 bales of hay and an outhouse.

The campus's oldest tradition was revitalized with the announcements that names of the graduates from the last two classes would be added to Senior Walk. The fact that after the centennial year of 1972 the walk will not be continued made many freshman seriously consider attending summer school so that they might graduate in time to have their name immortalized in concrete on the "hill".

First prize for a Halloween costume went to this coed dressed in wolf's clothing.

Sororities Absent at Parade

Only the Rose Bowl parade drew more spectators than this year's extravaganza Homecoming parade.

These boys weren't bad for a local band.

"I promise I'll never go out with him again if you'll just let me out."

Notice where boy's hand is. Notice expression on man's face.

Even youngsters know that Homecoming is a good time to fire-up your rod.

While most of the student body worried about the outcome of the approaching homecoming game, the nation chose it's new leaders. After the votes were tallied it appeared that the university students could have saved Arkansas the trouble of having an election since our mock elections had predicted the four big winners. Fulbright, Rockefeller and Hammerschmidt all retained their positions of king on the mountain, while Nixon proved that even the biggest loser can win if he can just find a worse opponent.

The Board of Publications, which during the previous week had been subjected to listening to Bill Ebbert, Directory Publisher, explain and re-explain the causes of the delay in the delivery of his publication, were treated by Ebbert to a further tirade of rationalization when he was asked about the $16,500 deficit in last year's Razorback budget. The board ended up knowing the same thing about both publications — nothing.

Of course the boys played well, but let's not underestimate the genius of the coaching.

Was it soft words of a soft tongue?

Substitute cheerleader waits anxiously for chance to show crowd how cool she is.

This couple was too young to cut.

Hog Heaven Means Hell For Owls

Homecoming always ranks as one of the top rally times of the year. Since a Razorback football game is always the perfect justification to "let it all hang out", all you have to do is add a meaningless word like "homecoming" and there are no limits on hell-raising.

The festivities began with the traditional pep rally, followed by a torchlight parade which culminated in a bonfire at the old fair grounds. For those who didn't mind missing three hours of "spirit" raising time, the Happenings performed at a concert sponsored by the Student Union.

The Homecoming parade was much smaller in size this year due to the sororities refusal to participate in either the parade or the house decoration contest. Panhellenic had previously announced their intentions of non-participation stating that they had more worthwhile ways of spending their time and money. Even at the end of the year, however, no one had found any visible signs of what they had constructively done with either of these precious commodities they had so ferociously felt should be saved for "better" purposes.

As a fitting climax to an exciting weekend the title-hungry porkers clipped the owl's wings to the delight of onlooking homecoming court royalty and the subjects in the stands. After the game the ecstatic fans showed the effects of their game-time "spirits".

Razorbacks Tromp SMU Ponies 35-19

The mystic faith that Hog fans put in Broyles fourth quarter myth was almost shattered by SMU's roaring attack in the final period that netted them 29 points and threatened the 35 point lead the Hogs spent all afternoon building. The game was followed by a combination Sam and Dave concert, which consisted mostly of music played by unknown groups that had the making of real anonymity, and a dance that was a sock-hoppers heaven.

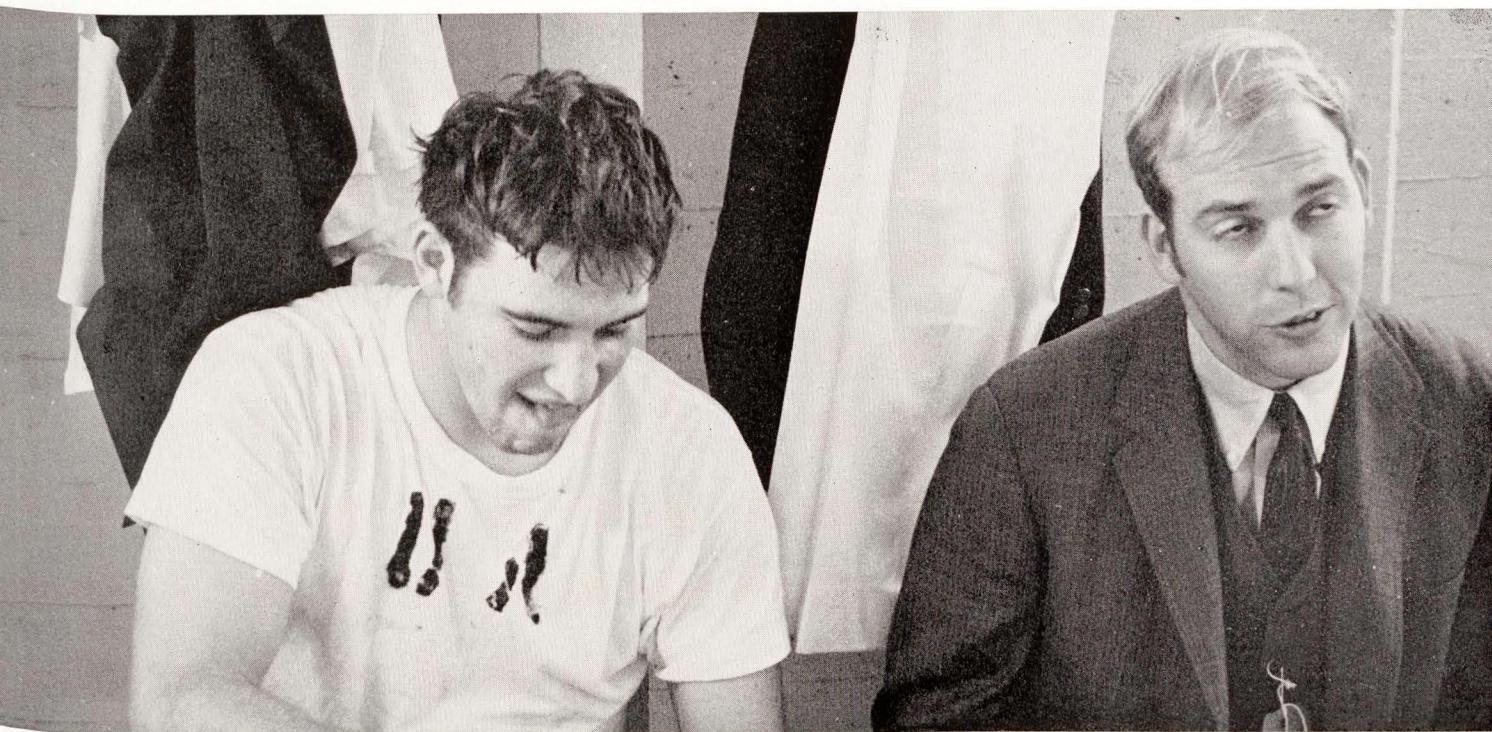

The student directories finally arrived and caused a lot of needless excitement since there is only a 65% chance of ever locating anyone from the information they contain. The directory is a truly classic example of an anthology of misinformation.

WIHC Sponsors Casino Carnival

WIHC and MIHC co-sponsored their annual Casino Carnival which included "gambling" and dancing to the sound of the Dynamic Soul. Since Hot Springs is now about as wild as a revival, this affair made Coed the hottest spot east of Las Vegas.

A few days Coed was even hotter when an electrical fire destroyed one of the resident's room.

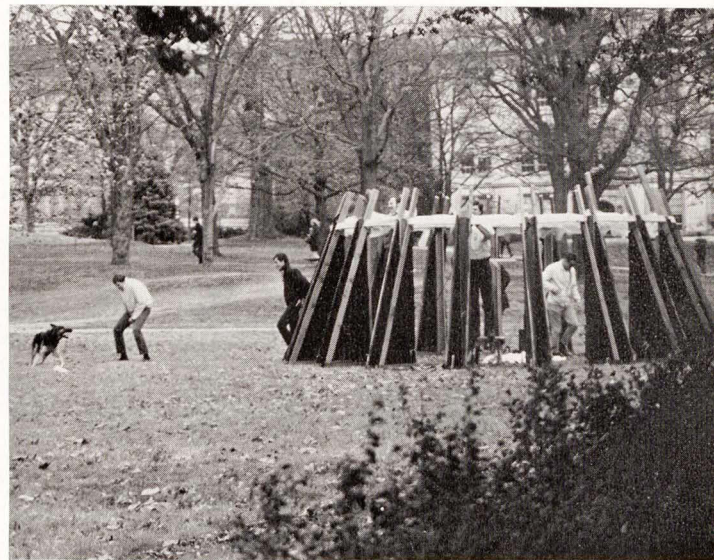

The Razorbacks were in the limelight once again when Jim Barnes made the AP's All-America first team and Broyles was named SWC's Coach of the year.

The Who's Who Selection Committee named the 34 students selected for this honor. As usual the only people satisfied with the selection were the winners.

If you can pick out the boy you win the $64,000,000 question.

Everyone is hoping this girl will loose her shirt.

Due to the sudden increase of SSOC members and other forms of spooky people on campus, the architects had to build a new fruit-bowl.

Hogs Prepare For Sugar Bowl

After narrowly missing a trip to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl, the Razorbacks found themselves the recipients of an invitation to meet a group of Bulldogs in New Orleans. Students who only a few weeks ago were heartbroken over missing the Cotton Bowl, quickly lined up for tickets and made plans to meet at Pat O'Briens. It may have been a second choice but Dallas doesn't have a French Quarter and that was plenty of compensation.

Holiday "Spirit" Flows Freely

The parties for underprivileged children gave these students a chance to regress back to their childhood, which really isn't very far.

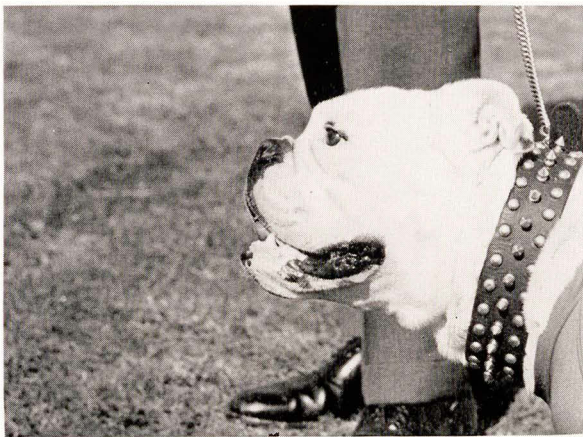

Students found many opportunities to show their seasonal spirit as the campus social calendar was infested with a multitude of Christmas formals and other assorted forms of revelry. The holiday season was also a time for thinking of others. The annual Singfony was held with the proceeds going to the United Fund and the trophies found new homes with the Chi O's, Off Campus Men and the men of Yocum Hall. Virtually every living group also sponsored a party for underprivileged children. Due to the shortage of slums in Fayetteville, well-behaved urchins were in short supply. The senate staged a Community Christmas Tree lighting in front of Old Main and made the Kappa Sigs jealous.

There were many fine parties at the convalescent home this year.

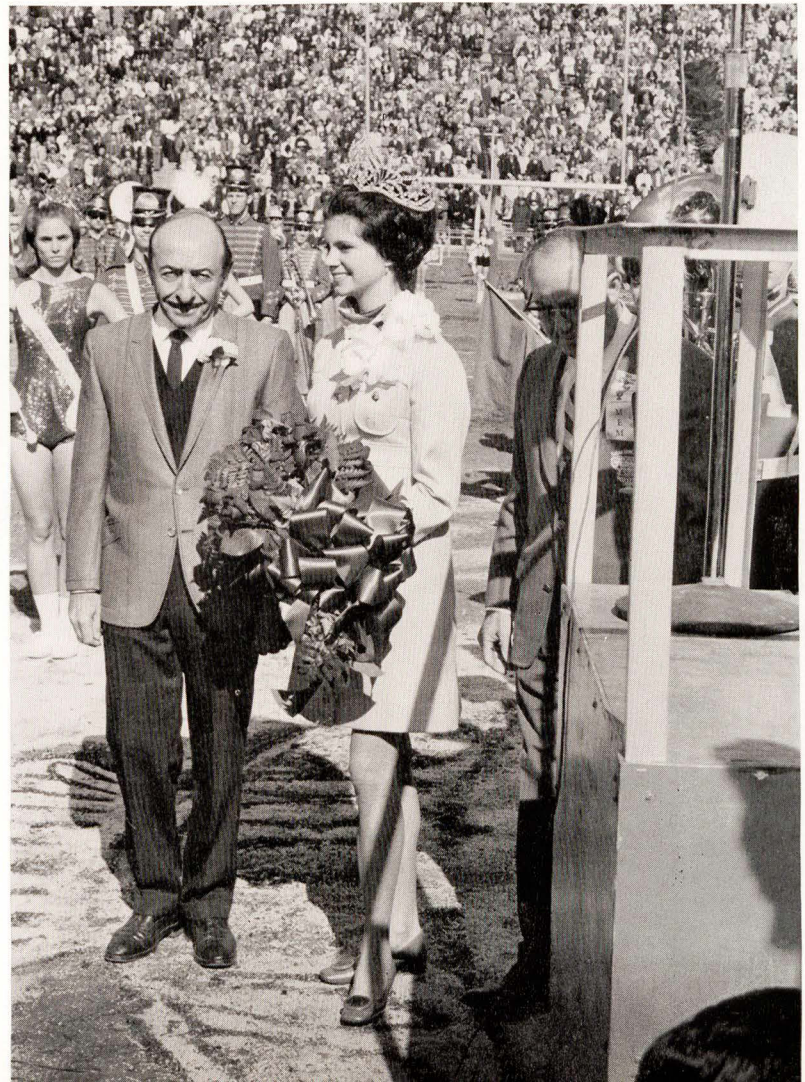

1969 Named "Year Of The Hogs"

For many students the Sugar Bowl Game was not New Orleans prime attraction.

Portrait of a loser.

Just because you're the queen doesn't mean you'll rate a royal escort.

For many spectators this was a very "refreshing" afternoon.

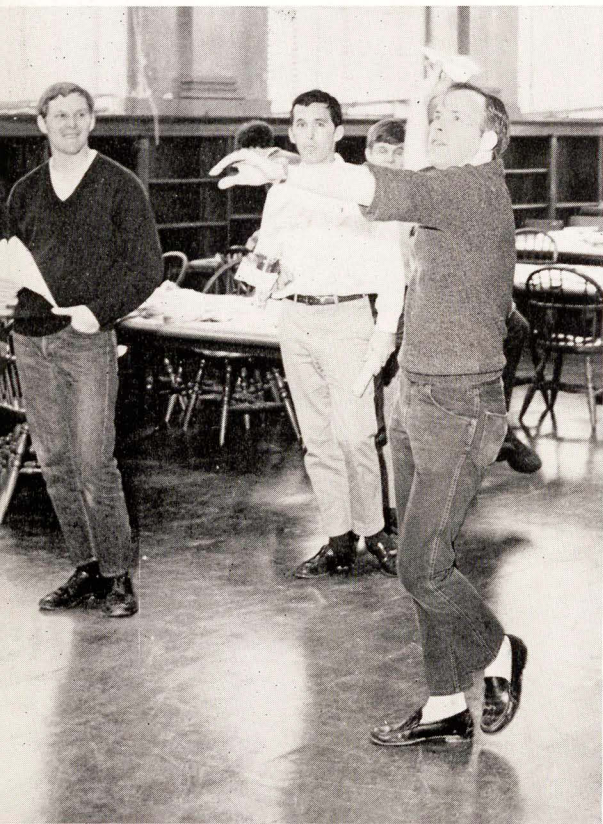

Duh, when the big hand is on four . . . mmmm

"This team believed it could do anything," remarked Broyles, and after the Hogs upset the Georgia Bulldogs 16-2 in the 35th annual Sugar Bowl Classic everyone else believed it too. The Hog's win saved 1969 from going to the dogs as Arkansans quickly proclaimed it the "year of the Hogs."

Razorback fans had begun migrating down from the hills the weekend before the game and arrived in the New Orleans sporting the dubious honor of having been picked as the under-dog by a majority of the sportscasters. Despite these prophesies the call of Whoo-Pig-Sooie echoed through the streets of the French Quarter where fans were busily refreshing their spirit. On a New Years Day that dawned damp and cold fans watched delightedly as the Razorbacks showed the nation just exactly who was the real under-dog.

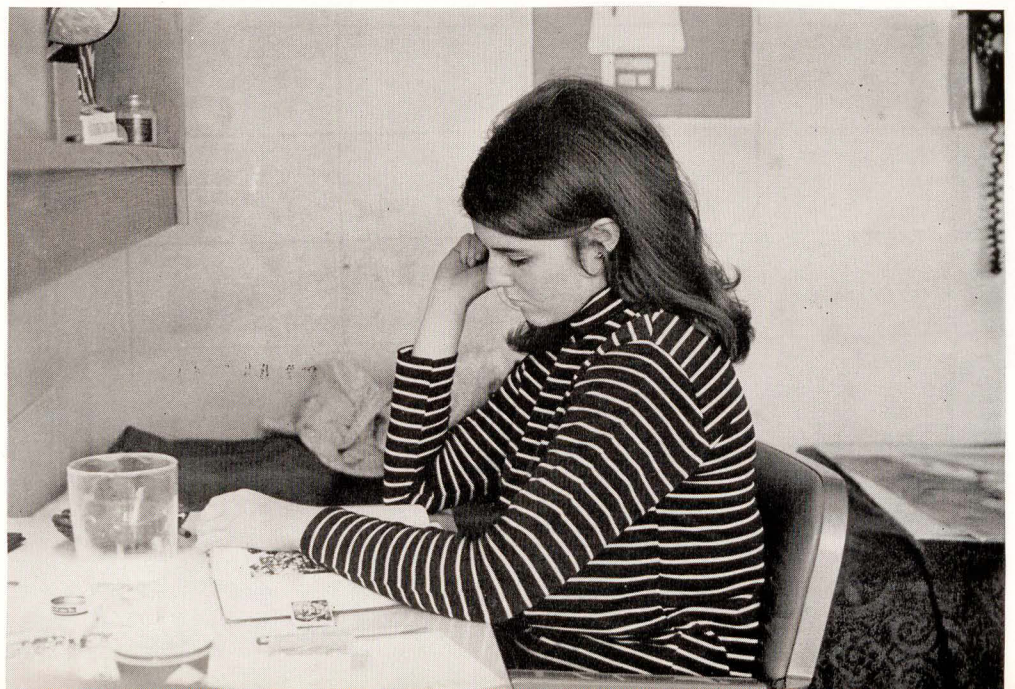

The Hogs outstanding performance netted Arkansas its first Sugar Bowl victory in history and a berth in the top ten polls.

"You'd think that with all these books I could find at least one lusty chapter."

These boys are pursuing one of the many pleasures of higher learning.

Some people who had been allergic to books all year had to dust off the cobwebs from their desk and try to succeed at finals.

These children are about the only things that swing at Carlson Terrace.

Finals Threaten Campus Morale

After their revelries in New Orleans, many students found that it took great moral fortitude to force themselves to return to the hill. A mild depression swept the campus as everyone was suddenly struck with the realization that finals were lurking around the corner, and they were a semester behind in their courses. With the strong motivational factor of finals in its favor, the campus library suddenly became the action spot on campus. Meanwhile its namesake on Dixon Street suffered from a severe lack of people partly induced by the ABC's recently adopted habit of arriving unexpectedly and inviting patrons on a guided tour of the Fayetteville jail.

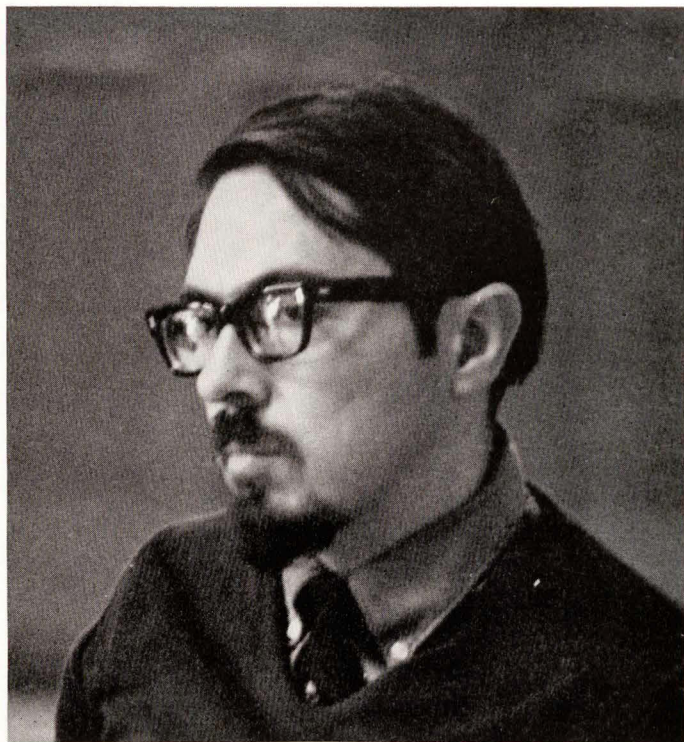

Charles H. Murphy, president of Murphy Oil Corporation, was the guest speaker at commencement exercises which conferred degrees on 1,150 University students.

In an attempt to make residence hall living more appealing, the administration announced that as of the 1969-70 academic year all dorms would be operating under four year programs thereby abolishing freshman dorms. The Housing Office also intends to play a form of musical beds and establish two co-educational dorm complexes by switching girls to previously male dominated Humphrey's Hall and assigning boys to the feminine domain of Hotz Hall.

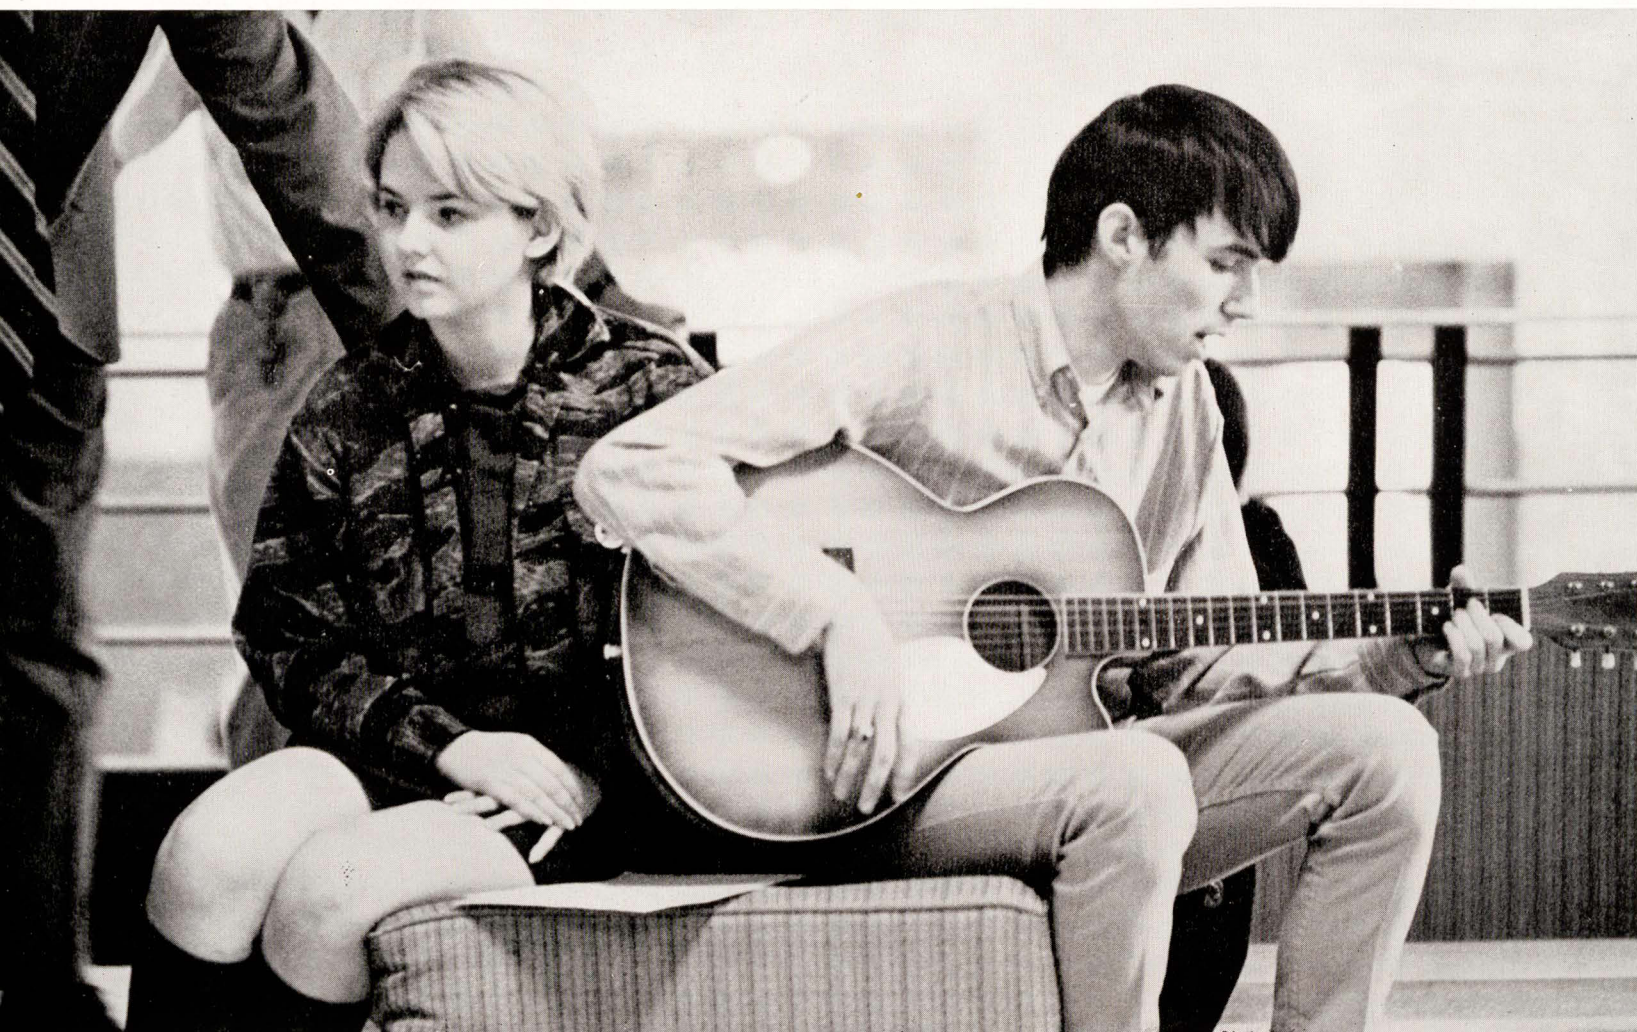

Napalm Triggers SSOC Protestors

SSOC lived up to its responsibility of keeping the campus interesting by staging a sit-down in protest of Dow Chemical's participation in the manufacturing of Napalm for use in the Vietnam war. Many students who sought to see the Dow representative thought that the really neat place to stage a sitdown would be on top of the protesters.

The Arkansas legislative bodies passed a bill to authorize the merger of the University and Little Rock University. The Merge will be official if the general assembly will pass a sufficient appropriation of funds. Panic swept the campus with this announcement as students worried that all the games might be played in L. R.

Open House Program Outlined

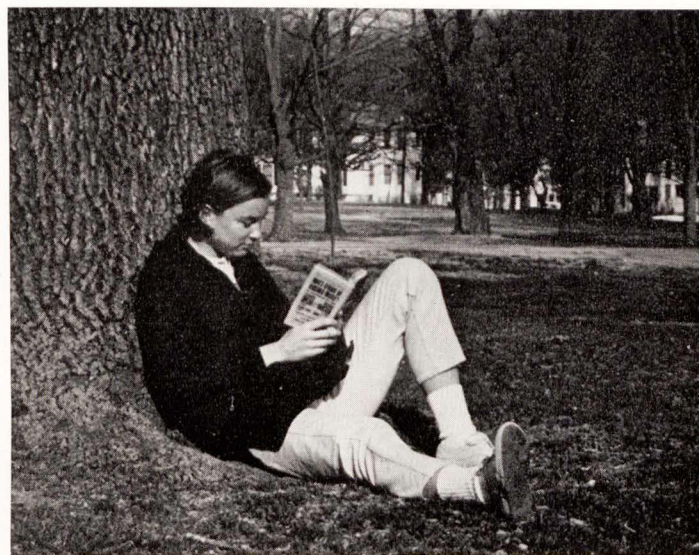

Holcombe Hall opened Pandora's box by proposing the adoption of an open house policy that would allow residence hall members the privilege of entertaining members of the opposite sex in their rooms during regulated times. If the policy is adopted it will really be "lust or bust" on the hill.

Mack McLarty once again showed that as a president he could accomplish what no one else can when he managed to make it to Washington to attend the 17th annual Presidential Prayer Breakfast. Our hero George Lease only made it as far as Nashville where his plane was grounded because of fog.

"I hope my roommate doesn't catch me reading this."

Rivers Is Financial Success

"I've never attended college, but I'm doing it now — one a night," laughed Johnny Rivers after completing the first successful concert since last September. Rivers played before an audience of 3,100 in Barnhill fieldhouse netting a profit for the University of $1,400. Incense was burned during his performance to create atmosphere.

Bridal Fair Delights Coeds

At the Bridal Fair everyone got married in white.

A Bridal Fair, sponsored jointly by AWS and the Arkansas Union, gave coeds a chance to view the latest in wedding fashions, china and all the other things that girls come to college to obtain. Many girls who have their hearts set on a Mrs. degree but lacked any real prospects found the whole fair a very frustrating experience.

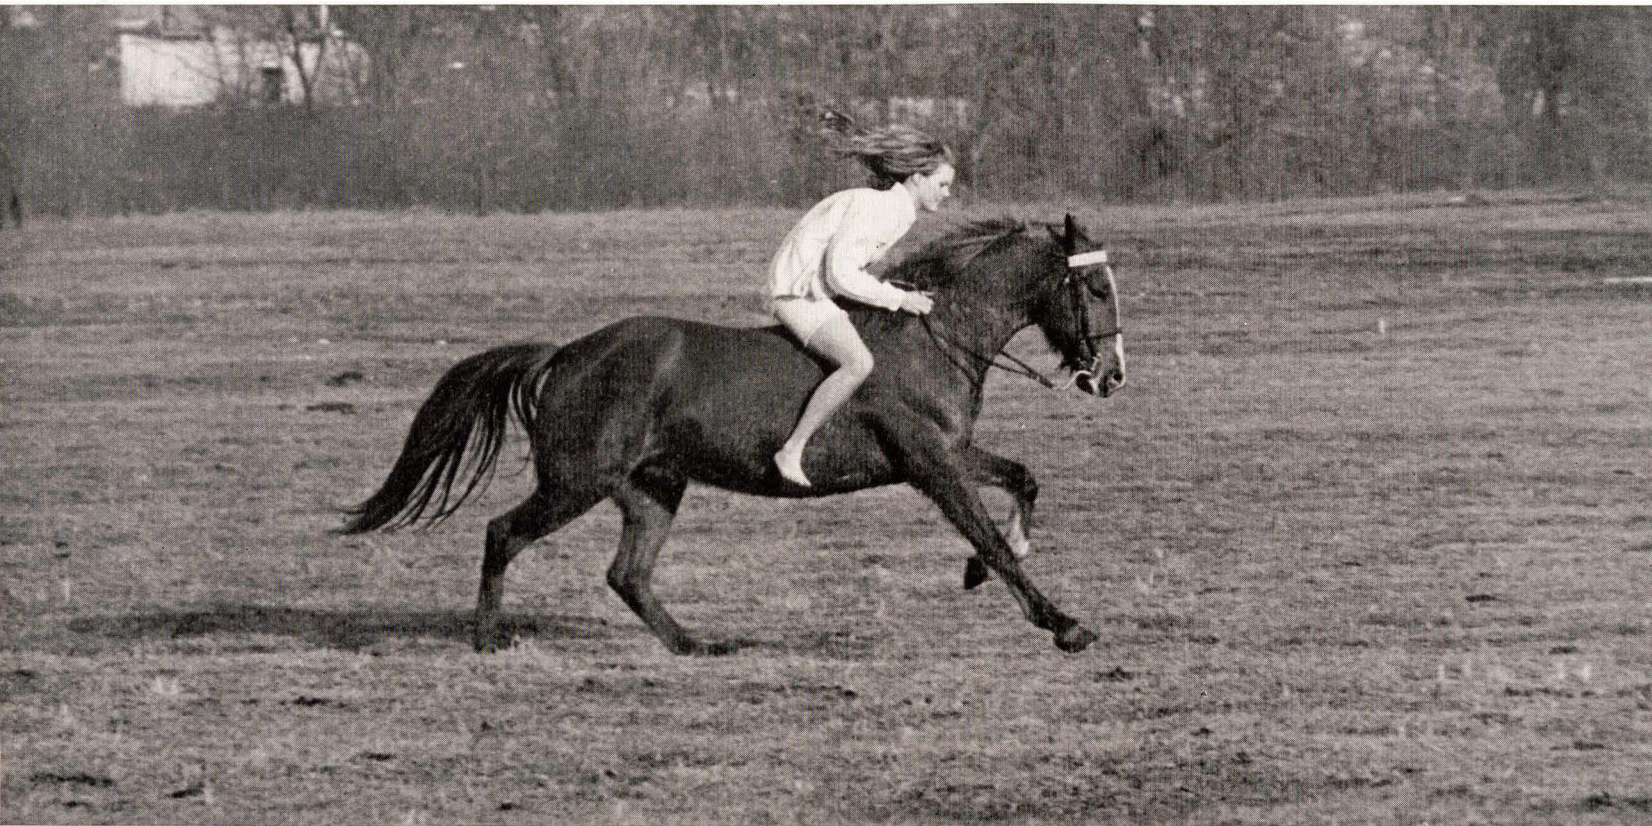

The Psychology department received accreditation for its doctoral program in Clinical Psychology from the American Psychological Association. The University thus becomes one of only about 65 institutions in the nation to be accredited.

Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity received their national charter and plan to initiate 30 men.

Now all she needs is a man.

Coed Complex will be renamed in honor of James E. Pomfret, former Vice-President of Business at the University. Many students felt that Pomfret Complex sounded like a freudian term for a severe mental hang-up of some type.

The student senate heard a report of the reasons that the proposed trial transit run scheduled for this spring should be discarded. Most students met this announcement with undisguised disgust since there is virtually no rationale that really makes them forget their aching feet.

These architects are getting ready to fly . . . airplanes.

ROTC's Fate Causes Controversy

Compulsory ROTC once again found itself the target of a vigorous attack that sought to abolish it as a requirement for graduation for all males. President Mullins appointed a Faculty Senate committee to examine the proposed voluntary ROTC program. While Mullin's committee was busy pondering the question, the Students for Voluntary ROTC were busy collecting the signatures of 2,000 students who sympathized with their position, and convinced the student senate to pass a bill calling for a student referendum on the issue. Many students held grave doubts as to the interest the committee might have in student opinion since it has never proved itself as a powerful motivational factor upon the workings of the university. The SSOC, as usual, took a more militant stand, and decided that rather than try to influence the committee they would deny its legitimacy.

Despite the raging controversy, one group found that ROTC can be fun. Without needing to call a referendum or circulate a petition, one could accurately assume that it was the unanimous sentiment of the Exhibition platoon of the Pershing Rifles to consider their impending trip to the Mardi Gras a "voluntary" act.

Engineers Claim 'Erin Go Braugh'

Having proclaimed both St. Patrick the first engineer since he "engineered" the driving of the snakes from Ireland, and the week of his birth as their domain, a strange form of Irish madness affected the engineering students. Clean-cut, "Establishment" students were suddenly spotted with shaggy growths on their face. Engineers who had previously only spoken English and Profanity were obsessed with painting "Erin Go Braugh" on any available surface. Extremely alien behavior was exhibited by the Dean by dismissing classes. Casting aside the books that had previously been divine, the men gave girls and their structural "engineering" first priority as they sought a new St. Patricia. Engineers spent hours gazing at the brochure that featured pictures of the bikini-clad candidates.

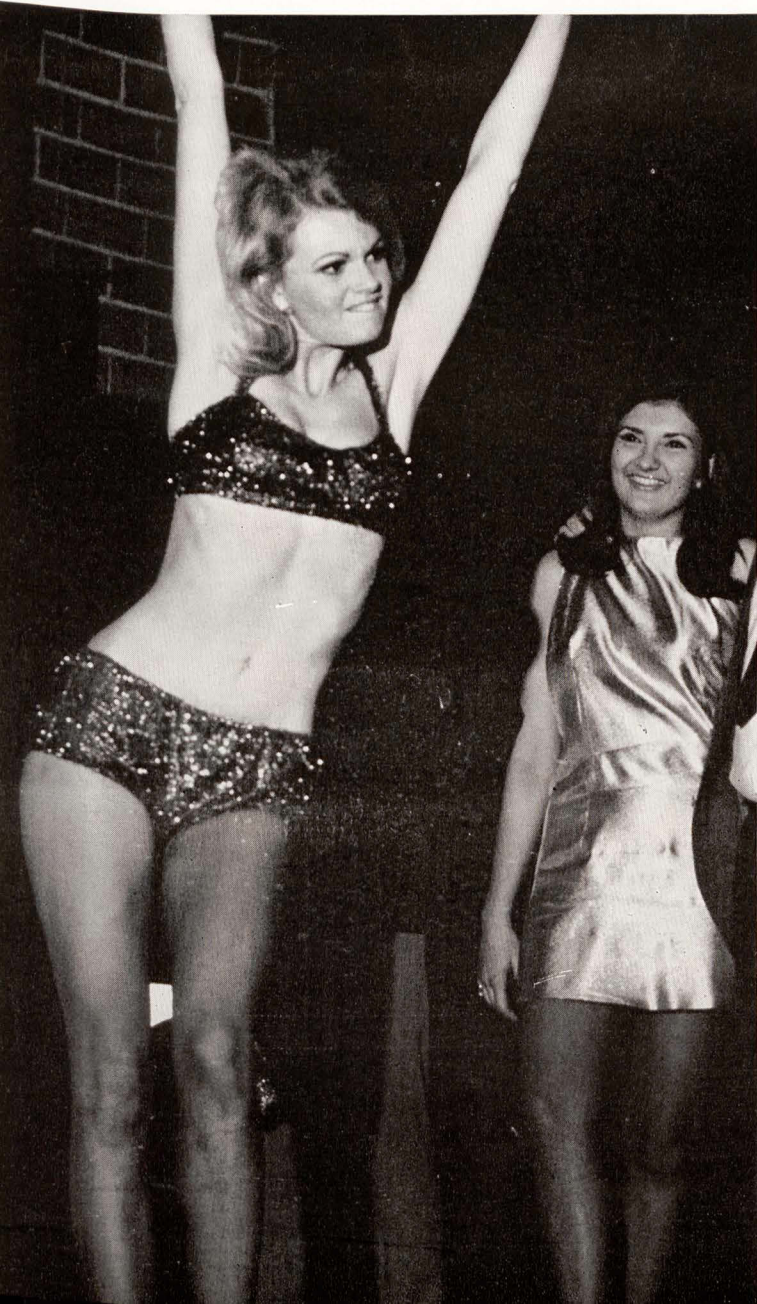

It seems as though this boy hasn't ever felt anything quite like it before.

Violence marks the rational man.

It appears to be a "gay" time, but by the looks of the other scenery it's hard to tell.

It seems as though the Lt. doesn't like sweaty pits.

That could give someone a hardattack.

Freshmen charmed their way into the winner's circle this year.

Captain Terrific was the honored guest at the Engineer's Ball.

Engin Royalty Crowned at Ball

Unfortunately the week did have a serious side necessitated to justify the dismissal of classes. The Engineering Hall of Fame inducted two alumni. Two banquets featured informative speakers and the Engineering Open House included displays and projects.

St. Patricia finalists were chosen by interviews during which the Engineering Council asked lecherous questions like, "What do Virgins dream about?" and the candidate smiled coyly, recrossed her legs, and replied, "I can't remember."

At the Engine Rally each coed sought to project the sexiest image and the men tried to win St. Patrick votes with gross skits. Upon the two most risqué candidates fell the ironic title "saint".

Cool Daddy trying to play Paxton Quigley.

Plowing the south 40 daily paid off for the farmers.

It's obvious why this coed is hiding his face.

AWS Sponsors "Gripe Session"

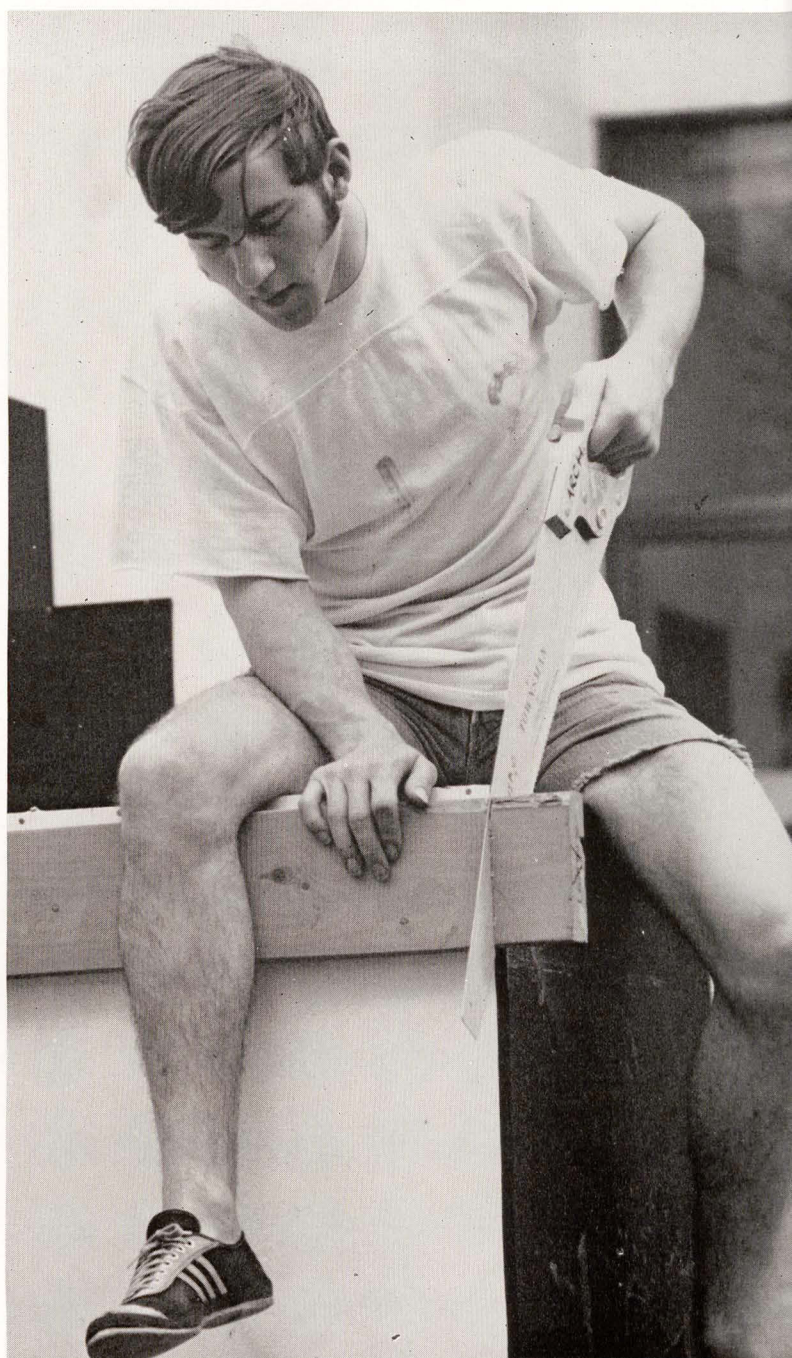

"A girl is going to do what she is going to do anyway, between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m., so why should we have datecall?" This comment was typical of a generalized feeling held by many girls that they deserved more time to do "their own thing". They found an excellent avenue of expression at the first "gripe session" ever held by AWS. A majority of the participants avored a liberalization of the existing rules, but controversy arose as to whether freshman should be included in any new rules. This controversy was a natural outgrowth of the upperclass woman's survival instinct which advises her that a freshman who is well "protected" presents a much smaller temptation to her man.

Trees were really "in" this year.

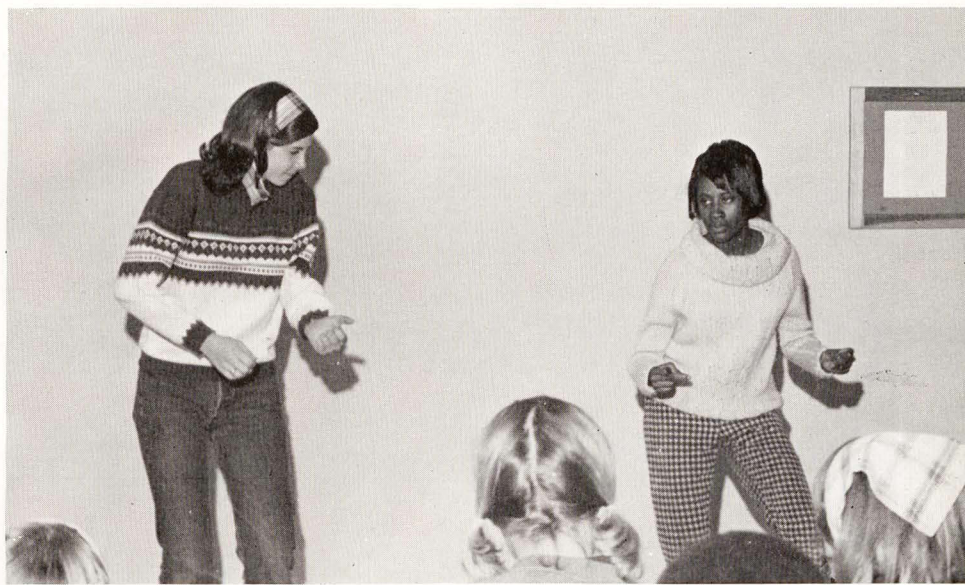

Theta Tau's worked with Abilities Unlimited for their community service project.

For his own sake I hope he knows how to saw.

"Should I go ahead and put Rufus' motel room down?"

Strange, freshman girls love to have jam sessions with each other.

Spring Lifts Students' Morale

A fairly good group of boys went out for cheerleader this year.

It is a well established fact that Fayetteville suffers from a severe shortage of things to do. Despite this realization, the announcement that two UA students were arrested for creating a disturbance at Henderson State College was a shocking reaffirmation of the critical "dulls" that are rampant on the Hill. If our SSOC members, who are notorious for their ability to create something out of nothing, are forced to travel half-way across the state to create a disturbance because of a lack of local campus action, the rest of the student body may soon show the ill effects of stimulus deprivation. Despite the able help of the Civil Liberties Union, each SSOC member was fined $500.

The first public bathroom on campus seemed to be a success.

Mixed Drinks Proclaimed Legal

Nobody knew Hawaiians had soul.

Ah-h-h Spring!

Bill was assigned to cover Greek Week and had to spend several days searching for its activities.

Soul brothers join in entertainment, but not in "Brotherhood."

This boy's face perfectly expressed the excitement that characterized Greek Week.

As most extremely observant students noticed the Greeks had their traditional Week. Things got off to a roaring start with a breath-taking display of Greek brains during their Scholars Bowl. This cerebral circus seemed very much like a re-run when the Acacia's won for the second consecutive year. A dance at the rink highlighted the week and featured untold volumes of hot, humid, smoke-filled air which served as an excellent backdrop for the wall-to-wall bodies. It offered everyone an inside view of life in a sardine can.

Kappa Sigma served what was undoubtedly one of the shortest social probation sentences in UA history. With split-second timing the disciplinary committee suspended the fraternities sentence immediately after it was issued. The sentence was the result of charges filed by three black students concerning acts of verbal and physical harassment by fraternity members.

The legislature passed the mixed drink law and the Gaslight started advertising in the Traveler again.

Symposium '69 provoked much thought — mainly on how to pay for it.

"No, I don't have a date until 10:30."

State Senate Condemns Muhammad

Symposium, Mac's beloved brain-child, celebrated its first birthday and attracted a star-studded cast. Scheduled speakers included Sen. Dan Inouye; Sen. George McGovern, one of the original doves; Edwin Newman, news-broadcaster-and journalist; Sen. Charles Percy, the Republican's "Golden Boy"; Sen. Mark Hatfield, a strong supporter of a Volunteer Army; Sen. Ed Muske, who ran and fell with Humphrey in '68; Dr. William Mrazek, NASA director; and Floyd McKissack, National CORE Director.

Muhammad Ali, former heavyweight champion and now a Black Muslim minister was also a scheduled speaker. Ali, who is currently under indictment for refusing to serve in the Army, had a unique talent for throwing the natives into panic and quickly became the center of heated controversy.

Following the announcement of Ali's impending visit, a letter written by Little Rock Businessmen to Mullins asking him to prevent Clay's appearance touched off many sparks in the State Legislature. Milt Earnhart introduced a resolution to the Senate condemning the scheduled appearance which passed by a close voice vote. Lease and other student officers journeyed to Little Rock, and spoke to many legislators.

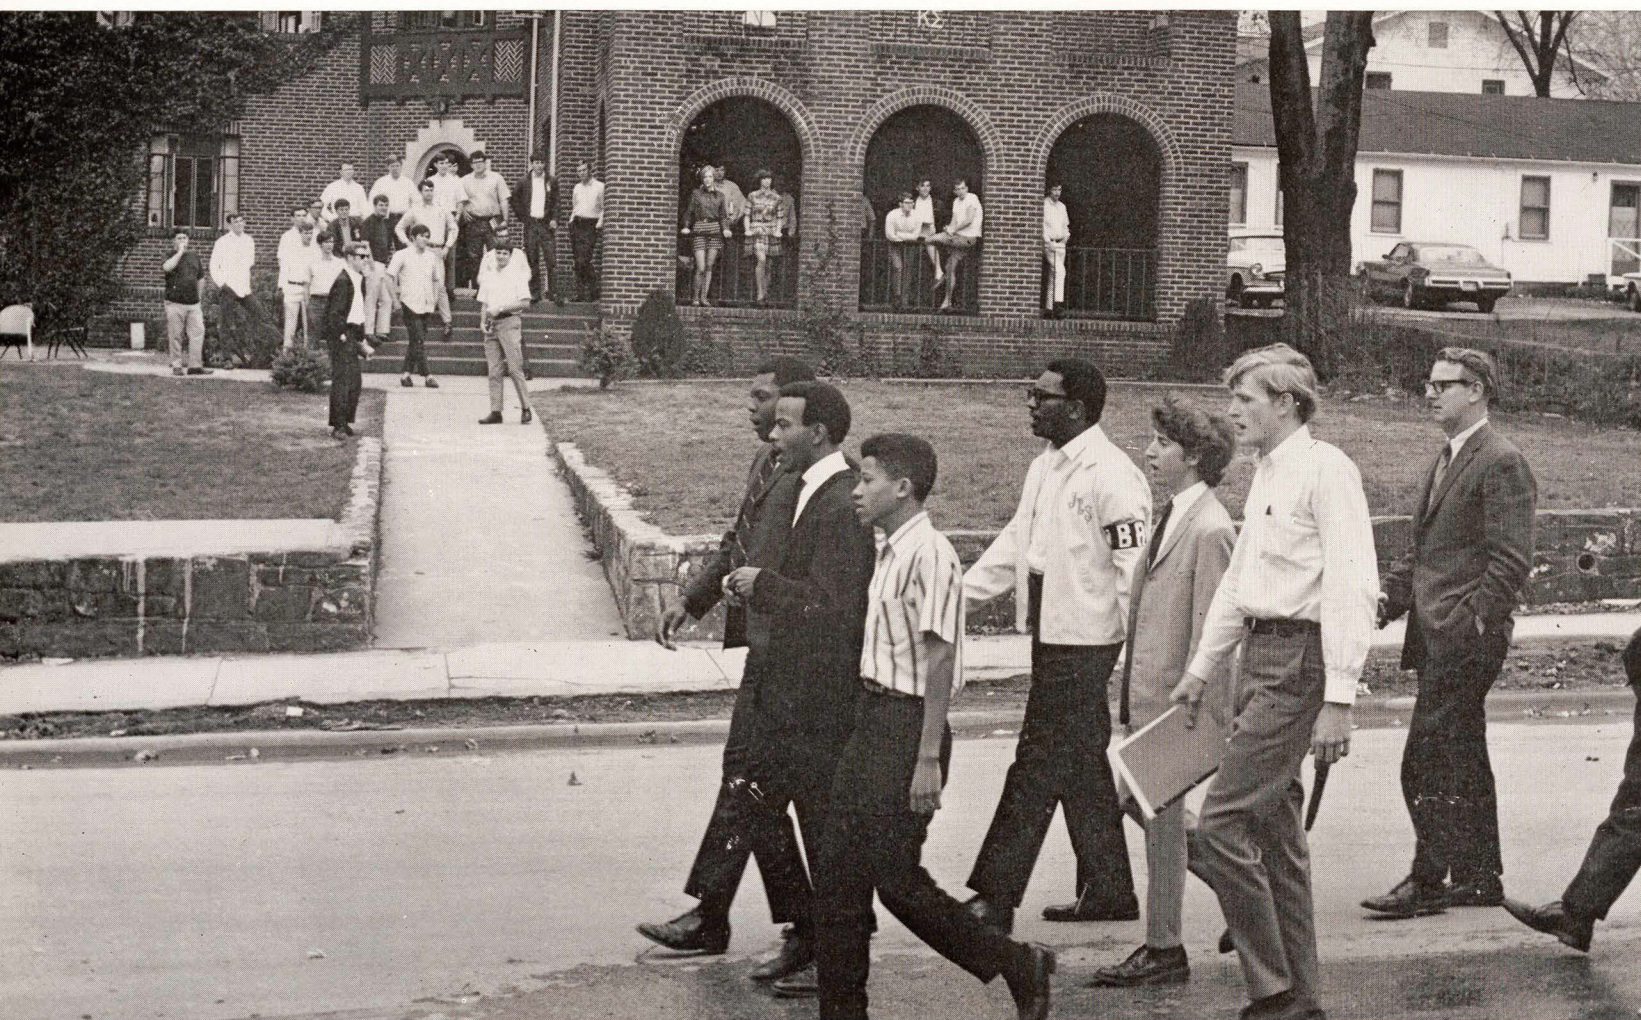

“I Had A Dream . . .” Echoes On Campus

UA Black students, united under the leadership of the Black Americans for Democracy, conducted a short memorial ceremony for the late Dr. Martin Luther King, who was felled by an assassin's bullet a year ago. The ceremony began with a period of silent meditation in front of the old library. A recording of one of Dr. King's speeches was played and an address system resounded with his memorable words, “I had a dream . . .” The ceremony was a moving tribute to one of America's finest men.

The first two recipients of the Martin Luther King Memorial Scholarships were announced. These scholarships are the result of a continuing fund drive begun by concerned UA faculty and students after the assassination of Dr. King.

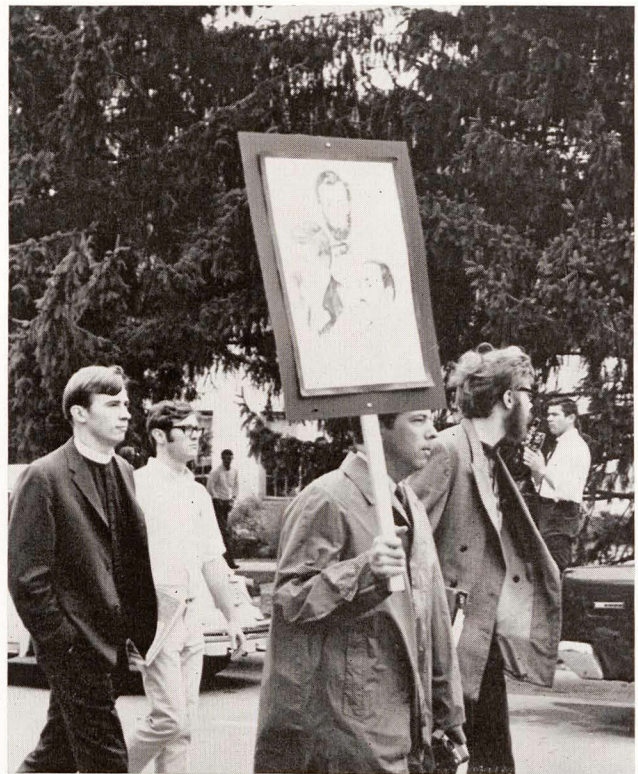

The family that protests together stays together.

Some marched while others watched with open eyes and closed minds.

"It was about this long, and weighed about 50 pounds."

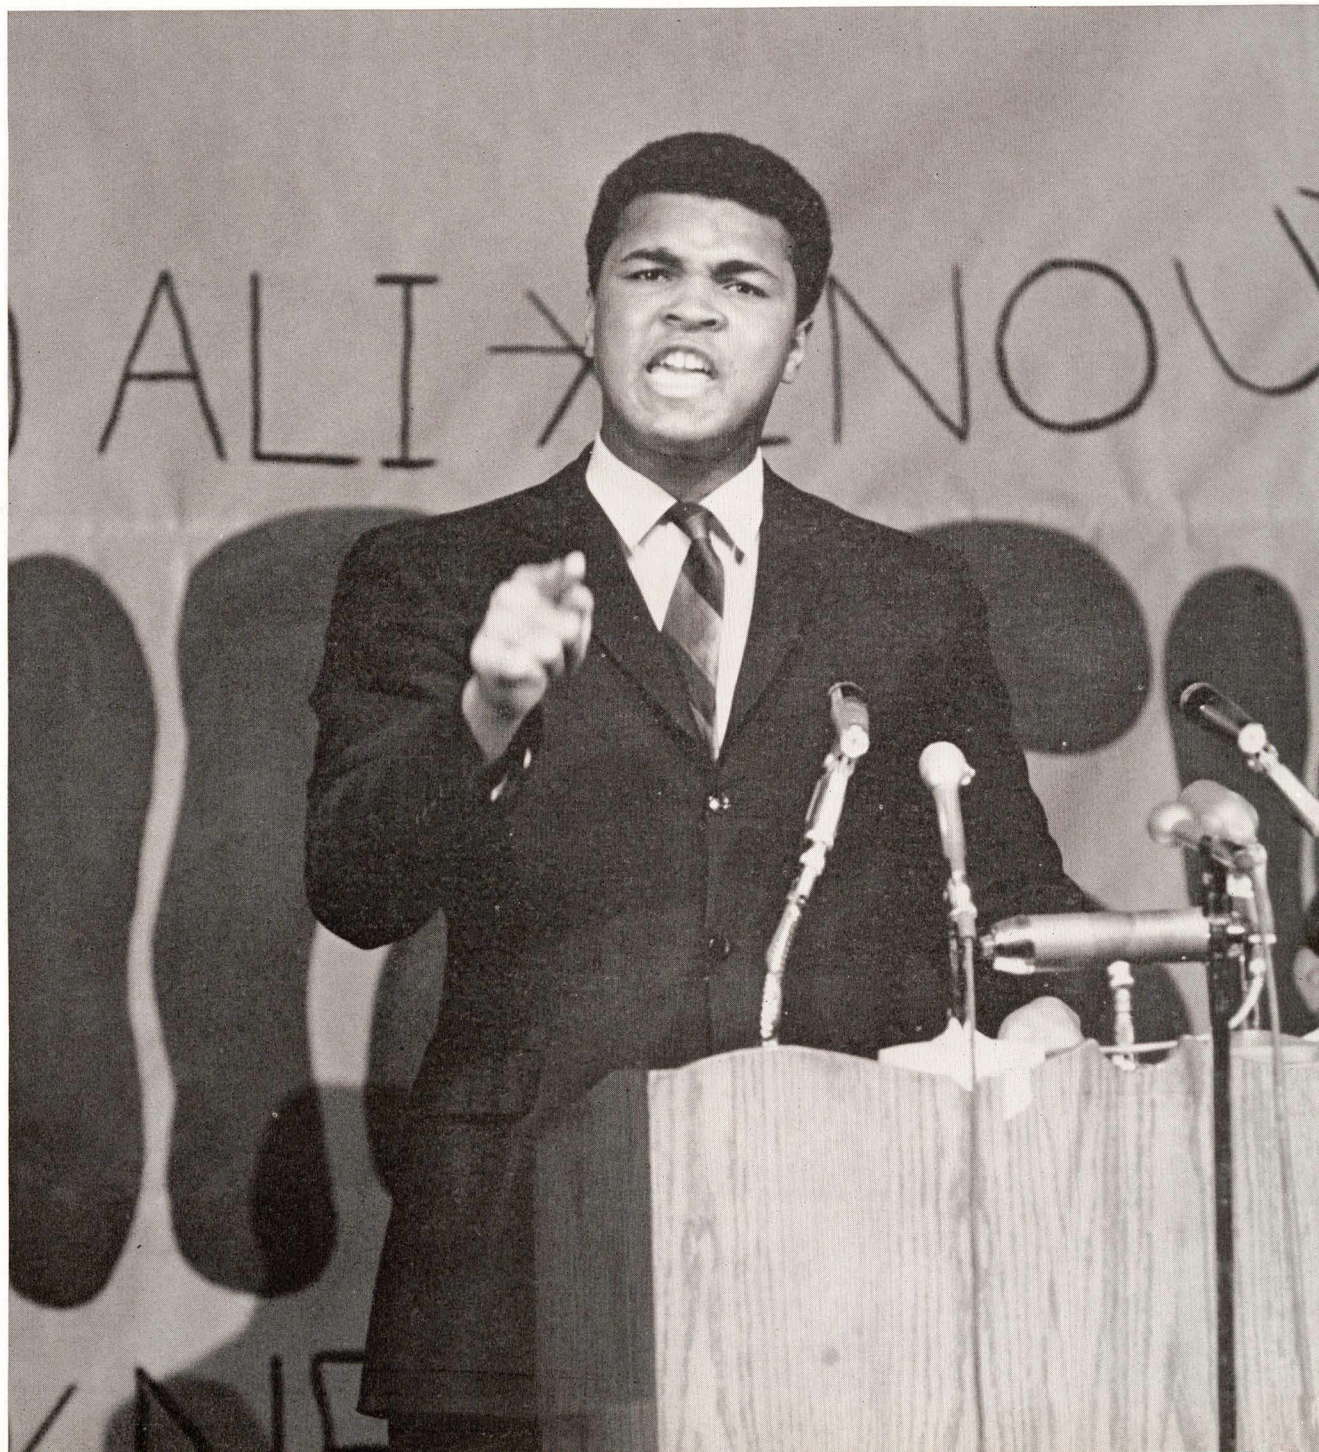

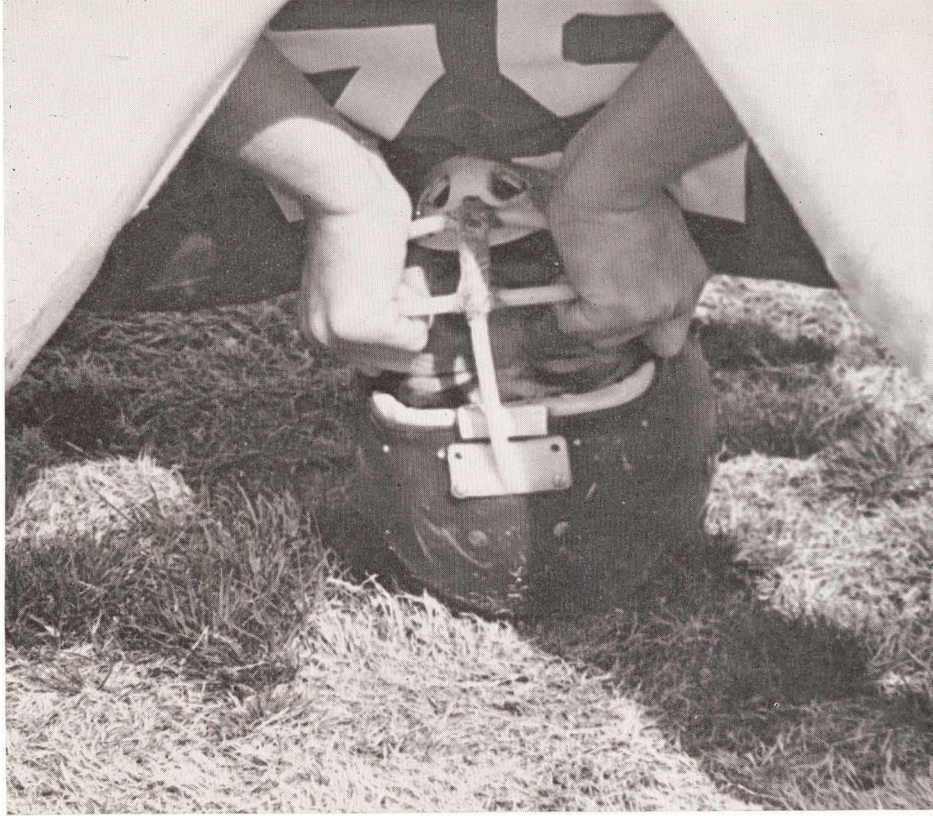

Both faculty and church leaders joined in the march.

UA students expressed their memories and feelings of Dr. King.

Broyles forgot to tell him how to take it off.

Regardless of the controversy, Mohammed delivered a good speech.

Hogs Launch "Fourth Quarter"

Despite the controversy that had swelled around him, and the resolutions and counter-resolutions, Muhammad's actual visit was very amiable. When Ali spoke none were incited to loot or burn as some of the protectors of the faith had feared. In a soft voice he advocated nonviolence and a separate nation for blacks, and gave students a clearer conception of black power.

Foreign students attending the UA are now the proud owners of their own club designed to help them adjust to their new life. The students painted the International Club themselves and Civic clubs donated the furniture. Operating money is supplied by their TV show, "Razorback International".

Boy literally snows girl.

"Ah, come on; it's Saturday night."

Dreaming of the day when those white jerseys will be theirs.

Residence Hall Week Proclaimed

Governor Rockefeller having officially proclaimed it Residence Hall Week, the staging of the first powder puff football game launched Hallaballoo '69. Although the football may have been a shade below Razorback qualify, the girls had better looking legs and an abundance of spirit. The games also featured cheerleaders who resembled the Green Bay Packers' linemen and a rag-a-muffin band.

"The Thing" — an amorphous hootenanny — was held Wednesday night in front of Hotz. Featuring local groups such as The New Creation and The Concern, the program offered a welcome middle of the week diversion. Even some of the Head Residents were caught by the spirit and tried to perform.

"That's a girl?!?"

Coeds were shocked to find out that balls were so big.

Lettermen Captivate Audience

If this girl's parents only knew.

Friday night The Lettermen delighted their concert audience so well they quickly earned two standing ovations. At intermission the Hallaballoo Hostesses were presented to the audience.

Saturday dawned sunny and hall members eagerly made their way to the intramural field to partake of the picnic lunch and participate in the eleven different relay events. These rough, tough, and muddy events offered a wide assortment of torture forms. The Bed Race required speed, stamina, and men with psyche's that can resist the teasing produced when they arrive in a negligee.

"The 5 by 5" played for the Hallaballoo Dance at which the Sweepstakes winners were announced.

With longer hair he would pass for a typical U of A girl.

The ad hoc committee appointed by President Mullins voted 10-3 to recommend a change of compulsory ROTC to a voluntary program to the University Senate. The vote was taken after the committee petitions signed by students favoring a voluntary program. If the Faculty Senate approves the proposal, Voluntary ROTC will occupy a position very similar to being on the fifty yard line with goal to go since the Board of Trustees must also give their stamp of approval.

Women's Organizing Committee, a group of women interested in revising and clarifying AWS rules met and drew up a proposal for rule changes. One major proposed change would allow women to sign out by placing a sealed envelope on the door in case of emergency and the extension of Senior keys to all women was also proposed.

It must have been a long, hard night.

Nineteen scholarships were awarded at the J-Day banquet.

Next to last try at getting a date.

"You'll get no arguments from me, mister; I've always wanted to visit Havana."

Season Of The Sun Worshipers

The Board of Trustees announced that if the legislature fails to raise taxes, the University will face a severe financial crisis which could possibly endanger the UA accreditation. This revelation caused many students to have panic provoked delusions of graduation with a degree that would be about as valuable as the Confederate dollar.

Dr. Robert A. Leflar, professor of law, was named 1968's Arkansas Man of the Year. He was awarded this honor by the ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT's 21st annual poll.

WIHC and MIHC voted to merge into a new organization, Residence Hall Association. This movement is intended to prevent the men and women from working at cross purposes.

As the weather continued to bless the campus with its warm, wonderful sunshine a tan suddenly emerged as the most desired campus commodity. Every living group sprouted its share barely clad lilly white bodies who were prepared to suffer for their "coppertone" tan. Motorcycles which had been cruelly shunned all winter suddenly found themselves the object of a great deal of loving care since they were now rated as a most superior means of transportation. The words Weddington and Beaver were synonymous for fun. Every day seemed a perfect day — perfect that was for anything except class.

Coeds Vote For Proposed Rules

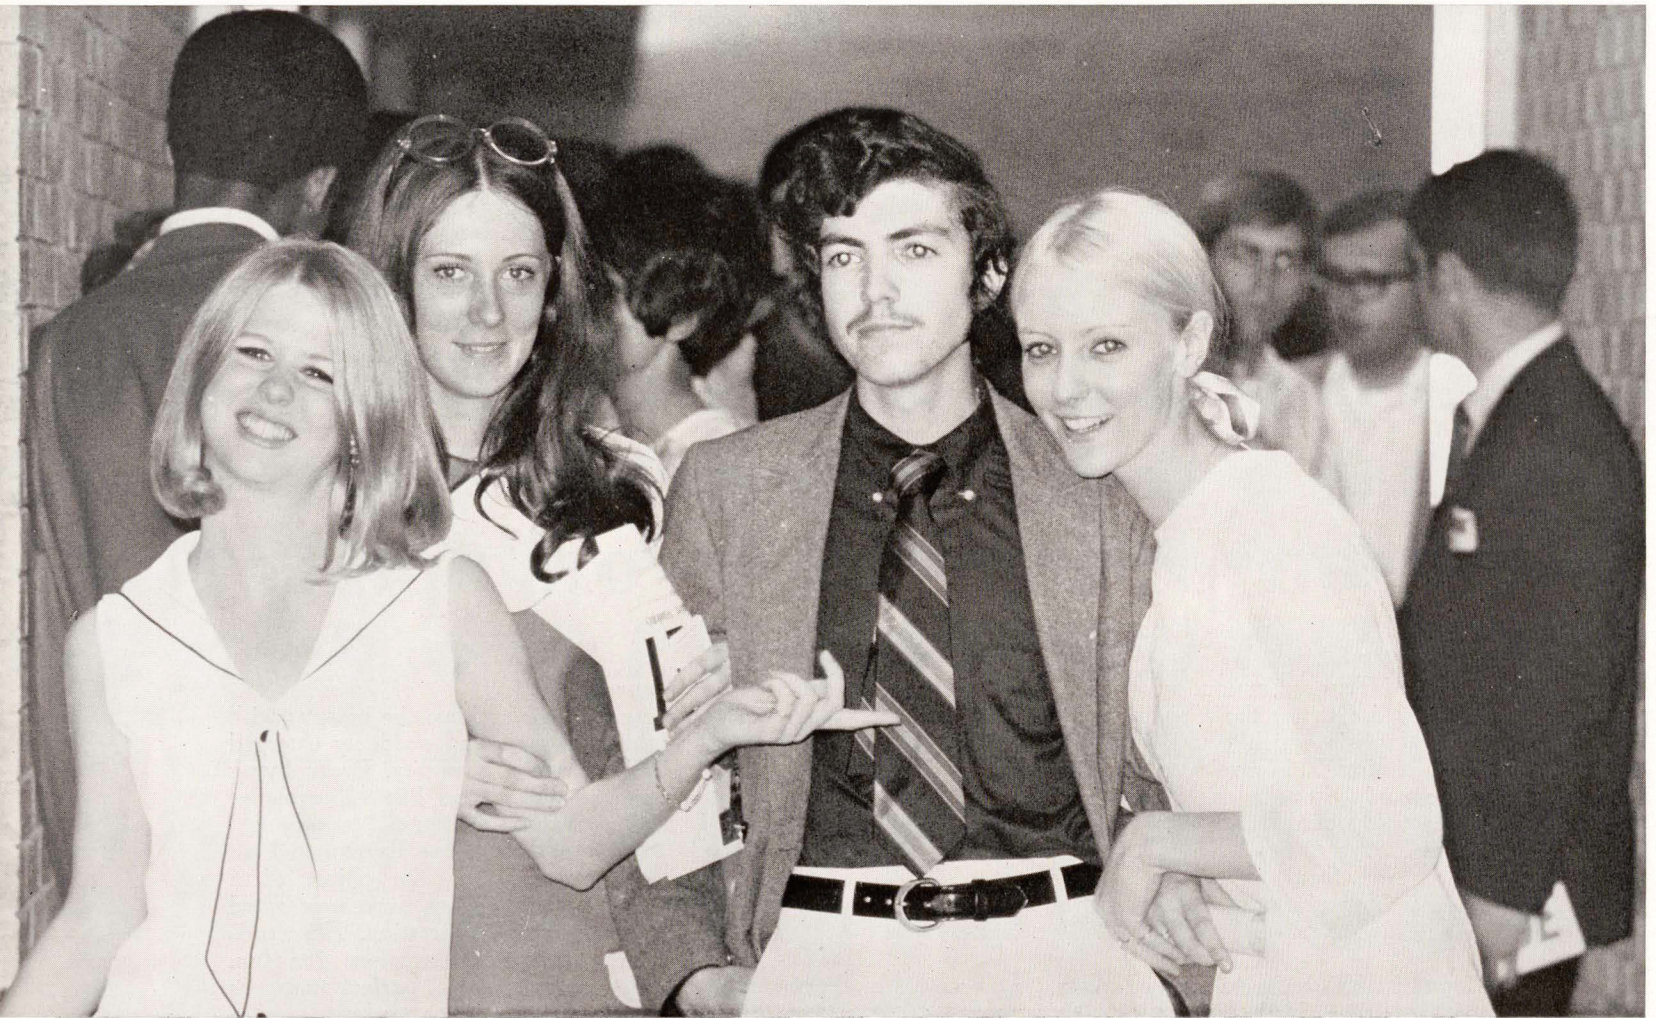

The UofA chapter of the Civil Rights Research Council formed an advisory committee on selective service. Both the council and the committee are headed by UofA law students. The committee was formed because the Council felt there was a need for intelligent explanation of the draft laws. Unfortunately this committee will not be able to help the really desperate students who are frantically looking for advice about how to develop an ulcer before next week's induction physical.

A croquet match was staged on the mall in front of Old Main. The players, however, were far more interesting to watch than the game.

Coeds overwhelmingly voted to adopt the proposed revised AWS rules which included extension of the card key system to all women and no sign-out.

Yep, he's from Arkansas.

W. D. will do it!

Following revision of the election code, apathy was displayed by all.

AWS Sponsors Spring Festival

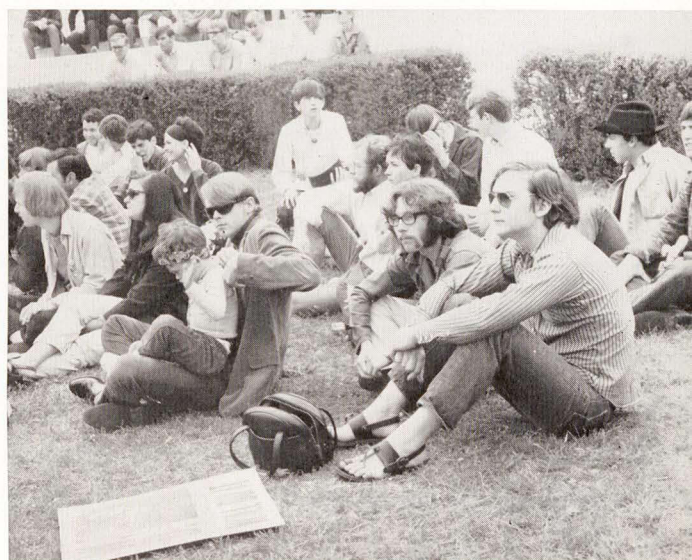

AWS sponsored its annual Spring Festival at which time new Chimes, Cardinal Key and Mortar Board members were tapped. As usual the Chimes cried and hugged, the Cardinal Keys struggled to keep their upperclass cool, and the Mortar Board members sadistically whipped their new tapes with roses.

For the first time in the last few years freshmen were allowed to visit sorority houses. 500 freshmen women participated in the open houses of the nine sororities. This program will enable those girls who flunk out this spring and never return to rest contented having had the experience of walking in those hallowed halls.

"I've never seen such dandruff!"

"I beseech you — fulfill my sexual desires."

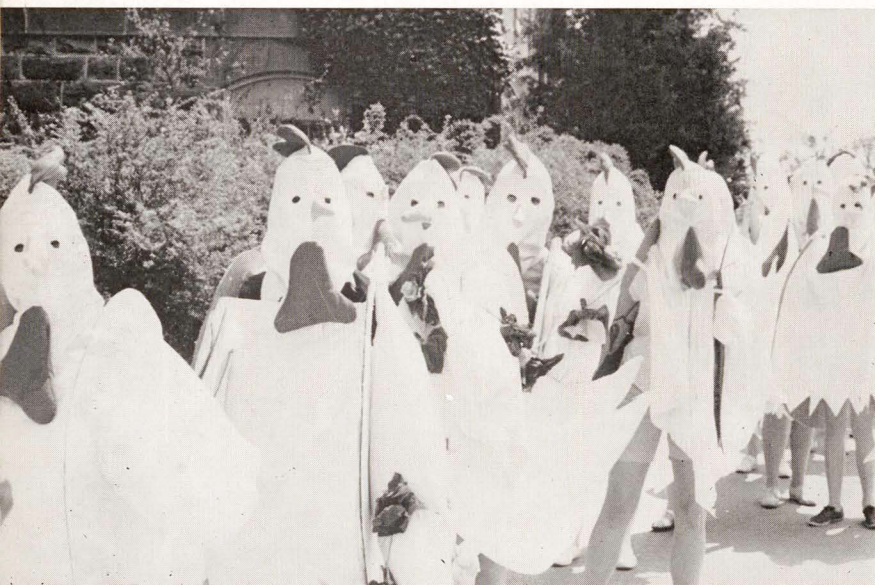

Look! That guy carries a purse!

Protester Arrested By Police

Stephen Pollard felt that the Vietnam war was wrong so he took the only logical step he could to cure this evil — he climbed a large tree in front of the Union and proceeded to take up residence. Stephen's perching protest attracted a lot of attention, some of which was malicious. Pollard soon found himself the target of vocal threats, bottles, eggs and other objects. The campus cops decided this was too tense. They evicted him from his tree and gave him a home in the jail. After Pollard left the protest turned into a game of musical trees. Only one day after his arrest four different groups had occupied the tree.

With Wyck's win and four kegs, what more could the Kappa Sig's want?

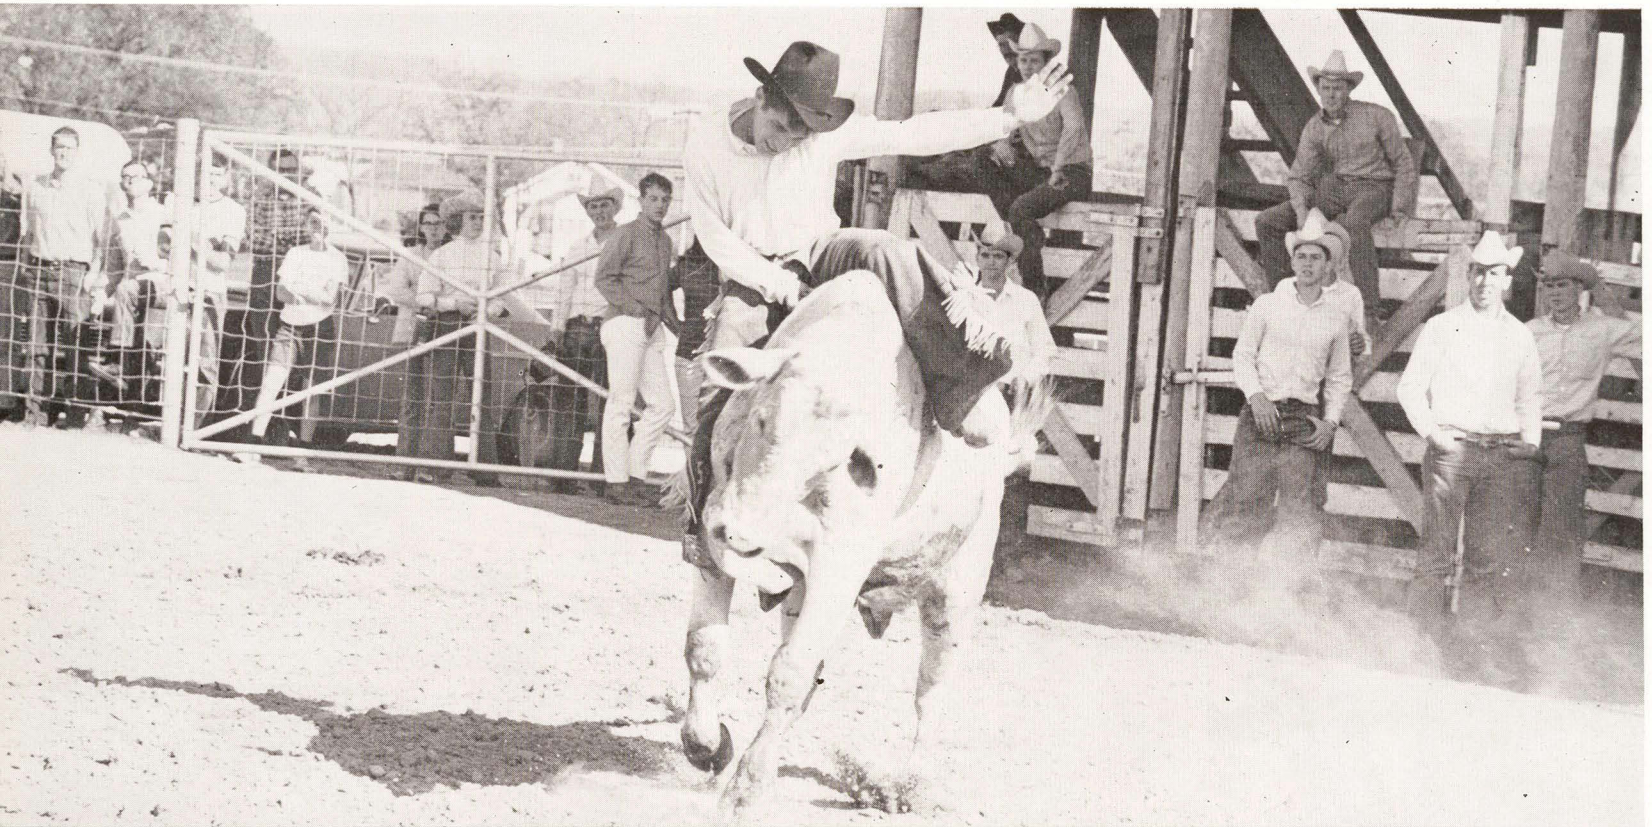

Due to the limitations imposed by new campaign rules that severely reduced the amount of money each candidate could spend and prohibited any campaigning from cars, elections '69 lacked much of the enthusiasm that usually typifies this week. W. D. Blackman added a certain spark to the campaign when he announced that he wanted to make verbal love to the student body and called himself a super-laxative who would unclog the campus and student government. The student body rejected his bid for the presidency and chose Jo Martin to be the first girl to win the post. Jo captured the presidency from Tim Boe by a surprisingly wide margin of 534 votes.

And laying a finger beside her nose, up the political chimney she rose.

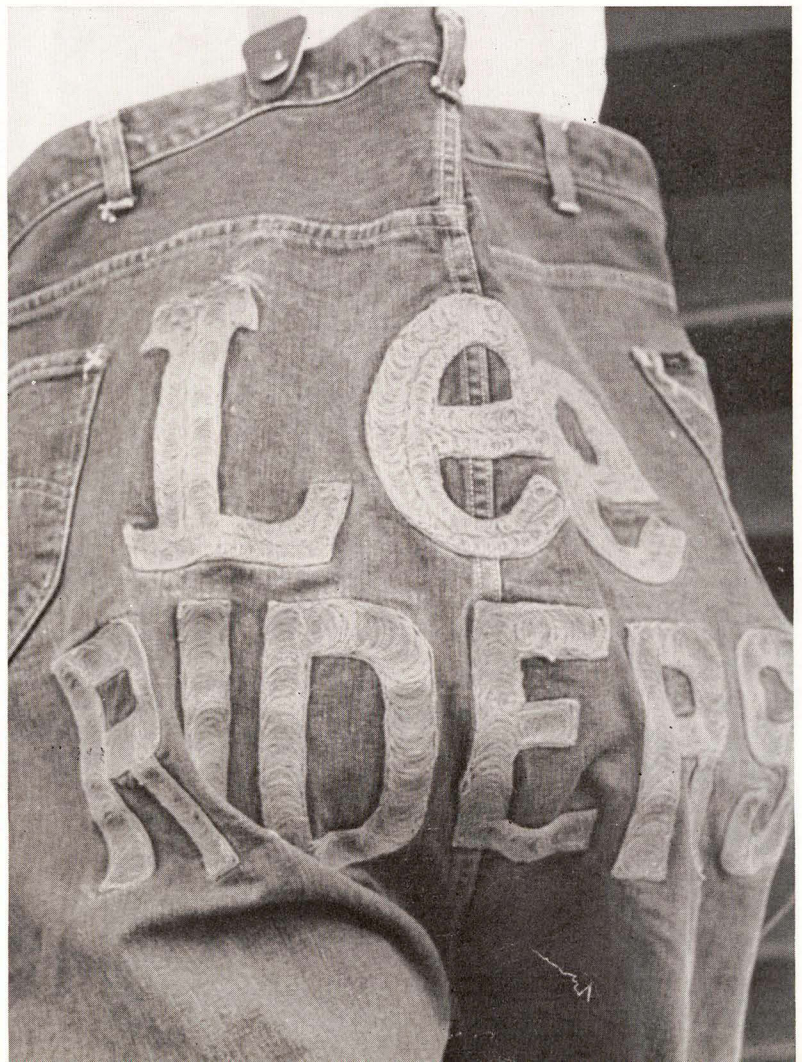

BAD Sponsors Black Emphasis Week

Butter butt.

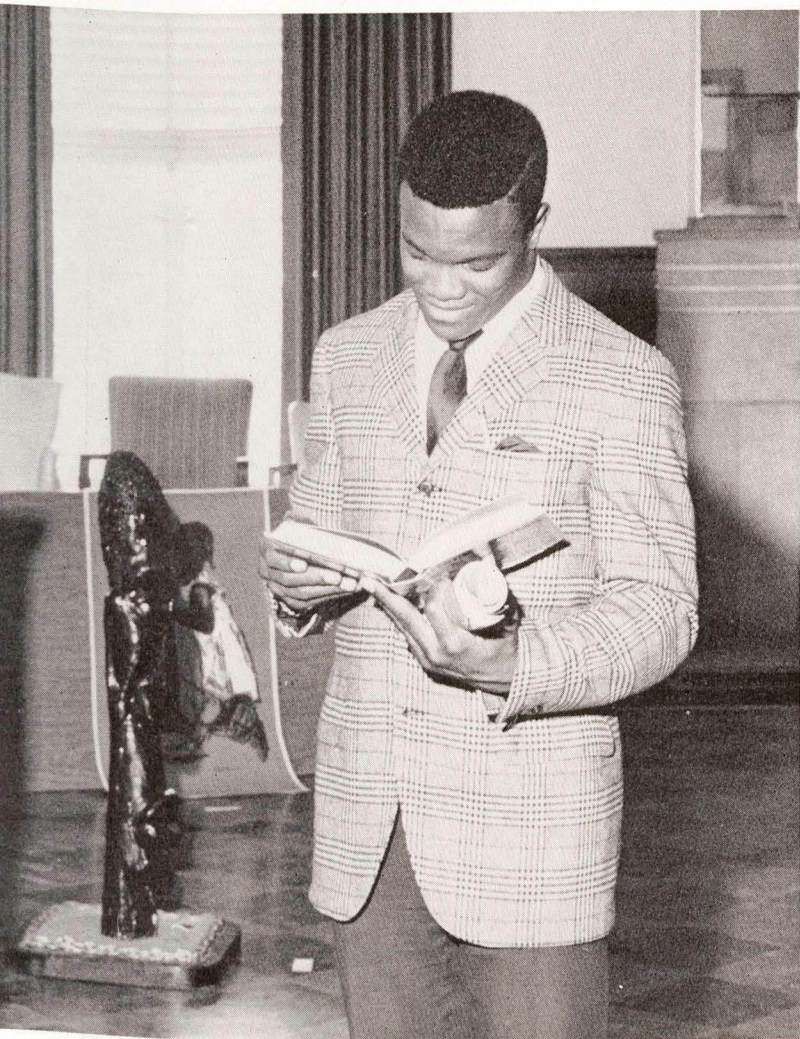

"Aren't you glad she used Dial? Don't you wish all girls did?"

What can one say about a farmer's ass?

"I thought they said this was gonna be soul music."

Black Emphasis Week featured exhibits of Negro art, history, literature, music and leaders.

A new dimension was added to campus activities with the instigation of Black Emphasis Week. Exhibits of Black art, history and literature were displayed in the Union. A style show featuring clothes that showed the influence of African design and a talent show were also held by black students. These activities were designed to reflect the Black image and culture through art.

Demonstrations were staged in front of Old Main protesting mandatory ROTC at the University. The protest came during the annual Army ROTC federal inspection. The demonstrators carried signs such as, "War is unhealthy for children and other living things." Despite their attempts to distract the cadets, the famous Army organization held firm and drill ran according to schedule.

The referendum issue on last Thursday's ballot was passed by the student body. This reapportionment bill will make student government more effective since senators will be chosen from their living group areas and will be a great aid to the independent power search.

Freshman Shannon Martin walked away as the new Miss UofA.

"Where are MY roses?"

The only feminine thing missing here is Walter Slaughter.

"At that price YOU should come with the Coke."

Shannon Martin Named Miss UofA

Following a pre-meditated plan, crowds of 75 to 100 panty raiders swarmed Hotz, Fulbright and Reid. The boys were thrown underwear, eggs, water balloons and toilet tissue. Outnumbered, the campus police could only watch and later disperse their frustration by increasing their parking ticket activity.

Alpha Phi Omega announced that they would sponsor an Ugly Man On Campus Contest at the Gaebale carnival. Most Coeds had at least one special date they felt truly deserved this honor.

Astro-Turf, a new all-weather, moisture-proof, synthetic surface playing field will be installed in Razorback Stadium. Arkansas will be the first Southwest Conference school to go to this new artificial grass.

Gaebale '69 Kick-Off was held in the Greek Theatre. Emceed by Randy Marshall and Steve Millin, the program featured the best of campus talent and an abundance of gross jokes. Nan Castleberry, current Miss UofA, introduced the coeds who were seeking to be her successor. W. D. Blackman took this opportunity to announce his intentions of retiring from politics permanently. After listening to his rousing oratory many students felt that they may have miscast their votes. W. D. also was successful in grossing out several parents who had mistakenly wondered into this affair.

Steppenwolf Heads Gaebale Concert

Gaebale '69 featured the traditional Miss UofA pageant. The freshmen came out top dogs for once as one of their rank garnered the top honors and the crown to the dismay of the upperclassmen.

Gaebale went into full swing with the Swinging '69 party. The Merging Traffic played for this costume dance held at the fair grounds.

Saturday's activities featured a concert by Steppenwolf, who showed a noticeable lack of interest in entertaining anyone. The Carnival gave everyone something to complain about as usual, and was combined with a dance featuring the Soul Society. Many of the Carnival booths showed imagination, while others stretched the credibility gap, such as the Kappa's as Playboy Bunnies.

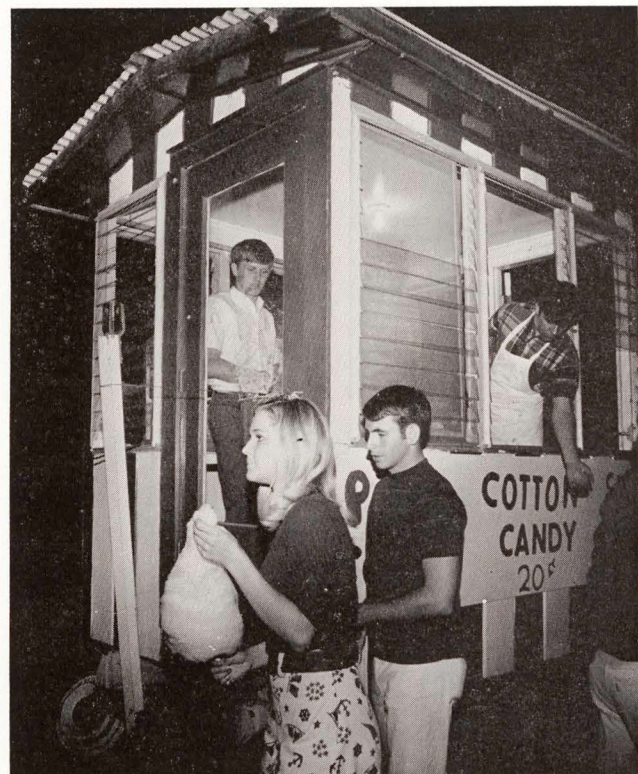

He thinks he's doing his own thing, but it's been done before.

The Steppenwolf concert was great — if you could read lips.

"Hey thweetie, you're with me."

"We stood in line two hours, and now you won't give me any."

The Spirits of Gaebale kept the carnival alive.

"Stand back, hot-shot, I'm the hog in this one."

We reserved this space for one of the Gaebale directors; he didnt care, but the D-Lux did.

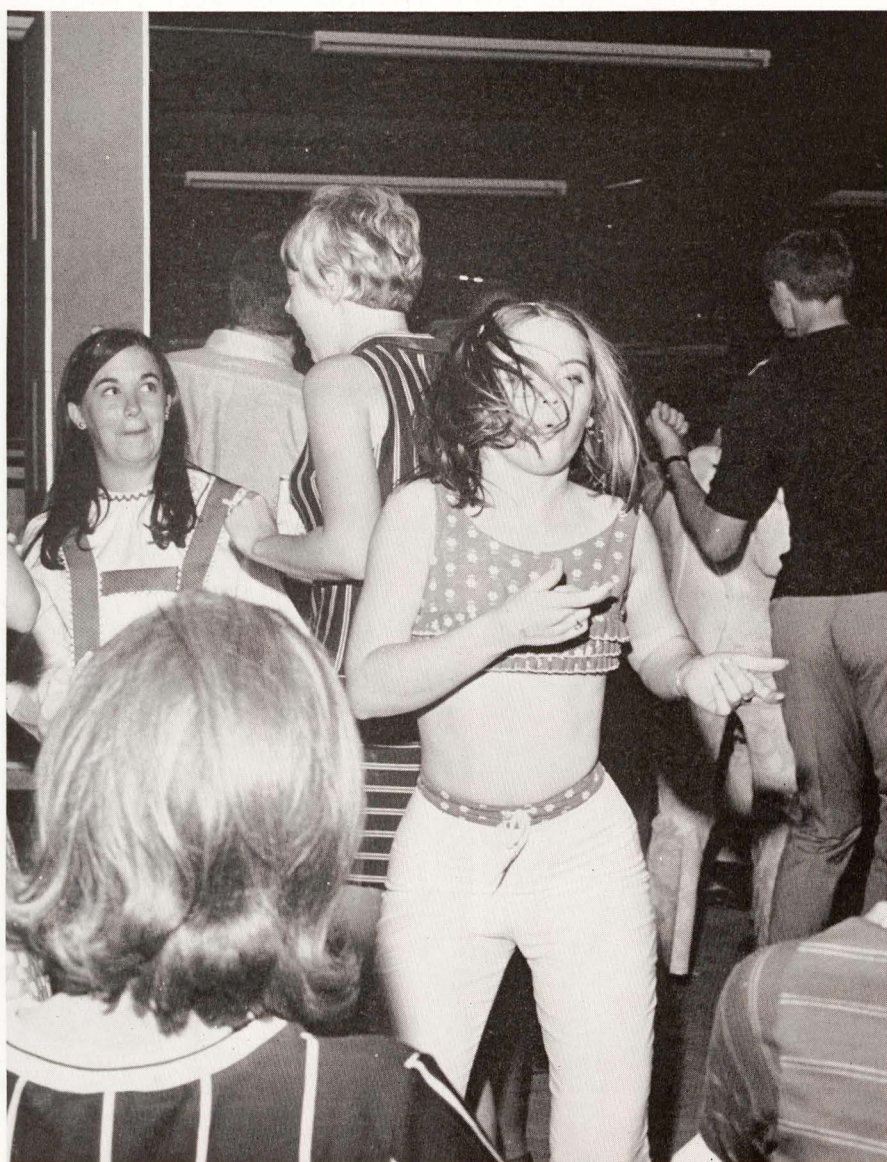

Carnival Offers Year End Revelry

As usual most students found their greatest Gaebale pleasure doing "their own thing". In reality Gaebale is really a state of mind that offers the students an excuse to enjoy themselves totally one last time before the terror of finals arrives. Sunday found most students nursing throbbing heads and comparing tales of the night before.

Only four weeks and our bustlines increased three inches.

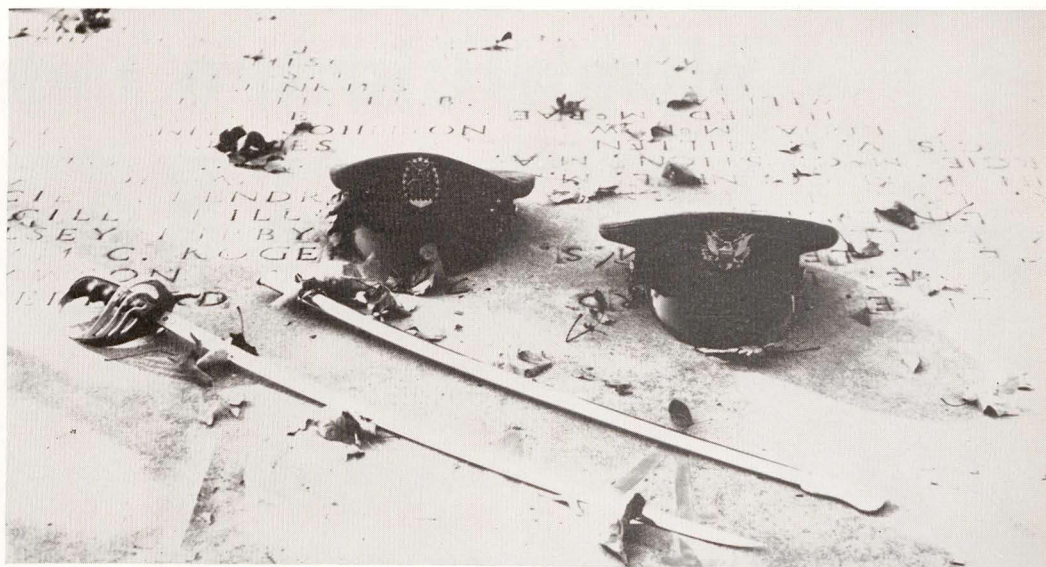

Wonder what turned her on?

MILITARY

Army ROTC Imparts Leadership

COL Eugene Holmes
Professor of Military Science

University of Arkansas ROTC Cadets wear the uniform proudly. They know the security and well-being of the country are forever interwoven with their own. Military training has been an active part of life on the University of Arkansas campus since the University was founded in 1871. The ROTC program, typically American, is an expression of the historic concepts of the citizen-soldier and civilian control over our military forces.

The ability to organize, motivate, and lead men, taught in ROTC, is a prized asset which contributes to success in any field, a fact recognized by employers today. Mr. C. B. McCoy, President of E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co. (Inc.) has the following to say concerning the ROTC graduate: "In our efforts to employ individuals qualified to pursue successful careers in DuPont, we have developed a high regard for ROTC graduates."

The entire University community can be proud of the record of its graduates. Five Medal of Honor winners are graduates of the University. Army branch schools' records show that University of Arkansas graduates rank well above the national average.

Senior Cadets Control Brigade

In the past the Army ROTC Cadet Brigade has been controlled by the Cadre and only partially run by the Senior Cadet Officers. A new concept, initiated this year, gives the Senior Cadets control of the Cadet Brigade. Drill instruction is presented by Senior Cadets, resulting in a closer relationship between instructor and student. The overall program for Army ROTC centers around the Basic Cadet.

The Advanced Program in Army ROTC is devoted to turning out the highest caliber of leaders possible. The Junior Cadets are instructed in leadership techniques and prepared for summer camp by their Senior Tactical Officers. The Senior Cadets are responsible for the functioning of the Brigade and its related activities.

This year the Brigade sponsored a Christmas party for the orphanage in Morrilton in conjunction with the Cadette Corps.

Cadettes Stress Functional Role

The Cadettes Corps, founded two years ago as an outgrowth of Army ROTC Sponsors, is a service organization of the Army ROTC program. Its functional role is emphasized. Selection is based on scholarship, appearance, character, personality and interest in the military. Members are selected each fall.

The major projects for the year were "Cookies for Combat" during the fall and "We Care" packages in the spring. Items gathered were sent to soldiers in Vietnam.

The Cadette Corps also collected toys for the Morrilton Orphanage Christmas party, worked during the blood drives and participated on the drill field throughout the year as unit sponsors.

Summer Camp Gives Field Training

While others looked for a way to start the engine, the Three Musketeers waited for their horses to be brought up.

"The student will pursue the course in camp training prescribed by the Secretary of the Army." This sentence in Army Regulations ultimately leads all students enrolled in the ROTC advanced program to six weeks of intense field training at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

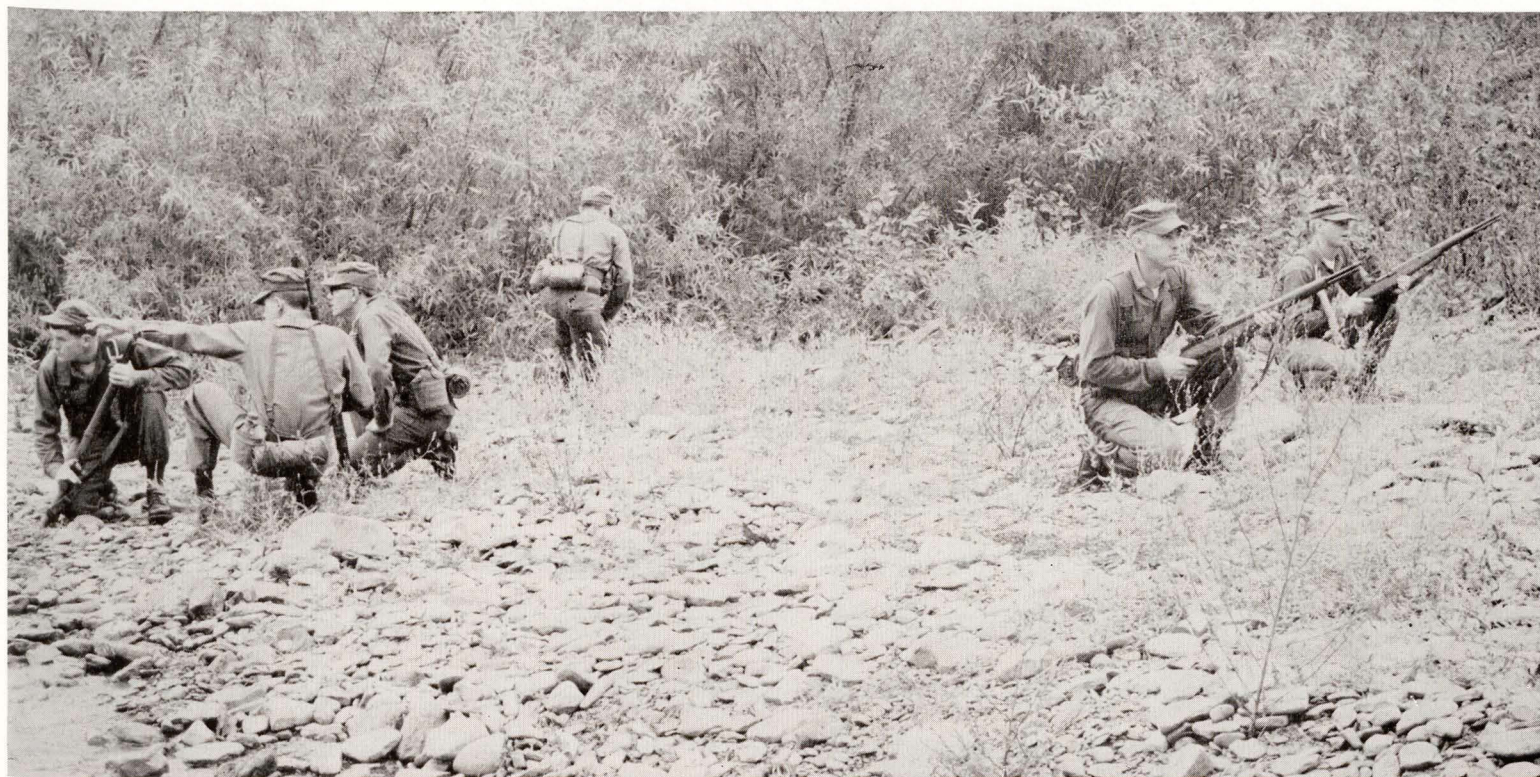

The camp is specifically designed to provide the ROTC student with practical experience and instruction in tactical, technical, and administrative subjects. Camp training provides students with applicatory type training which cannot be presented adequately at the institution.

Normally, the student attends summer camp between his junior and senior years. He is paid at the same rate as a student at the military academics, plus his traveling expenses.

Any cadet who has attended summer camp will not forget his training in marksmanship, compass reading, overnight field exercises, the barbwire course, fire-power demonstrations, communications, first aid, patrolling, and equipment orientations.

Sam Bryan had the best drilled squad in his platoon at summer camp. Later it increased in size and became a brigade.

Ranger Platoon Leader Mike Burns calls a halt during a patrolling exercise while he plans the objective.

Activities Broaden Program

The Army ROTC instructional program is divided into two distinct, but mutually supporting, phases — the basic and advanced programs. The purpose of the two year basic course is to instruct the student in basic military subjects such as Army organization, military history, and the Army's role in national security. The advanced program is designed to prepare selected, qualified cadets for a commission in the United States Army. Instruction is in such fields as world affairs, communication, administration, and principles of leadership.

The ROTC department actively promotes extracurricular activities with the intent of broadening the practical aspect of the leadership program while promoting cooperation among future leaders in the Army. In addition to the Pershing Rifles, Rifle Team, and the Army Band, a Ranger Platoon has recently been added to the list of activities open to the interested cadet. The Ranger Platoon offers training in demolitions, rappelling, land navigation, and hand-to-hand combat.

Close coordination between coach and pupil plus long hours of practice produce high scores on the rifle range.

Pershing Rifles

C/Maj. Walter D. Martin
Company Commander

Pershing Rifles National Honorary Society has units on university and college campuses throughout the United States. It was founded by the late General-of-the-Armies, John J. Pershing, at the University of Nebraska in 1894. The National Headquarters is located at the University of Nebraska, and operates through its fourteen Regimental Headquarters.

The society still maintains its principal functions as outlined by General Pershing. They are service to the Corps, and honor to the individual, while fulfilling other functions as a social-professional type fraternity.

The year's activities of the Exhibition Drill Platoon are pointed toward winning the Drill Competition at Regimental.

The Company Commander and Pershing Rifles Sponsor watch C/2LT Leon Jamison commanding the Standard Platoon in drill.

Company D, Seventh Regiment

The Pershing Rifles Company at the University of Arkansas is Company D of the Seventh Regiment. Company D-7 is an active unit with high esprit de corps and is one of the elite organizations of the Army ROTC.

One of the best known activities of the Pershing Rifles is pledge week when Pershing Rifle pledges carry their white wooden rifles and escort young ladies to class. Pledge Week is culminated with a weekend bivouac and the initiation of the new members. The highlight of the fall semester is the annual Pershing Rifles banquet when the new members receive their membership ribbons and citation cords.

The main event of the year is the annual participation in one of the Mardi Gras parades held in New Orleans. Other events of the year include the annual Regimental Assembly which consists of competitive events in drill and military skills. Last year's Assembly was held here at the University of Arkansas, with Company D as host. This year the Pershing Rifles will travel to Fort Riley, Kansas for the Regimental Assembly.

Scabbard & Blade Honors Cadets

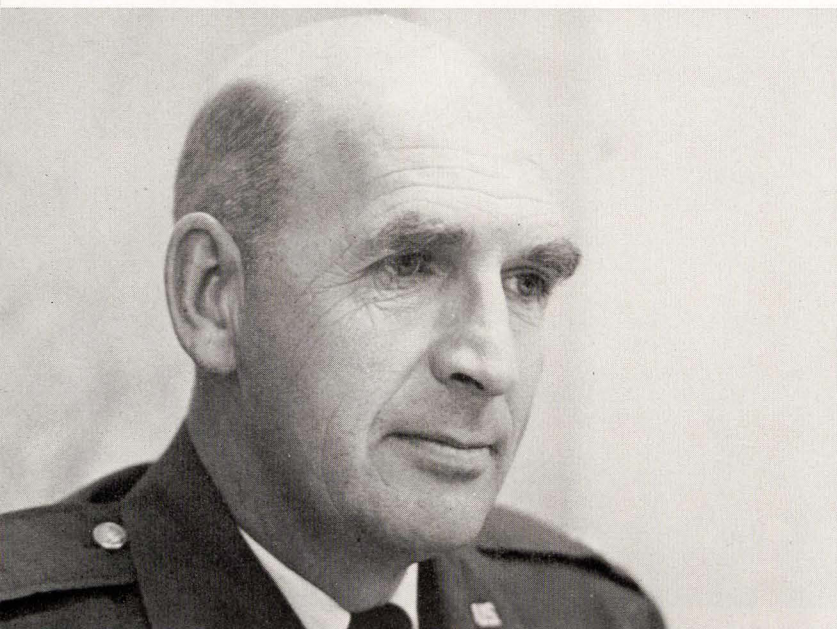

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade is an honorary military fraternity for advanced ROTC cadets of all services. Forty pledges were selected this fall from the Army and Air Force advanced programs. Selection is based on scholarship, campus leadership and interest in the military program.

The Society, which provides a common meeting ground for the Air Force and Army organizations, aims to instruct the future officers of the Armed Forces in the traditions and customs of the services.

Jan Whitmore, Pam Foster, Susie Johnston, Susan Dennehy were this year's sponsors.

AFROTC Seeks Dedicated Men

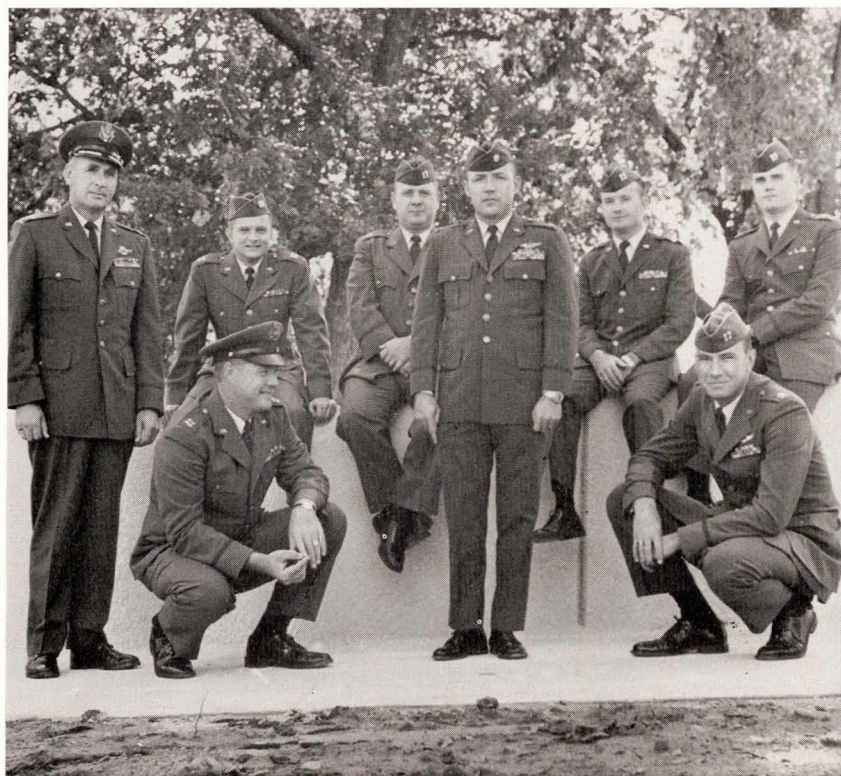

Col. Francis W. Nelson
Professor of Aerospace Studies

The Air Force ROTC has the responsibility for commissioning career-oriented officers through academic programs in colleges and universities across the nation. The objective of the AFROTC is to place on active duty lieutenants who will demonstrate dedication to their assignments; who willingly accept responsibility; who think critically and creatively; and who have the ability to communicate with clarity and precision.

The two major phases of the curriculum consist of the general military course and the professional officer course. The first forms a single unit entitled "World Military Systems." Both years of this unit deal with world military power and its present and future implications. The Professional Officer Course is offered in the junior and senior years. The qualified college student may apply for enrollment in the professional officer course after completing the general military course or its equivalent. He must pass an aptitude examination, the Air Force medical evaluation, and be selected by an interview board of Air Force officers.

Besides attending drills, the Angel Flight spends off duty time in charitable activities.

Angel Flight Has Successful Year

Angel Flight consists of 25 highly select coeds who must maintain at least a 2.5 grade point average. This year's flight, commanded by Judy Hersey, had a successful year. The flight as a whole maintained a 3.5 grade point average and one of its members, Letty Castleberry, was chosen as the Area G-1 "Little Colonel", representing the area in national competition in New York. Angel Flight participates in a variety of activities including civic, patriotic, educational, and charitable undertakings. Angel Flight is an auxiliary to Arnold Air Society.

During the fall, Angel Flight sells football programs for all home football games and visits Boys Land of Arkansas. The main Christmas activity is "Operation Warmheart", a project done jointly with Arnold Air Society, in which unused toys are collected from people in Fayetteville, repaired and given to needy children.

The Angels conduct the Washington County March of Dimes, work at the Washington County Blood Drive on campus, and work with the Fayetteville Day School for mentally retarded children.

As sponsors for the Air Force ROTC program and the Arnold Air Society, the girls take an active part in all AFROTC drills, classes, and social functions.

Arnold Air Society

The Arnold Air Society was founded as an honorary military society for Air Force ROTC cadets who are tops scholastically and in the ROTC program. Members are selected by the squadron. Scholastic requirements include a 2.0 overall grade average and a 3.0 in Aerospace Studies.

Last year the squadron sent representatives to New York City for the Annual National Conclave. Other activities the Society sponsors through the year are the sale of programs before the home football games, the Air Force Ball, Operation Warmheart, and field trips to Boys Land of Arkansas for various projects. Last year the squadron was selected as the Outstanding Squadron in the Southwest area.

About the Damn Staff . . .

With only a few hundred changes from the '68 RAZORBACK, it's difficult to decide where to begin. When a Greek and an Independent team up to co-edit a book, a certain amount of change is inevitable — especially when both are female.

Last spring when we announced our staff, there were many dropped jaws when Mack McLarty, past ASG president, headed the business staff. Mack selected Randy Riddle as his assistant. Then early in the fall, Random House extended Mack a more star-studded opportunity and Jane caught Randy. They departed, thus giving us our first opportunity for promotion on the staff. Steve Crow, former associate editor, adequately filled both vacancies.

Using the most modern equipment available (in 1910), our photography staff was able to produce over 1,000 pictures, thus achieving miracles. Gary Larsen, our chief photographer, sacrificed many interesting BA classes and much of the beauty rest which he so enjoys. Although Rick, John and Danny fell by the wayside, Doug Frank showed both stamina and courage in staying with us as Gary's assistant.

Steve Crow
Business Manager

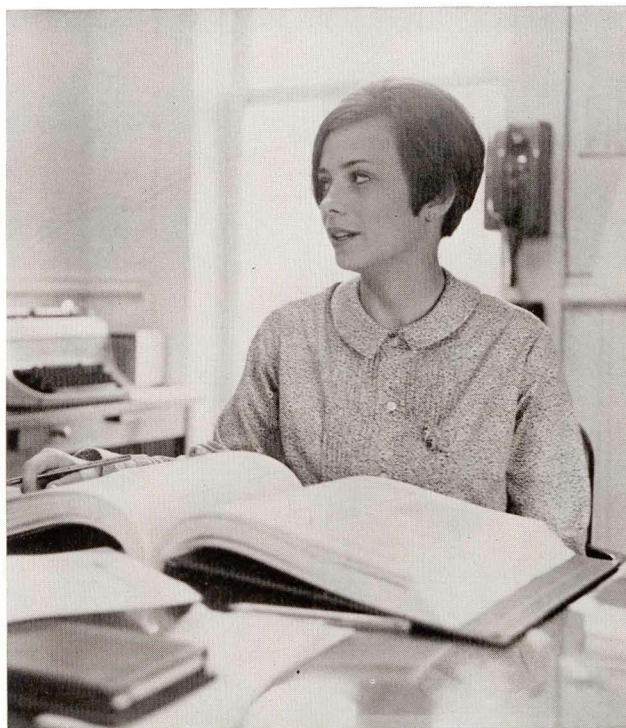

Since Linda Irene Young served the previous year as associate editor, we appointed her to the same position with confidence — or maybe it was over-confidence. Photo editor Martha Lynn Wilson aided Linda on deadline days and brought sunshine into the grayness of Hill Hall.

Debbie Wilson, our executive secretary, came to us in her innocence as a typist. Recently she was appointed the book's co-editor for the coming year. Working with Debbie was Judy Garrett, also a secretary, Our Grand 'Ole Lady.

After searching many months for an Introduction writer, we found one in a UA graduate student, Dwain Cromwell. Dwain did a tremendous job and we cannot thank him enough for an excellent beginning and for meeting his deadline.

Next in line for praise is Monte Cable, our Military section editor. Monte was sent to us through the Military Department, proving that the Army does have something going for it.

Chip Cooper, our Man About the Office, headed the Organization section. In spite of communication problems with the local photographer and staff desertion, Chip was able to go home every weekend and finish the section. Gail Boyd wrote the copy for this section.

... and friends

One of the most improved areas was this year's Beauties section. Donna Wolf and Delta Willis did an excellent job, no matter how difficult the subject.

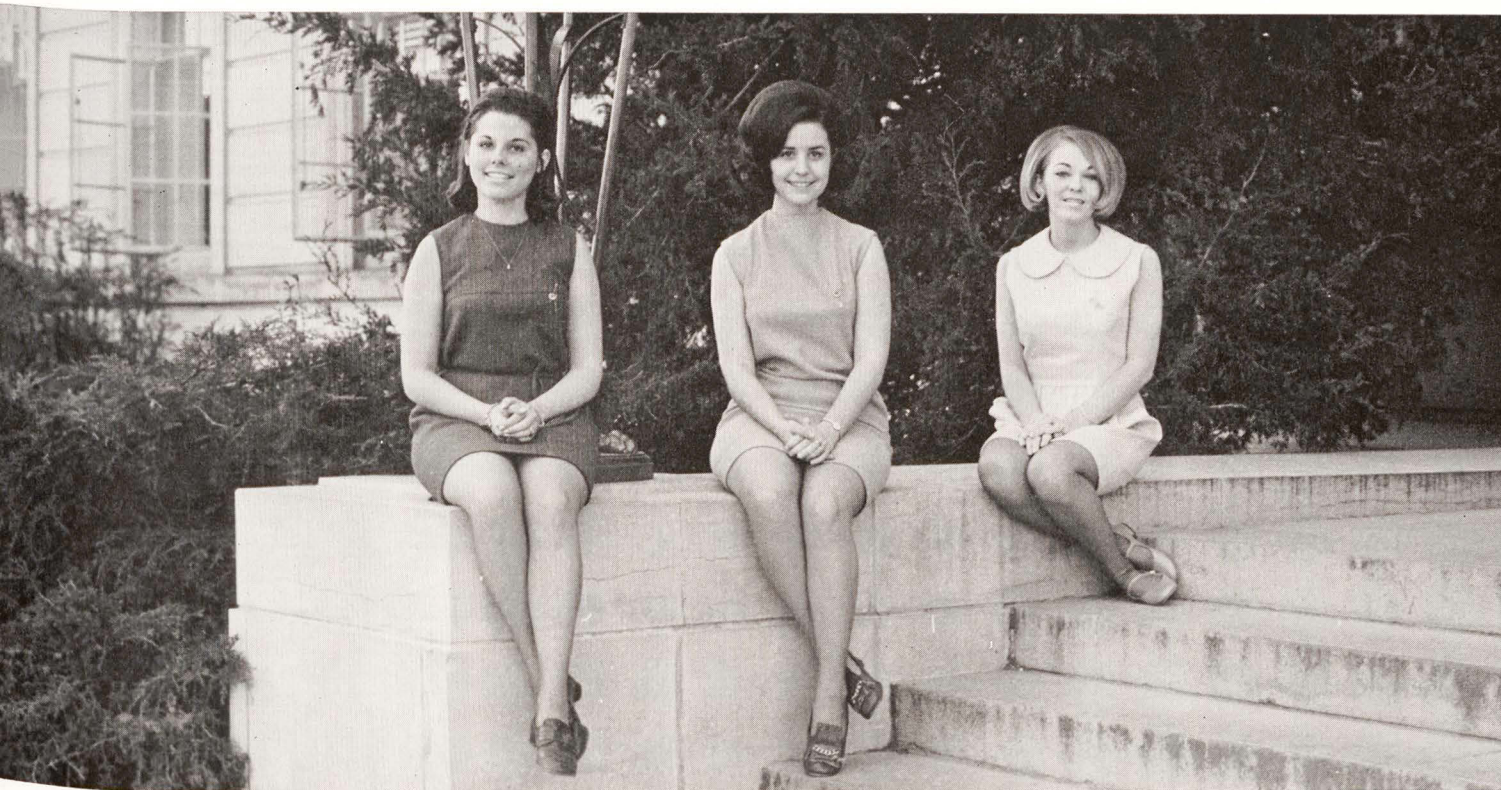

Our athletic section was written by the White Knight, Gerald Jordan. His major accomplishment for the year was finishing the football copy before the last of April. You "done good", Gerald.

Carol Lamoreux headed the Feature section. She drafted her roommate, Nancy Willis, to solve her typing problems. If Carol is able to overcome spring fever, this book will become a reality.

With last spring's Hill Hall blockade fresh on our minds, the 1968-69 TRAVELER staff faced this year apprehensively. Fears proved unfounded, however, as the staffers plunged into their job of producing a daily newspaper for the campus.

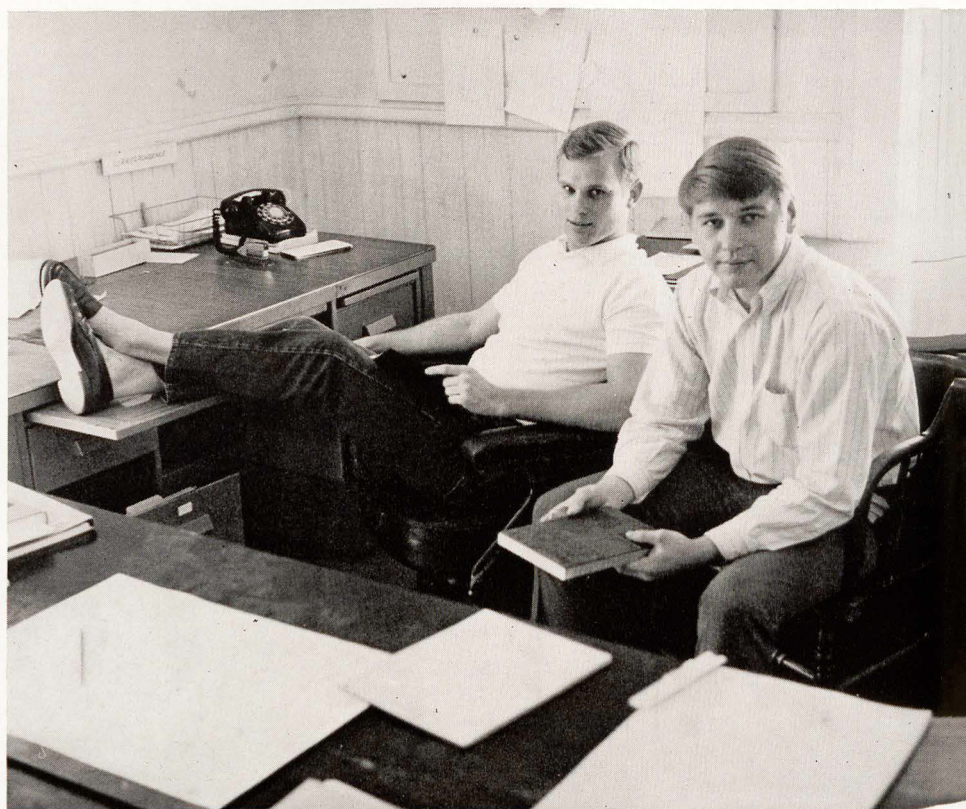

The fall semester began with news of the petition and subsequent resignation of ASG President Walter Slaughter and moved into coverage of the successful football season. Problems arose when readers occasionally forgot the basic tenets of freedom of the press and protested the use of a weekly editorial page through which both the staff and readers could voice opinions on issues relevant to the campus today.

Persistence has paid off and we have been able to provide a well-read and often controversial editorial page of columns, editorials, letters to the editor and cartoons.

Publishing a daily newspaper is definitely a joint effort and my special recognition goes to the following staff members who made this year's TRAVELER possible:

BRENDA BLAGG, our hard-working Managing Editor was responsible for news placement on pages one and four. She delighted in deviating from the normal layout pattern occasionally and provided some unusual and interesting pages.

BILL WRIGHT, News Editor, was responsible for gathering news and he set up a system through which both staff writers and Journalism students were assigned to cover the campus.

KERSH HALL headed the copy desk and assisted by Margaret Rose Palmer, Faune Cook and Bill Connor, read and edited all copy before sending it to the printers.

ANN PRIDE, all-around good gal, dependable worker and true friend held the position of editorial assistant and did a more than adequate job.

GERALD JORDAN, assisted by Buddy Gregory and Skip Rutherford, manned the sports desk and produced excellent sports copy as well as columns.

JEAN McMILLAN, assisted by Harlan Butler and Peter Gordy, produced a daily feature page worthy of praise, covering the unusual angle of the campus.

JERRY GLOVER, Wire Editor, frequently doubled as one of our most dependable news reporters.

GARY LARSEN headed the most dependable and capable photography staff in recent TRAVELER history. He was assisted by Doug Frank throughout the year and by Paul Lampton during the second semester.

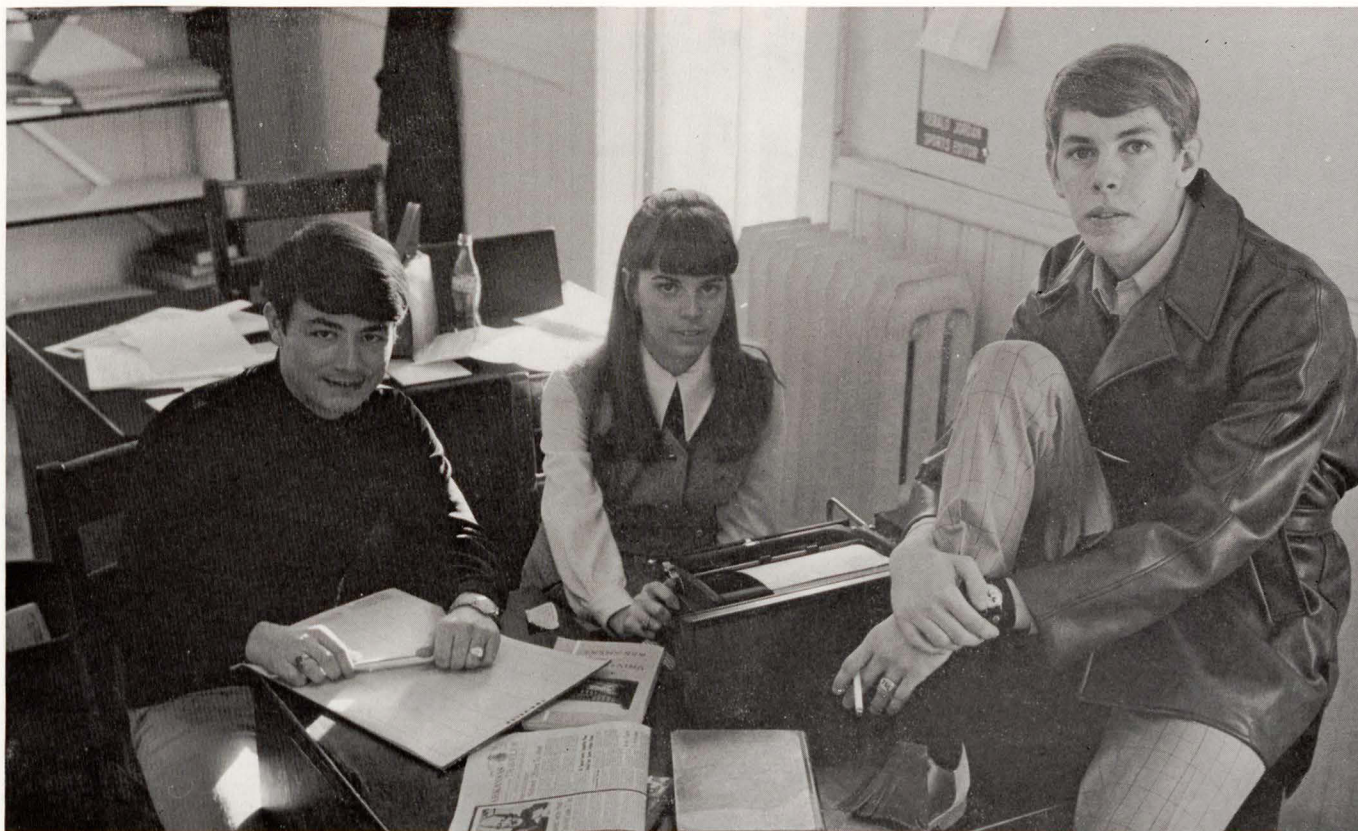

PAM KIRSCH and GINNY LYNN SAIN, secretaries, did a commendable job of handling the details of correspondence, messages and statement-typing.

Our special word of thanks goes to the business department headed by TOM PALMER and assisted by RON KEISLER who have brought order out of chaos on the financial section of the newspaper.

Board of Publications

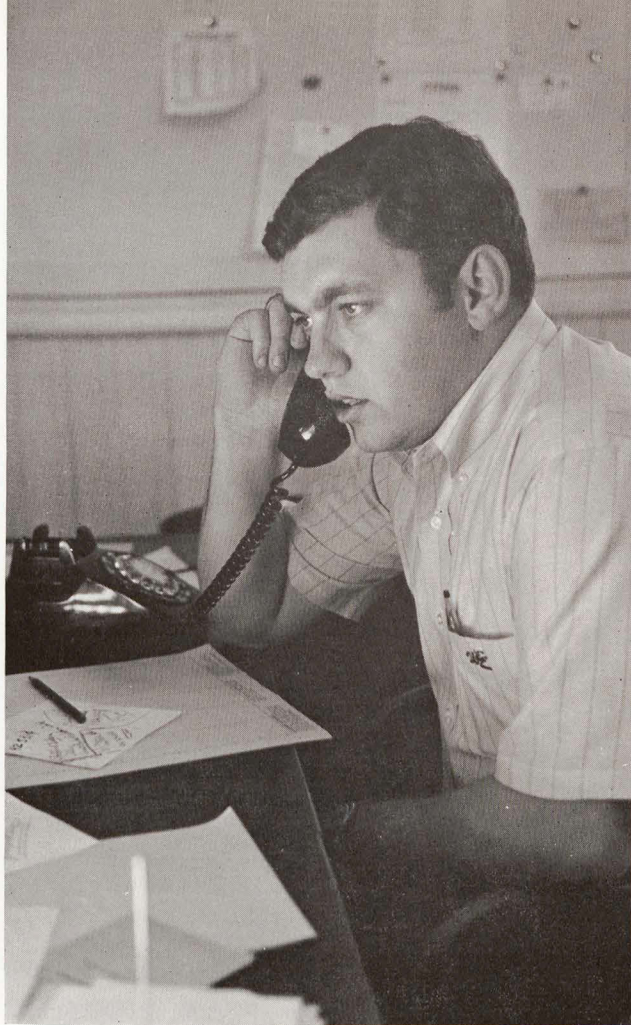

Jerre Stocker, Secretary
Randy Marshall, Chairman

Once again faced with a shortage of funds, the Board of Publications made worthwhile attempts to stem the tide of deficit spending which had plagued publications in recent years. Under the leadership of George Lease and Randy Marshall, the Board attempted to analyze several alternatives in an effort to cut spending and raise allocations. Most efforts were channeled in trying to get an Advisor to Publications.

In choosing the editors of all major University publications, the Board ruled on the controversial selection, with legal advice coming from the Legal Council and the Attorney General, of the Directory Publisher. Conflicts in interpretation of job roles were handled by the Board, thus helping to set precedents for next year's ruling body.

Accuracy in publications was questioned as well as journalistic ethics, by certain students outside of the Board. After consideration by the Board the issue was resolved.

The quality of publications made marked improvement over the year, and strides were made to see that this same progress will be made in the future.

'69 Directory Was Late, but Accurate

This year's Directory is the most complete and accurate edition to date. Although this is alleged every year, I believe we've outdone all prior editions due specifically to the effort and cooperation of the Fayetteville Telephone Company, which was kind enough to give us access to the newly listed phone numbers of the off-campus students. To my knowledge this incorporation of newly listed numbers into the Directory has never been done. Also, all living group phone numbers were corrected for the first time in at least two years.

Of course the 68-69 Directory came out late, but this shortcoming is shared with all previous editions and thus, the anathama associated with such heresy is, I feel, mitigated. The delay in the release of the Directory is again attributed (and I believe rightfully) to the Administration, which misplaced several hundred pre-registered freshman IBM cards. The Board of Publications has discussed the necessity of a synthesization of effort between the editor and Administration in order to avoid such late releases in the future.

Arkansas Agriculturalist

Ruth Clotfelter
Editor

The ARKANSAS AGRICULTURIST is a bi-yearly publication of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. A tradition in itself, the AGRICULTURIST includes articles from all departments in the College — Agricultural Economics, Agricultural Engineering, Animal Science, Home Economics, Plant Pathology, Agronomy, Entomology, Horticulture and Vocational Agriculture.

The AGRICULTURIST hopes to create an awareness of the present work and plans for each of the departments which are of interest to the students as well as alumni, and prospective students in Arkansas high schools.

A large part of the success of the AGRICULTURIST is due to dependable staff member who donate their free time to produce the non-profit magazine. Feature editors come up with interesting articles directed toward the students in the College. The business manager keeps the creditors from the door while Dean Glenn Hardy offers articles and advice.

The Guild Ticker

The GUILD TICKER made another appearance on the U. of A. campus this year. Having struggled with financial troubles in the past, this year's Commerce Day issue was the first in several years. Lack of student interest in working on the TICKER led to a slow start. However, due to the determined efforts of Rusty Porter and Paul Blume, the TICKER did come out and was a financial, if not literary, success.

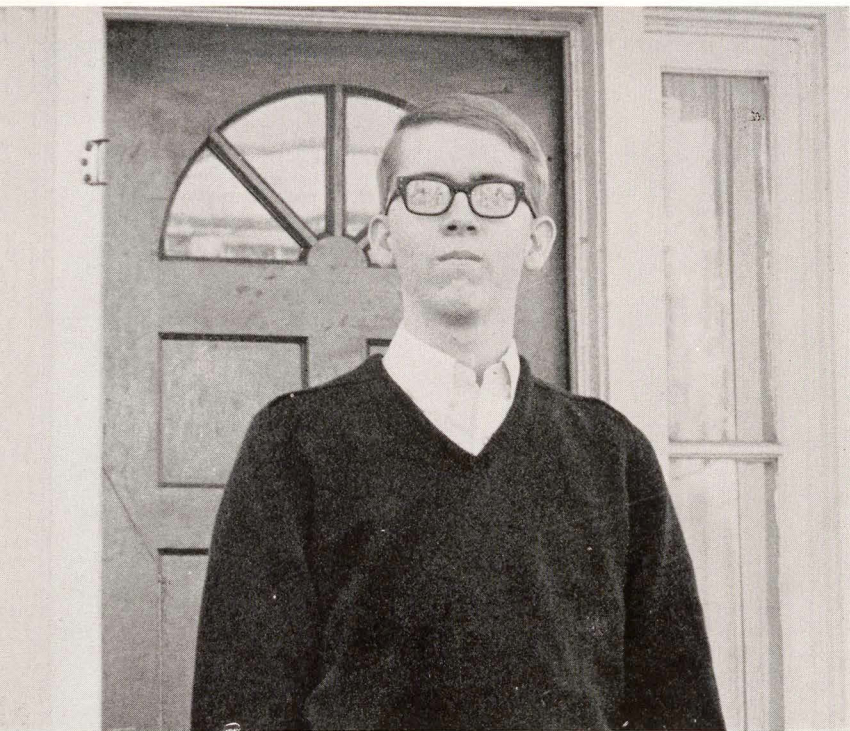

The GUILD TICKER was sponsored by the Commerce Guild from which the name of the publication is derived. Articles on Ted Boswell, who spoke at the Commerce Day Banquet, and on James Jones, another alumnus, highlighted the magazine. There were also features on the Commerce Queen, Commerce Day, organizations in business administration, semester grades, and faculty department chairmen. The TICKER was printed at the University Printing Plant and was distributed to B.A. students free of charge during the week of March 6, Commerce Day.

Financed solely by advertising and compiled by students in Business Administration, The GUILD TICKER was an effort to instill pride in the College of Business Administration by presenting material of interest to students. It is hoped that the Ticker will become a means of communication which will be of use to the students and a credit to the College.

Arkansas Engineer

Bob Davidson
Editor

The Arkansas Engineer is a quarterly magazine published by students of the College of Engineering. The goals of the magazine include: serving as a means of communication for the Engineering school, unifying the engineering students, and promoting engineering as a curriculum and as a profession.

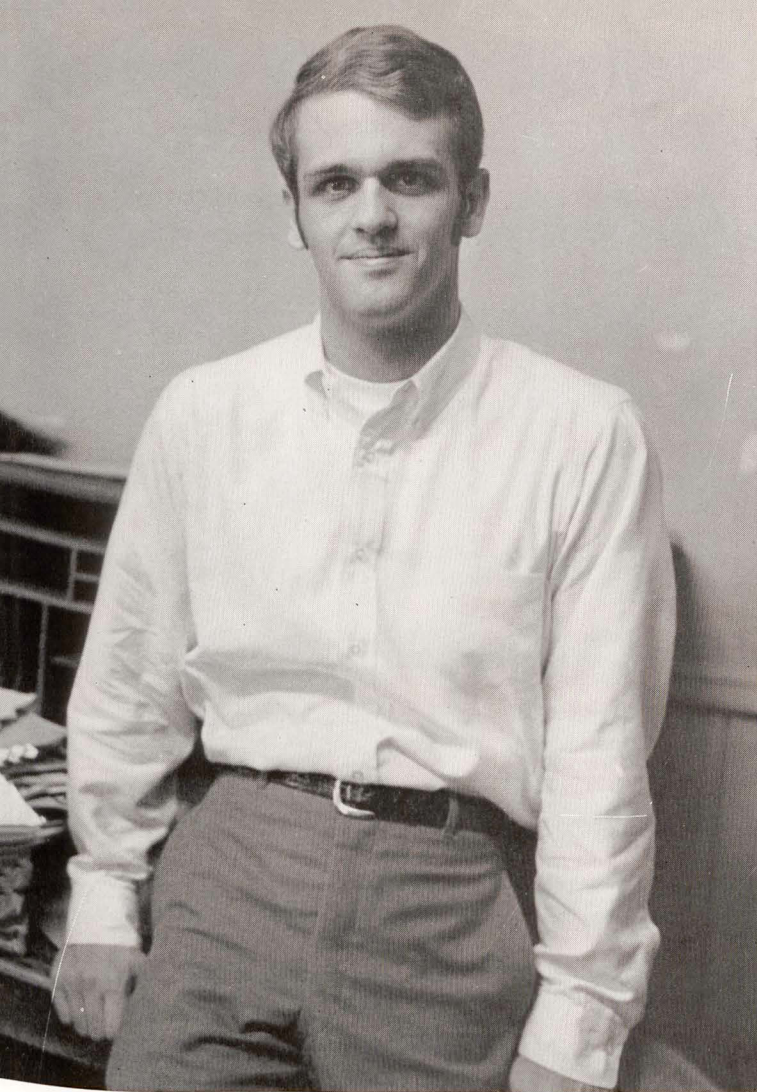

A member of Engineering College Magazines Associated, The Arkansas Engineer is supported through national advertising and by the Engineering Council. The highlights of the year are the March issue, which presents the candidates for Saint Patricia, and the May issue, which reviews the activities of Engineer's Week.

Arkansas Law Review

Joe Thomson, Editor

In 1947 a non-profit corporation was founded to sponsor the Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal. Since that time the publication has been appearing quarterly through the efforts of the Arkansas School of Law and the Arkansas Bar Association.

Faculty advisors Raymond I. Parnas and Ralph C. Barnhart have supervised articles written by the students this year. Additional articles are prepared for the Review by prominent judges, lawyers, and law professors.

Each article a student publishes is awarded a fractional credit hour. Therefore, student members of the Review staff receive credit hours to use toward graduation for their work on the Review. Membership requirements are that a student must meet the grade point requirements and submit one or more articles of acceptable presentation. The student articles are classified into the categories of Notes, Recent Cases, and Annotations according to length.

Panhellenic Makes Big Changes

OFFICERS: Caroline Bulloch, Secretary; Becky Ross, President; Lynn Moore, Treasurer.

The Panhellenic Council aids in promoting inter-sorority relations and is the governing board for all campus sororities. This council is composed of the president and two representatives from each sorority on campus.

The officers of Panhellenic are determined by a system of rotation among all of the nine sororities on campus.

This year Panhellenic made some very drastic revisions in its rules concerning sorority rush by abolishing all regulations except those concerning summer rush. In place of the old rules a strict code of ethics was adopted. Instead of holding the traditional coke party for freshmen in the spring, Panhellenic is sponsoring a rush orientation program to give those interested an opportunity to visit the nine houses before the regular fall rush.

Two scholarship trophies are awarded every year for the pledge class with the highest grade point and also to the sorority rating highest in grades. Three scholarships are awarded annually by Panhellenic to deserving University women.

IFC Sets Standards of Excellence

The Interfraternity Council is a policy making and regulatory body governing the actions of its embodiment of member fraternities. The fraternity presidents meet weekly to discuss how the interests and activities of its members can be directed to further this end.

The IFC tries to accomplish its purpose through its various programs. The regulation of rush activities is one of its most important functions. The Greek system perpetuates itself through the pledging of new brothers. The IFC, by providing an organized system of rush for its members, is able to expose the values of Greek life to potential pledges while drawing the system together on a common basis. The IFC does not stop with rush; it provides speakers to broaden the Greeks knowledge on current issues, and sponsors a Greek Week with the Panhellenic Council to honor outstanding members and to promote Greek spirit.

Thus, the purpose of IFC extends further than being merely a legislative body. The IFC tries to mirror the Greek system and promote standards for others to follow.

Alpha Kappa Lambda

AKL Has Fifth Successful Year

Alpha Kappa Lambda viewed the past year as one of its progressive years on the University of Arkansas campus, as it enjoyed success in all phases of Greek life.

Outstanding members representing AKL in campus activities were: Randy Riddel, and David Bell, Blue Key; Corky Copland, Student Senate; Conley Merideth was the vice-president of the Young Democrats; Bill Hough was the vice-president of Alpha Kappa Psi; Bruce Munson co-chairman of GAEBAL. The chairman of Homecoming was Sam Forrester.

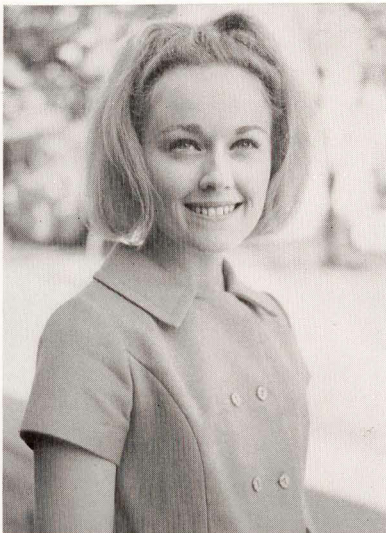

Alpha Kappa Lambda had four men on the UofA debate team, they were: Steven Millin, Kenith Cochran, and Phil Love. Brother Millin has the distinction of being one of the top three debaters in the country.

Alpha Mu Chapter also excelled academically this past year. They took second place in the annual Greek Week Scholarship Bowl, and Brother Corky Ritchie had one of the few 4.00 grade point averages in the Engineering school.

AKL was well represented on the Razorback football team by Ronnie Hammers, and Lynn Garner. Brother Garner got an honorable mention from the Southwest Conference. Gary Stephens served on the Hog basketball team.

On the years social calendar AKL had the annual Dad's Day Dance, the Homecoming party, the festive Yellow Rose Formal, the interesting Pajama Party, and, Go to Hell with AKL.

Farmhouse

Farmhouse Builds Men

"He best builds lives of other men who starts from within, so that when the job's all done the judge will say 'A Master Builder passed this way'."

These words best exemplify the manner in which Farmhouse fraternity builds men through faith in God, loyalty among its members, and superior scholarship.

Reaffirming its academic superiority, the men of Farmhouse again had the highest G.P.A. of any fraternity on campus with over half of its members on the Dean's List or honorable mention.

Farmhouse is active in campus activities and organizations. Some of the campus organizations to which Farmhouse supplied leaders are Animal Industry Club president, Entomology Club president and treasurer, Agronomy Club vice-president, Association of Baptist Students State president, Alpha Zeta treasurer, Blue Key secretary, and membership in Phi Eta Sigma.

Ever in the minds of Farmhouse men is the idea of "Building the whole man." To do this the proper balance of scholarship, leadership, social and moral development, also athletic competition must be achieved.

The officers for the fall semester were president, John Snoderly; vice-president, Steve Lovell; secretary, Freddie Bourland; and treasurer, Randell Forrest. Those who served as officers for the spring semester were: president, Randell Forrest; vice-president, Guy Brady; secretary, Joe Martin; and treasurer, John Watson.

Lambda Chi Alpha

$160,000 ΛA Expansion Completed

In early spring, the $160,000 house expansion was completed, thus adding another landmark to the rapid growth of Lambda Chi Alpha since its founding on the campus in 1925.

After having a successful rush week, the Lambda Chis continues with their tradition of leadership, honors, and activities. Homecoming activities, the Playboy Party, a Christmas Party for underprivileged children, the Purple Id Party, Founder's Day in Little Rock, Housemother's Kidnap, spring elections, and numerous outings, drop-ins, and exchange dinners all contributed to an enjoyable year.

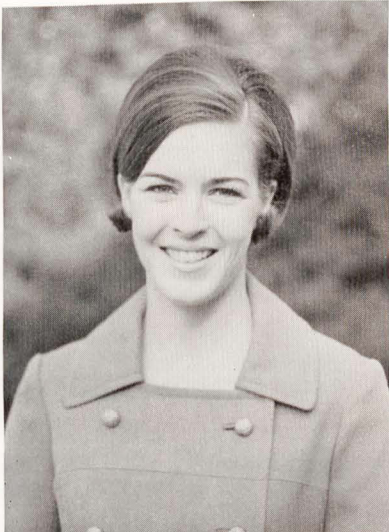

The Lambda Chis held many offices and honors this year. Bill Williams was treasurer of Associated Students and Charles Parkhurst was treasurer of Alpha Kappa Psi. Chuck Banks was chairman of Symposium; Mike Warr was chairman of Transportation Department; and Mike Watson was chairman of Annotated Constitution. Lan Williams was on the Student Court, and Frank Little, was in the Student Senate. Lambda Chis were also active in Commerce Guild, Arkansas Booster Club, Civic Club, Theta Tau, Finance Club, Marketing Club, Blue Key, Young Democrats Club, and Young Republicans Club.

Lambda Chis playing Razorback football are Max Peacock, John Eichler, Gary Adams, and Rick Kersey.

The Lambda Chi Alpha officers elected for the spring semester were: president, Mike Warr; vice-president, Rick Fleetwood; secretary, Jim Monk; and treasurer, Jim Walton.

Fijis groove out!

Phi Gamma Delta

Fiji Receives National Charter

Phi Gamma Delta, the oldest national fraternity of those represented on this campus, received its national charter this spring after only a year and a half of colonization. The Phi Alpha chapter continued its national reputation of excellence in community relations, scholarship, campus activities and social functions.

A variety of honors were achieved this year as Floyd Thomas was chosen to Cardinal XX, and Joe Evans was one of the few freshmen ever to be accepted in the Schola Cantorum. Doug Marr was the youngest cheerleader in University's history; Bill Garner, besides being treasurer of Phi Eta Sigma, represented the University of Arkansas at a national collegiate foreign affairs conclave; and Steve Stevens was vice-president of Arkansas Booster Club and also a B.A. school representative.

Phi Gamma Delta also played an important role in student government. Doak Sullivan was an administrative aid under Walter Slaughter. Floyd Thomas was co-chairman of the Student Recruitment Bureau. Seven had student government committee appointments.

Representing Phi Gamm in sports were Phil Moudy, Gary Hickman and Del Basinger in track and Greg Fisk and Bob Farmer in baseball.

Although currently one of the smaller fraternities on campus, Phi Gamma Delta has the largest fraternity house, capable of holding 105 men.

The Fiji's had a very active social life, which centered around the fall Nazz Party and the pre-installation and installation parties.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Pikes began 65th year at UofA

Alpha Zeta Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha began its 65th year at the University with many different social activities. Among these were the annual Homecoming dance, Roaring 20's Party and Christmas Brunch. The Dream Girl Formal, Founders Day and Spring Outing were the big social events in the spring along with numerous other parties.

Pi Kappa Alpha again this year had many leaders in all phases of campus life. Don Gibson was selected for Who's Who, and also elected treasurer of ODK. He was Deputy Brigade Commander, and he also made the Dean's List. Mike Capoot was elected secretary of IFC, and Bill Meadows was the president of Alpha Pi Mu. David Evans was past president of Circle K and Bill Rankin was the treasurer. Gary George was selected for Cardinal XX and Bill Carwell served as treasurer of the Arkansas Booster Club.

Pikes were also active on the Razorback athletic teams. Brother Jerry Petty holds the SWC discus record, Steve Walters, Roy Fears, Lewis Campbell, and Ray Palmer represented Pike on the varsity and freshman football teams.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Patton is President of IFC

This year marked another year of leadership in SAE's seventy-fourth on the University of Arkansas campus.

Past Chapter president, Robert Patton, was elected Interfraternity Council president, and was selected for Who's Who on American college campuses. Brother Patton was also named outstanding Greek man. Brother Doug Burford was chosen Greek Week chairman. Brother Gene Cogbill received the gavel of the Accounting Association and was honored for his outstanding achievement in the field with a 4.00 grade point average.

Razorback Brother Jim Barnes was elected All-American guard. Other "jocks" participating in varsity athletics were Mike Boschetti, Gordon McNulty, Dennis Berner, Joe Mullins, and Jim Farmer.

In other activities on the campus Sigma Alpha Epsilon had five men in Theta Tau, a position on the Engine Council, members in Blue Key, Cardinal XX, Omicron Delta Kappa, and several men in Alpha Kappa Psi.

SAE was also represented in campus publications with Brother Tom Palmer serving on the TRAVELER as advertising manager.

The numerous social events of the year included the traditional home game dances, exchange dinners with the various sororities, the annual underprivileged childrens Christmas party, and the spring Jungle Party.

Sigma Chi

Senate V.P. is Sigma Chi

The Omega Omega Chapter of Sigma Chi continued to be outstanding in scholarship and leadership.

Sigma Chi was proud to have Randy Marshall elected to the vacated position of Vice President of Associated Students. Randy was also selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Representing Sigma Chi in ODK were Buck Rusher, Bill Appleton, Randy Marshall, Howard Sanderlin, Winston Brown, and Jeff Johnson. Blue Key membership included Sigma Chis: John Robert Bass, Russ Ewing, Van Parker, Mike Conner, Jeff Shannon, Pat Miller, and Carter Hardage.

Sigma Chis served as presidents of several campus organizations: Alpha Kappa Psi, Gary Jeffries; Arkansas Booster Club, Pat Miller; Cardinal XX, Fred O. Ellis; Theta Tau and Engineering Council, Russ Ewing; American Institute of Architects, Jeff Shannon; and IFPC, Dennis Raney.

Cardinal XX honors were bestowed on Bryden Moon, Fred O. Ellis, Russ Meeks, and Blan Heath. Russ Meeks was also elected a Senator for B.A. School and Blan Heath also serves as the assistant News Editor of the TRAVELER.

Sigma Chis selected for Scabbard and Blade were: Russ Ewing, John Robert Bass, David Harges, John Powell, and Carter Hardage; while those received into the Arnold Air Society were, Pat Miller, Curtis Brown and Bill Appleton. Bill Appleton also served as a Razorback cheerleader.

Among the outstanding social events are Ski Lodge, the Sweetheart Ball, and Derby Day.

Sigma Nu

Snakes Boast Razorbacks

Although Sigma Nu boasts of great athletes such as Southwest Conference Sophomore Back of the Year Bill Montgomery and the Sugar Bowl's most valuable player, Chuck Dicus, and social events such as Sadie Hawkins Day, Sigma Nu Relays, the Christmas party and the White Rose Formal, other things make the Gamma Upsilon chapter a top fraternity.

Sigma Nu excelled in every possible field during the 1968-'69 school year. They proved their leadership abilities in scholarship and student affairs. Last year, Brother Kent Rubens was named outstanding Greek Man at the UofA.

Six Sigma Nu's were honored with memberships in Blue Key and Brother Rubens served as president of this organization. Three Sigma Nu's were tapped for ODK; Brother Mike Condit was chosen vice-president and Brother Mickey Miller served as secretary.

Brothers Neal Sullins and Bobbo Thompson served as president and treasurer of Commerce Guild and Sigma Nu's hold eleven offices in the representative body of B.A. school.

Sigma Nu had four members in Cardinal XX, and five men were members of Phi Eta Sigma. Brother Craig Metcalf was the outstanding student in the School of Engineering; five are in Theta Tau.

Four Sigma Nu's served as student senators and the vice-president of IFPC is a Sigma Nu.

The associate editor of the RAZORBACK is Steve Crow and brothers Shep Akins and Mike Dowling serve as president and secretary of Circle K, and three were elected to the board of governors.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Sig Ep's Display Diversity

Once again, Alpha Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon displayed its many talents by participating in nearly every aspect of campus activity. The men of the golden heart more than upheld the high traditions which they have established on this campus since 1907.

Tapped for Cardinal XX were Scott Puryear and Bill McCreery. Omicron Delta Kappa members were Whit Hall, Bob White, and Jim Johnson who served as vice-president. Johnson and Whit were also members of Blue Key, along with Mike Fitzhugh. Whit Hall was tapped for Alpha Epsilon Delta, and Bill Bishop was selected for Pi Sigma Alpha. Mike Mashburn served in Alpha Kappa Psi, and Cole Goodman was vice-president of ABC. Sig-Ep pledge, David Major, was elected as freshman senator in the fall.

Sig-Ep's were well represented on the football team by David Spatz, John Rees, Glen Lowe, Ronnie Carrol, and Bob White who was also selected to the SWC all academic team. In basketball, Sig-Ep's were Fred Mooney and Arthur Royston. Bill Standley, Bill Bishop, and H. A. Scott started for the Razorback baseball team.

Whit Hall was chosen for Who's Who. Sig-Ep's were also active in Alpha Phi Omega, Circle K, Phi Eta Sigma, and ABC. The Sig-Ep Homecoming float entry won first place again this year.

Officers for Sigma Phi Epsilon this year were: Whit Hall, president; John Stone, vice-president; John Powel Jenkins, comptroller; Terry Rasco, secretary; Bill McCreery, recorder.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Tekes Have Continued Success

The conclusion of the academic year for Theta Xi chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon marks the end of Teke's eighth year on the UofA campus. This year began and ended with an unprecedented rate of growth and activity. Tekes were elected to various campus offices including president, vice-president, historian, and recording secretary of Alpha Phi Omega, vice-president of SAM, secretary of the College Red Cross, and chairman of three student senate committees.

Tekes were active in other campus honorary and service organizations, such as ODK, Alpha Kappa Psi, Phi Eta Sigma, Civic Club, ABC, Tau Beta Pi, Scabbard and Blade and the Arnold Air Society. Tekes were also active in YDC and YRC.

Teke social activities were anxiously awaited by many students at the University. The high point of the fall social scene was the especially successful Teke Peace Party. With winter gone, the entire chapter became involved in spring-time activities highlighted by the annual Red Carnation Ball, and the famous "Night in the Islands" party.

As part of the world's largest social fraternity, the Tekes of Theta-Xi always hold before them the precepts of their inter-national organization, "Not for Wealth, Rank, or Honor, but for Personal Worth and Character."

We have completed the most successful year of our eight, and are awaiting an even better year in 1969-70 with the leadership of Terry Jones, Steve Martin, Jerry Delezen, and Andy Ziser.

Engineers one and all.

Theta Tau

Theta Tau excels in leadership

Theta Tau is a national professional fraternity open only to engineering students. Although scholastic achievement is an important phase of Theta Tau's life, the Taus pride themselves in maintaining a strong bond of fraternal fellowship and a high standard of professional interest.

Theta Taus were very active in the organizations of engineering school, including numerous offices in technical societies, honor societies, and the Engineering Council. Members of Theta Tau have also continued to show leadership ability in many other phases of campus life.

Theta Taus tapped for Blue Key were Russell Ewing, Steve Crow, John Robert Bass. Those tapped for Omicron Delta Kappa were Bob Davidson, George Smith, and Ron Haney. Theta Tau was especially honored with the selection of Steve Freeman, Floyd Murphy, Nason Brookings, Al Hanby, and Whit Hall in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Theta Tau's social calendar was filled with numerous infamous apartment parties, as well as the Founder's Day Banquet, St. Patricia Banquet, and the local Founding Banquet.

Theta Tau draws its membership from students in the college of engineering. The Theta Tau's have among their members many leaders in other campus organizations and publications.

Those who served as officers during the spring semester were Russell Ewing serving as regent, Richard Hall as vice-regent, Russell Jackson as scribe and Bill Vest as treasurer.

Futrall Hall

Futrall Holds Slave Day

Futrall Hall, housing 196 upperclass women, entered into all phases of University activity this year.

Futrall women worked on the TRAVELER and RAZORBACK staffs and edited the "A"-Book. They served on the Student Senate and Student Government committees, worked with Hallaballoo, were members of ABC, Mortar Board, the Razorback Band, and Tau Alpha Upsilon.

Cardinal Key tapped Sharon Wilson, Miriam Duell, and Sherry Simmons. Bette Ryan was elected to reign as Agri Queen. Two WIHC officers came from Futrall; President Sharon Wilson and Treasurer Barbara Wood.

Futrall's social activities ranged from its Christmas formal to a party for underprivileged children to a slave sale where girls were auctioned off for the day in order to raise funds to support the dorm's activities. After several semesters of scrimping and saving, the House Council made full payment on a new color television.

First semester officers were President, Halita Holt; Vice-President, Loretta Lane; Secretary, Susie Mason; and Treasurer, Diane Patton. Second semester, Futrall was under the leadership of President, Ann Pride, Vice-President, Jean Moss; Secretary, Linda Trussell, and Treasurer, Nancy Timmons.

4-H House

4-H Leads Scholastically

The 4-H House is unique among residence halls on the University campus. Owned by the Extension Homemakers' Council of Arkansas, it offers to its members the satisfying experience of small group living.

Under the leadership of Barbara Hankins, president; Vernell Lumpkin, vice-president; and Joan Bratton, social chairman, the 4-H House experienced a successful year.

Several drop-ins and listening parties were held during the fall, and a group of underprivileged children were entertained at the House on Halloween night. The Christmas season was observed with the annual faculty tea and Pollyanna Banquet. Founders' Day and the annual Luau celebration highlighted the spring semester.

The 4-H House was active in WRA, captured the basketball title, among others. They won the AWS Penny Night trophy and Red Cross Blood Drive trophy in the fall semester, as well as leading women's residence halls scholastically for the fourth consecutive year.

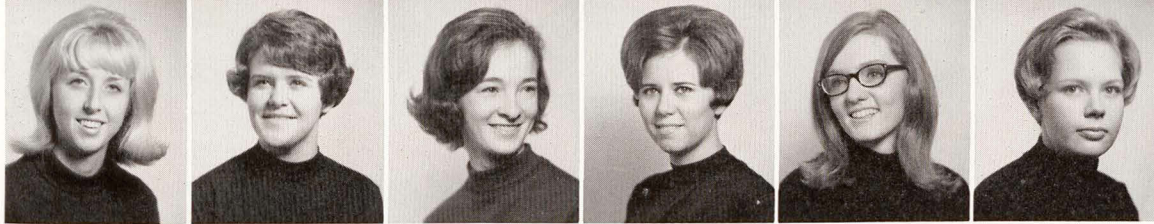

Angela Lumpkin, Judy Tilley, and Bessie Hersberger were awarded AWS Scholar trophies for making 4.00 during the fall semester. They, along with Diana Danforth, were named to Alpha Lambda Delta. Barbara Hankins was tapped for Cardinal Key.

Hotz Hall

30 Hotz Coeds Selected for $\Lambda\Lambda\Delta$

Hotz concluded its history as a girl's dorm by housing 380 co-eds — one being a foreign exchange student. Next fall it will become a four-year dorm.

Starting the year off was a tea honoring Dean and Mrs. Hotz. Thanksgiving brought many of the occupants of Sunrise Manor to dine with the Hotz girls. Ending the year was a reunion for all the Hotz girls from past years.

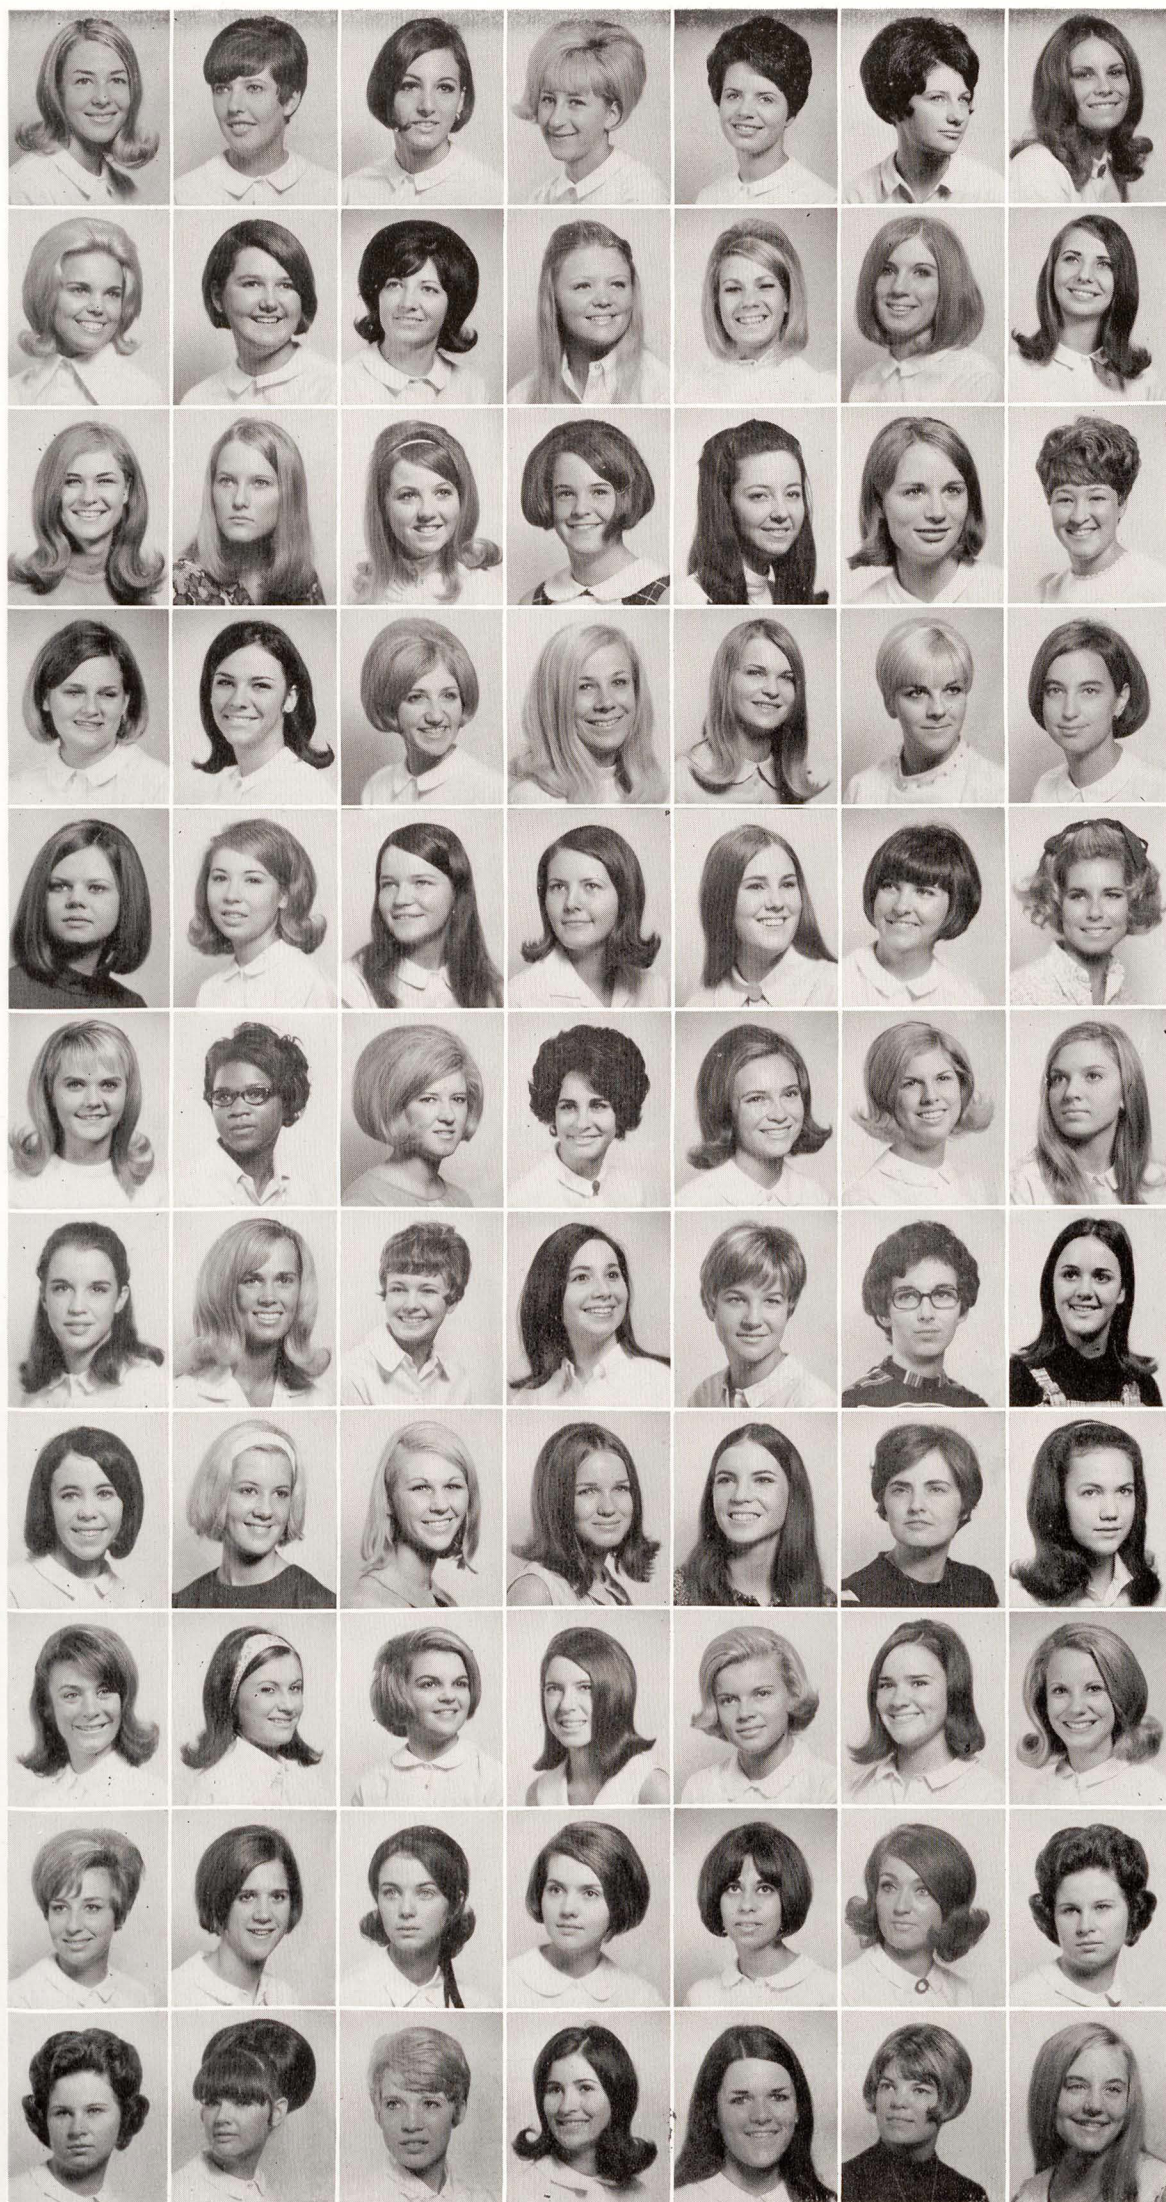

Honors fell upon Hotz all year. In Singfony the dorm won second place. Cindy Johnson was voted ROTC representative. Patsy Wilkerson was selected as Alpha Gamma Rho Sweetheart. Lisa Edwards served as a Hallaballoo Hostess. Chimes filled its ranks with several Hotz girls and thirty co-eds made Alpha Lambda Delta with four making a 4.00.

To guide Hotz through its last year were first semester officers: Judy Lukas, president; Carolyn Scribner, vice-president; Debbie Wright, secretary; and Cheri Martini, treasurer. Second semester officers were: Nancy Niles, president; Nancy McGee, vice-president; Marcia Miller, secretary; and Carol Hoggsett, treasurer.

During a tea held in their honor, Dean and Mrs. Hotz were greeted by Hotz coeds.

Razorback Hall

Razorback Played Santa

Highlighting Razorback Hall activities this year was a Christmas party for needy children. However, many of the residents individually participated in campus activities.

Kay Thomas, Johnnie Holcomb, and Susie Case represented the University in Longbeach, California, at the NACURH Convention. Johnnie served as NACURH Vice-President this year. Kay and Margaret Rose Palmer were selected as charter members of Cardinal Key. Margaret Rose was also Associate Editor of the TRAVELER.

Sigma Alpha Iota President was Frances Smith.

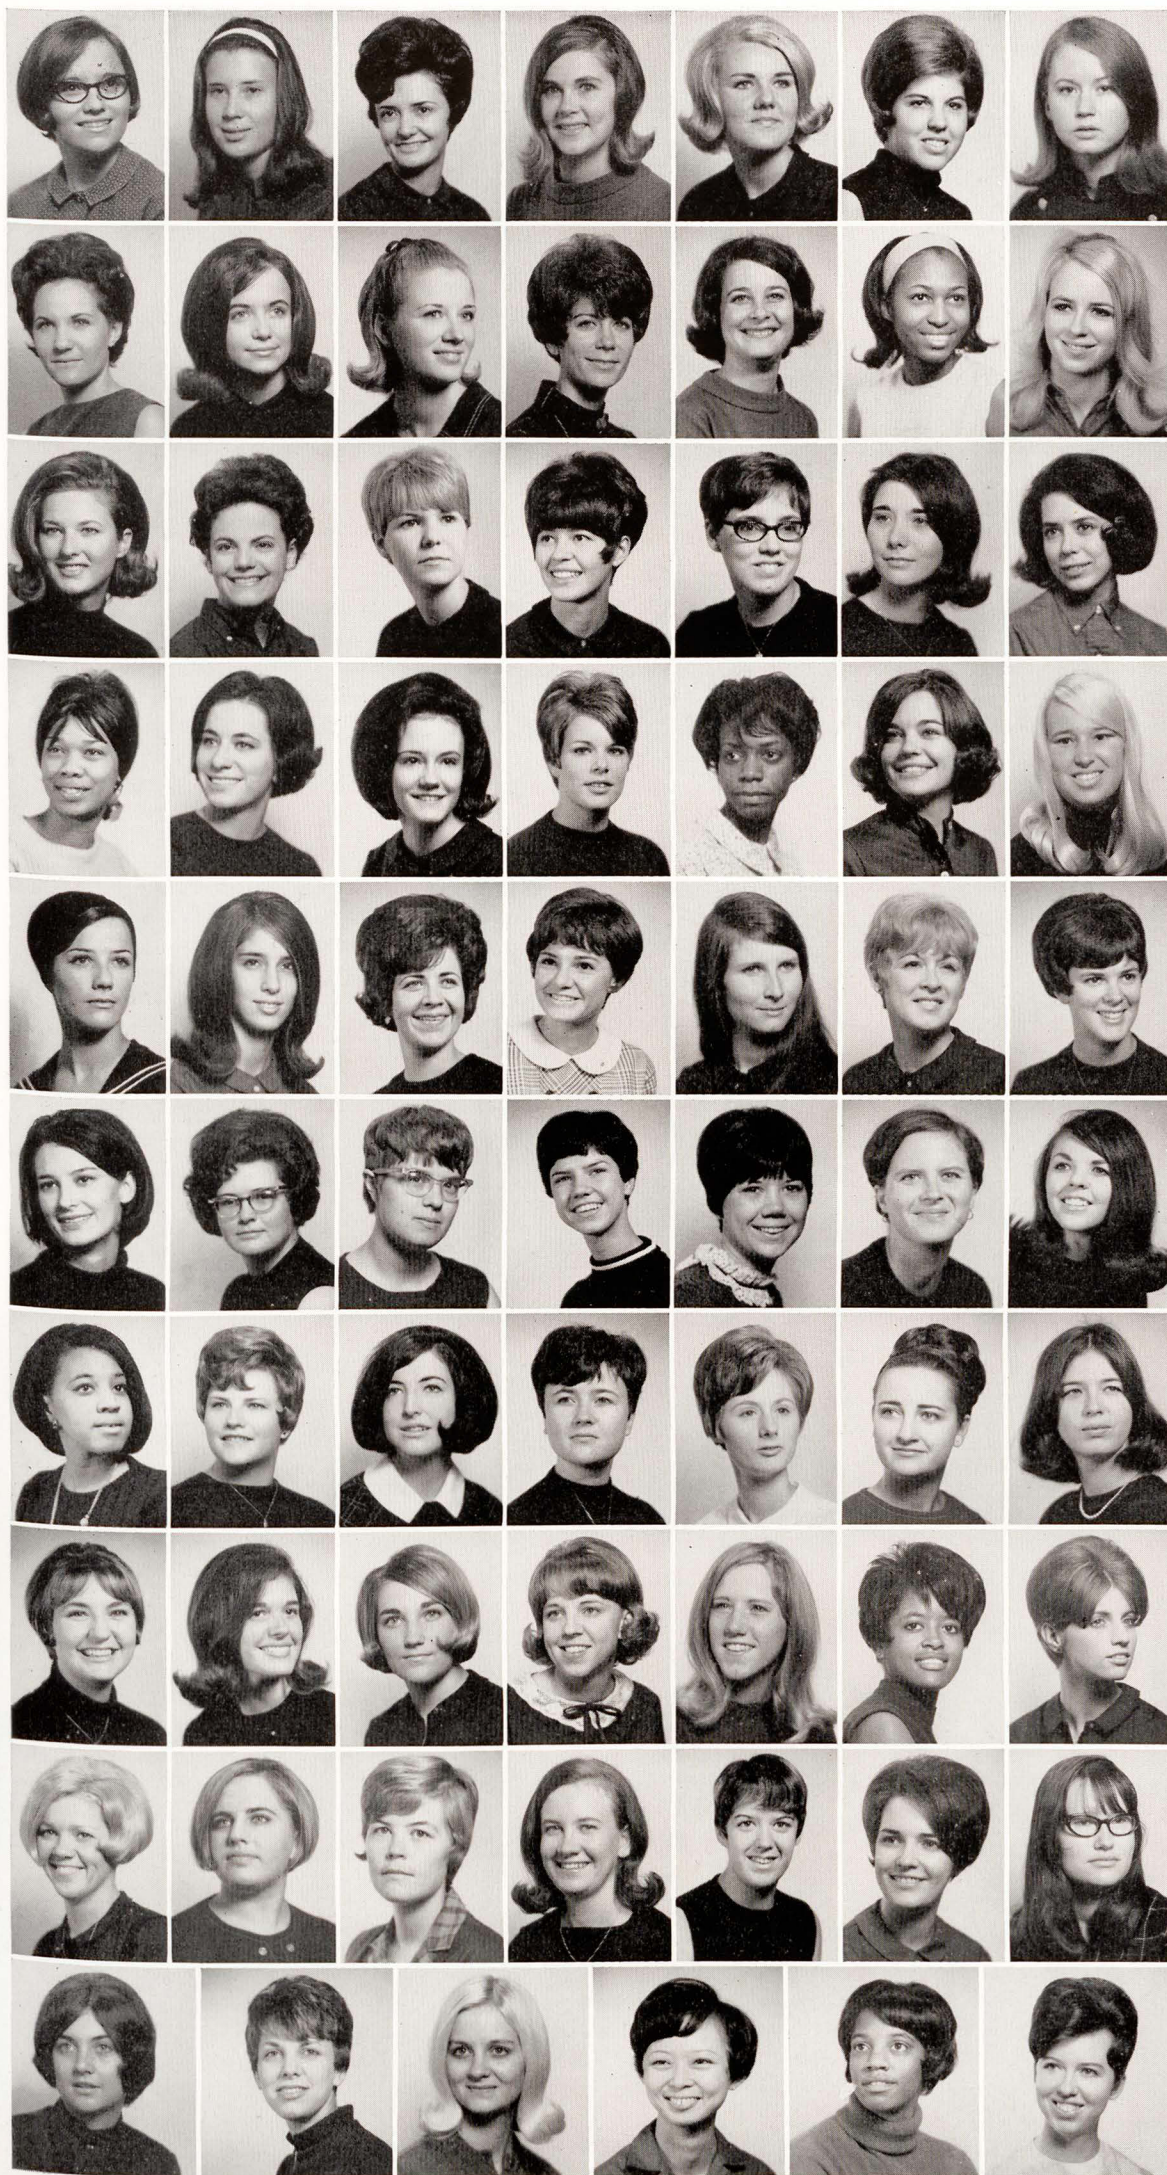

Kathy Stell and Martha McCoy won first chair positions in the all Arkansas Intercollegiate Band. Kathy was also tapped for Mortar Board.

Marilyn Connell was named recipient of the Yader Scholarship, and Henrietta Jenkins received the Arkansas Medical Health Award. Kathy Corruthers was honored by the Herbert Lehman Education Fund.

Reid Hall

First in Homecoming Decorations

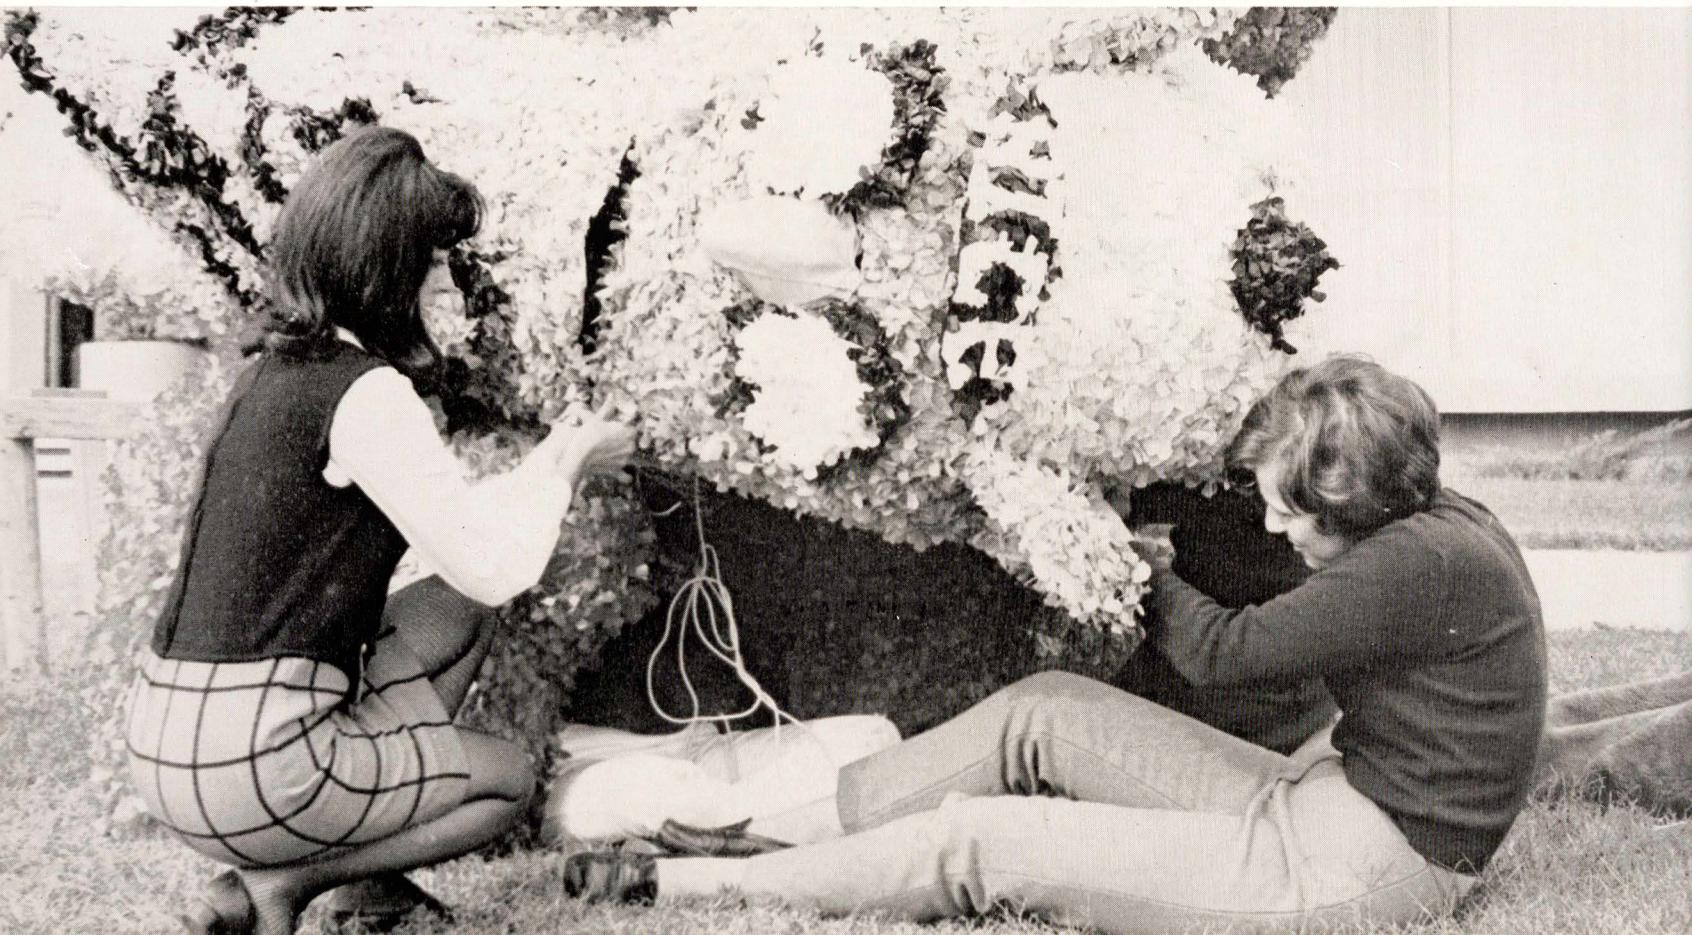

This has been a successful year for the residents of Reid Hall, who brought recognition to their dorm in almost every phase of University life.

Susan Dennehy was selected as a Scabbard and Blade sponsor, and Diane Carpenter and Kathy Brewer were selected as ROTC sponsors. Pat Wojcik was chosen as a RAZORBACK Beauty, and Georgia Parker was one of the first members of the newly organized Cardinal Key. Ginger Roberts was selected as a Hallaballoo hostess.

Taking pride in their Homecoming decorations, Reid again won first place for the second year in a row. Other activities Reid was involved in included a Christmas party for underprivileged children, an annual tea for Student Government candidates, a spring dance, a Dad's Day tea and an art show.

Dorm officers were: Susan Dennehy, President; Mitzie McWilliams, Vice-President; Lynn Baker, Secretary (fall); Donna Orlando, Secretary (spring); and Karen Horton, Treasurer.

Pomfret Housing Center

Coed Dedicated in April

The Coed Complex, since its completion in the fall of 1968, has provided a new dimension in residence hall living. On April 20, 1969, Coed Complex was officially designated as James E. Pomfret Housing Center. The Housing Center was named for the late James E. Pomfret, Vice-President of Business for the University.

Several hall and service projects were completed during the year. A general reserve library was established as was an art room, providing space for work on arts and crafts projects. At Thanksgiving, residents filled a "Thanksgiving Basket" of food for needy families in Fayetteville. Christmas brought the annual party for underprivileged children.

Of course, numerous social activities were also held during the year. Besides a Christmas Formal, Halloween Party, and Spring Formal, the Presidents Reception was held at the Housing Center this year. During Symposium a reception was held for Senator Edmund Muskie. The Housing Center also provided the setting for the Casino Carnival sponsored each year by WIHC and MIHC.

Hall officers were: Governor, Jim Starks; Lt. Governor, Beth Mason; Treasurer, Chip Cooper; and Secretary, Faith Riley.

The Casino Carnival, which was held in Coed this year, is a joint project of MIHC and WIHC.

Women's Inter-Hall Council

OFFICERS: First Row: Becky Bane, President. Second Row: Linda Handley, Secretary; Barbara Wood, Treasurer; Chris Hohne, Social Chairman.

The representatives from seven women's living groups which compose WIHC were busy this year with many projects. In continuing old traditions and adding new services, WIHC proved that it is not limited to residence hall activity.

Casino Carnival was sponsored jointly by WIHC and MIHC early in the fall, and Hallabaloo Week, begun two years ago, was successfully repeated this year. A Christmas party for children of faculty members, a spring fashion show, awards to outstanding hall and senior woman, and sponsorship of foreign students was continued.

Officers for the first semester were Sharon Wilson, president; Becky Bane, vice-president; Linda Handley, secretary; Barbara Wood, treasurer; and Chris Hohne, social chairman. Becky Bane took over the office of president in January.

The highlight of the spring semester was the effort of WIHC and HIMC to combine to form the Residence Hall Association. If passed by the students, this will go into effect next year.

WIHC: First Row: Mary Rodgers, Shirley Price, Linda Handley, June Freund, Janet Hecox, Kris Hohne, Kathy Darnell, Sharon Wilson. Second Row: Ai-Ping Wong, Becky James,

Men's Inter-House Congress

The Legislative Council of Men's Inter House Congress is composed of elected representatives from all men's residence areas who plan activities for the benefit of all men in the halls.

MIHC and WIHC jointly sponsored Residence Hall Week, HALLABALLOO '69. Other MIHC projects and social activities included the annual Casino Carnival and awards to the Outstanding Man in Residence Halls and to the Outstanding Athlete.

George Lease, past president of the MIHC was elected president of NACURH at the convention held at Long Beach, California last year.

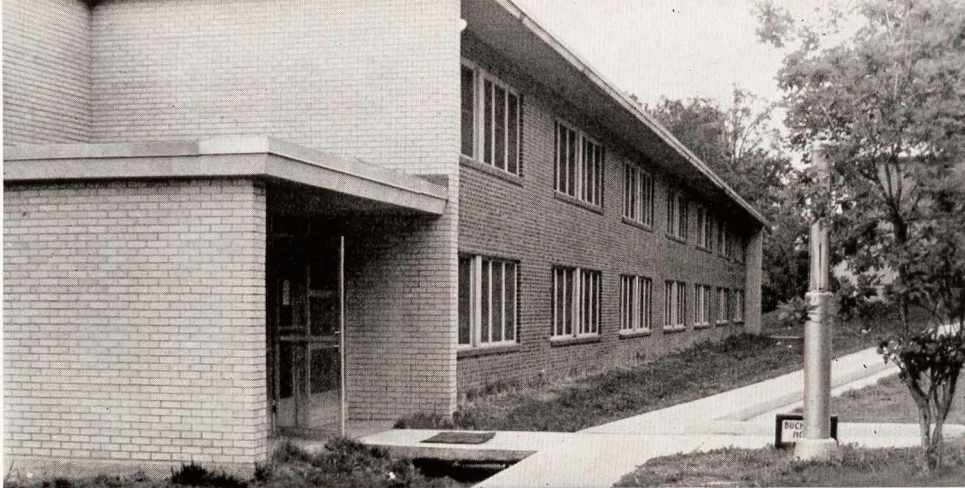

The MIHC and the WIHC decided to merge to accommodate the change to coed living areas. The resulting organization will be known as Residence Hall Association, or RHA.

Officers for the year were Jim Burnett, President; Jim Carson, Vice-President; Terry Hendrickson, Secretary; Robert Cupp, Treasurer; and Alan Storm, Social Chairman.

Buchanan Hall

The Beer House Ballad
 Into the mouth of death,
 Into the jaws of Hell,
 Strode the Buchanan.
 Fierce and mean — as people tell.
 In their eyes, a gleam they had
 And roundball in hand they came,
 Charging down the court

— Glory their aim
 — Winning their game
 Their enemies fled
 Before the mighty yell
 — “Raise Hell!”
 Though disappearing as they came,
 The Buchanans — a legend remains.

Droke House

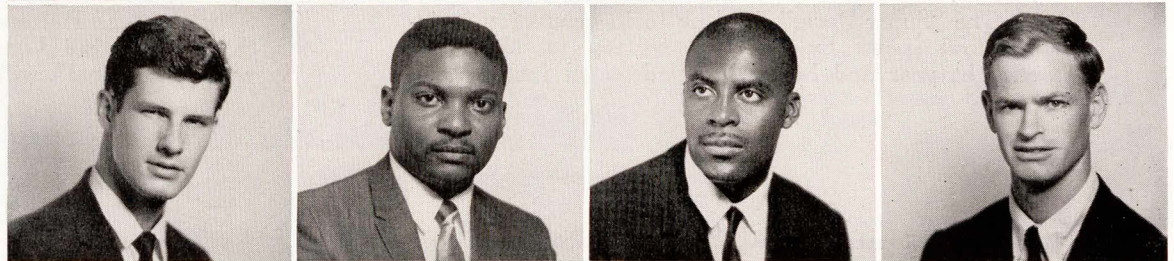

Droke House quietly completed its second year as a graduate residence hall this year. After serving for several years as an undergraduate residence hall, Droke has completed the transition to an atmosphere adapted to allowing its residents to pursue the serious study and extensive research necessary in the graduate program.

No officers were elected, but John Seward, the Resident Assistant for Droke House, served well as the spokesman for the men of Droke whenever the need arose. Activities on an organized basis were kept to a bare minimum to allow the men to pursue their own studies and interest to the fullest as individuals.

Holcombe Hall

Holcombe Was First In Intramurals

Trying to break away from traditional dorm life this year, the men of Holcombe were willing to explore new avenues in residence hall living. A friendly atmosphere, which Holcombe takes pride in, existed all year and a warm fire was always burning in the winter months.

The "Super Dorm" lived up to its reputation in intramural sports by finishing on top for the third straight year and by having undefeated football and basketball teams for the third year also. It was a good year. It was a year in which freshmen lived in Holcombe for the first time, and they got into the swing of university life quickly with the dorm's varied social life. The year was filled with drop-ins, exchange dinners, and openhouse for Dad's Day and Homecoming. There was Slave Day, the Holcombe-Futrall Christmas Dance, the Holcombe-Futrall Luau. The big event was the "Super Dorm Formal", with the theme of Odyssey 60.

Holcombe Hall kept up tradition of Super Dorm with Super Dance.

Humphreys Hall

Humphreys Finishes In Style

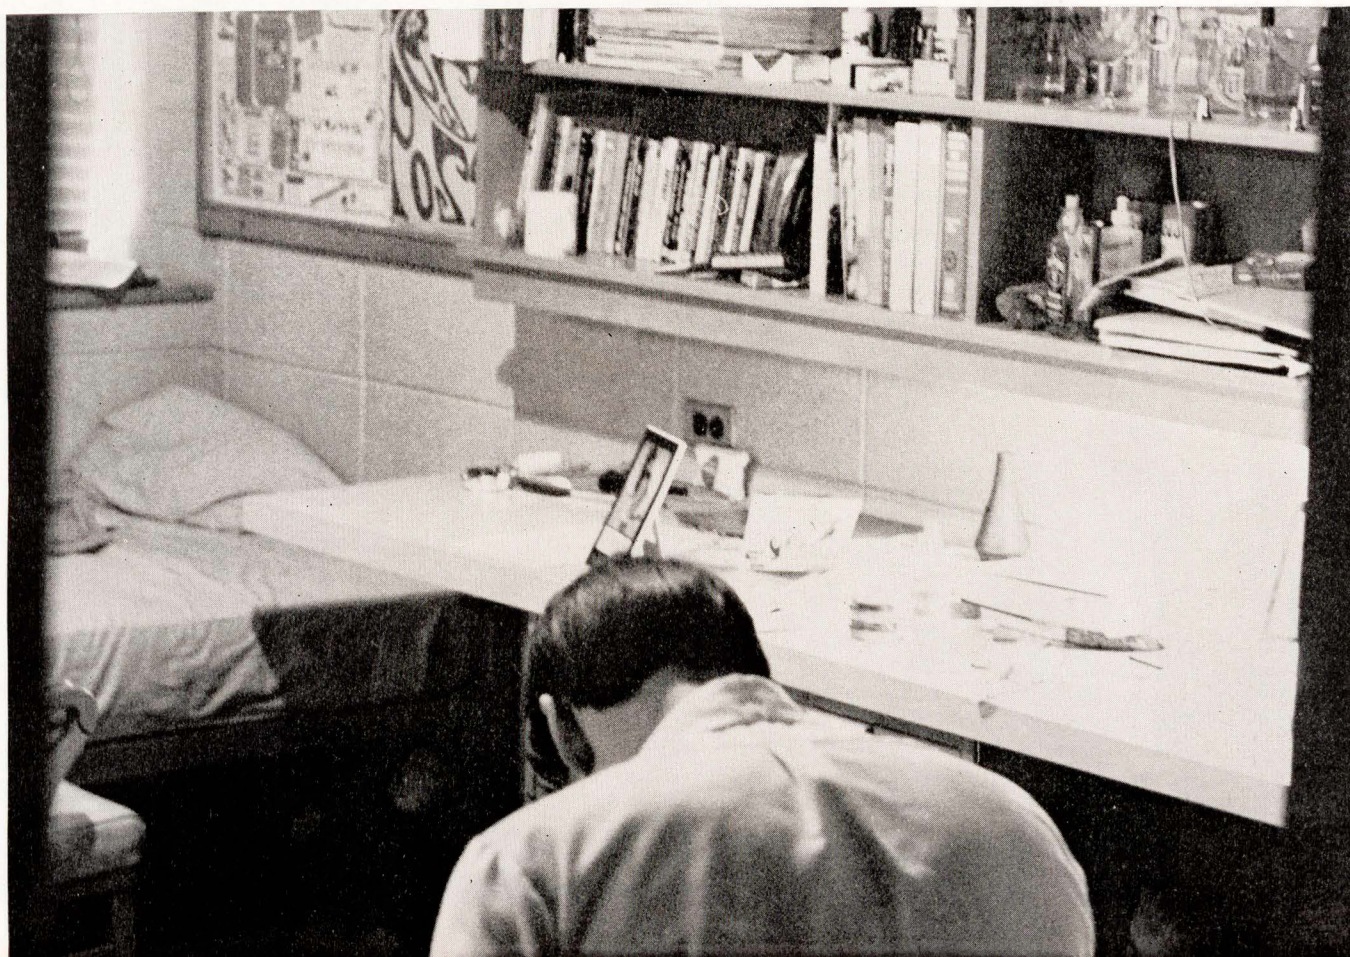

The end of this school year marks the death of a tradition in residence halls. After this year, Humphreys Hall, the only remaining men's residence hall, will be changed to a four-year women's residence hall. The final year of male occupancy was very good. Under the guidance of a well-qualified staff and the leadership of the hall officers, Humphreys achieved many goals.

The first big success of the year was the second-place award for homecoming house decorations. Humphreys spirit was also conveyed to the pep rallies, where the men of the hall loudly supported the ever famous HOGS.

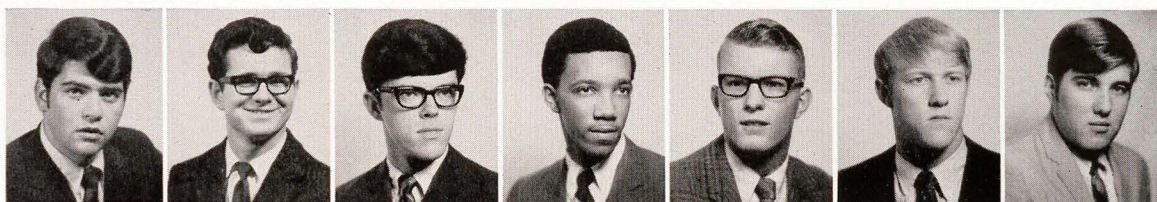

Concerned about the many changes taking place within the residence hall system, the men of Humphreys showed an extreme interest in residence hall programs by actively supporting Hallaballoo '69 and MIHC.

This wide range of campus activity was accompanied by much activity within the residence hall. Although there were many parties, dances and outings to attend, the scholastic side of life was not neglected, as proven by the many MIHC scholastic awards distributed to many of the Humphreys residents. The residents of Humphreys also found time to actively participate in the intramural programs.

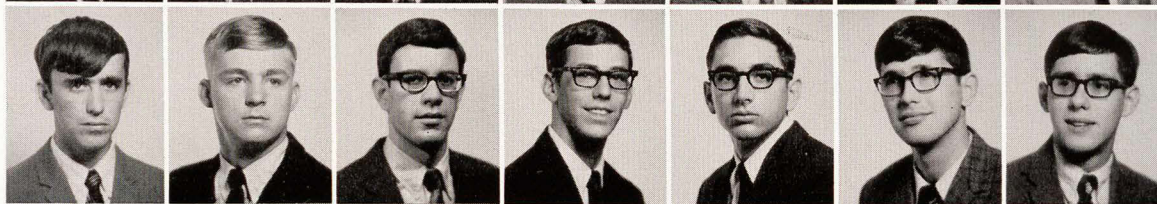

Typical room in Humphreys shows creativity and sophistication.

Amidst all the activity, both on and off campus, students still find the solitude and time to study.

Sedgewell House

Sedgewell Wins In Basketball

Sedgewell House remained an upperclass residence hall this year, and enjoyed continued success as a leader in campus dormitory life. Officers were: Ken Helton, President; Mark Kruger, Vice-President; Terry Reed, Secretary; Tony Merriweather, Treasurer; and Bobby Cornish, Social Chairman.

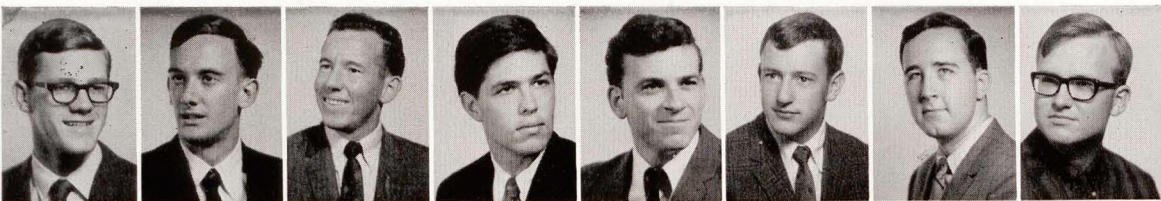

Sedgewell sponsored drop-ins, openhouses, spring outings and the annual Christmas party for underprivileged children. Sedgewell men were also active in MIHC and all-dorm social activities.

In intramural sports, Sedgewell won the division title in basketball.

Residents of Sedgewell were active in many campus activities. Jim Burnett served as President of MIHC and was tapped for membership in Blue Key and was elected to Who's Who. Matt Wakugawa was publicity chairman of the International Club; Jerry Martin was president of Pi Tau Sigma and secretary of ASME. Mark Kruger was president of PEM Club, and Bill Nielsen was 2nd Lt. of Scabbard and Blade.

Sedgewell House was active in Intramurals.

William House

William House Kept High GPA

With the introduction of freshmen into William House this year, the dorm life was far from commonplace. In keeping with a traditional accent on scholarship, William House maintained a high grade point average despite rather "spirited" tendencies of some of the residents.

William House's social activities included a children's Christmas party, a Christmas dance, drop-ins, participation in Homecoming activities, and a Dad's Day reception and open house. The men were also active in intramural activities. Various organizations represented by the residents included Civic Club, Blue Key, Alpha Pi Mu, Tau Beta Pi, Tau Alpha Upsilon, Alpha Zeta, Eta Kappa Nu, Phi Eta Sigma, Kappa Kappa Psi, Alpha Phi Omega, the Senate of Associated Students and Sigma Alpha William.

The officers of the dorm for the first semester were: Alan Fabrycky, President; Clyde West, Vice-President; David Raymond, Secretary-Treasurer; and Stan Trauth, Social Chairman. When Clyde returned to Congress (MIHC), John Fuller swept into the vice-presidency. Darrel Rice, Eddie Morgan and Ferrell Ervin were counselors and Tom Wyrick was Head Resident.

Men of William House spent many long hours of study at the "Library."

William House Homecoming decoration should have substituted sugar for cotton.

Wilson Sharp House

Wilson Sharp Had Full Calendar

Although Arkansas' Sugar Bowl victory and SWC football championship were highlights of the athletic year, residents of Wilson Sharp continued their full schedule of activities. The carefully planned schedule is worked out by house mother Mrs. Karle Smith, in close cooperation with the elected officers of Wilson Sharp. Officers for 1969 included Gordon McNulty, president; Dennis Berner, vice-president; and Dewitt Smith, social chairman. It is a compliment to Wilson Sharp that its officers were all A-B students, two of them majoring in engineering.

The year included the traditional Christmas Party, two outings during the winter and spring (with promising high school athletes as guests), and a series of post-game buffets. A special highlight of this past year was the Championship Football banquet in the ballroom of the Student Union.

Residents of Wilson Sharp have an active chapter in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (Dewitt Smith, president); and are guests each year of Rogers, Ark., in an annual Razorback Golf Tournament. Bob White was the 1968 winner.

Wilson Sharp is joined by Darby Hall, the dining-recreation wing. Coach Lon Farrell is the resident counselor.

Yocum Hall

Yocum Installed KASS

Yocum Hall, in its first year as a four-year hall, showed spirit and leadership in campus activities.

Yocum won first place in the men's division in Singfony, placed second in the Homecoming Float Contest, and retained the Spirit Trophy given by ABC for the second consecutive year.

Two firsts were initiated in Yocum this year. Selected as the first annual sweetheart was Paula Clark. Radio Station KASS was organized, providing music enjoyment within the dorm.

A reception was held for Senators "Mutt" Jones, Eirnhart, Rep. Herb Rule and Jim Caldwell after they were invited to speak at Symposium in rebuttal to Cassius Clay.

Among the outstanding students in Yocum was George Lease, Associated Students President and National President of College and University Residence Halls. Two delegates sent to the NACURH Convention were Put Wilkes and Alan Storm. Bill Granderson was selected as St. Pat.

Providing leadership in the hall were President Norman "Put" Wilkes, Vice-President Paul Cunningham, Secretary Bill Ruch, Treasurer Ted Legatski, and Social Chairman Jim Hardwich. The new Head Resident this year was Dale Smith.

After years of being second best, Yocum finally broke into the winner's circle in Singfony.

UA Athletics Backed By Integrity

When John Barnhill came to the UofA from the University of Tennessee in 1946, he had a plan. His plan was to vault the University of Arkansas into athletic prominence. In his first season as Razorback coach, Barnhill earned a share of the SWC crown and a trip to the Cotton Bowl. This was followed in the next season with a trip to the Dixie Bowl. Completing four years as coach and athletic director, Barnhill decided to devote his full attentions to the task of building a formidable athletic program at the UofA.

Right hand man to Barnhill is assistant athletic director George Cole. Cole, a graduate of the UofA in 1927, still holds the all-time scoring record at Arkansas. His work for the UofA in athletics has been invaluable and he's been a Razorback for over 40 years.

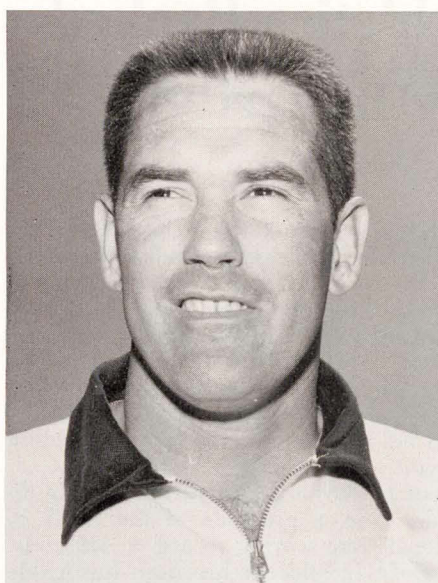

With an 86-30-1 record at the UofA, there's little doubt that Frank Broyles is the winningest coach in the school's history. He starts his 12th year here next fall.

Razorback Coaches Rank Among Best

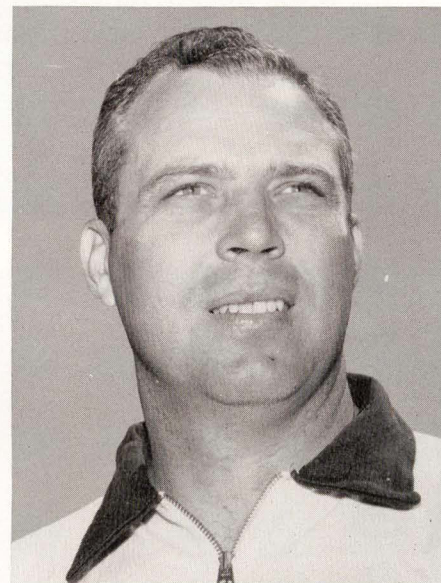

Since Arkansas' format called for a new look offense for the '68 season, what else could answer the call better than new look coaches. Head football coach Frank Broyles assembled one of the most talented coaching staffs in college football to tutor the sophomore heavy Razorbacks on the fundamentals of running, passing, blocking and kicking.

Former professional football quarterback Don Breaux and ex-Alabama offensive receiving genius Richard Williamson headlined the pre-supposed offense dominated tactics. As always, coaches Hootie Ingram and Charley Coffey insured opponents that the Razorback defense would be nothing to joke about. Offensive line coach Mervin Johnson spent long hours working with the Razorback blocking attack. Obviously his efforts paid off, with senior guard Jim Barnes making the Associated Press All-America team. Wilson Matthews, serving with Broyles since he came to the UofA, was elevated to the post of Administrative Assistant and the head coach for the Shoat football team.

OSU Falls Victim To Hogs' Comeback

In the season opener, the young Arkansas Razorbacks wasted no time in establishing themselves as a solid team . . . one that would provide stern competition for teams in the future.

Two short punts, a fumble recovery and a pass interception gave the Porkers enough impetus to pull a stunning 32-15 comeback victory over the Big Eight Oklahoma State Cowboys. A full house at War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock watched the sophomore heavy Razorbacks disassemble the Cowboys, who last season upset the Razorbacks in Little Rock. David Dickey became Arkansas' "Mr. Touchdown," when he scored two times against OSU. It was an impressive debut for sophomore quarterback Bill Montgomery.

GLEN HOCKERSMITH ripped the Oklahoma State defensive line apart for one of his eight-yard gains, setting up another Arkansas touchdown.

Razorbacks Thrash Tulsa, 56-13

Tulsa's Golden Hurricane was second on Arkansas' red list for revenge (the Hurricane topped Arkansas 13-12 last season) and the Porkers responded to their call, walloping Tulsa 56-13 in their debut at Razorback Stadium.

Tailback David Dickey took off around the right side and decided to pass on the option play. He found sophomore flanker Chuck Dicus loose and hit Dicus on a pass that went for 61 yards and the first touchdown for the afternoon. From then on, it seemed like the only thing that the Porkers had to do to score was get the ball. All three Arkansas quarterbacks led their offenses into the end zone for one or more touchdowns and Gary Adams rolled 61 yards on a punt return to boost the scoring.

Arkansas continued its perennial dominance over the Horned Frogs despite warnings of a superb group down at Fort Worth this season. The Frogs were definitely prepared for the Porkers this year, but Arkansas endured the punishment of TCU's injuring three Razorback starters. When the dust finally settled at Amon Carter Stadium, the Razorbacks had boarded their plane with a 17-7 win on their record.

The Frogs scored in the first half to break Arkansas' shutout streak against TCU, but the Porkers yielded only 24 yards to TCU throughout the entire second half.

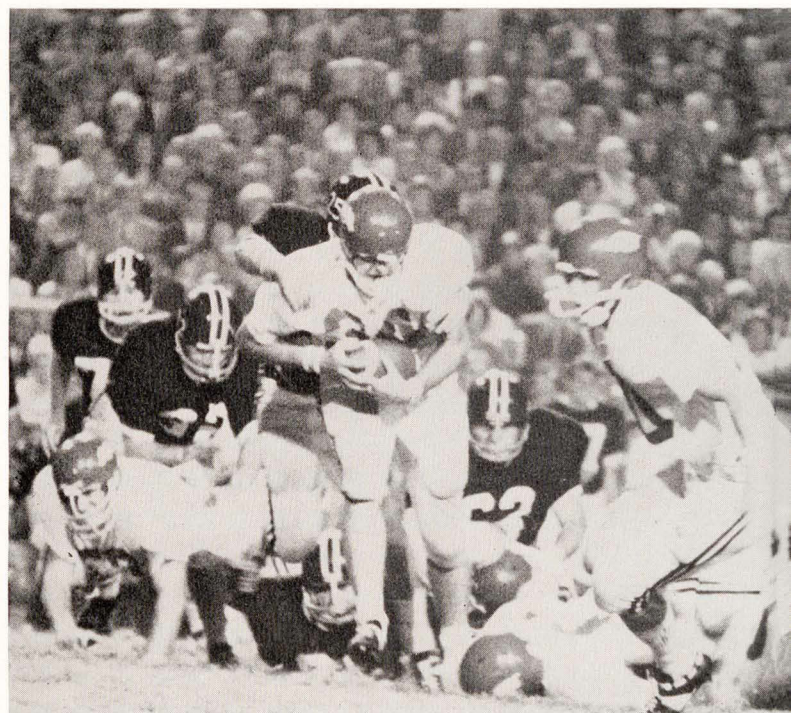

Sophomore sensation Bill Burnett ran for one touchdown and set up another touchdown on a penetrating run in the fourth period to boost Arkansas' scoring.

CLIFF POWELL will put his shoulder to the ground to accomplish his job. In this case, it was one of the Baylor Bears who got the "cold shoulder."

GORDON McNULTY plays the game the way it should be played . . . with plenty of enthusiasm. He jumped a blocker to put the skids on Pinky Palmer.

The Dad's Day classic saw Arkansas roll up an easy 21-0 lead, when the visiting Baylor Bears staged a crowd-startling comeback that finally resulted in a 35-19 win for the Razorbacks, who with this win equaled their total winning efforts for last season.

Arkansas rallied for three touchdowns and extra points in the first three periods, but the third quarter was reserved for Baylor and the Bears fell two PAT's short of tying the scores at 21 all.

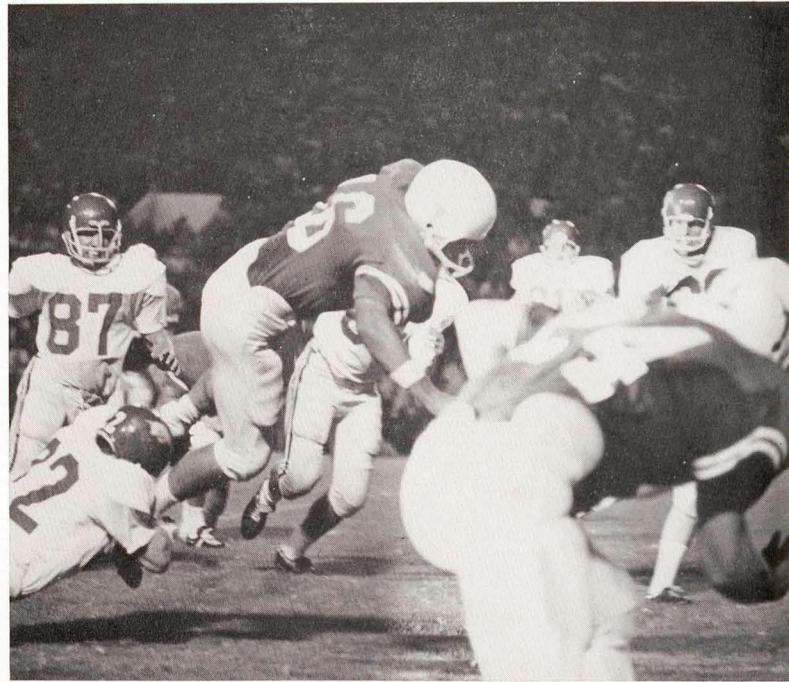

However, Arkansas' fourth quarter magic took the field, helping the Razorbacks to two touchdowns in the final period and the scores held 35-19 in favor of the Razorbacks. According to the stats, three fumbles lost by Baylor made the difference.

BRUCE MAXWELL overpowered Corby Robertson to make a couple of sizeable gains against the Longhorns, but the Texas defense stood supreme.

TEXAS QUARTERBACK James Street figured on a trip downfield, but speedy defensive back Gary Adams delayed his plans for several plays.

Horns Hand Hogs First Loss, 39-29

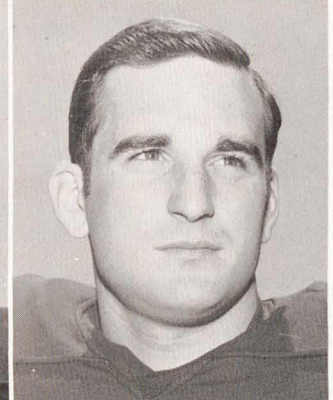

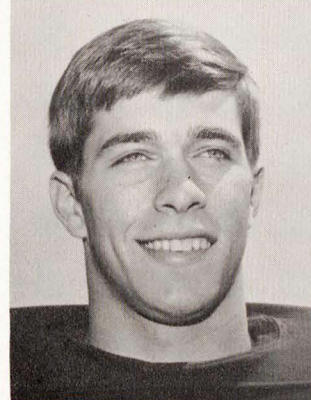

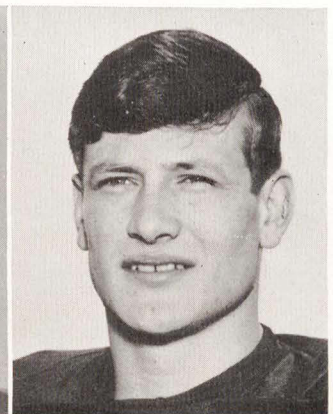

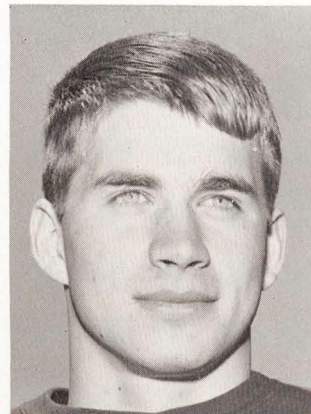

The high-flying Razorbacks were overdue for a setback, and Darrel Royal figured that his Texas Longhorns would suit the job as well as anyone.

Texas, who started the season with a tie to Houston and a loss to Texas Tech, re-vamped their offense and quarterback James Street (replacing Super Bill Bradley) guided the 'Horns to a heart-breaking 39-29 beating over the Razorbacks.

Arkansas started the game with two fumble recoveries early in the first period, but the stubborn Longhorn defense refused to yield a touchdown and Arkansas called on placekicker Bob White to put the Hogs on the scoreboard. White obliged, but Arkansas finally had to take the back seat to the omnipotent Texas drive and the Porkers marked one in the loss column.

Razorbacks Edge North Texas, 17-15

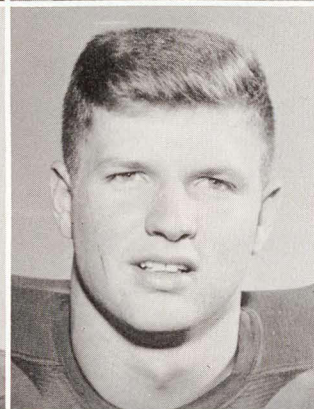

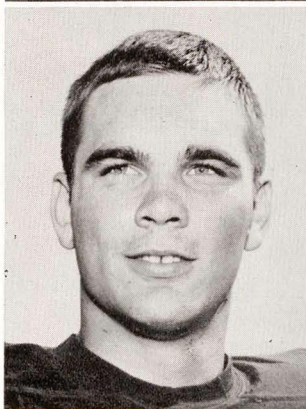

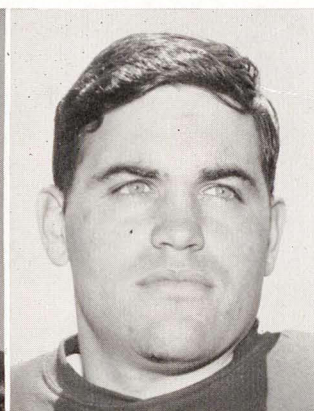

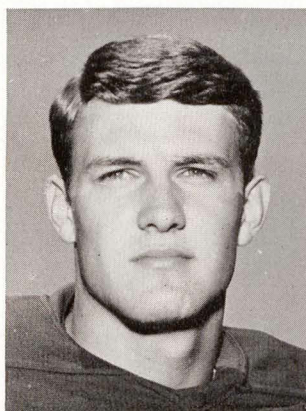

Arkansas' mid-season breather turned into a real shocker when North Texas' Eagles clawed at the Razorbacks for four quarters before finally yielding in a 17-15 battle at War Memorial Stadium.

Arkansas clutched dearly at 17-3 fourth period lead as the North Texans cranked up their power train and started toward Arkansas' defense. The drive resulted in one touchdown for the visitors and another close one that the officials ruled as trapped.

The stubborn Razorback defense held off another North Texas drive and Arkansas held on to the lead for their fifth win for the season. Bill Burnett carried 35 times for a near-record 185 yards.

Homecoming 1968 ended on a winning note for Arkansas as the Razorbacks dazzled the Rice Owls and collected another conference win at the expense of a 46-21 Rice defeat.

Bill Montgomery and Chuck Dicus rattled the Owl defense with an outstanding offensive display before the capacity crowd. From the beginning to the final gun, it was clearly an Arkansas dominated game.

DAVID DICKEY appears to be perfectly balanced on the football here to the left of Max Peacock (46), but everything that goes up must come down.

MAX PEACOCK (46) latched onto this pass in a rather precarious position. He snared six passes that game.

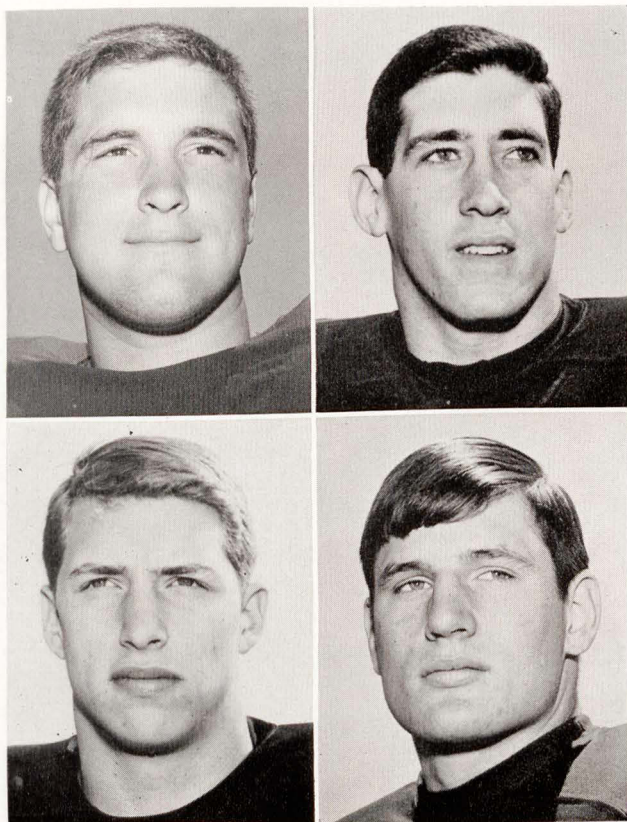

CHUCK DICUS catches passes quite well, but here he shows a Texag defender that he knows just what to do after he catches a pass.

ON SOME DAYS some things just never go right. Bill Montgomery (10) probably entertained this thought several times during the past season.

Bearing bitter memories of last year's homecoming loss (33-21) to Texas A&M in Fayetteville, the Razorbacks headed for College Station with their minds set on spoiling the Texag's homecoming.

Going into their first afternoon game in College Station in 20 years, the Razorbacks had a 23-15-3 advantage over the Aggies-in a series that dated back to 1903, making A&M Arkansas' most defeated conference rival.

At this game, the Razorbacks, behind by 8 points at half-time, hurried their usual fourth quarter rally and staged a stirring 13-point comeback in the third period, pacing a 25-22 win over Texas A&M.

BILL BURNETT sought an easier solution to gaining yardage on the ground, but the only possible way was to pound it out on the turf.

SMU'S MIKE RICHARDSON (24) was one of the leading ground gainers in the Southwest Conference . . . that is, until he met the Razorback defense.

Hogs Endure SMU Rally 35-29

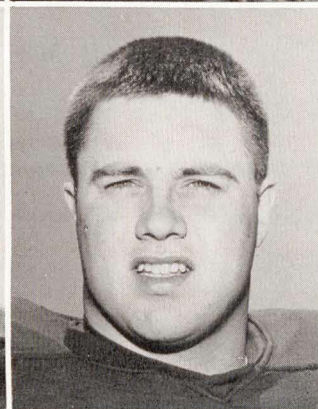

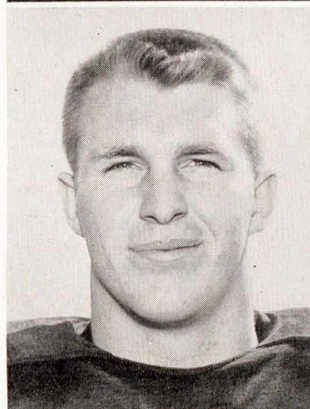

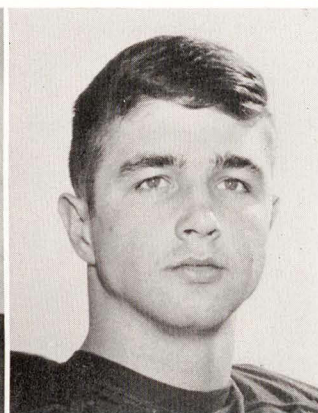

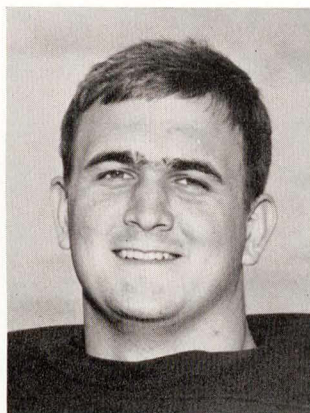

By now, the conference race had come to a three-way tie for the top spot. Arkansas faced SMU in an all important league tilt at War Memorial. A win for the Razorbacks could put SMU out of first place, leaving the Razorbacks in a dual tie with Texas.

SMU had become recognized as the nation's leader in total offense with the passing battery of Chuck Hixon to All-American Jerry Levias and the sound running game established by Mike Richardson.

However, the Razorback defense didn't believe in statistics and held the Ponies scoreless in the first three quarters while the offense rolled up seven touchdowns for a 35-0 lead. The Mustangs weren't through for the day. SMU rallied for 29 points in the fourth period, sending many Arkansans into a trauma, but the defense worked with the clock and the scores held 35-29.

Defense Sparkles In Season Finale

Texas Tech had built a reputation over the past two seasons for keeping Arkansas teams out of post season bowls. This season, the Razorbacks journeyed to Lubbock with definite ideas of going to the Sugar Bowl or the Cotton Bowl (depending on the outcome of the Texas-Texas A&M game on Thanksgiving).

By the time Arkansas' defensive backs got through with the Red Raider passing attack, the Red Raiders had turned a blushing pink. The defensive backs totaled seven interceptions, boosted by a near shutout performance by the linemen, and the Arkansas Razorbacks were bowl bound through the courtesy of a 42-7 pasting of Texas Tech.

Hogs—Bowl Bound, But Not Favored

MIKE SIGMAN (81), Razorback tight end got the best of this Bulldog defender.

For more than a month, the Arkansas Razorbacks withstood the pressure and taunting issued to them by sportswriters and fans (particularly Georgia disciples), but that didn't subdue the will of the cinderella team that represented the Southwest Conference January I in New Orleans.

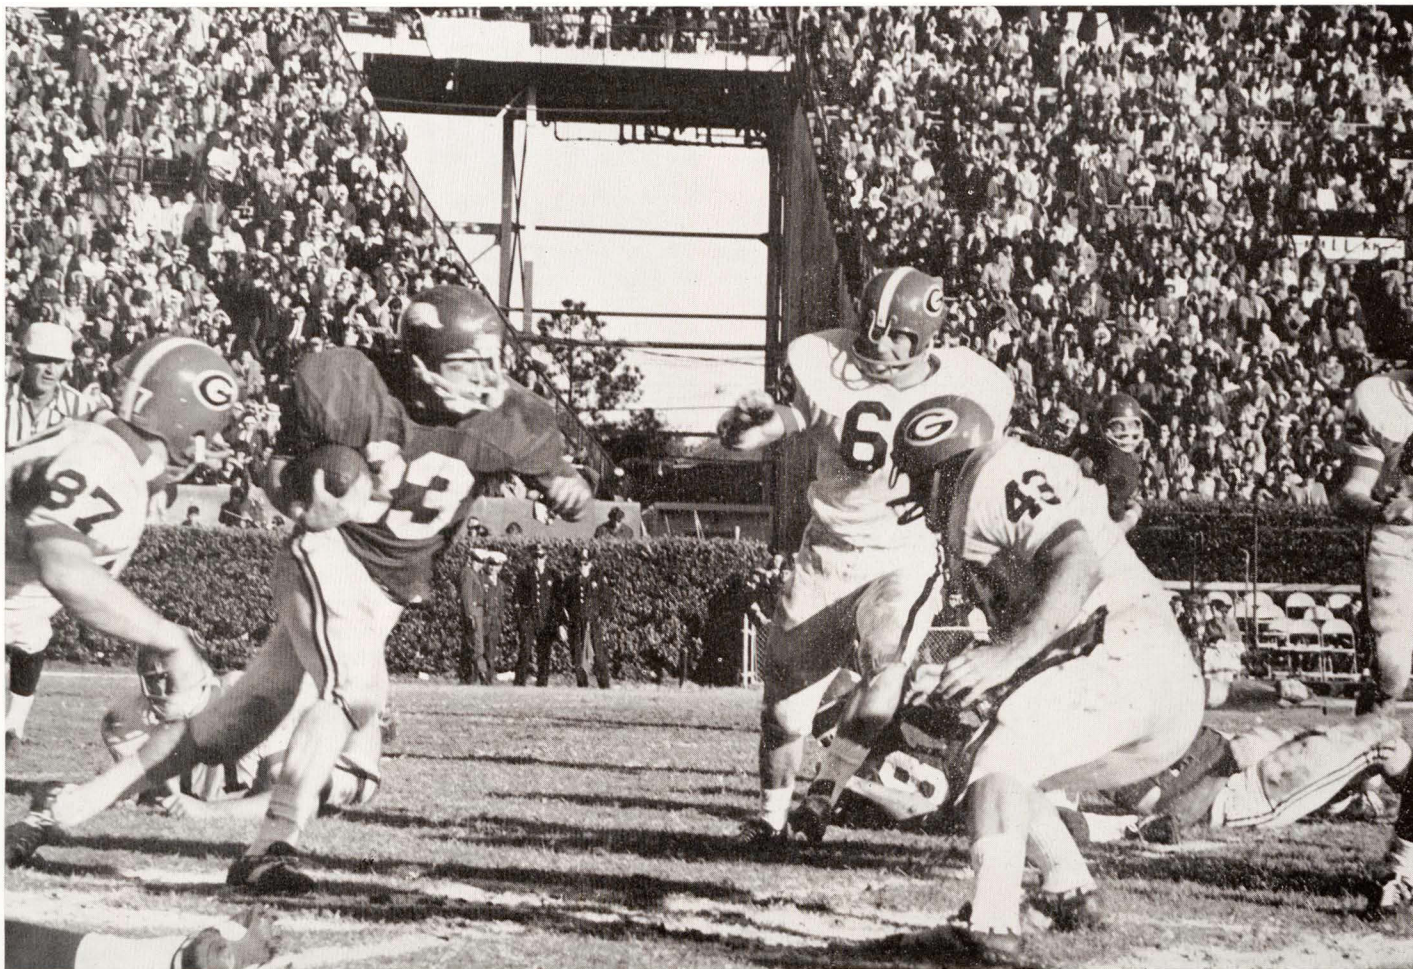

Post season bowls certainly weren't an unknown treat to Arkansas coaches, players and fans, but this was the first time since the 1966 Cotton Bowl that the Razorbacks had played in a bowl.

Needless to say, the players dedicated themselves to a victory in this contest. For the players, it was a test. Vince Dooley's Georgia Bulldogs were rated fifth in the nation (Arkansas was ninth ranked, following a 9-1 season), and the Porkers were anxious to see how good a fifth-ranked team performs. The coaches eyed the bowl as a test of the maturity of their sophomore-heavy team. The fans eyed the contest with pure delight and hoped for a bountiful return when the Hogs came home.

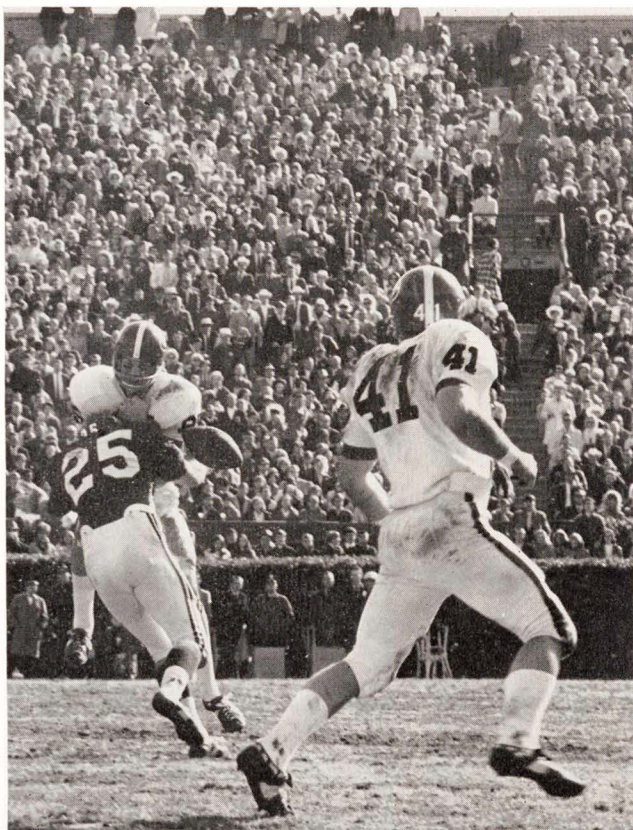

CHUCK DICUS, Arkansas flanker snared this one perfectly.

BILL BURNETT (33), Arkansas tailback showed the Georgians how a runner looks.

LYNN GARNER (59), wearing a horse collar, beat the crowd to the ball.

BILL MONTGOMERY dropped back and passed to Dicus for a gain.

TOMMY DIXON (25) gave this Bulldog receiver points on getting ahead.

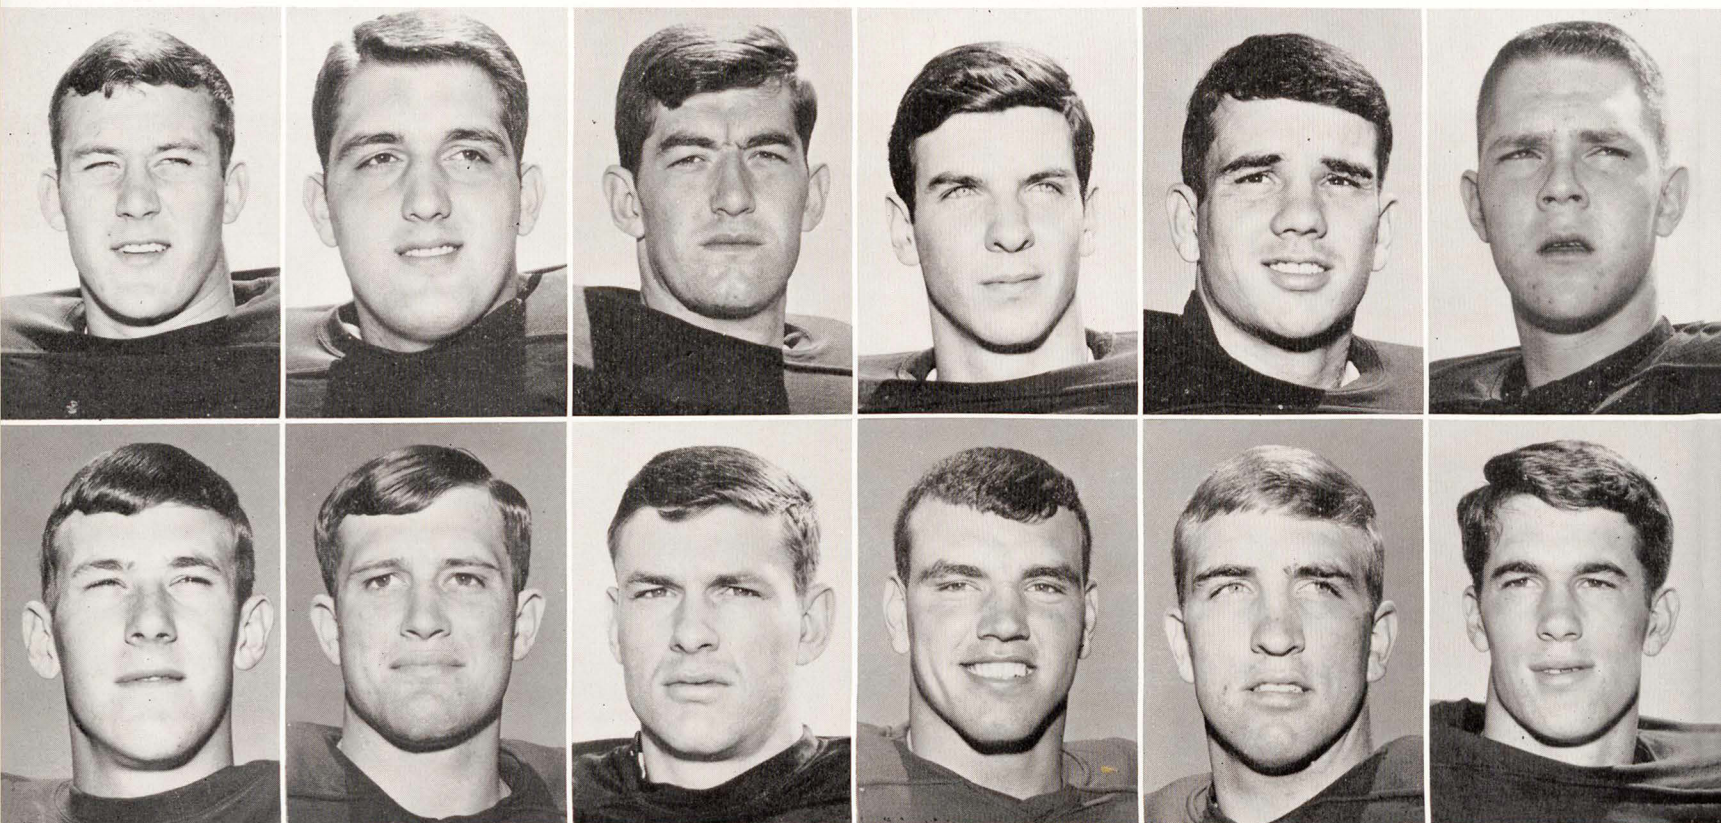

Dicus Foils Scott, Hogs Reign Supreme

All the predictions had been made, and it was time for the showdown in Tulane Stadium.

Both teams bore the home colors of red and white, so a toss of a coin decided who wore the colors in the game. Arkansas won the toss, gained impetus from wearing the familiar Cardinal jerseys, and didn't stop exploiting the Georgia forward wall until the final buzzer sounded. Despite the 16-2 score, the Razorback "suspect" defense shutout the highly rated Bulldog offense.

Two All-Americans on Georgia's defense (tackle Bill Stanfill and halfback Jake Scott) apparently didn't phase cool headed Bill Montgomery, as the sophomore from Carrollton, Texas picked the Georgia defense to pieces and hit flanker Chuck Dicus on a dozen occasions totaling 169 yards and the game-breaking touchdown.

Sophomore Chuck Dicus snared the touchdown pass over Jake Scott on his fingertips. From then on, it was all Arkansas and the Georgians left the stadium Wednesday afternoon, humbled and defeated.

The Arkansas Boosters' Club and a healthy number of Razorback fans weren't the only ones to follow the Porkers where ever they journeyed.

The Razorback cheerleaders, led by Captain Linda Butler, were on the scene for all eleven Razorback performances. The pep squad set the pace at all of the rallies honoring the Razorbacks, including the four-day rally that took place in New Orleans when Arkansas invaded the Sugar Bowl.

Hog Basketballers Suffer "Drab" Year

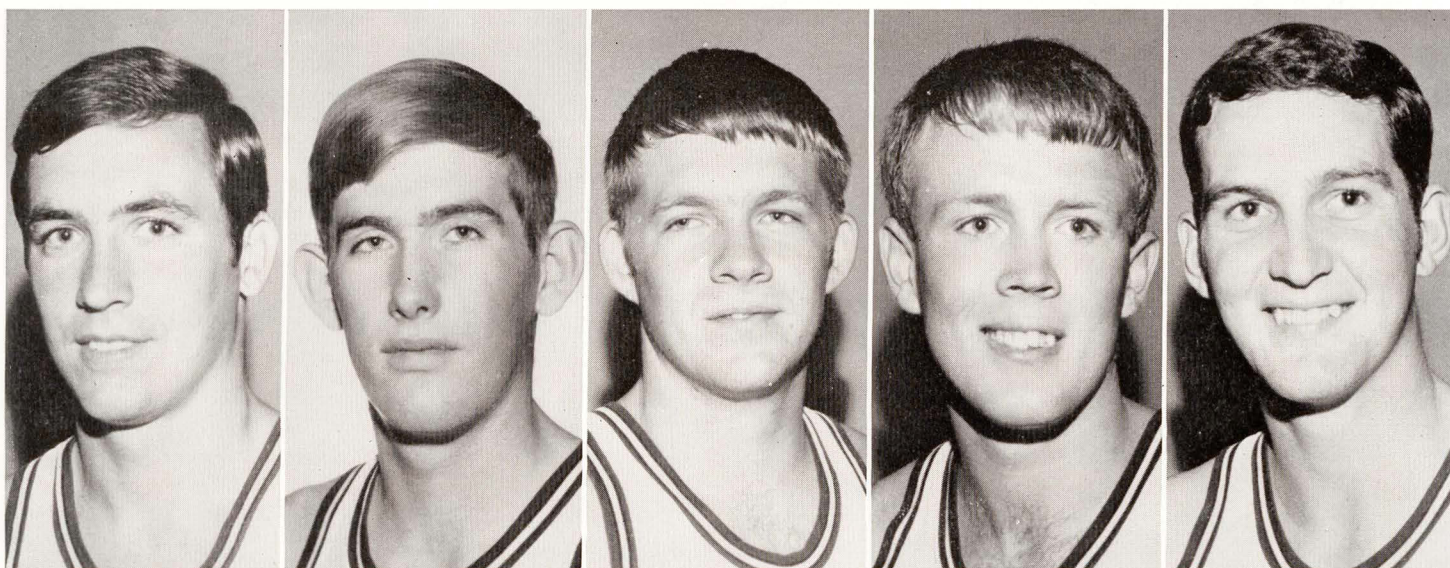

Head Basketball Coach Duddy Waller figured on a better season than his basketball Razorbacks gave him.

The 24-game season saw the Porkers bow in defeat on 14 occasions overall and 10 times to Southwest Conference foes.

Most of Arkansas' troubles were related to an obvious lack of consistency. The Razorbacks ran up sizeable leads on several occasions, only to fall behind when time began to expire, therefore taking the loss.

Another factor affecting the team's performance was the lack of point production by the anticipated big men. Although hot in several games, junior Robert McKenzie fell a little short of his career average, and certainly his expectations. Junior James Eldridge, dubbed the "Big E" by fans, hit some beauties from the outside, but not enough to equal his point productivity of last season. Senior Benton Cone couldn't manage as many 20-point plus games as he did during the last season, but his leadership was felt on the court.

Razorback opponents beat the Porkers on the backboards and a lot of times, at the foul line. James Eldridge and Gary Stephens were the big men on the boards for Arkansas, with the two alternating on most occasions as high rebounders for Arkansas.

Opening Losses Hinder Porkers

The season began on a drab note for the Razorbacks. Arkansas opened the basketball season against Missouri while the student body was at home for the Thanksgiving break. The meeting ended with Mizzou taking a 60-59 win from the Porkers.

Olympic basketball team coach Hank Iba wasn't about to let his OSU Cowboys bow to the Razorbacks, so the Pokes dealt the Porkers their second defeat of the season, with a 73-68 whipping in Stillwater.

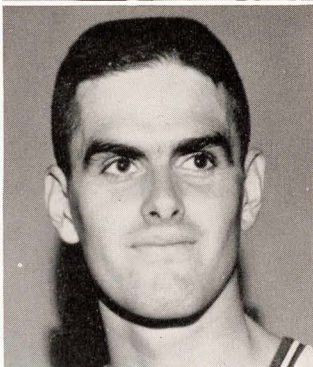

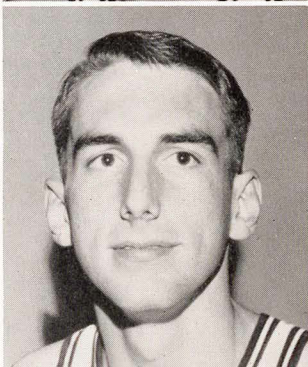

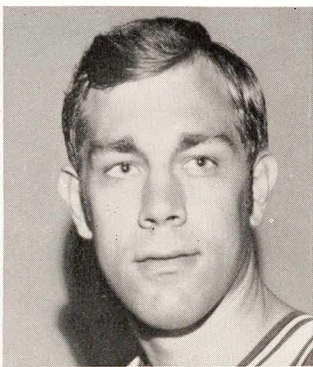

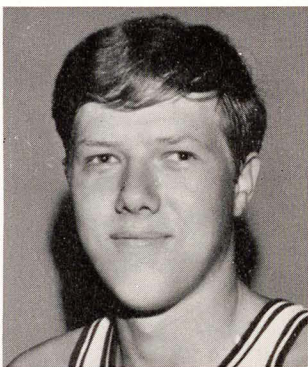

The Ole Miss Rebels topped Arkansas 65-61, and that was about all that the Hogs could take. Arkansas went on a hardwood rampage, licking their next seven opponents. The streak started with 64-61 win over Centenary in Shreveport and ended with a handy 67-62 win over the Rice Owls in Houston. A 52-48 win over Alabama over the Christmas break in Little Rock highlighted the seven-game skein.

For a while, it seemed as though the Porkers had at last gained the consistency and impetus they needed to turn in a winning season, but the remaining portion of the season was without a doubt a trying one.

BIG "E" (25) was on the boards again for Arkansas.

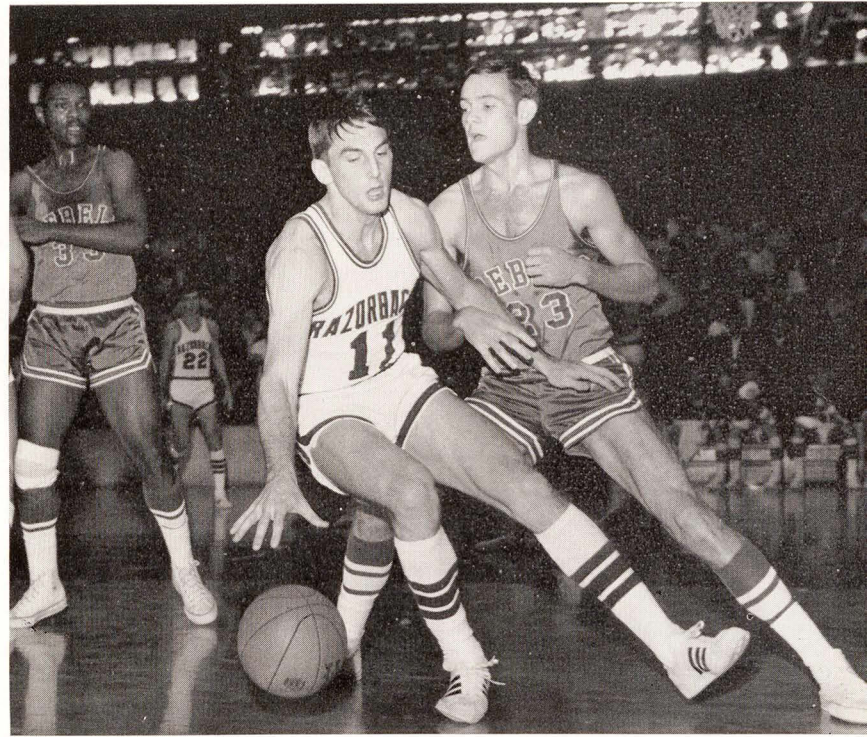

Razorbacks Rally On Seven-win Streak

Beginning with a tough 73-68 loss to the Texas Aggies here in Fayetteville, the Razorbacks bit the dust on five successive occasions.

The Texas Longhorns issued Arkansas a 67-59 whipping in Austin. Oklahoma City College continued the string of misfortune with a thorough 84-73 beating here on Arkansas' home court. The Baylor Bears followed with a crowd-thrilling 74-72 win over the Razorbacks again at home.

Defending Southwest Conference basketball champion, Texas Christian University, was the only other team in the league suffering about the same misfortune as the Razorbacks, but the Frogs must have undergone a thorough revival before facing Arkansas. Led by big James Cash (6-8), the Horned Frogs handed Arkansas loss number eight with an 85-79 game.

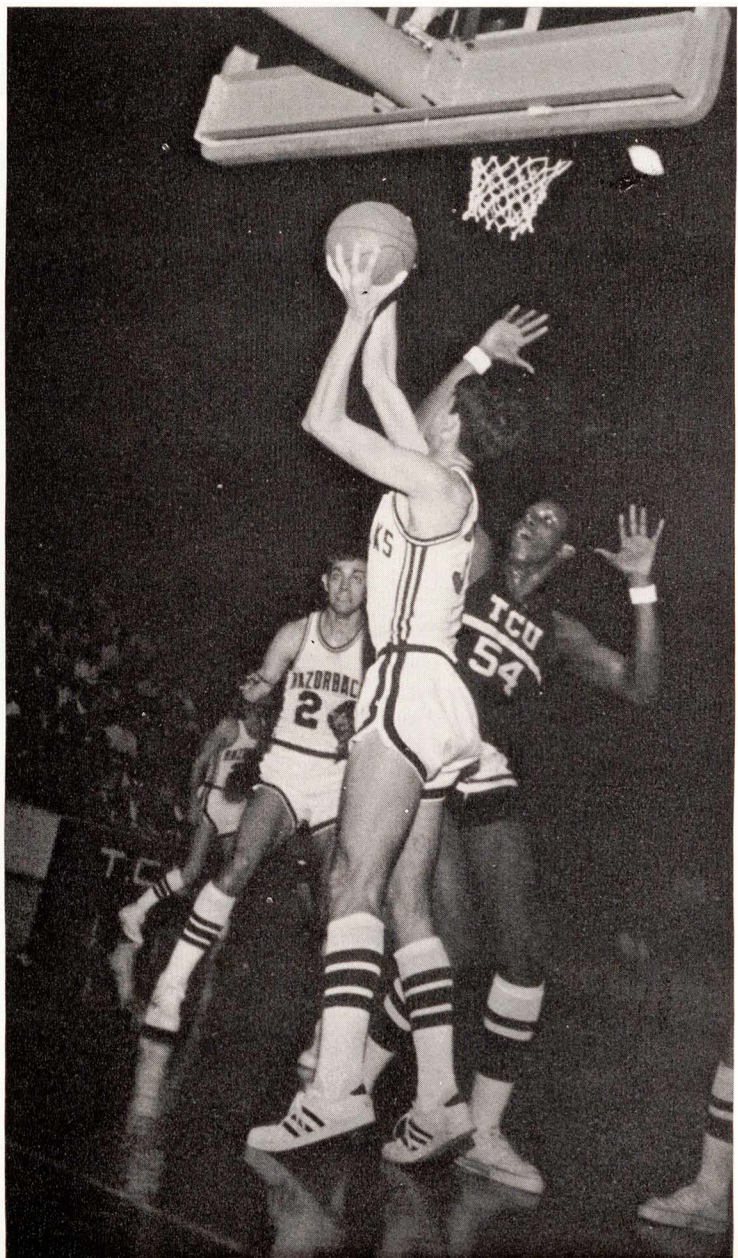

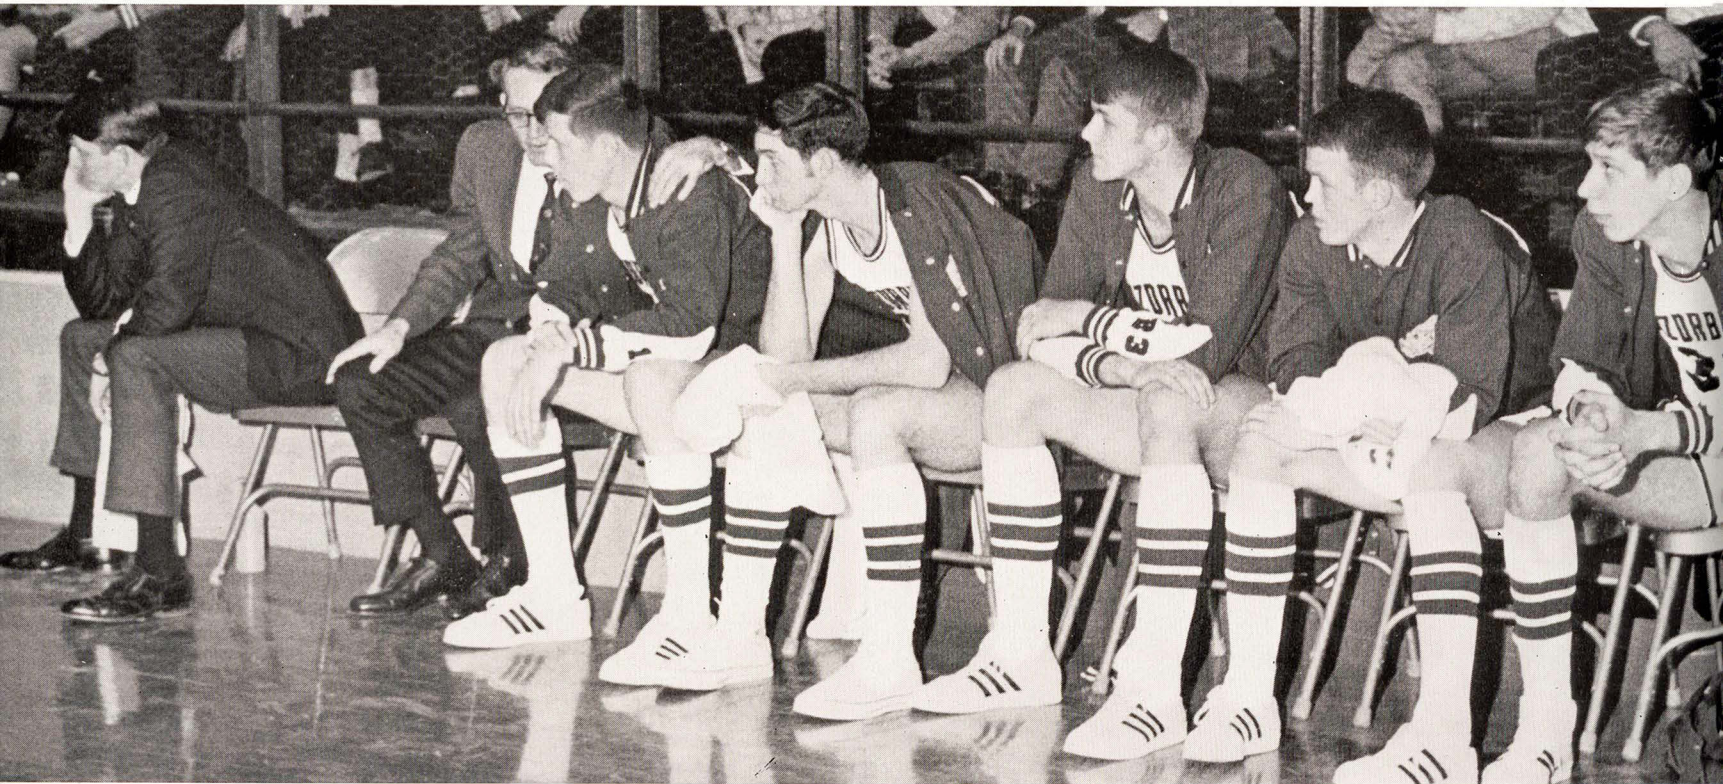

RICKY TANNEBERGER (11) put on brakes to evade this Texas Tech defender.

STEPHENS (24) thought Eldridge (25) got the rebound. No one got it.

DONNIE WATTS (white jersey) put this one up over TCU's James Cash (54).

The name of the game is basketball . . . pass that down the bench.

Final Stand Proves Disastrous

Arkansas' remaining (nine) were all conference, and the Razorbacks found themselves in a "do or die" situation.

Arkansas opened the final stand with a 64-53 win over the Red Raiders of Texas Tech in Fayetteville. SMU, red hot in basketball this past season, walloped the Razorbacks 84-69 in Dallas, to douse the Porkers' victory flame. The Razorbacks came back with a big 63-47 win over TCU here in Fayetteville, but the next five games proved to be insurmountably competitive for the Porkers.

The Red Raiders extended their "Lubbock Jinx" over the Porkers, as the Techans eeked out a 59-57 win over the hapless Razorbacks in the closing seconds.

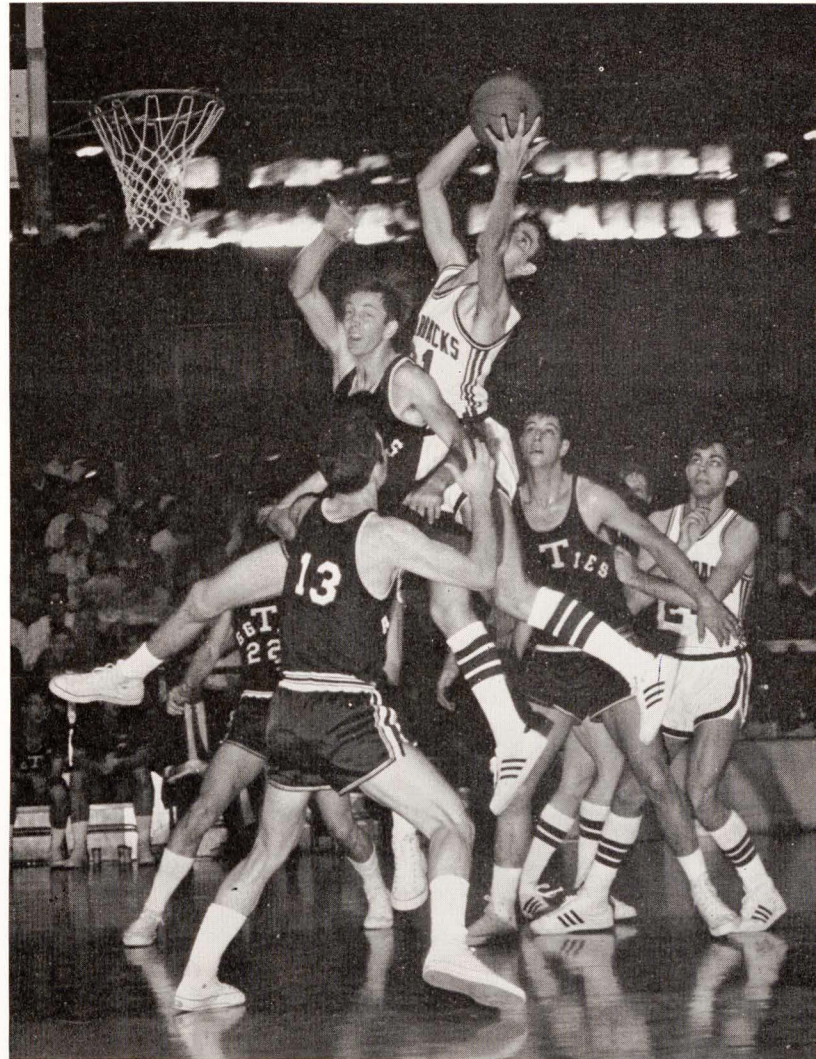

A big win over Texas didn't do much for the Porkers' title hopes, but it saved their vanity in Arkansas' last home appearance.

ROBERT MCKENZIE did a modern dance routine to keep this ball in bounds.

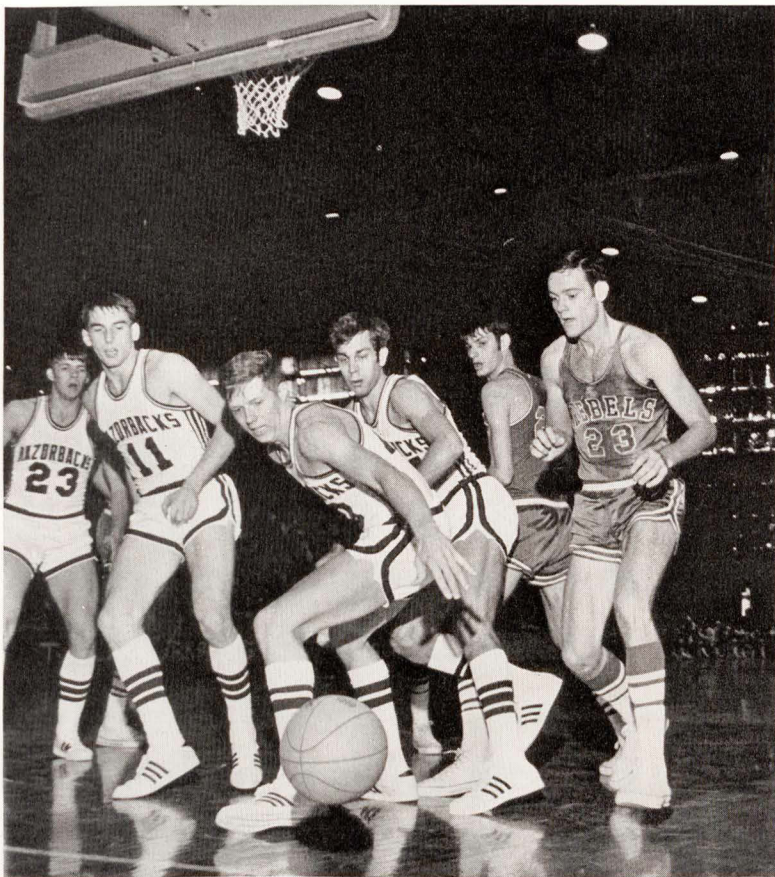

A sharp knee and an exposed pit nearly subdued Ricky Joe.

Coach yelled "Fool" . . . the Aggies thought he said Pool, and leaped in!

"Yep . . . that's definitely a basketball . . ."

Porker Thinclads Look Toward Future

Arkansas track coach Tom Hardin worked hard with the Razorback thinclads during this season, but competition and a sharp lack of depth in the placing of events proved to be too much of an obstacle for the former Razorback distance ace to overcome.

The Porker runners lacked depth in their sprints and their field events (high jump, pole vault, long jump, and another Jerry Petty on the team wouldn't have hurt anything — although Nathan Myers boosted the weight events with his support).

Weather conditions often proved to be Arkansas' main foe this spring, as a couple of key events fell victim to bad weather.

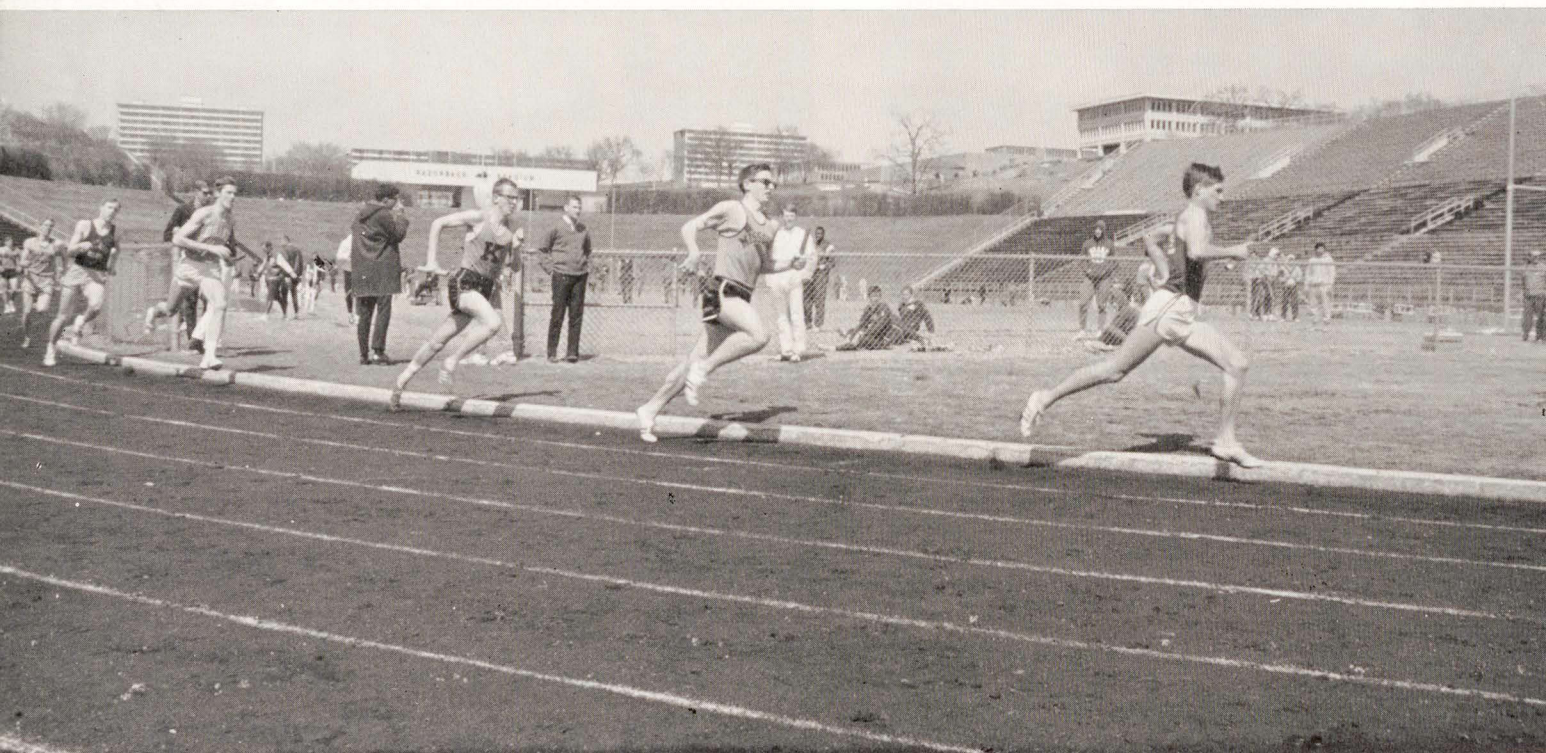

Coach Hardin has a young bunch of runners to work with, and a successful cross country season next fall might be just what the doctor ordered.

With freshmen eligible in the conference, a good crop of frosh recruits will do much to better the efforts of the '70 edition of Arkansas runners.

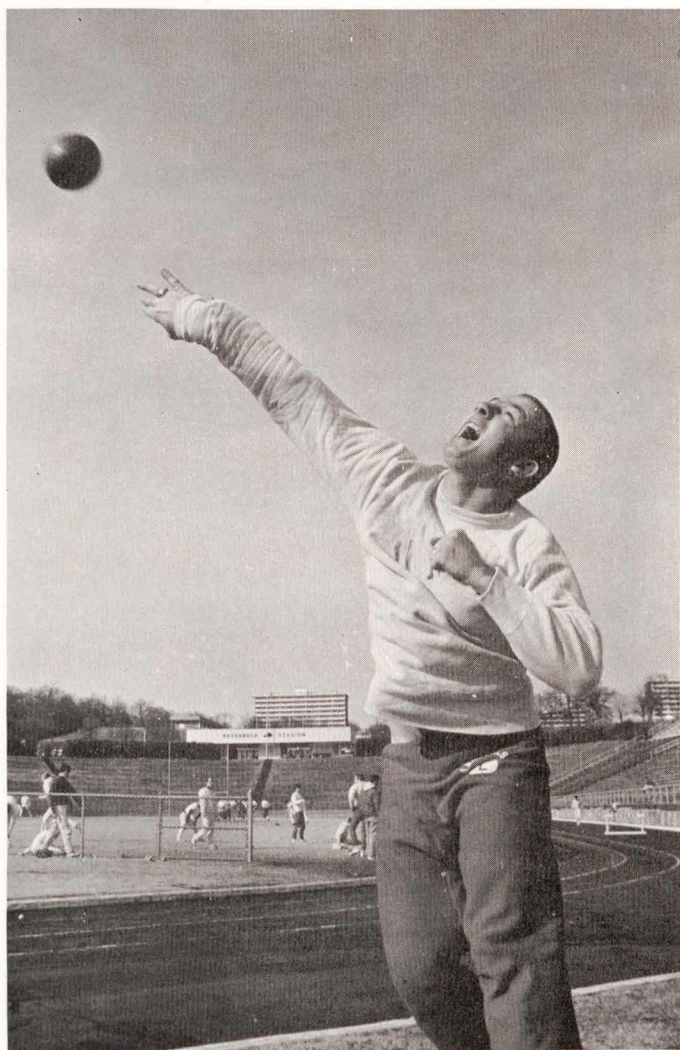

This jumper got high, but he almost didn't make his desired goal.

The runner from Mizzou (second man) thought the game was blind man's bluff.

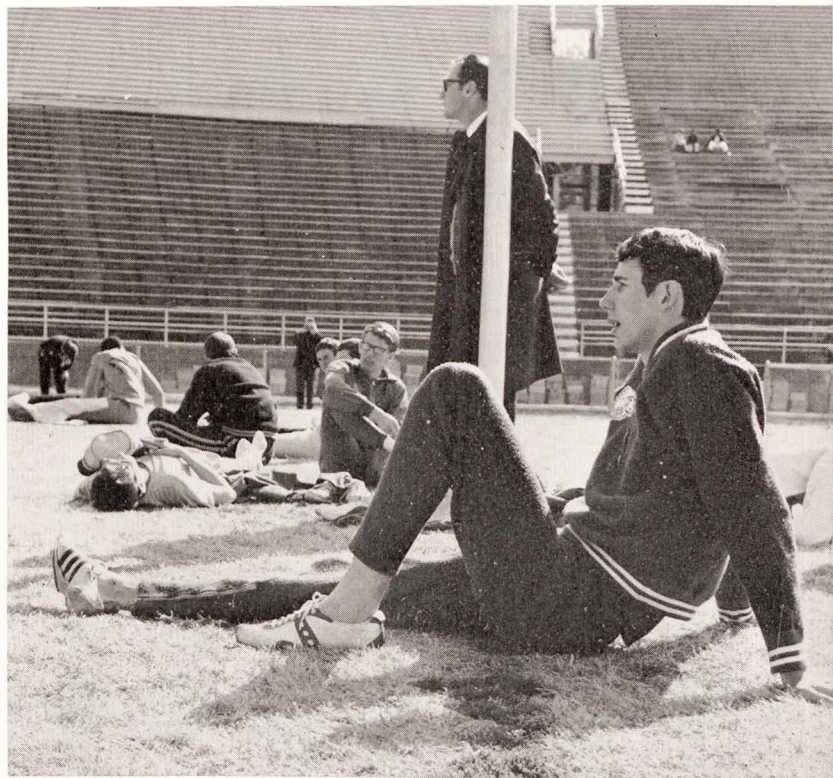

Football isn't the only sport that utilizes a "passing game."

NATHAN MYERS huffed for this throw, while the idiot behind dropped it on his toe.

While the other Porkers ran, this little Piggie stayed home.

Baseball Team Has Good Season

Bolstered by one of the finest bunch of hitters ever to play for the Razorbacks, Arkansas' baseball team managed to put together the best season yet under baseball coach Wayne Robbins.

Bill Dorothy, Mark Jones, H. A. Scott, Fred Wagner and Mike Pryor led the Arkansas slugging session.

In almost a repeat of his superb sophomore season, Butch Hopkins led the Razorback pitching staff. Arkansas' success from the pitchers' was boosted by Greg Fisk, Terry Verhage, Herb House and lefty Jerry Blackwood.

Again, the team didn't compete in the Southwest Conference on a regularly scheduled basis, but the Porkers did manage to meet with SWC foes Texas Christian and Southern Methodist. Arkansas lost the two contests, but the difference wasn't in the quality of the teams.

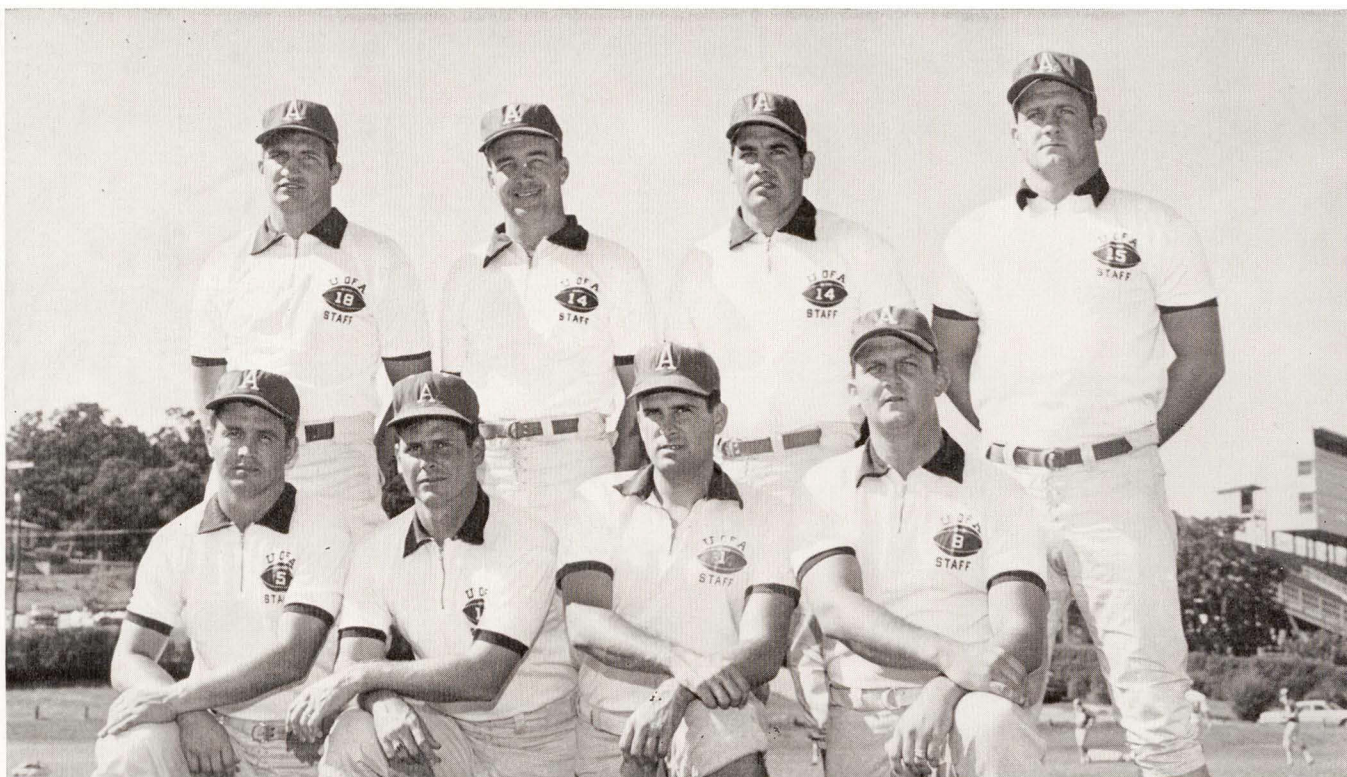

Seniors Terry Hopkins, Greg Fisk and Bill Standley will leave noticeable vacancies in the Porker lineup, but the freshman-sophomore dominated team is marked for success.

Never doubt the ump . . . curse, yell and shout.

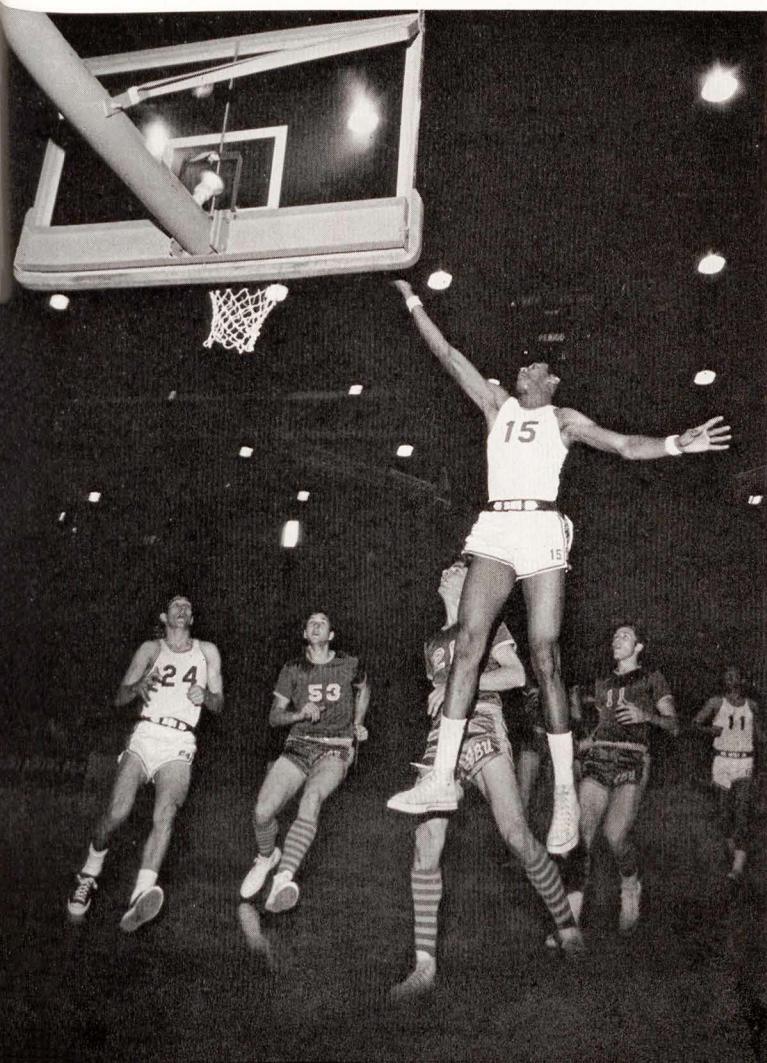

Hard hitting Mike Pryor was one of the Razorbacks' top batters.

Frosh Teams Enjoy Moderate Seasons

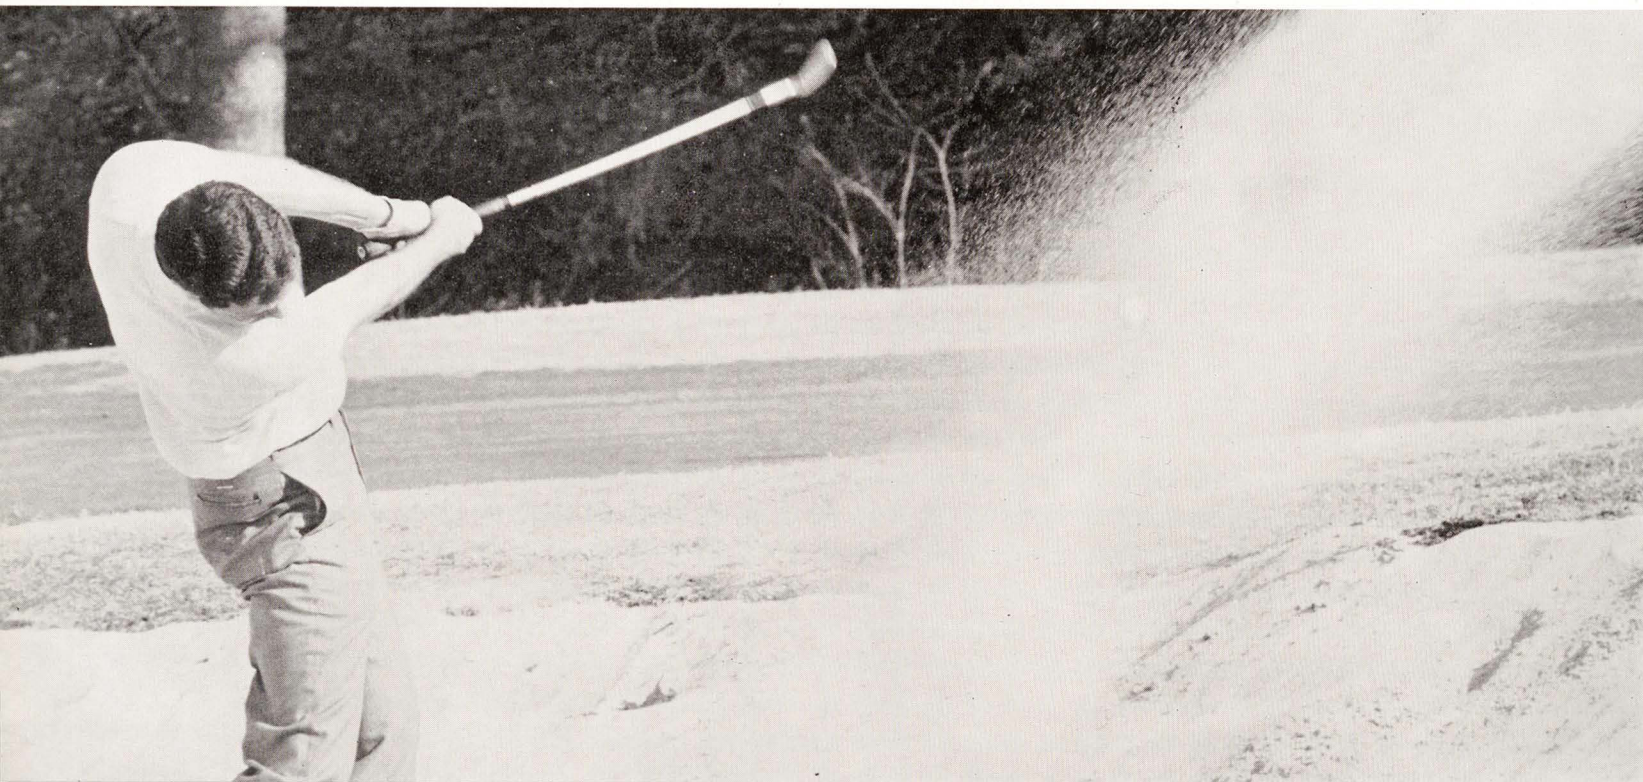

Arkansas' freshmen teams (the Shoats) enjoyed moderate success on the gridiron and on the hardwoods this season.

In football, Arkansas' frosh broke even in four games, with the annual home game against Tulsa cancelled. Quarterback Gus Rusher, of Brinkley, led the Shoat scoring session with 18 points totaled on three touchdowns.

Coach Lynwood Cathey's basketball Shoats topped the .500 mark with a 7-5 record for the season. Led by Vernon Murphy, the Shoats averaged 72.4 points per game, and yielded 69.6 points per game.

Murphy led the team's scoring with a 24.6 average in 12 games. Also to his credit, Vernon earned a spot on the All-Southwest Conference freshman team. Murphy broke Robert McKenzie's single game scoring record, with a high-game of 40 points and collected 144 rebounds for the year. Jerry Schmidt (12.0 for the season) was second with 125, and Bob Murphy (13.5) was third with 75 rebounds.

Vernon Murphy (15) . . . Shoat leader.

BILL POWELL got the shaft on the 19th hole in a sand trap one afternoon.

Golfers Post Best Season In 10 Years

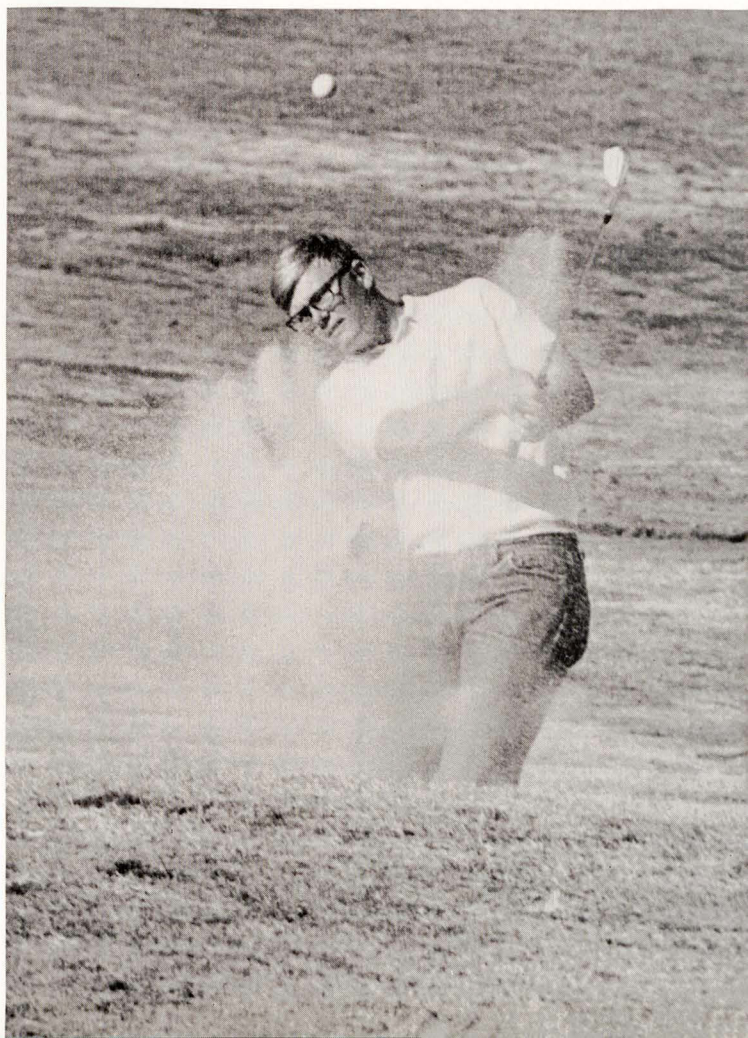

Golf coach Danny Mason had quite a lot to be proud of at the end of the Razorback's golf tour. His Porker golfers were the winningest team since the days of All-American R. H. Sikes, now on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Sophomore Chuck Brownfield led the Razorbacks in Houston at the All-American tournament. Brownfield, who was tied for second place after the first two rounds, finished the tournament in a tie for sixth place. In overall competition, Arkansas finished ninth at Houston, with most of the team coming back for another season with coach Danny Mason.

Sammy Brown, Tommy Howard and Gordon Norwood (who also lettered on the Razorback football team as a quarterback) are the only senior members of the team.

Arkansas had a successive chain of wins going until Tulsa's golf squad marred the Porkers' record with a tie match. After that the Razorbacks got going again and generated another winning streak. Texas and Texas A&M snapped the streak, but the Porkers still managed to salvage an impressive 13-2-1 record for the season.

DAVID MATTHEWS gets this one out.

Bill Borders jumps to return a shot in a match.

Young Tennis Team Points Forward

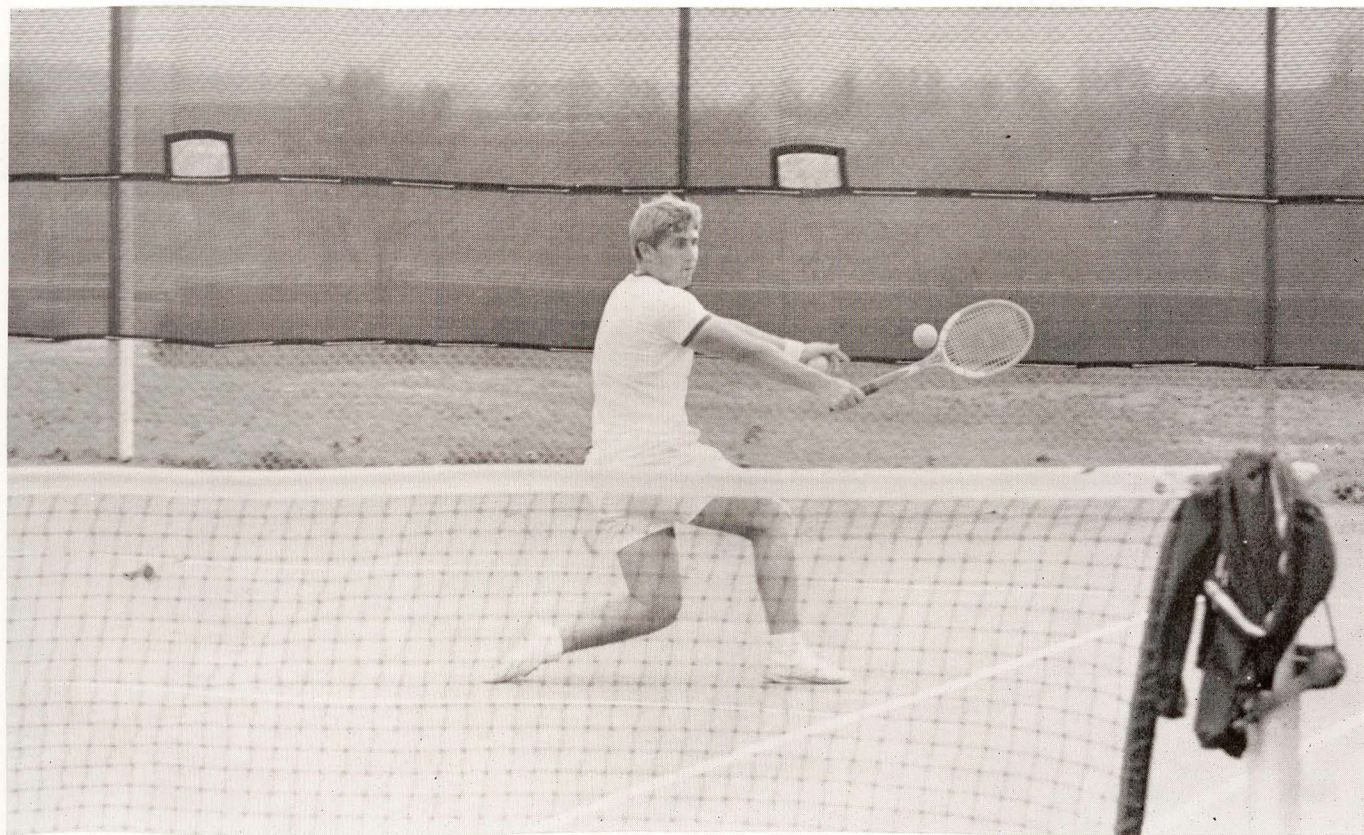

Razorback tennis suffered a bit of misfortune this spring, but the trouble may very well turn out to be good fortune.

Tennis coach David Kossover, Arkansas' state men's singles champion himself, faced the difficult task of rebuilding a tennis team, with the loss of tennis aces Ben Barry, Murray Harding and Ray Underneher.

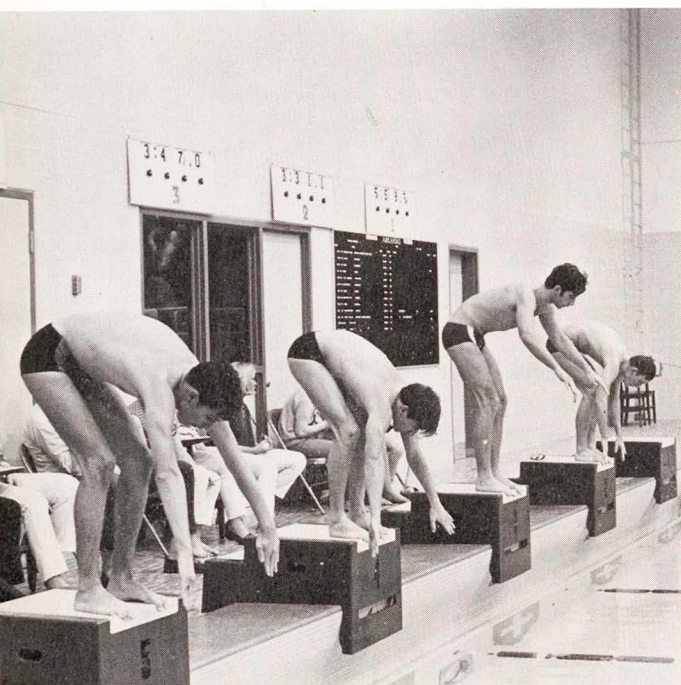

Freshmen Bill Borders and Tim Clark boosted the Razorbacks' efforts on the tennis courts, but Kossover pointed out that they still had a lot to learn.

Lettermen Hal Fincher, who will be the only senior on the team for next spring, and Ken Johnson gave the Razorbacks a lift also, but the team lacked overall depth in the sets necessary to collect a winning match.

With the team being well stocked with freshmen and sophomores, coach David Kossover has high hopes for success in the seasons to come. Kossover also has hopes of a bountiful crop of recruits from the high school ranks.

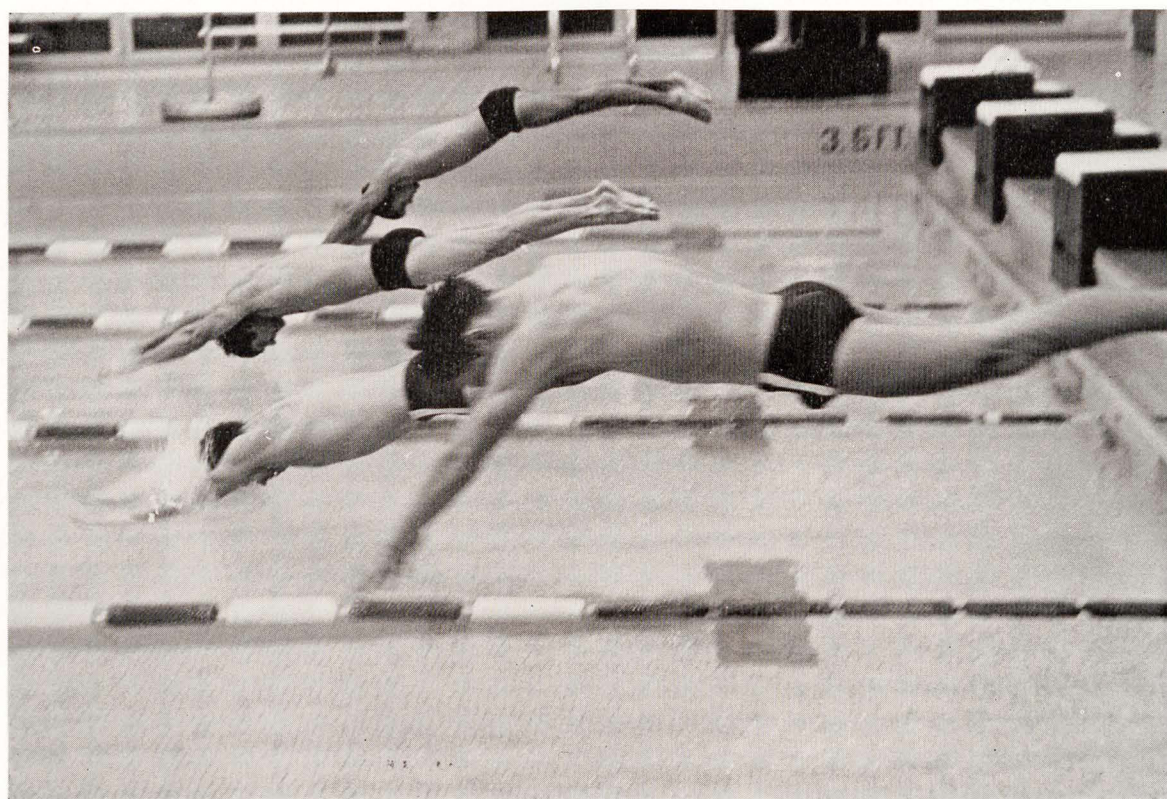

Hal Fincher demonstrates perfect form in the backhand shot during a match on Razorbacks' home courts.

New Coach Helps Swimmers Improve

Swimming coach Ed Fedosky was initiated to the Razorback family of athletics with a pleasing fourth place in the Southwest Conference swimming championships.

Swimmers Peter Kingan, Alan Butcher, Ken Ward and Tom Suchecki were among the leaders for Arkansas' marine Razorbacks.

Diver John Phillips finally broke the ice for Arkansas and put some points in the diving column for Arkansas' scoring.

Every man on the team helped make it a successful season, although they would like to have done even better.

The Razorbacks have one of the youngest swimming programs in the nation, but have come a long way in three years of competition. They improved through the season and it seemed as though they set new school records each time they swam.

Coach Fedosky was aided this year by Bryan Robbins, a former SMU swimmer who holds many titles himself.

Still just a young squad, the Razorbacks can look forward to next season with high hopes of finishing even higher in the conference.

It got pretty deep at some of the meets.

Intramural Favorites Hold Their Own

It was another exciting year in men's intramurals. Competition was keen in all leagues of the dorm and fraternity divisions.

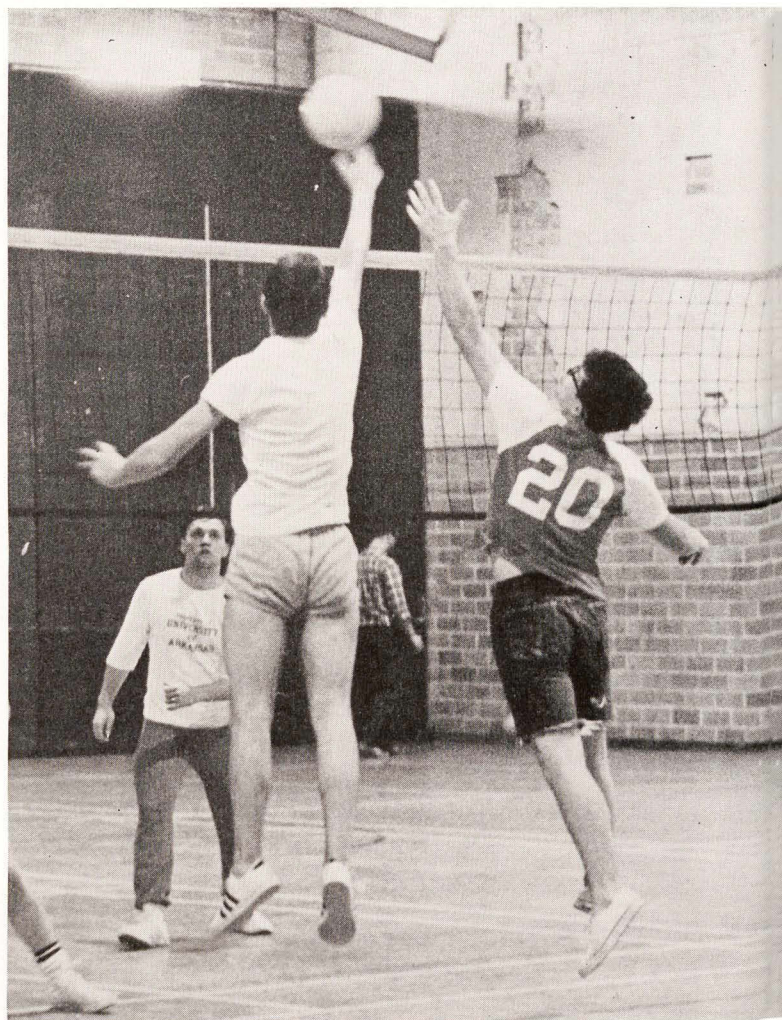

Intramurals provides the men on campus with good physical exercise and it is a welcome break from books and classrooms. Competition is often tough and most take the program seriously. Quite a few "discussions" take place as to who is the best team, or was the man safe at home plate, or did that man interfere with the receiver.

Once again, Holcombe ran away with the AAA and AA dorm titles. Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi fought to the wire in AAA, while they and Sigma Nu finished very close in AA.

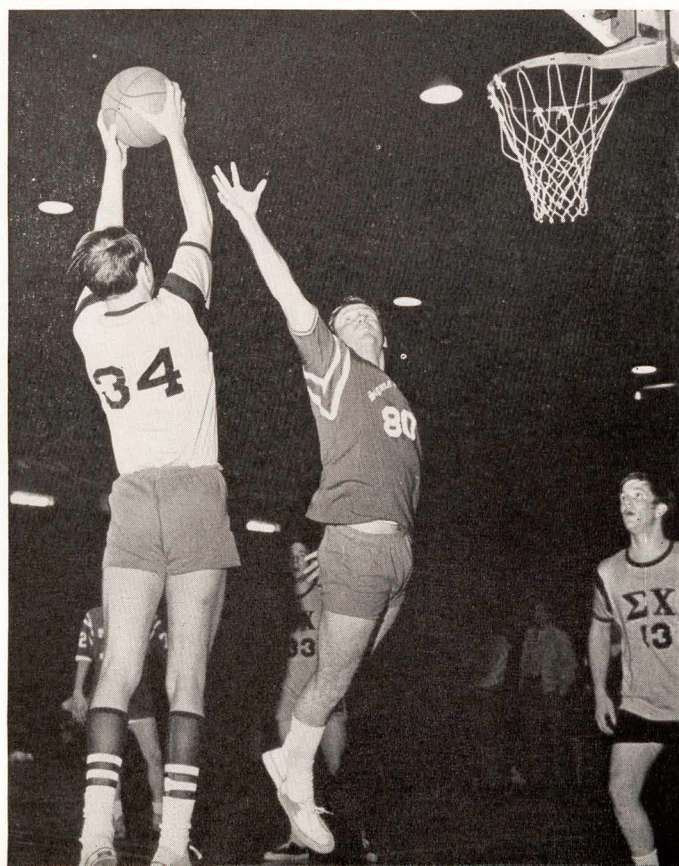

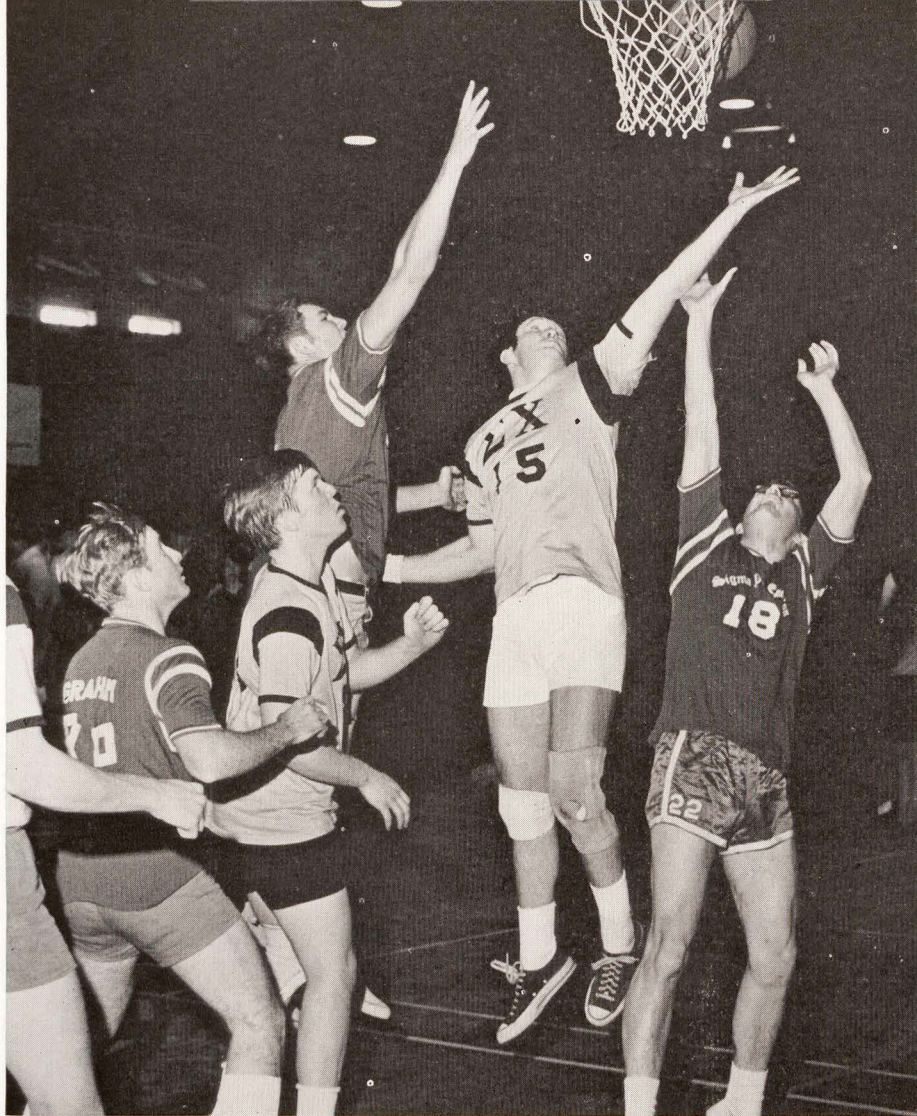

Another step, and Holcombe would've scored.

WRA Participation Gets Big Boost

Women's Recreation Association, or WRA as it is more commonly called, once again played a large role in the life of the university coed.

WRA was originally designed to give university women a chance to have some sort of recreational program besides regular physical education courses. It also promotes pride in living groups, both dorms and sororities, through active competition in assorted sports.

Among these sports are swimming, volleyball, softball, tennis, bowling, archery, table tennis, basketball, dance, posture and of course powder puff football.

The Sweepstakes Award, given annually by WRA to the top women's intramural team, was sought after by over 300 women competing on 20 teams. It was a good year for all who participated.

WRA sports were sometimes topsy turvy.

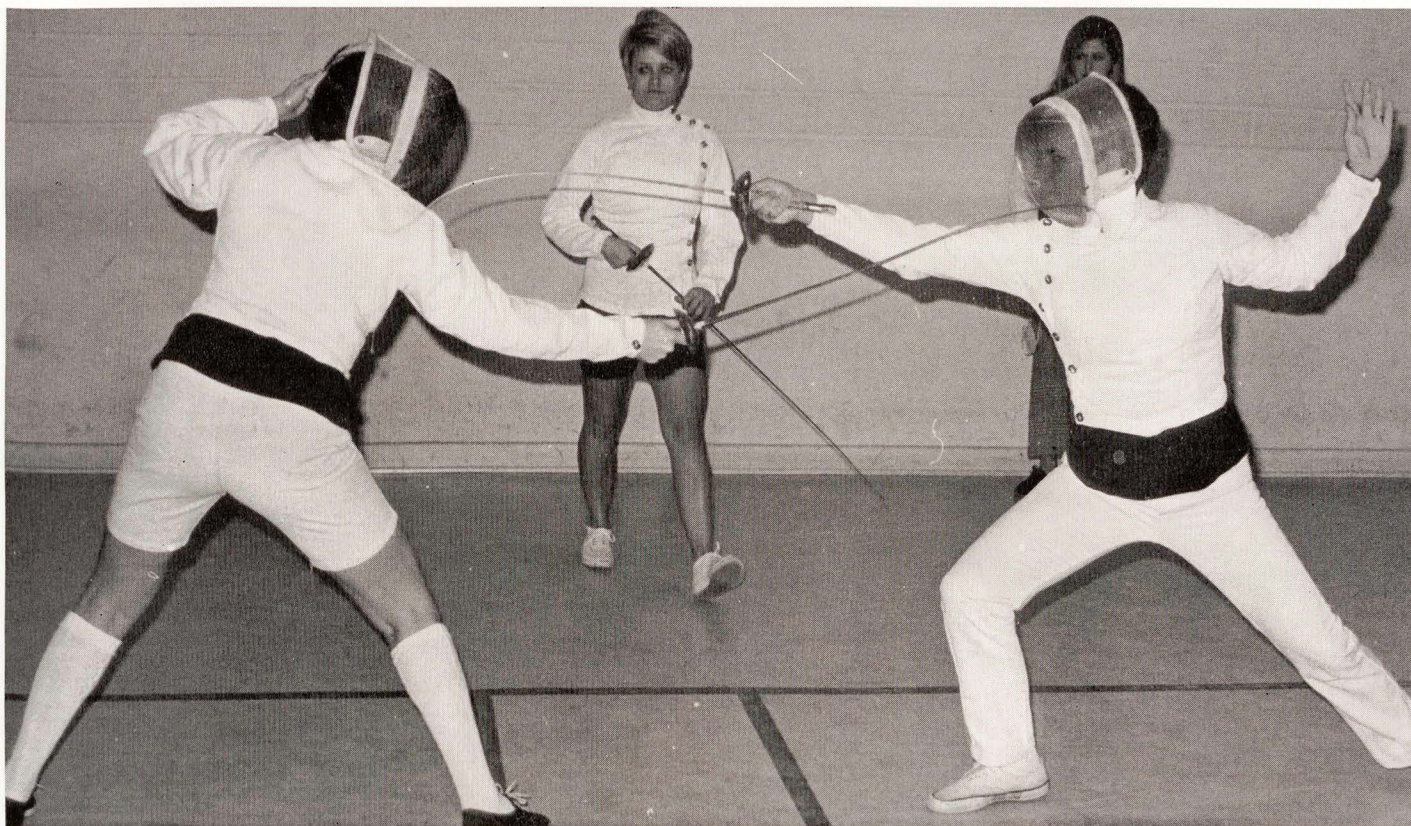

Number one gave thumbs up, but they didn't frighten the volleyball.

Women's sports included dancing in the gym.

Twirlers Add Beauty, Sparkle

The University of Arkansas Razorback Band has set an excellent standard in previous years, and 1968-69 was no exception. Under the capable direction of Dr. Richard A. Worthington and Mr. David G. Pittman, the "Marching Razorbacks" performed at home games in both Fayetteville and Little Rock, the TCU Game in Fort Worth, and the 1969 Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. Pep Bands were also in attendance at the Texas Game in Austin, the A & M Game in College Station, and the Texas Tech Game in Lubbock. In addition, the Band played at the dedication of the David E. Terry Lock and Dam on the Arkansas River Navigation Project, and at Derby Day in Hot Springs' Oaklawn Park.

During the Concert Season the Band was active in many ways. The Group presents several concerts throughout the year both on the University campus and in the surrounding communities. Coming attractions for the days ahead include a concert as part of the annual convention of the Arkansas School Band and Orchestra Association to be held in Hot Springs.

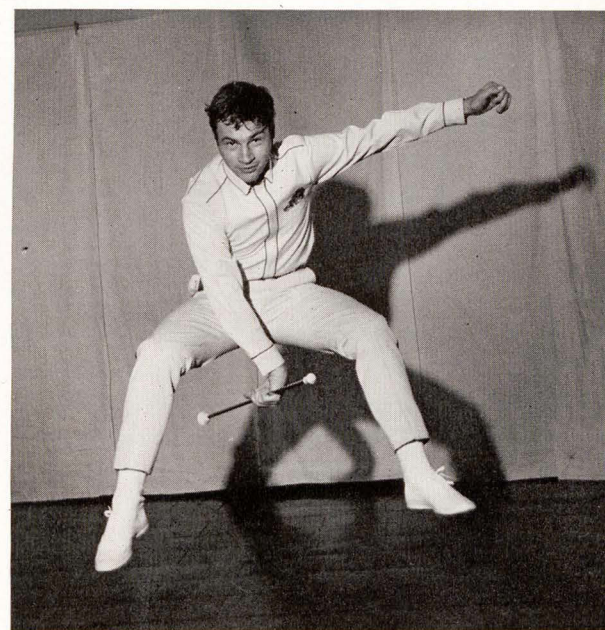

Through its extensive participation in the University activities, the Band plays a major part in the social, academic, and extra-curricular life of its members.

U of A Marching Razorbacks

Meredith Wilson wrote that '76 Trombones led the big parade', but in the case of the 'Marching Razorbacks' it's only drum majors John Richardson and Gary Ricketts in the lead. Selected through a series of tests and try-outs, the drum majors direct and assist the band on the field and in the stands during football season.

... 'with 110 cornets close behind' — next in the line of march are the feature twirlers and majorettes. The feature twirlers are chosen from the 'veterans' in the majorette line upon a demonstration of their outstanding twirling abilities. During the spring semester many qualified girls (and boys) attend the try-outs to fill positions in the twirling line. After several weeks of summer practice and a number of clinics, the girls are set for the work ahead. While the band is performing intricate maneuvers and patterns on the field, the majorettes do twirling routines along the sidelines.

The band performed at all home games and two away.

ARTS

Architecture students have always been noted for their good house-keeping.

Architects Move to Old Library

T. O. Burson thinks the old library has gone to pot.

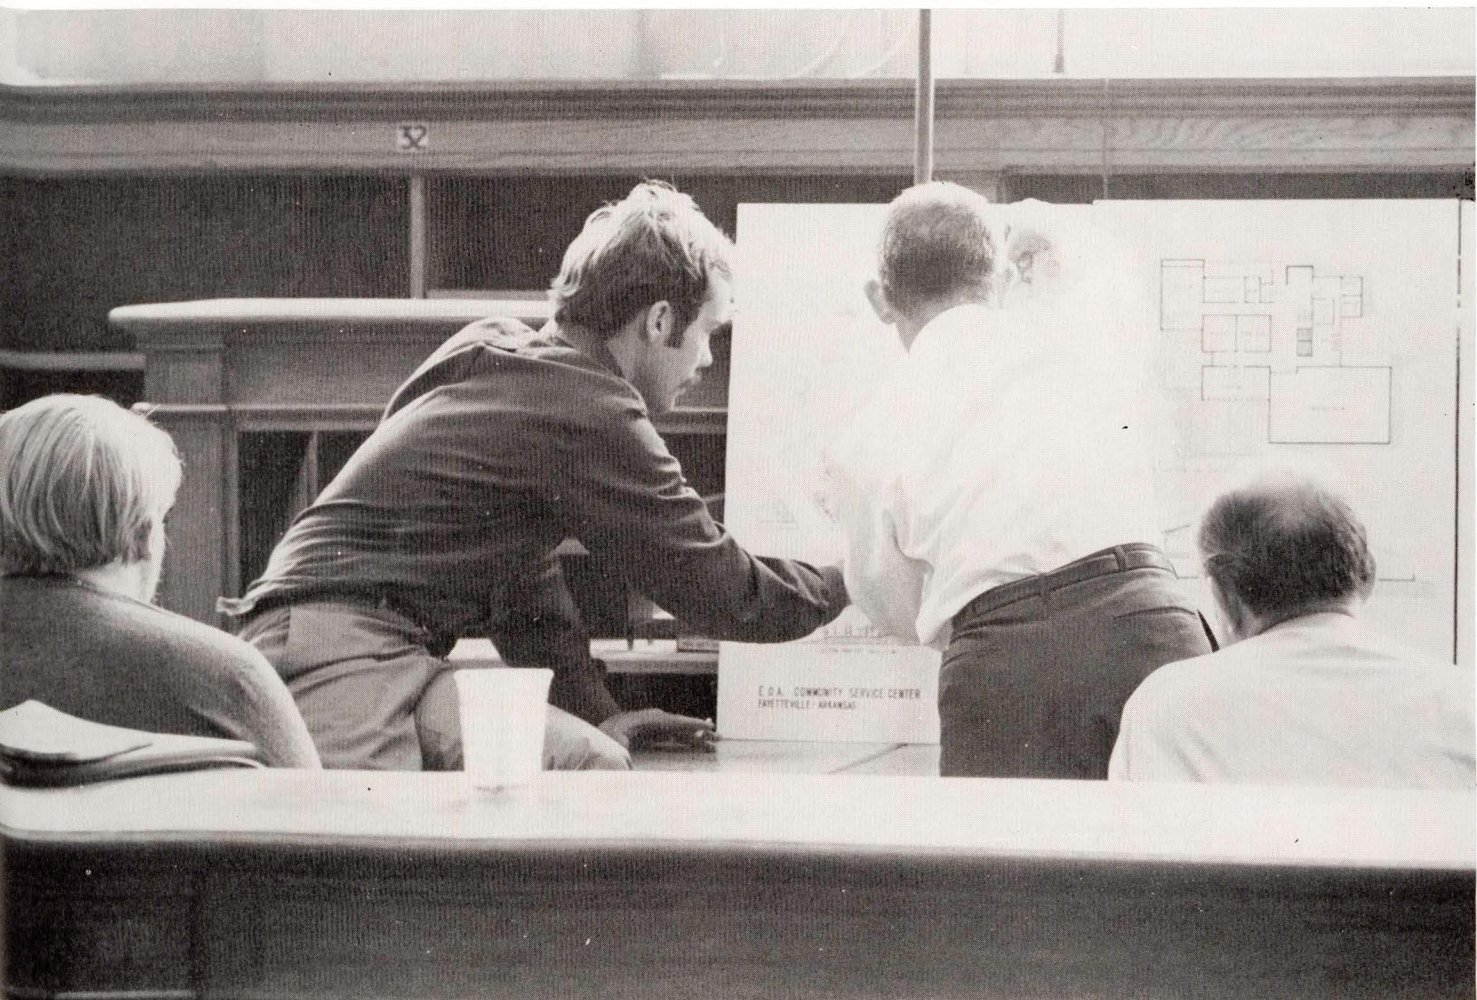

The Architecture Department expanded this year by moving the fifth year students, and some of the first, second, and third year students, into the old library — a move that has offered the department more space and a more centralized location.

Some of the major activities of this year's students includes a systems exploration residence hall design, a prison facilities presentation, and research on a large scale of the total prison environment.

During the Arts '69 Festival, guests of the Architecture Department included Gunnar Birkerts of Michigan, Mr. Wade, head of the new architecture school at Wisconsin, and Max Bond, a Negro advocate architect concerned with community development.

Fifth year students, Dagenhart, Lehle, Hall, Schraplau, Phillips, Taylor, McMillan, and Saar, were chosen to design a city based on an investigation of the megastructure in E. St. Louis, through a grant awarded by the American Iron and Steel Industry. Consultants were Architects Saftie and Barcas of Montreal.

Art Department Has New Chairman

Fishing tackle always adds that special touch.

The University Art Department, headed by R. B. Guirl, continued its desire to advance the University aesthetically this year. With the growing number of students, a wide range of courses were again offered, including Commercial Art, Graphics, Sculpture, Painting, Drawing, and an increased interest in Art History.

The Art Department once again took part in the annual Arts Festival, and offered competition for a design on the theme — Arts '69. Among the exhibitions in the Fine Arts Gallery this year were those by undergraduates, MFA graduate students, and the University Art faculty. Visiting exhibitions included Medieval Illuminated Manuscripts, New Directions in Printmaking, Contemporary Photographers, and Banners by La Liberte. The Department also sponsored a trip to Chicago in November to study Dada and Surrealism.

Annual Opera Given by Workshop

The cast partakes in one of the many discussions in "Albert Herring".

The Benjamin Britten opera, "Albert Herring" was this year's delightful production by the Opera Workshop. Under the direction of Max Worthley, the story takes place at the turn of the Century in England. The tone is ironic. A chaste May Queen is sought, but unfortunately, no virgins remain in the village. The story evolves from there.

The characters were enthusiastically portrayed by the workshop. Their performance not only proved them to be able vocalists, but talented actors as well.

Well suited in the production was the Chamber Orchestra, which emphasizes the quality of Britten's music. It also emphasizes the humor of the history itself.

Chastity is the desired attribute in "Albert Herring".

Costumes at the turn of the Century leave one confused as to the sex of individuals.

Schola Gives Concert in New York

Schola Cantorum the internationally known singing group of the University, once again showed its performing excellence this year. Under the proud direction of Mr. Richard Brothers, this 38-member group has exhibited the sensitivity needed to interpret its vast musical repertoire.

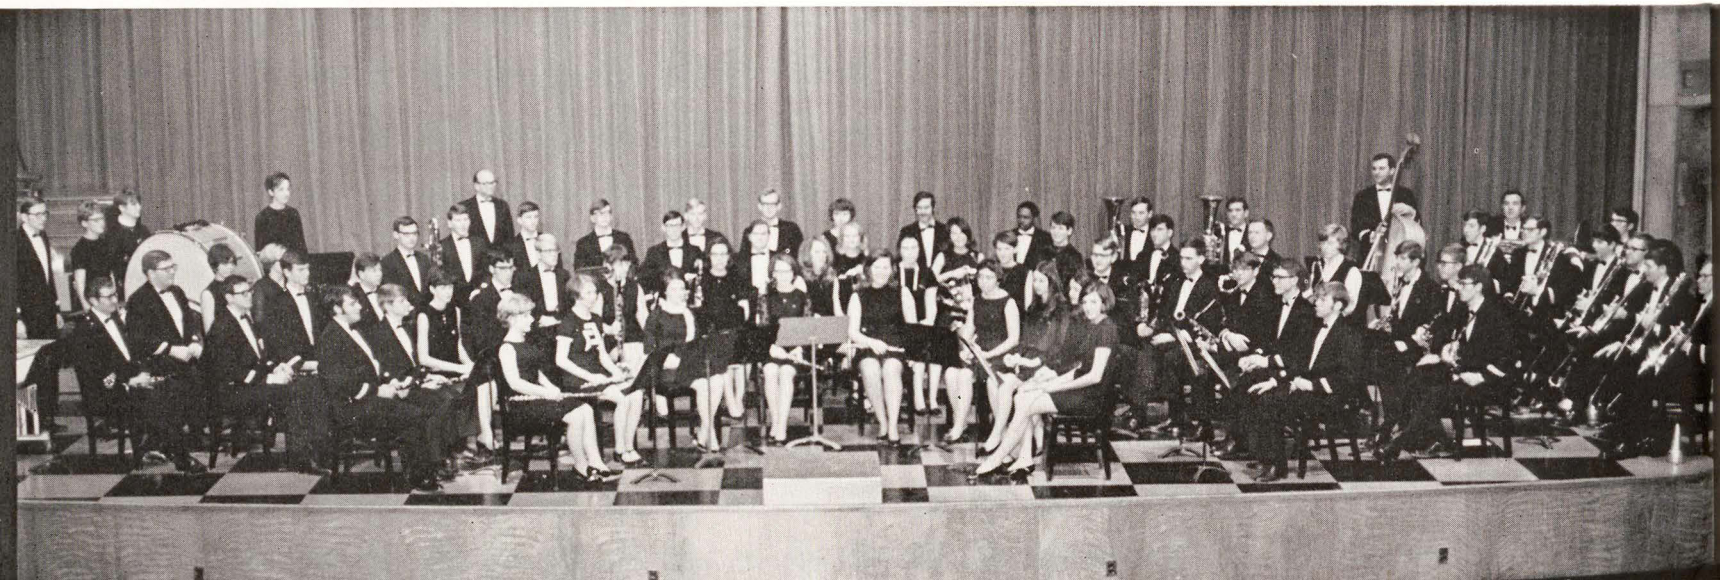

Activities for Schola's 1968-1969 season included its annual tour of the state, giving concerts to various high schools, plus a number of concerts given at the University.

Highlights of this year's activities were Schola's trip to New York in December to entertain the members of the National Association of Music, and its trip to Cincinnati in March to perform before the Music Teachers' National Association.

Members of Schola display their talent as they rehearse one of their numbers.

Also during the year, the Uarkettes have represented the University at the State Legislature in January, at the dedication of the Terry Lock and Dam in Little Rock, and at the Kiwanis International Convention in Miami Beach in July. As a result of its tour in Mexico last year, the group was viewed by four million throughout Latin America by way of video tape sponsored by the U. S. Information Service.

Orchestra Honored in St. Louis

His organ is a source of inspiration.

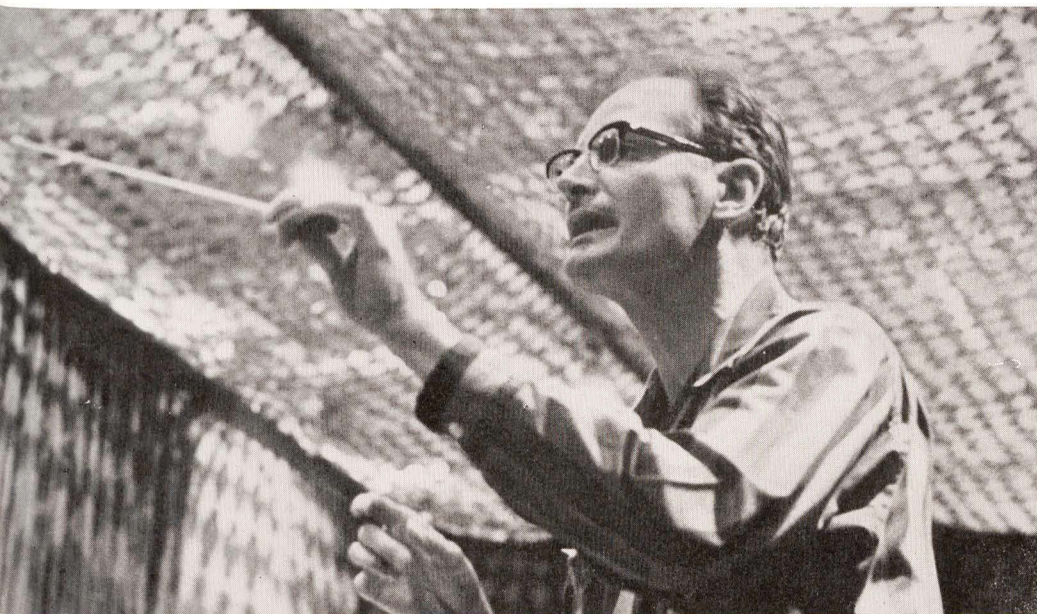

Under the able direction of Dr. Marx Pales, the University-Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra produced a fruitful year during the 1968-1969 season. Two major concerts were given at the University in November and March, one featuring a guest flutist, Claude Monteux. In December the group toured the southwest part of the state performing at various high schools, and during the Arts '69 Festival, the Orchestra concentrated on contemporary music by Della, Joio, and guest composer, Donald Erb.

Highlighting the year was the invitational performance of the group by the southwest division meeting of the Music Educators National Conference in St. Louis. On the program was the Seventh Symphony by guest conductor-composer Vincent Persichetti.

Theatre Has Varied Productions

The 1968-69 season of the University Theatre proved to be a season of dramatic variety, with productions from almost every period of history.

Opening the season were three one-act plays by Edward Albee — "The Zoo Story", "The Sandbox", and "The American Dream". Directed by Cleveland Harrison, the program concentrated on Albee's Theatre of the Absurd (October 7-12).

"As You Like It" continued the theatre season (November 11-16), and was directed by George Kernodle. One of Shakespeare's most delightful romantic comedies, the action takes place in a fantasy forest in France.

The play during the holiday season (December 9-14) was the comedy "The Odd Couple" by Neil Simon. The entire cast performed hysterically but most credit should go to Ralph Clift and Steve Reynolds. It was directed by Norman DeMarco.

Continuing the 1968-69 season Percy MacKaye's "The Scarecrow", was presented under the direction of Cleveland Harrison (February 10-15). Taking place in the late seventeenth century, it is concerned with New England witchery. Vic Saums and Ric Womack were enjoyable as the two evil ones.

"Beggars on Horseback", by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, was directed by George Kernodle (March 10-15). Taking place during the 20's, it is the expressionists' reaction to the machine age. Most enjoyable were the members of the chorus.

Spirit Extends to Sugar Bowl

Members of the Arkansas Booster Club are chosen through interviews of applicants from the entire student body in the fall. In an effort to organize student spirit on the campus, its members sponsor the pep rallies before each football game and designate certain weeks with special emphasis such as Homecoming and Dad's Day. Especially active during the football season, ABC is trying to create additional spirit for the other athletic events such as the basketball and baseball games. Extra efforts to draw enthusiasm this fall were a poster contest for the A&M game and a torchlight parade before the Texas game. Probably one of the most exciting events for ABC this year was the pep rally held before Christmas for the Sugar Bowl game. Also of importance to the student body was this year's attempt on the part ABC to improve roll call at pep rallies by cooperating with the members of a censoring board made up of representatives of each of the sororities.

Medical Society Stresses Leadership

Alpha Epsilon Delta is an international medical society whose membership is based on excellence in leadership, character and scholarship. AED presents guest speakers throughout the year who comment on basic medical issues and current developments. Such seminars provide pre-med students with the opportunity to make direct contact with their chosen field. With the aid of films and exhibits, guest speakers keep the students up-to-date on prominent medical affairs. Alpha Epsilon Delta maintains contact with the Medical Center in Little Rock as an information exchange.

Chi Theta Decorates BA Building

Chi Theta is an honorary organization which promotes the role of women in business. Members are chosen from those upperclassmen who maintain a 2.5 accumulative average. The organization decorates the Business Administration building during the Christmas season. They also publish an information booklet about the different organizations in the College of Business so that freshman women may know which they can join. Chi Theta sponsors a coke party for prospective freshman members.

Agriculture Groups Promote College

The Arkansas Chapter of the American Home Economics Association was host for this year's state officers' conference and workshop. Members of AHEA are taken from the College of Home Economics. They belong to a professional organization which has as its theme, the importance of professional home economics. An important function of AHEA is the organization and execution of social events including a welcoming party for freshman women, a faculty tea during the Christmas season, and an installation tea in the spring.

Another group of interest to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics is the Animal Industry Club. Students in the fields of animal and poultry husbandry may become members. Members are currently working on fund raising projects so that they may be able to sponsor judging teams and intercollegiate livestock expositions.

I E's Survey Facilities

The primary aim of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers is the correlation of industrial problems and processes with academic studies. Its activities include visits to various industrial plants in the state and programs which supply the members with advanced statistical information about industrial engineering.

Established in 1956, Alpha Phi Mu recognizes students of Industrial Engineering who rank in the upper third of their senior and upper one fifth of their junior class. The goals of the fraternity are projects which will result in the advancement of the Industrial Engineering Department. Among its services are surveys that help the University and activities designed to improve equipment and facilities of the Industrial Engineering Department.

In order to become a member of Alpha Lambda Delta a freshman woman must have attained a 3.5 grade average for either her first semester or as a cumulative average for both freshman semesters. Although Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honorary fraternity for freshman women, its members perform many services for the campus. During their sophomore year, the members of Alpha Lambda Delta provide a tutoring service for freshman women and help with the complicated process of registration. The members of Alpha Lambda Delta are rewarded for setting examples of academic achievement. In the spring they have a banquet with their brother fraternity Phi Eta Sigma.

Beta Rho Chapter Makes Top Ten

With service and leadership as their byword, the members of Beta Rho Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega are an asset to the University of Arkansas. Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity with former Boy Scouts and Explorers making up its membership. Being a service organization, Alpha Phi Omega takes advantage of numerous opportunities to participate in such campus activities as registration, blood drives and a Christmas party for underprivileged children. Continuing to uphold the high standards and traditions instilled before their college years, the members of Beta Rho Chapter have been chosen one of the Top Ten Chapters in the Nation for their outstanding service to the campus and community. In an effort to be of service to the Community, Alpha Phi Omega schedules Boy Scout Regional Camporees for youngsters in this area.

ASA Provides Fellowship in AHE

Don McCaskill, President; Liz Cureton, Secretary; Kenneth J. May, Treasurer; Dick Willis, Vice President; Wanette McKee, Publicity Chairman.

Members of the Agricultural Students Association are from students in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The many purposes of ASA include providing fellowship among the students and faculty of the college, emphasizing the importance of the fields of agriculture and home economics, and coordinating the activities of organizations within the college. In order to fulfill these objectives, the organization sponsors several activities during both fall and spring semesters. In the fall members are invited to a 'get-acquainted-party' and dance. In the spring members participate in the annual Talent Contest and Agri Day. Agri Day includes an Awards Banquet, the presentation of the Agri Queen, the traditional tug-of-war with the engineers and the amateur rodeo.

ASAE Sponsors Honorary Group

Participation in Engineers' Week was an important part of the activities of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers this year. The Society opens its membership to all engineering students who are especially interested in the advancement of agriculture. By providing ideas about the profession and by giving the members a chance to meet and talk with prominent members of the profession, ASAE helps to encourage its members to seek out opportunities within the state. The value of new scientific and technological developments is emphasized by visiting industrial interviewers and members of the department who speak at bi-monthly meetings. ASAE sponsors an honorary group to recognize outstanding members. The members of this honorary group, Alpha Epsilon, are chosen from the top fifth of the junior and senior students.

ASCE Backs Civil Engineering

The American Society of Civil Engineers offers the student in Civil Engineering the opportunity for professional development during the years before his actual professional career. By sponsoring field trips, projects for open house during Engineers' Week and speakers from all phases of civil engineering, ASCE brings the student in contact with the challenges and opportunities of all aspects of the profession.

The national honorary fraternity for civil engineers is Chi Epsilon. Members are chosen from the upper third of the junior and senior classes. Chi Epsilon recognizes and acknowledges high standards of scholastic and social achievement among civil engineering students.

ASME & $\Pi\tau\sigma$ Take Educational Trips

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers has as its purpose the advancement of knowledge of the theory and practice of mechanical engineering. Through technical meetings and field trips to industrial firms, ASME acquaints the young mechanical engineer with problems facing industry of today and tomorrow.

Pi Tau Sigma, the national honorary engineering organization, selects its membership from those outstanding men in the field of mechanical engineering. Pi Tau Sigma activities this year were highlighted by a tour of the SEFOR nuclear reactor at Westfork and an annual banquet.

AWS Secures Senior Keys

Carol Meade, Vice President; Linda Faulkner, President; Nancy Wade, Secretary; Pam Smith, Treasurer.

Of great importance to senior women at the University this year was the acquisition of senior key privileges, largely due to the efforts of the Associated Women Students. Representatives of each women's living group on the campus are elected to the AWS Legislative Board which directs the policies concerning women students at the University, enabling them to have a voice in student government and relations with the administration. Various committees meet regularly to study programs of academic affairs, finances, roles of women, and enforcement of rules. A Committee of Communications maintains contact between all committees and is responsible for the publication of the AWS newsletter "The Coed Courier." AWS sponsors spring and fall festivals as get-togethers and to present awards. The organization sponsors several extended datecalls and penny nights throughout the year.

Business Honorary Has Speakers

A major part of the year's programs for Alpha Iota Chapter of Beta Alpha Psi was the presentation of many speakers, representatives of the accounting profession, who spoke on the problems facing this field. Being a national accounting fraternity Beta Alpha Psi stresses achievement in both scholarship and leadership. Among Alpha Iota's projects was this year's publication of the directory of chapter alumni. This directory is of service to both students and professionals after graduation for job applications and interviews.

Blue Key Conducts Career Day

Kent J. Rubens, President; Jim Johnson, Treasurer; Darrel Rice, Secretary; Floyd Murphy, Alumni Secretary.

Of vital interest, especially to upper classmen, is "Arkansas Career Days" which is primarily sponsored by the members of Blue Key. Outstanding junior and senior men are asked to join this national honorary organization. By keeping the membership small it is hoped that members will be representative of the best college men. Members participate throughout the year in campus activities such as registration and programs encouraging academic achievement. Of interest to prospective college students is the annual Razorback Day in which various organizations such as Blue Key conduct tours of the University for high school students. Blue Key distributes teacher and course evaluation sheets to give students a chance to suggest any changes they may desire and to give teachers the same opportunity. Blue Key helps maintain good relations with the faculty and has an Alumni Banquet in the spring where awards are given to outstanding faculty.

Cardinal XX Aids in Evaluation

Cardinal XX is an honorary organization which provides many services to the University. Twenty new members are chosen from the freshman class to serve during their sophomore year. Their selection is made from interviews on the basis of leadership, scholarship, integrity, personality and campus activities. As usual Cardinal XX assisted in registration and helped with fall freshman orientation. Along with Chimes, Cardinal XX members conducted tours of the University on Razorback Day for high school seniors. Cardinal XX helps their sponsor organization, ODK, with teacher-course evaluation surveys. These surveys give students a chance to suggest improvements and gives instructors a chance to improve their teaching methods for better results in the classroom.

Chimes Aid in Registration

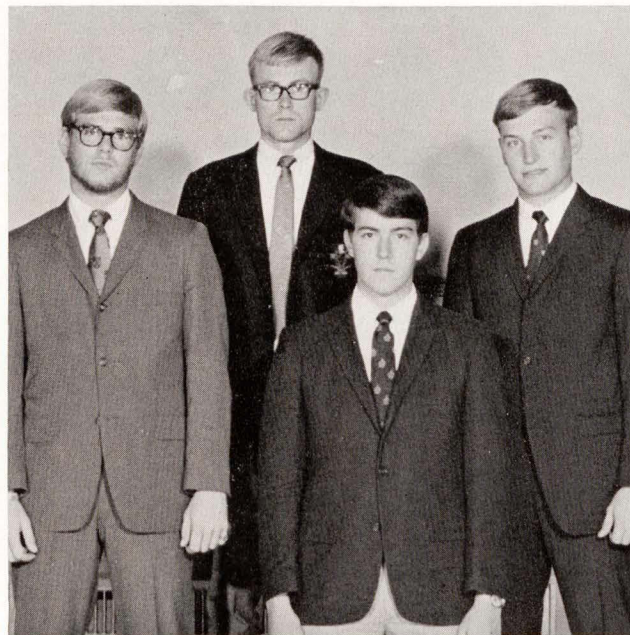

Ann Hartenstein, President; Sandy Angus, Vice President; Mary Beth Twiehaus, Secretary; Peggy Clark, Treasurer; Anne Brinkley, Historian.

Chimes is an honorary service organization with a membership of twenty freshman girls whose selection is based on outstanding personality, poise, scholarship, high school and college activities. A faculty board of interviewers chooses the girls during the second semester of their freshman year to serve throughout their sophomore year. By serving at University functions during the year, Chimes act as official hostesses for the University. Working with their brother organization Cardinal XX, Chimes conducts tours for visitors to the campus and serves at an information booth in the Student Union on football weekends. Chimes assists the faculty and students during registration, helps with voting in campus elections and serves at the Central Placement Office. Particularly interesting to freshmen and other newcomers to the University is "On the Hill," a booklet published annually by Chimes which provides information about the history of the University.

Circle K Projects Aid Charities

Circle K is an extension of Kiwanis International on the college campus. Just as the Kiwanians serve the community, the members of Circle K serve the college community. Striving to promote good citizenship, its members are chosen for exhibiting such qualities. Circle K sponsors a Red Cross bloodmobile once each semester. As a service to the students and other Razorback fans, members of Circle K act as ushers at football games. Weekly meetings consist of programs, usually a guest speaker, and short business session. The organization is sponsored by members of the faculty who belong to the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Fayetteville. This Kiwanis Club recruits the members of Circle K at various times during the year to help them with community projects. Many projects they undertake are concerned with charities.

Civic Club Stages Singfony

Dwight Dickson, President; Pam Seneff, Vice President; Gannalyn McHughes, Secretary; Chris F. Fowler, Treasurer.

Each living group on campus elects one representative to be a member of Civic Club. The object of this organization is to direct activities of the University which are concerned with raising money for charitable organizations. In this manner it is possible to direct all such activities through one channel. Charitable donations are made through the Civic Club which sponsors such fund raising projects as Singphony in the fall and the Campus Sweetheart and Campus Lover Contest in the spring. Singphony was reorganized this year and, as a result, enjoyed a greater success than in past years. Members of the club decide to which organizations the proceeds of the activities will be contributed, thus performing a service similar to that of the United Fund. By contributing to such funds as the United Fund, the World University Service and Boy Land of Arkansas, the Civic Club provides the University with national representation.

CRC Assists Campus Blood Drive

Organized during the fall semester was the University of Arkansas Chapter of College Red Cross. Its purpose is to provide volunteers to Washington County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Among its major activities are assisting in the Campus Blood Drive and the Washington County Blood Drive. The College Red Cross extends aid to the families of military men. In community service the organization carries on programs of home preparedness, water safety and first aid.

Gamma Beta Phi Hosts State Meet

Members of Gamma Beta Phi, national academic and service organization, are chosen from former members of high school Beta Clubs. The UA chapter was host for the first annual meeting of the Arkansas State Council of Gamma Beta Phi Society and UA chapter president Ellis Widner was elected the first State Council President. Gamma Beta Phi provides tutoring services on the campus and arranges intercollegiate exchange activities. This year members took part in a high school visitation program in which they spoke to Arkansas high school seniors.

Guild Holds Business Banquet

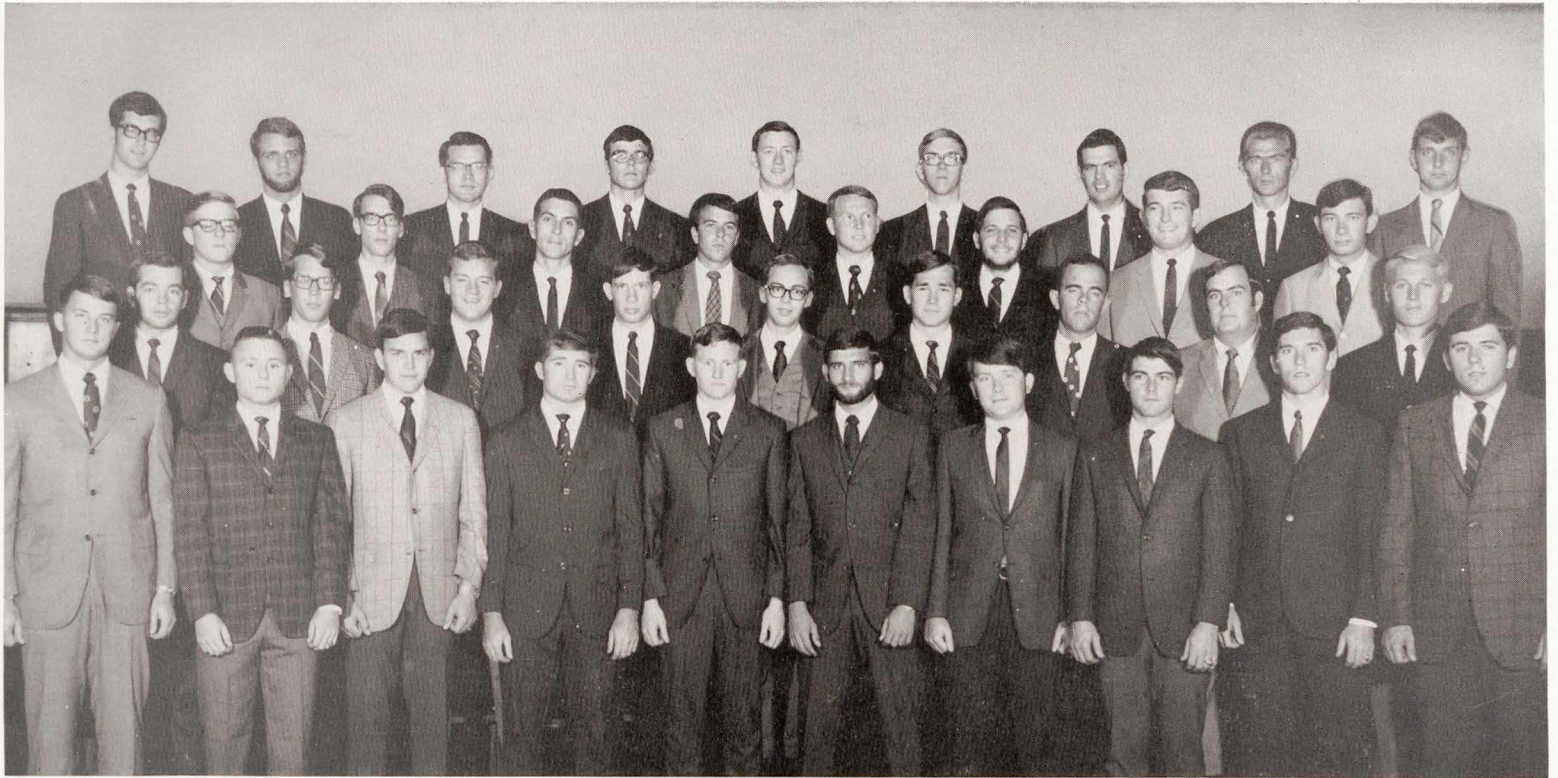

Neal Sullins, President; Bill Williams, Vice President; Bob Thompson, Treasurer; Patty Ball, Secretary.

The Commerce Guild is made up of elected representatives who are chosen from the College of Business Administration. The Guild's membership includes the officers of each class. In bi-monthly meetings, the Guild coordinates activities within the College which promote the aims of business and provide aid to freshman to encourage active participation in functions concerning their fields. Guest professionals are invited to speak at various times during the year. The Guild also publishes an annual newsletter "The Guild Ticker" and is responsible for business seminars and meetings held on the annual Commerce Day. In addition to this service the Commerce Guild plans the annual Commerce Banquet at which time awards are presented and a new Commerce Queen is announced.

Council Sponsors Engineers' Week

The biggest project undertaken by the Engineering Council is the annual planning and presentation of Engineers' Week. Members of the Council, elected representatives from each field in the School of Engineering, the manager and the editor of the ARKANSAS ENGINEER, draw the varied fields into a week of programs of interest to the Engineering School. Beginning with a banquet and skits about the professors, the week is highlighted with the election of St. Pat and St. Patricia and the presentation of the candidates at the Engin Rally. Throughout the year the Engineering Council handles magazines for and maintains services in the engineering reading room. The Council is the body which coordinates all of the activities of the divisions of the College of Engineering and handles relations with the administration.

Electrical Groups Aid Students

The largest professional engineering society in the world, the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Inc., provides students with an unusual opportunity to associate educationally and socially with fellow engineering students through discussions and projects.

Eta Kappa Nu is the only national honor society for electrical engineers, and is one of the highest honors an electrical engineer can receive in his chosen field. One of the main objectives is to assist its members throughout their lives in becoming better professional men.

Fraternity Visits Lost Valley

Gamma Theta Upsilon is a professional geography fraternity for students interested in the field. It is a national organization with the goal of furthering knowledge and interest in all phases of geography. Gamma Kappa chapter was established at the University of Arkansas in 1964. The highlight of the chapter's activities this fall was a field trip to Lost Valley. A spring outing is also held each year. In addition to out-of-doors activities, the fraternity has many guest speakers.

IFPC Unites Pledges

Dennis Rainey, President; Buddy Fuller, Treasurer; Mike Dowling, Vice President; Penny Harris, Secretary.

The Interfraternity Pledge Council encourages unity and cooperation among all Greek pledge classes. Its membership is composed of each pledge class president and one elected representative from each sorority and fraternity. Meetings of IFPC provide a place for discussing the problems involved in being a pledge, such as study problems and member-pledge relationships. It also serves to direct in a general manner the joint activities of the pledge classes. IFPC annually assists the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic in working to make Greek Week a success. In the fall IFPC sponsored the successful IFPC dance. In the spring IFPC elects a model Greek sorority and fraternity pledge in order to recognize their achievements. The group provides pledges a voice which until they are members cannot be heard through Panhellenic or IFC.

Club Has International Night

The International Club is composed of both foreign and native students and is sponsored by the international students themselves. Interested students and faculty are invited to the weekly meetings. Most of the meetings are primarily programs rather than business affairs. The club provides students with an opportunity to increase their knowledge about differing cultures and to understand their customs. The club sponsors many social get-togethers for getting acquainted in an informal way and an International Night which features songs, dances, and foods from each of the countries.

WSC Greet Freshmen Women

Women's Sophomore Counselors are chosen during their freshman year to be active during their sophomore year in welcoming freshman women to the University of Arkansas. Sophomore Counselors help freshman women move into the dorms early in the fall. In visits to the dorms several times during the first semester, Sophomore Counselors provide further orientation to University life by answering questions and explaining activities in which freshman women may participate. Sophomore Counselors sponsor a coke party for freshman women in the fall. Always stressing the importance of scholarship the group presents an award to the freshman woman with the highest grades.

Band Organizations Promote Music

Arkansas Chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity, awards a scholarship to an outstanding member of the Razorback band as one of its major activities. The organization takes as members those men who excel in leadership and scholarship while helping to promote interest in music and the welfare of the University of Arkansas band. Members work with their sister group, Tau Beta Sigma, to make the Region One Festival of Arkansas Band and Orchestra Association a service to high school bands in Northwest Arkansas.

Tau Beta Sigma is the honorary band fraternity for women. Its members must be representative of high leadership and scholarship.

Club Makes Capitol Trip

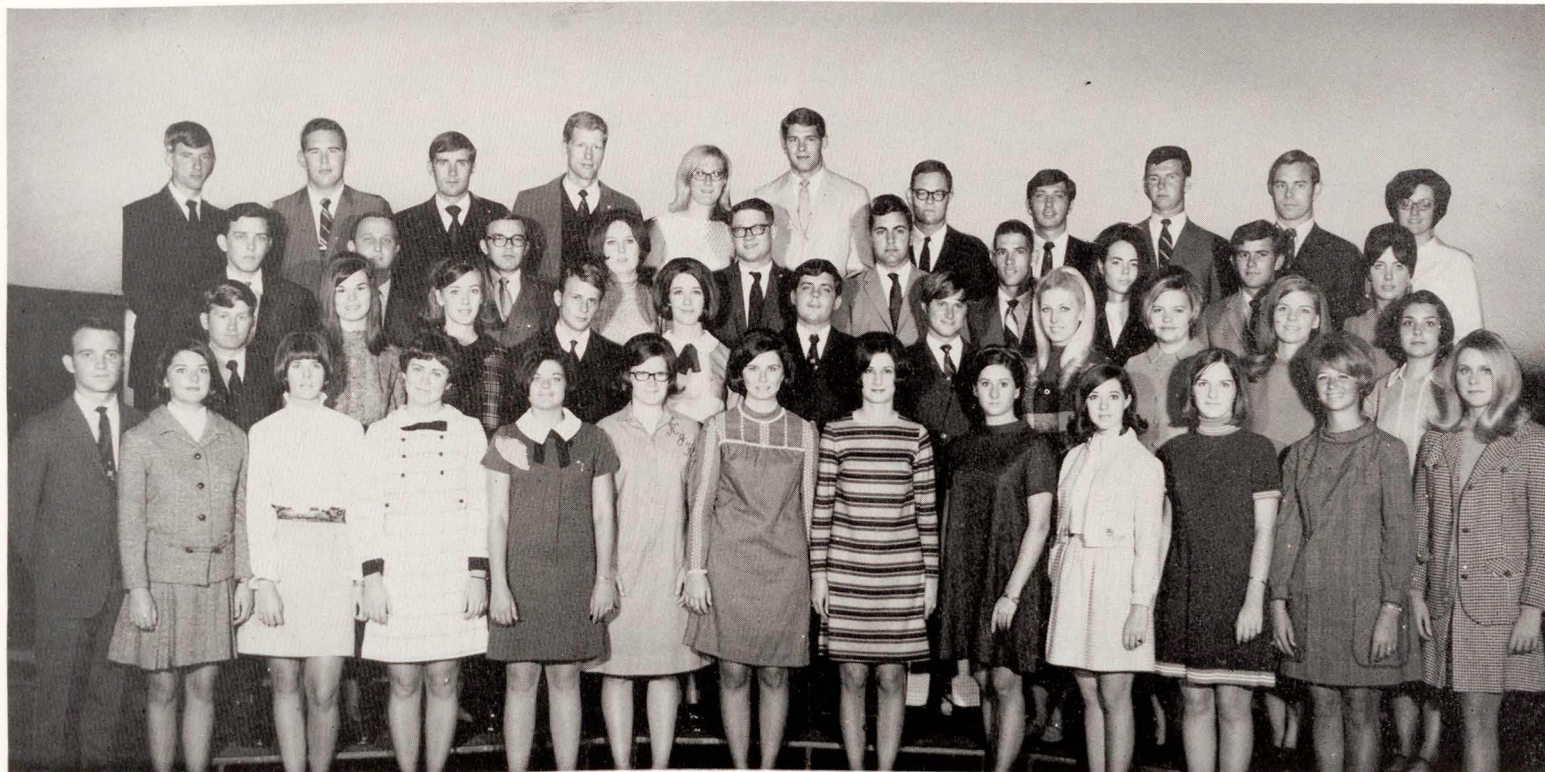

The Market Club serves marketing majors in the College of Business as a contact between the students and leading businessmen. Professionals are invited to speak at several dinner meetings. On an effort to provide on-the-spot observation, the Marketing Club participates in an annual field trip to a large city to watch the mechanics of marketing in action. This year the group spent two days in Little Rock for a career days program involving all the colleges and universities in Arkansas. Besides encouraging students to pursue a career in marketing, the Club seeks to promote the participation of graduates in Arkansas marketing industries. The problems of the practical business world are discussed at regular meetings. The Marketing Club helps with the election of the Commerce Queen and also arranges business seminars to be held on Commerce Day.

MSC Aids Freshmen

John Shipman, Social Chairman; William H. Osbun, Secretary-Treasurer; Fred Brown, Vice President.

To work with the Men's Inter-Hall Council, especially to coordinate the activities of incoming freshmen, Men's Sophomore Council is composed of those freshmen who have shown qualities of leadership ability, high moral standards, and impressive scholarship achievement. Although chosen at the close of their freshman year, members of Men's Sophomore Council are active during their sophomore year in helping freshman men to fit into and participate in the activities of a college environment. Through both organized and informal functions, the organization's members attempt to stress the opportunities of dorm life and to create enthusiasm for achievement during the college years. Men's Sophomore Council helps other residence hall groups in organizing the Casino Carnival held during the fall. They also help to arrange exchange dinners with the women's residence halls so that new students may become acquainted with residence hall activities.

Mortar Board Supports Auditorium

Founded in 1915 Mortar Board has chapters on 125 campuses throughout the country and its membership numbers over 47,000. The growth of Mortar Board, the first organization of senior college women, as an outstanding factor in American collegiate life over this past half century speaks not only of the need for such a society but of its undoubted usefulness to college campuses. In the spring Mortar Board taps for membership outstanding senior women possessing the qualities of high scholarship, leadership and service. These women combine their talents to serve the University community through such projects as a 'smartee' party for freshman women with high grades, help at registration, caroling at Christmas and the donation of several scholarships. Mortar Board has voiced a growing concern for the need for a University auditorium and this year combined efforts with the student government committee concerning it to raise funds and to make plans for the auditorium.

ODK Evaluates Teachers

Sam Gibson, Secretary; Paul Douglas, President; Mike Condit, Vice President.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honorary organization which selects its members from senior and junior men who have excelled in leadership and scholarship. Membership is awarded on the basis of five major phases of college life: student government, social and religious affairs; scholarship; athletics; publications; and forensic and applied arts. The purpose of Omicron Delta Kappa is threefold: to recognize men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in college activities; to bring together the representative men in all phases of collegiate life; and to bring together members of the faculty and student body of the college on a basis of mutual interest and understanding. Although selection to ODK is an honor, members of the group serve both the students and faculty by sponsoring teacher-course evaluation sheets which are passed to students from time to time. Complaints and suggestions for improvements are thus recorded.

Honorary Recognizes Achievement

Freshman men who receive a 3.5 or better either the first semester of their freshman year or as a cumulative grade average for the entire freshman year are asked to join Phi Eta Sigma. The organization is a national honorary fraternity which seeks to recognize the scholastic achievement of freshmen. Like its sister organization, Alpha Lambda Delta, members of Phi Eta Sigma set examples during their sophomore year by stressing the importance of academic affairs. For example, they distribute "How to Study" booklets to all living groups. In addition to this service members of Phi Eta Sigma act as ushers at various University functions and participate actively in Razorback Day and Honors Day. As a fund-raising project the group sells Christmas candles on the campus. Phi Eta Sigma works with other residence hall groups to make the Casino Carnival a success and to encourage participation in hall activities.

SAE Holds Industrial Exposition

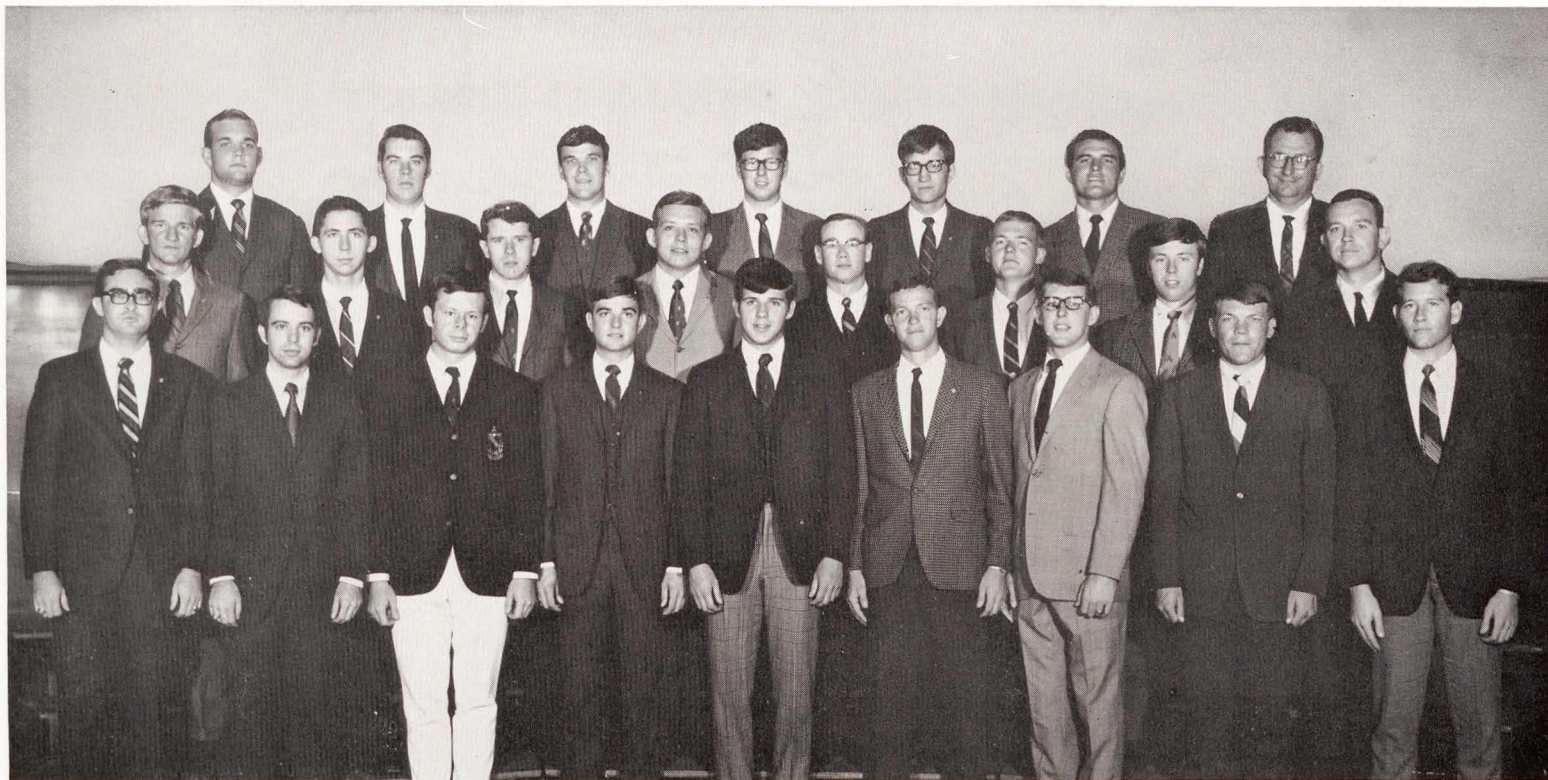

R. David Wagner, President; Jim G. Braun, Vice President; Bo Siever, Secretary; Dave Stiff, Treasurer.

The Society of Automotive Engineers promotes the arts and sciences and engineering practices connected with the design, construction, and utilization of transportation vehicles. As a yearly event, SAE holds the annual Industrial Exposition for University students and interested residents of the area. Through efforts such as these the Society succeeds in acquainting the prospective engineers with current and future problems and the possibilities of transportation developments and techniques. The Society of Automotive Engineers is a national association with student branches all over the Nation. Thus, it maintains a bridge between college and professional work.

SAM Sells Books

The Society for the Advancement of Management is a social organization of managers in industry, commerce, government and education. Once a semester they sponsor banquet meetings. They also organize field trips for their members which include tours of plants. During registration for the first and second semesters, the members of SAM operate a bookstore exchange in the BA building for the buying and selling of books for the students in the College of Business Administration. This gives the students the chance to acquire used books at a lower cost. In addition to these functions, they have worked to promote the aims of business on the campus by assisting BA freshmen and by bringing in guest speakers in the field of business to speak to members and other students.

TAU Boosts Independent Halls

Jo Martin, President; Brenda Hemenway, Secretary; Jim McKinley, Vice President; Don Bunch, Treasurer.

Tau Alpha Upsilon is an honorary residence hall fraternity. It has as its dual purpose recognizing outstanding leadership in residence halls and service to the University. This year Tau Alpha Upsilon sponsored a leadership session in which a list of problems facing the residence halls was discussed. The group plans to support a program for converting all residence halls into four year dormitories and to eliminate freshman dormitories. The group hopes to be able to present such suggestions to the proper authorities in hopes of securing solutions. Tau Alpha Upsilon was chartered in 1963 and takes twenty new members each fall. Prospective members must have a grade average of 2.25 or above and have shown the qualities which deem them worthy of membership in such an honorary society.

Tau Beta Pi Presents Scholarship

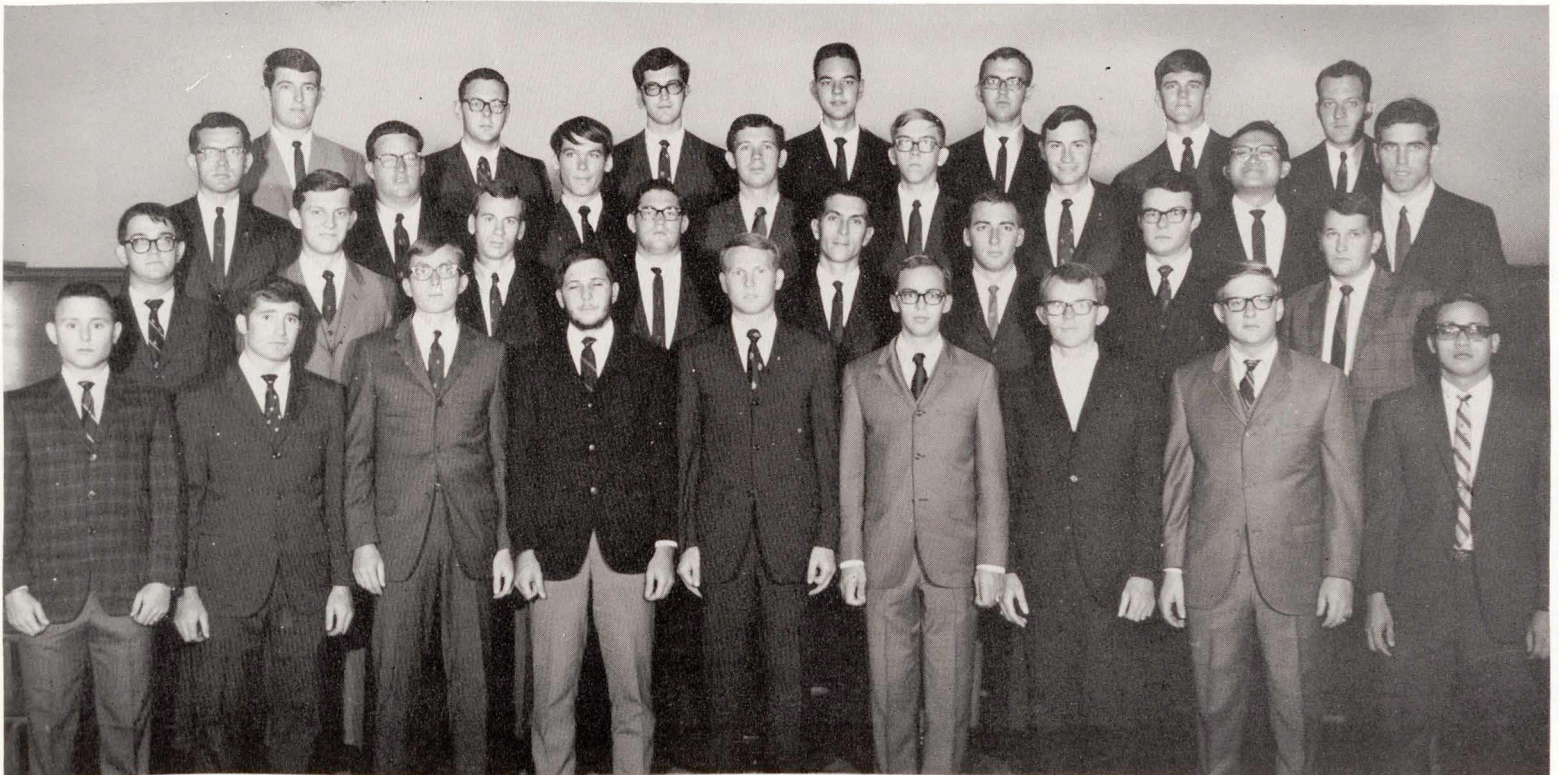

This year Tau Beta Pi was able to present their first annual scholarship to an engineering student due to the success the organization had with soliciting contributions in previous years. An honorary engineering fraternity, Tau Beta Pi takes members whose grades place them in the upper fifth of the senior class. Students in all branches of the College of Engineering may gain membership through their exhibition of high scholarship, valuable service and prominent leadership. In order to encourage continued achievement in the field, Tau Beta Pi presents a cash award every year to the outstanding freshman engineering student. Tau Beta Pi works with other organizations within the College of Engineering to make Engineers' Week a valuable experience.

The Young Democrats Club is composed of students who are interested in politics, particularly those concerned with the Democratic Party. An Executive Council plans the club's program of activities for the entire year. The Young Democrats are active in encouraging students and residents of the community to take advantage of the right to vote and the right to be informed. They coordinate their activities with many of those of the National Democratic Party and participate in its campaigns as well as in their own. The club annually elects Miss YDC and sends her to a state convention along with other active members of the club. In service to the campus YDC sponsors political forums and guest speakers in an effort to give students a chance to evaluate both sides of problems which arise in governmental affairs.

YRC Backs Election Winners

Members of the Young Republican Club were kept busy this fall in campaigning for Rockefeller and later for Nixon. The primary purpose of the Young Republican Club is to encourage more active participation in politics. The club stresses the importance of knowledge of governmental activities and emphasizes the advantages of knowing what is going on in local, state and national political affairs. Bi-monthly meetings are held to keep members up-to-date on the latest developments. Besides these regular business meetings, the club invites prominent politicians and government influentials to speak. After the election of Miss YRC, she and other members of the group attend the annual state convention as representatives of the largest Young Republican Club in the state.

OFFICERS: Jim Atkins, Vice President; Cy Carney, President; Danny Durney; Cindy O'Connor, Parliamentarian; Amelia Nugent, Treasurer; Debbie Wilson, Secretary; Glenford Newtown, Publicity Chairman; Steve Beck, Campaign Chairman.

The View from the Top . . .

This is probably the only time in our lives when we will have the very last word. And after nine months we're pregnant with ideas and welcome this outlet. Therefore, the view from the top . . .

Our goal for this yearbook is an All-American rating. But more important than that is our hope that you will take pride in this collage of your year. It's your story; we were merely the tools used in recording it.

We've already covered most of our staff in the Publication's section. However, there are also others who contributed their time.

Although Susan Larsen, our chief photographer's wife, was never an "official" staff member, she did much of the darkroom work without pay. Susan printed most of the proof sheets, and without her help deadline days would have been much more hectic.

Nancy Turner and Jane Bonady edited the Arts section. Nancy even did most of the photography in the section. The improvements are entirely to their credit.

In the past years, the Classes section has literally been a nightmare. By eliminating freshmen, sophomore and junior classes, this section's staff, headed by Mil Buchanan, had a much lighter burden. If the burden had been any heavier, they would never have finished.

To include those students not living in an organized group that were omitted in the Classes section, we added Off-Campus division. Carol Raines compiled this part of the book in spite of her trip to Kansas City during her deadline.

Living groups were covered by Tim Boe, Greeks editor, and Residence Hall Editors Darrel Rice and Brenda Blagg. Both politics and the newspaper next door distracted most of this group's attention, but with a little help from their friends, the sections were finally completed.

If you didn't find your picture in the Classes, Off-Campus or living groups sections, we included all missing persons in the corner of page 245.

The Personalities section was done by Marilyn Turner and Randy Gardner, Marilyn was stuck with most of the work when she discovered that Randy couldn't type.

Nancy Helms edited the Publications section. After moving to Ft. Smith to practice teach in the spring, she completed her section by postcard.

We can think of no one who has contributed more to the success of this yearbook than Mr. R. C. Walker, President of Southwestern Engraving Company. Without his help, our year could never have been as merry. Miss Susan Baker and Mr. Auxier of Southwestern afforded us more allowances than were deserved. A simple "Thank You" seems insufficient but it will have to suffice.

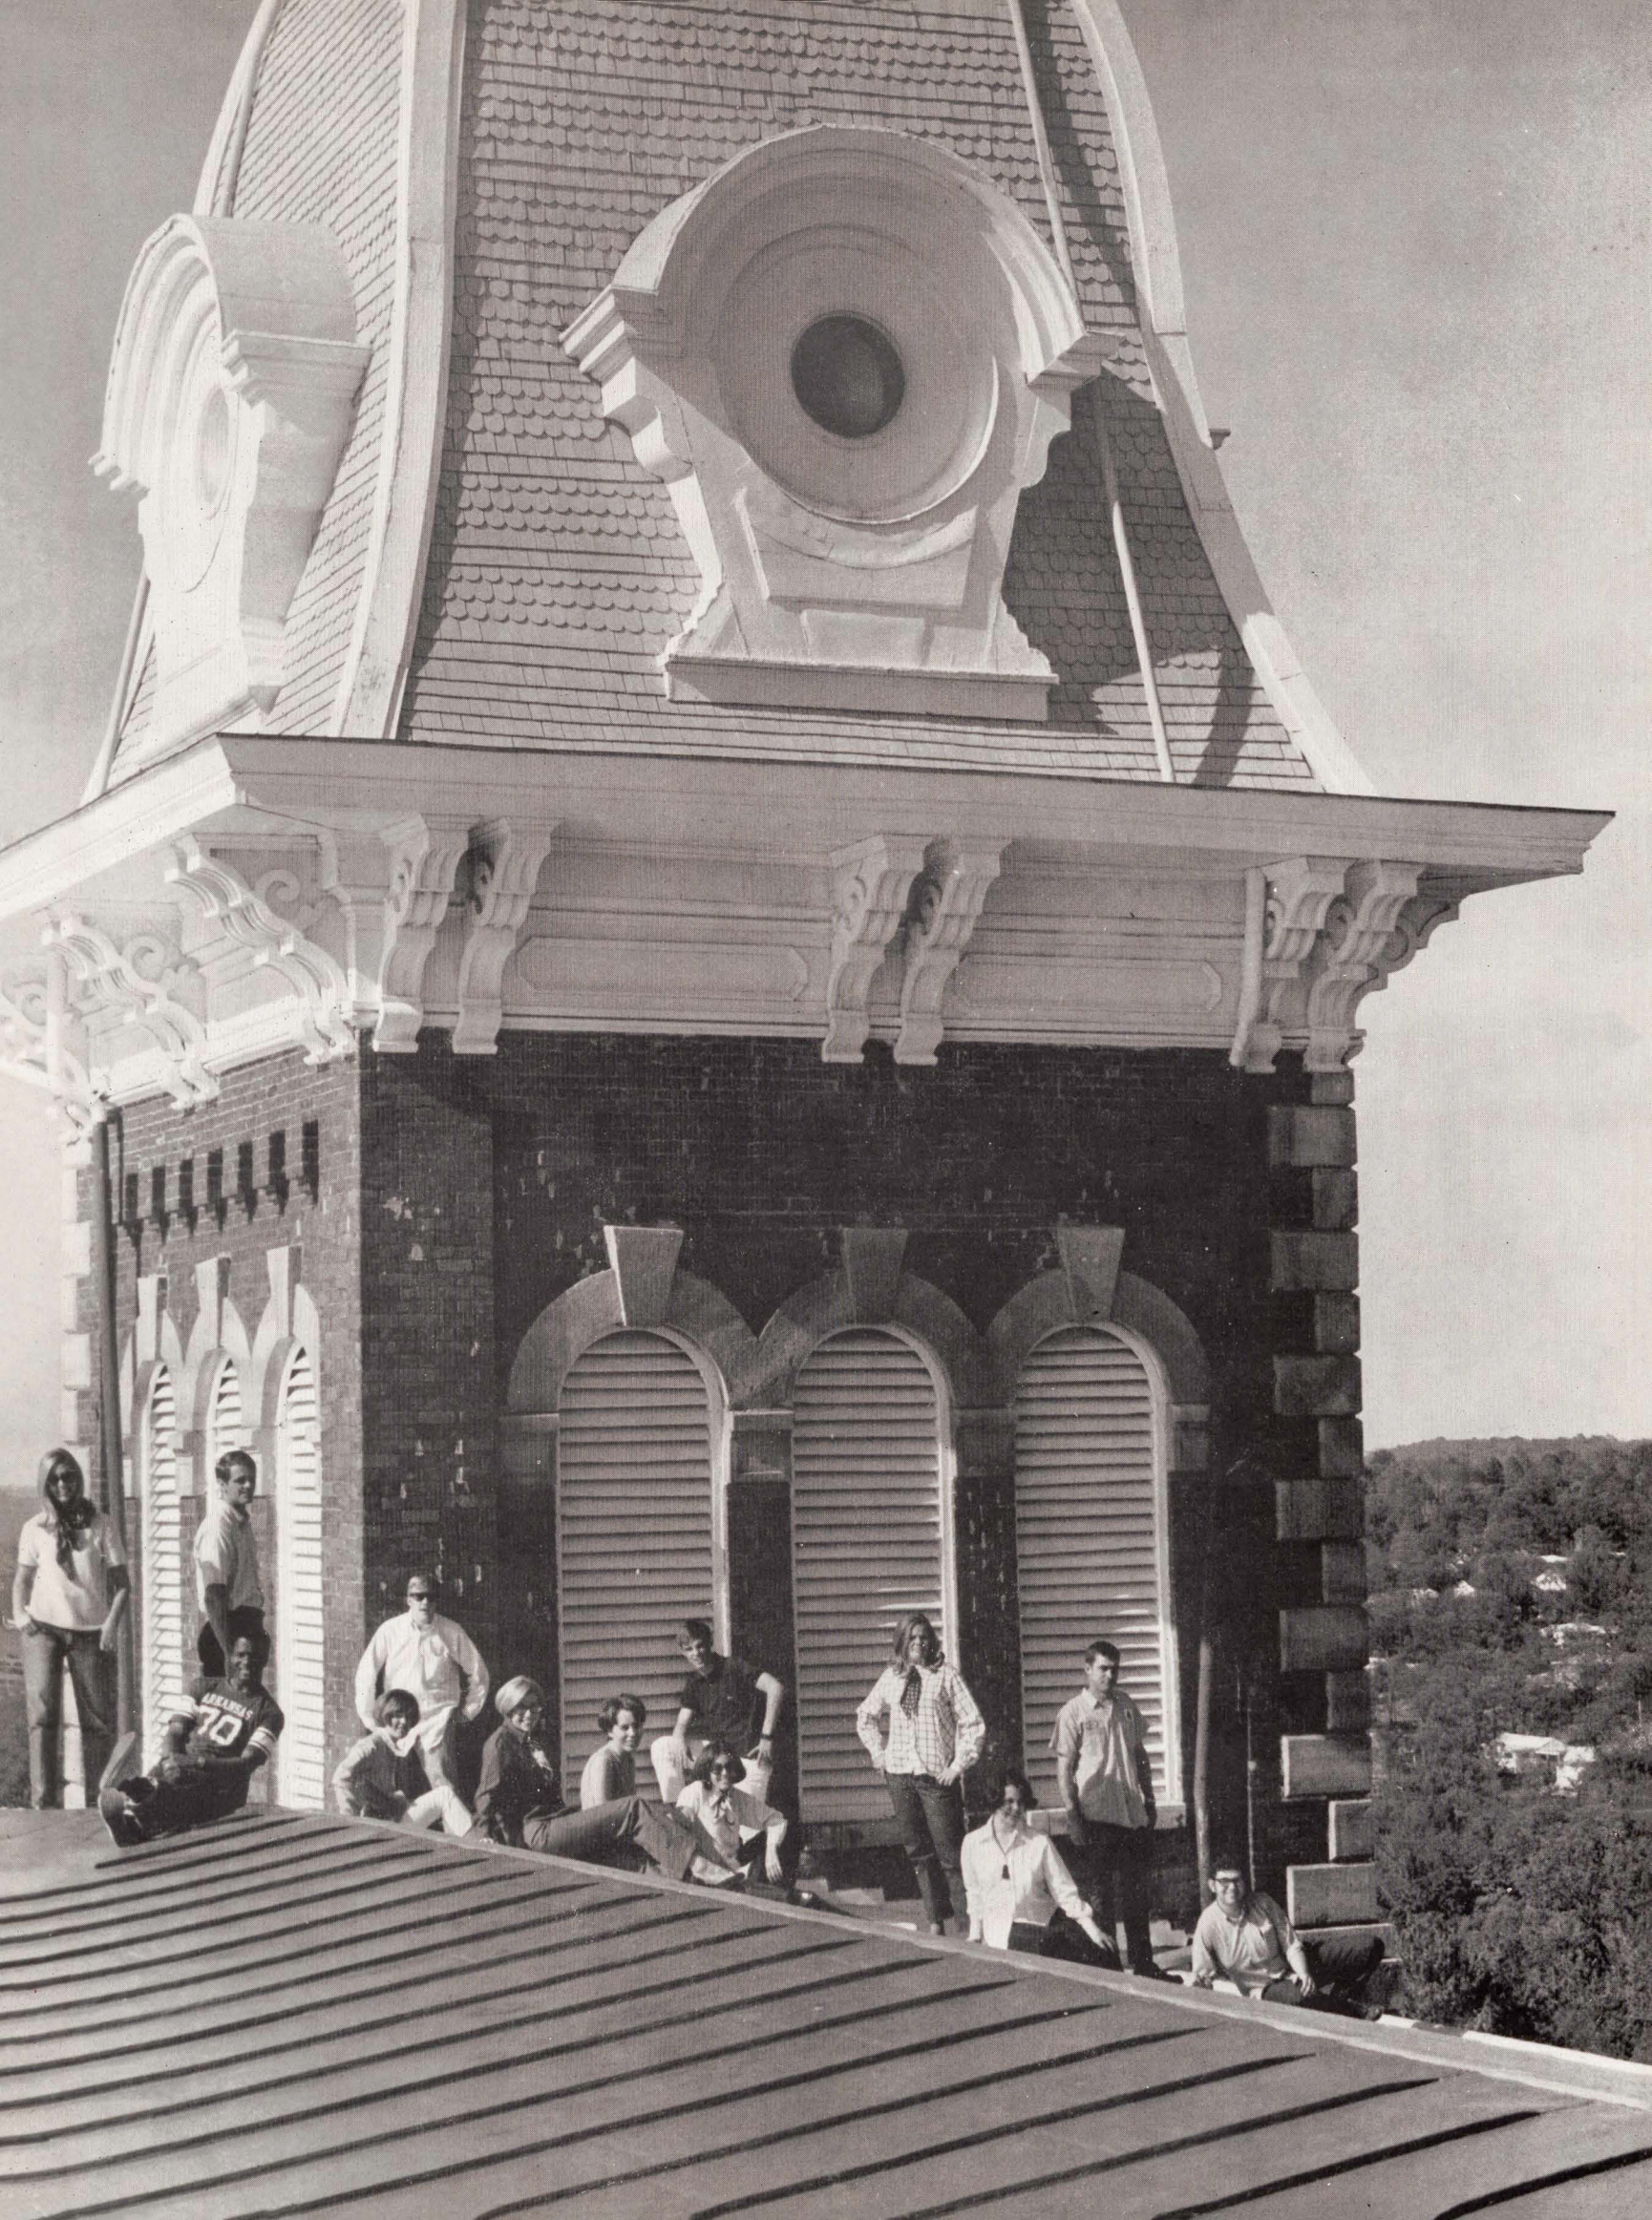

After much discussion on the pros and cons of including Gaebale in this book, tradition was the victor. Mr. Wallace Hurley and Mr. Tom Walker of The Hurley Publishing Company were generous in allowing us to set our own deadlines. A printer is rarely so patient and for this we're most grateful.

Perhaps the most important individual affecting our appointment as co-editors was Bill Ebbert, Jr., past RAZORBACK editor and brother to T. K. Bill hoped that we would be able to profit from his mistakes. He taught us well, for we have continuously broken all past records. Bill gave both of us our first staff positions, and this year we were able to return the favor by giving him the position which he sought for three years — typist.

Your story is between these covers. Ours was one of Saturday night deadlines; 4,000 '68 RAZORBACKS blockading our office; dinners at the "Wagonwheel" (that's Smokehouse to most of you); painting faded grey walls in Hill Hall bright aqua; the cancellation of the Buckingham's concert, forcing us to announce the RAZORBACK Beauties at a pep rally; hiring a professional photographer who turned out to be an amateur; the frustrations of a large deficit; two wonderful trips to Southwestern in Tulsa; shipping pictures for a deadline and having them run over by a Trailways bus; our chief photographer getting married between deadlines; spring fever taking its toll on our staff; and many, many more memories that will remain forever . . .

That's our "View from the Top". If you like our book, fine . . . If you don't, well, there ain't gonna be no second edition.
